Do You Suffer Distress From 'PERIODIC' FEMALE WEAKNESS

which makes you so nervous several days before?

Do female-functional monthly absents make you suffer painful distress, make you feel so nervous, so cranky, so tired, tired and weak—at such times (or a few days just before your period)?

Then start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such distress. No other medicine of its kind has such a long record of success. Pinkham's Compound not only relieves this monthly pain but also pre-period nervous tension and resultant irritability—of this nature. It has such a grand soothing effect on one of a woman's most important organs. Regular use helps build up resistance against such female distress. Truly the woman's friend!

Scene Recalled As Priest Saves Doomed Soldier

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
(A. P. News Analyst)

It was midnight and the resident of a French town, in the back area of the British First World War zone, had long been snug in their four-posters. The fighting was way off to the east, and there wasn't much to disturb the country calm.

Only Sentry Smith at headquarters knew that not all was as quiet as it seemed, and that there was at least one burner of midnight oil. The colonel in command was still in his office, and the sentry could see him pacing back and forth.

The "Old Man" was in distress. No, nothing to do with the fighting up in the lines. Just one of those smaller problems which sometimes are more difficult than the big ones.

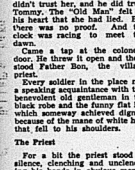
Pte. Tommy Atkins was to be shot at dawn. One of the colonel's boys.

The Soldier

The "Old Man" had liked Tommy from the first. The boy had a cheery, winning smile. He was a good lad on the whole. Perhaps he was a bit lax about morals occasionally, but morals of war have little in common.

Now Tommy had been convicted of rape — one of the unpardonable sins. He had been condemned on charges preferred by a girl of the village. It had been her word against his with no eye-witnesses.

The colonel had seen the girl. She was of the flashy type. He didn't trust her, and he did trust Tommy. The "Old Man" felt in his heart that she had lied. But there was no proof. And the clock was racing to meet the dawn.



Came a tap at the colonel's door. He threw it open and there stood Father Bon, the village priest.

Every soldier in the place and a speaking acquaintance with this benevolent old gentleman in the black robe and the funny flat hat which someway achieved dignity because of the mane of white hair that fell to his shoulders.

The Priest

For a bit the priest stood in silence, clenching and unclenching his hands in obvious mental anguish. Then, with sudden resolution, he said:

"It's about Tommy Atkins, Colonel. All this night I have prayed on my knees for guidance, and

FOR LAZY FISHERMEN ONLY

Some fishermen like to take their sport the hard way, wading through streams, fighting underbrush and flies. But this gadget is for the lazy fisherman. It's an electric rod and reel. The fisherman drops his baited hook into the water and the fish is electrocuted when he nibbles. It's an exhibit in the Paris, France, annual inventors' convention. — Central Press Canadian.

Truman Believes He is Big Enough for Job of President

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, April 9—(AP) — The modest little Missourian has changed since the eventful day he doffed his major's leg-laced into the presider

Harry S. Truman is far more self-confident now as he tussles with world problems and a Congress that won't let him have his way on a lot of things.

It was April 12, 1945—five years ago next Wednesday—that Franklin D. Roosevelt died and Truman picked up the reins of government. Tears in his eyes, the onetime farm boy told reporters the next day:

"If you don't know if any of you fellows ever had a load of hay or a bull fall on you. But last night the whole weight of the nation and the stars fell on me. If you fellows ever pray, please pray for me."

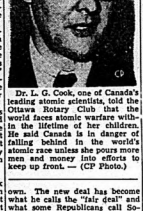
He hadn't wanted to be president. But there he was in the White House, and undoubtedly awed a bit by it all.

Now it is with pride that he says he is President of the United States, that it is he who will make this, that or the other decision. It isn't a quickness, exactly, but there isn't any question that Harry Truman believes he is big enough for the job of president.

He Fought Back

He resented it and fought back when there were suggestions in the 1948 campaign that he wasn't big enough. Possibly what built up his self-assurance as much as anything was his underdog victory that gave him the presidency in his own right and not as a hand-me-down.

At first, when he moved into the White House, he adopted the Roosevelt new deal and legislative program as his own and adopted the Roosevelt foreign policy.



Now he has branched out on his

I have it. I have come to tell you something. It is hard, for in a sense I am violating a confidence. Never before have I done this, but it is my duty now to."

"I know this girl, and her mode of life. I have heard her condemned by both men and women. Put two together I can see the truth about Tommy Atkins. The law cannot possibly be guilty."

The priest picked up his hat and turned towards the door. But the colonel held him for a moment, a hand-clasp and a "God bless you, Father."

PREDICTS A-BOMB WARFARE

Dr. L. G. Cook, one of Canada's leading atomic scientists, told the Ottawa Rotary Club that the world faces atomic warfare within the lifetime of her children. He said Canada is in danger of falling behind in the world's atomic race unless she pours more men and money into efforts to keep up front. — (CP Photo.)

own. The new deal has become what he calls the "fair deal" and what some Republicans call Socialism. Foreign policy now bears the Truman stamp—the inspiration of the "Truman doctrine" of helping weak countries ward off communism.

It was the Truman administration that produced the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact to stiffen the economic and military backbones of countries shuddering in the shadow of Red Russia.

Boy, 9, Inherits $9 Million Estate

Martinez, Calif., April 10 (AP) — Nine-year-old William Thornton White III, a blue-eyed boy who likes baseball, has been named sole heir to a $9,000,000 estate.

The huge windfall was revealed Friday in a petition for probate of the will of Mrs. Katherine Brown Irvine, 62, the boy's grandmother, who died last Sunday. It probably will be whittled down to about $4,000,000 by state and federal inheritance taxes.

Young William is the son of William Thornton White, Jr., 38, who resides at Mrs. Irvine's estate near here. White was Mrs. Irvine's son by a former marriage.

The boy and his sister, Gay, 11, reside with their mother, Mrs Gloria Wood White, in Newport Beach, Calif. The parents are divorced.

The will said the estate is left for the lad's exclusive benefit, adding that the boy's mother and sister were adequately provided for by other means.

TWEED

Family to Make Future Home In Ottawa

Tweed—Mr. and Mrs. Edward LaBarge and two children will leave shortly for Ottawa where they will make their future home. Mr. LaBarge, who is president of the Hastings Cheese Company, will become affiliated with the Pure Spring Cheese Co. Company of Ottawa, in a supervisory capacity. Mr. LaBarge was an active member of the Chamber of Commerce and was always ready to assist in any effort of general interest to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. LaBarge have been good citizens of Tweed and their departure from the community is regretted. Harold Cheese Company, of which Mr. LaBarge was president and Mr. Turpin, vice president, have disposed of the plant and real estate of Tweed to the Hart Bros. of The Oshawa Dairy, who will take over the property about the middle of April. They intend to use the building as a storage and curing room for the present, but ultimately, it is the aim of the new firm to do the packaging and distributing from here.

Postmaster Kesse York Of Marlbank Dies Sweeping Sidewalk

Napanee, April 10 (CP)—Stricken while sweeping the sidewalk in front of his store, Kesse York, 52, postmaster at Marlbank, 20 miles north of here, died Monday morning. He served overseas in the First War and had been postmaster for 24 years. He is survived by his widow, a son Vimy, and a daughter Yvonne.

ROSSMORE

Mr. and Mrs. A. Vanderwater have returned to their home in Rossmore after having spent the winter months in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Welland of Toronto and Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon of Napanee called on Mr. and Mrs. Jamieson Bone, during their holiday in St. Petersburg.

Mrs. Lillian Gardiner of Rossmore is a patient in Belleville Hospital, we all wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross motored to Oshawa Saturday, and were guests of the latter's brother and his wife, who were celebrating their silver anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Vance of Rossmore.

Mrs. Ross is still confined to her bed. It is hoped she will soon be well and able to take her place in the community again.

Friends of Mrs. Charles Reddick are glad to know she is improving in health and all wish her a quick recovery.

The regular weekly euchre will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kropinak, on Wednesday evening.

BOAT IN WHICH MYSTERY MAN LAST SEEN

This is the motorboat which was rented by Theodore Donay, 51-year-old Detroit importer who was once accused of helping a German prisoner escape, just before his disappearance off Catalina Island, Calif., last Saturday. The boat was found adrift eight miles offshore. Donay's disappearance coincided with reports that a mysterious submarine, definitely not of the U. S. Navy, had been seen off the California coast. Authorities are speculating on the possibility of Donay's having transferred to the undersea craft. — Central Press Canadian.

400-Ship Flotilla Starts Next Month to Garner Halibut

By DAVE STOCKAND
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, April 10 — (CP)— The vast North Pacific next month will beckon a 400-ship flotilla with a lucrative lure—the halibut.

This fleet, based in Vancouver, Prince Rupert and in a multitude of tiny coastal villages, is the mainstay factor in the economic welfare of the province. Revenue from halibut is topped only by returns from British Columbia's salmon and herring catches.

For the 700 fishermen manning the B. C. halibut fleet — anything from Indian dugouts to 80-foot craft with a crew of seven— it means back-breaking, round-the-clock labor with a possible haul of gold at the end of the season.

A few fishermen, those who own boats and gear, have been known to earn $10,000 in one season.

Pursuit of the flat, white-bellied fish, which sometimes weighs 300 pounds but averages about 50, is an international operation. American boats, with Seattle as their chief base, also share the catch.

Last year the total catch was worth $13,000,000 and weighed 68,000,000 pounds. This was the quota set by the International Halibut Fisheries Commission, formed in the early '30s after a marked decrease in the halibut pack. Canadian boats took 19,000,000 pounds of the 1949 catch.

Market Firm

A similar quota is expected to be announced this year. Tentative opening date of the season is May 1 and market conditions, fish dealers here say, are "firm."

Preparations now are under way for the race for fares. Fishing banks — the area between Vancouver Island and the northerly Queen Charlotte chain is considered choice hunting ground.

Mechanical trouble and net flaws can mean heavy losses to the fishermen, who work on a "shares" basis. Those able to reach port "first with the most" are the ones who walk away with the top prizes. The boats must shuttle quickly between the fishing banks and port because the season closes as soon as the quota is filled. It usually runs about a month.

Proceeds from a sale are divided evenly, crew members receiving the same as the skipper, after expenses and a percentage for the boat and gear are divided.

Most of Catch Frozen

Most of the catch, the Fishermen's Co - Operative Federation says, is frozen and shipped to Eastern Canada and the eastern United States. Some is sold fresh during the season.

Prices to the fishermen vary. "Chicken," halibut weighing from six to 10 pounds, sold for 11 to 15 cents a pound last season. Fish weighing from 10 to 60 lbs brought 17 to 19 cents.

HOPES REVIVED

Frankfurt, Germany, April 10 (AP) — Sighting of two flares in the Baltic Sea today revived hope for 19 United States Navy fliers missing in a lost PB-4Y patrol plane Saturday.

U. S. Air Force headquarters said the flares had been sighted by a search plane near the Danish island of Bornholm. Additional search planes and ships of the Danish and Swedish navies were sent to the area in the hope that the flares might have been sent up from the missing plane.

Jimmy Demaret Wins Masters With 283 Score

Augusta, Ga., April 10 — (AP) — Jimmy Demaret, the Masters winner and Jim Ferrier up, the runner up who blew up, decided their finishes on the Augusta National's 13th hole — "The death hole of the Masters."

For Demaret, first three-time Master Golf Tournament winner, the 13th was a lucky hole— he admits it. For Ferrier, the 13th was "his unlucky hole, the death hole," Demaret says.

Demaret shot a final day three-under-par 69 for a total winning score of 283 strokes. He slipped in the winner instead of Ferrier who had led for two days and most of the final round. Ferrier a giant Australian now living in San Francisco, blew to a 75 on the final round for a 293 total.

Defending Master champion Sam Snead was third with 287 and Ben Hogan of Fort Nelson were tied for fourth with par 288s. Hogan made a gallant attempt at a comeback after his near death in an automobile accident in 1949, was the big challenger of Ferrier before the final round.

He was visibly tired, nervous, intense Sunday and his golf showed it. Instead of moving in on Ferrier to win his first Masters, Hogan dropped further back and Demaret came back the hero.

Lloyd Mangrum was sixth with 291, including the finest round of th. final day — A 68, Clayton Heafner and the United States

Open champion, Cary Middlecoff, were next with 292s.

Gets Six Strokes On One Hole

On Demaret's four trips around the Augusta National's 6,900-yard championship course, he eagled the par five 13th hole twice and shot two birdies. He picked up six strokes on par on the one hole.

Ferrier needed a stroke more than par on the 480yard 13th which dog-legs to the left, crosses a creek and a deep ditch before reaching a sand trapped green.

Where Demaret used only 14 strokes on four tries at the 13th hole, Ferrier used 19. Had Ferrier played the hole just a bit better, he would have won. The margin between them in total scores was only three strokes.

Demaret and other money winners got a 20 per cent bonus in prize money when Bobby Jones, president of the Augusta National said the tournament again was a great success at a crowd attractor. About 18,000 fans were out the final day and about 19,000 for the semi-finals. The tournament was to be a $10,000 meet but Jones said prize money would be increased to $12,000.

Demaret's winnings are $2,600, Ferrier's $1,500, Snead's $1,020 and Nelson's and Hogan's $730 each.

14 KILLED IN PHILIPPINES AS ORE TRAIN OVERTURNS

Manila, Philippines, April 10— (AP) — At least 14 miners were killed when an ore train overturned Saturday night near the town of General MacArthur, Southeastern Samar Island. Rescuers dug out 18 miners buried under tons of iron ore. It was not known how many employees were riding atop the cars.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Idlitzer

A palooka could win a bridge match without a brilliant bid or lead or play. All he needs is a careful partner, get several breaks from opponents, and keep his mouth shut in the right places.

Once I presented the hand-painted cuspidor to a matron winner at a charity party of 100 tables and said: "You must have played good bridge." She replied: "Was it for bridge? I thought it was pinochle."

A raft of title trophies are in my attic; Every so often, it seems, the old blind sow picks up another acorn, I was a member of the team of four that won the northwest championship.

But I have no false ideas about winning at bridge. If the truth were known most of mine were due to opponent mistakes instead of my ability. Or from having the right kind of a partner.

Even my worst enemies would not accuse me of modesty. But in this match not one clever act could be chalked up to me. All my partner and I did was follow simple Horse Sense rules to the letter.

To such a match, the other pair of our team at another table had the hands we played against. Their defence must have been terrific. It undoubtedly was. They were capable of it.

A deal in which Sammy could have been a hero was this one:

NORTH
♥ K 7 4
♦ K Q 10 8 6 4
♣ 10 8 6

WEST
♠ J 10 8 6 4
♥ 9 8 6 3
♣ K 3

EAST
♠ A 7 5 2
♥ Q 10 5 2
♦ J 7 2

SOUTH
♠ K Q 3
♥ A J
♣ A Q J 9 7 5

Instead of six clubs I could have stopped at five. The bidding told me that the opponents held spade ace. So, there was plenty of warning that slam was a danger. Right there I should have shut my big mouth.

But, if club king is in east instead of west, five clubs would be anemic. However, we got no worse than a tie when the other tables did the game and went down one. A wonderful game, bridge.

If you must know, I theenk, as a player I steenk. But I boast like a ham what a teacher I am.

Twins Born Near Millbridge Doing Well in Hospital

They are the twin children sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Ramsay and are the 18th and 19th to be born to the couple. Sixteen of the children, including the twins are living.

The babies, both boys tipped the scales yesterday at 2 1-2 and 3 1-2 pounds respectively and according to the nurses in the pediatric department of the hospital both young fellars are doing very nicely, thank you.

Born on Apr. 3 at their home on a small farm near Millbridge, the babies were taken to the hospital for care on the advice of Dr. S. R. Beatty, Madoc, the family physician. There they were placed in an incubator where they will remain for an indefinite period.

In order that the babies receive the best care until their mother is able to look after them, the Madoc Kiwanis Club has undertaken to look after financial matters. This was decided at a special meeting of the club held following the admittance of the twins to the hospital.

IT'S SPRING AND ROYAL ROMANCE IS IN THE AIR!

Princess Margaret Rose is shown with Peter Ward, second son of the Earl of Dudley at a recent party in London. Gossips have linked them romantically, and in fact, many think he is "unofficially" engaged to the Princess. Recently, and as quietly as possible, Ward has been Princess Margaret's most regular escort everywhere.

RUSSIA PROTESTS U.S. B-29 FIRED ON RED PLANES

Three Walkouts In U.S. Expected Within Short Time

Maritime, Railroad, Phone Industries Will be Tied Up

Washington, April 11—(AP)—Threatened strikes in the Maritime, railroad and telephone industries marred the relatively quiet scene in United States labor relations today.

Walkouts may develop in all three industries within the next several weeks.

In addition 2,500 mechanics and flight attendants of Pan-American Airways, a principal American overseas carrier, announced a strike but set no date as yet.

Capt. Charles P. May, general president of the Marine, Master and Pilots Union (A.F.L.), told reporters Monday his union plans a strike at midnight Saturday of about 4,000 Atlantic and Gulf ship skippers.

His union, May said, has abandoned demands for a wage increase and now will settle for a union shop and seniority guarantees, similar to those granted to his union last fall by west coast shipowners.

Strikes have been authorized by the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen-Enginemen. A walkout by either or both of these unions, representing several hundred thousand operating workers, could bring the U.S. rail transportation system to a standstill.

The two unions want a third man assigned to diesel locomotive crews, now composed of one engineer and one fireman.

The Communications Workers of America (C.I.O.), representing about 300,000 phone operators, linemen and equipment installers, is poised for a strike April 25.

In that day, a 60-day truce arranged by President Truman expires. The union has demanded a 15-cent-an-hour boost in wages and other pay-raising items from Telephone System Companies.

UNIVERSITIES MAY HAVE TO MODIFY REQUIREMENTS

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — The education trend in Ontario toward practical training may force universities to modify entrance requirements and courses, Dr. E. C. Wallace, principal of Kingston's Queen's University, said Monday.

Speaking to the Secondary Schools Headmasters' Section of the annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association, he said educationists were interested in giving a liberal education as possible to students.

Most high school students do not plan or don't have the opportunity to go to college and curriculums should be directed toward aiding them, he said.

But, he added, it is necessary to include disciplinary subjects, such as mathematics and languages, in order to prepare the students who go on to more taxing studies.

Lower Academic Level

He said colleges will have to admit students on a much lower academic level than normally demanded by the premium they would later enter. "Educators today are using real ability rather than subjects studied as a yardstick in grading students."

Dr. D. C. Rose, chief director of education for Ontario, told the Inspectors' section of the Association that one of the main tasks in the present-day curriculum was that of "habituating the child to make his own decisions." He added:

"If we are to continue to enjoy freedom, we must train our young people to regard it as a hard-won boon. It is sobering to realize that great masses of humanity have bartered freedom for fancied security and that the great masses of humanity long for freedom, but are condemned to live in fear."

Lack of Continuity

The first task facing educators, he said, is to give adequate consideration to individual differences in children. Many proposed innovations call attention to these differences, but they challenge teachers and administrators to detect them and to take advantage of them in planning studies.

Lack of continuity between elementary and secondary schooling are the chief weaknesses in the courses of study, sharp differences in organization, and ignorance on the part of school staffs, Dr. Althouse said.

These barriers will be broken down mainly by local action on the joint action of local boards and local teaching staffs, he added.

"The free citizen must learn to make his own choice, but he must make them in a full light of moral duty and social obligation."

Panel Discussion

A panel discussion on sex education was held and a report was stored to the press. It was sponsored by the Women's Physical and Health Education section of the O.E.A.

The convenor, Jean Elder, said "there is nothing in our session which should be new but we feel certain precautions should be taken before the articles are read by the public."

Speakers at this meeting included Dr. J. D. Griffin, medical director of the National Council of Mental Health; Mrs. G. C. V. Hewson, chairman of the Toronto Home and School Council's Secondary School Section; Miss Grace Doctor, a teacher at Toronto Central High School, and N. R. Spiers, director of Physical Education for Toronto.

Green Favors Merger All Unions

Washington, April 11 (AP) — A.F.L. President William Green today strongly endorsed the idea of merging all American Labor Unions into a single federation but avoided taking a stand on a CIO plan for unions to co-operate politically pending the merger.

Green wrote CIO President Phillip Murray that the A.F.L. favors formation of "one strong well established labor organization" in the United States.

But he said he was referring Murray's idea of a political, economic co-ordinating committee to the A.F.L's executive council which formulation of new policies meets at Philadelphia May 8.

Chemical Compound May Open New Approach to Treatment of Ulcers

Philadelphia, April 11 — (AP)

A chemical compound with a jawbreaking name was reported today to have opened up a new approach to the treatment of stomach ulcers.

The drug, which can be taken by mouth and makes a doubleheaded attack on ulcers, still is in the experimental stage, John C. Cude and Richard A. Robinson said in a paper prepared for the American Chemical Society here. The two presented it at a meeting of the G. D. Searle and Company, Chicago.

The drug has not been named, but it is chemically identified as: Beta - diethylaminoethyl - Xanthene-9-carboxylate Methobromide. It is being tested by the medical profession only for use in carefully controlled clinical tests.

The compound is also expected to prove effective in curbing gastro-intestinal spasms, the pastime said.

Experiments indicate, the paper said, that the drug acts in two ways on peptic ulcer. It reduces the amount of secretion in the stomach, thereby reducing spasms, and it inhibits the nerve impulses which smooth muscle secretion and muscular contractions.

The new drug, according to Cusic and Dr. Robinson, produces similar effects by blocking the nerve impulses. More specifically, they explained, it is an "anti-cholinergic" agent, that is, a drug that acts against a chemical called acetylcholine which carries nerve impulses to the stomach muscles.

COMPANY OFFER MAY AVERT STRIKE AT FORD PLANT

Accepted By Union Stewards

Windsor, April 11 — (CP) — A company offer that may avert a pensions strike at the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited will be placed today before the general membership of Local 200 of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.)

The offer was approved Monday night by the union's policy committee and by the union stewards. The latter group recommended its acceptance by the members.

Union spokesmen told The Canadian Press late Monday night that the offer provides for "a pension and solid security plan and an improved contract." But they would reveal no details of the offer, forged during weekend company-union talks.

The kind of a company-pay recommendation came just 36 hours before the 11,000 automobile workers at the huge Windsor Ford plant were scheduled to walk out in their first strike since 1945. It climaxes more than 24 months of negotiations towards the first company-paid retirement plan sought by Canadian labor.

The Ford local started the pension dispute more than a year ago by asking for $100-a-month company-paid retirement pensions for automobile workers age 65 years after 25 years' service. Ford made a counter offer of $55-a-month retirement pensions for workers aged 65 after 30 years' service. An Ontario conciliation board recommended the Ford majority the company's $55 offer.

Greeted With Optimism

Expectant optimism greeted Monday night's 11th-hour development which promises a possible compromise.

Union spokesmen said the new recommendation was considered during a four-hour union meeting Monday. It was approved first by the union's inner policy committee and then by 70 local stewards' body. Now it faces the general membership, scheduled to meet in a special closed meeting this afternoon.

The special membership meeting was ordered after union and company negotiators reached agreement said, to lay off Tuesday at least 5,000 workers employed in related normal working hours is reported one of the first of its kind ever called during labor disputes in Windsor.

Monday night's brief union statement was the first hint of the text of the union-company talks. Neither had issued any formal statement in several days.

The second major development Monday was the announcement by Walter P. Reuther, International U.A.W. president, came to Windsor to attend a Ford Local 200 meeting. It was the International president's first visit to a Windsor local in more than a year.

Three Men Held In Connection With Man's Death

Stratford, April 11 —(CP) — Three Dublin drifters were jointly charged with manslaughter following the death early Sunday of Bernard McDonnell, 40, of Mitchell yesterday were remanded in custody until April 17 when they appeared before Magistrate A. F. Cook.

The men—John J. Krauskopf, 21, Thomas Gormley, 39, and Ryan Jordan, 26—were arrested late Sunday by Corporal J. M. Douglas, Provincial Police officer in Perth County. They are charged with causing the death of McDonnell, who died in a tiny frame house on the south edge of Mitchell following a fracas.

Perth County Crown Attorney W. E. Goodfellow asked for the remand. Accused were not represented by council.

Conciliation Officer May be Called in Issue

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Charles Garland, secretary of the York County section of the Labor-Progressive Union said Monday night that Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer for the Ontario government, would be called in to help him about settlement of a dispute between the township and its 230 workers. Civic employees went on strike Monday.

Mr. Garland said the union had not been notified whether council was willing to bargain with them He said he would ask the conciliation officer to call the men back to work should council agree to meet and consider the matter at Monday night's council meeting. Employees of the waterworks sewage disposal plant and six work's department yards are asking a 4-1-2-an-hour raise in their wages in addition to five increases for other classifications. They are asking the wage scale on a par with that of Toronto.

Reeve William Beech said the matter would come before Monday's council meeting but he did not know if union representatives would be in attendance. He said earlier that Tuesday would be conciliator Friday for garbage collection if settlement of the strike is not made. Only one garbage truck was collected Monday.

BRIEF SUGGESTS INDEPENDENT BODY TO GOVERN RADIO

Broadcasters' Assoc. Wants Fee Abolished

Ottawa, April 11 — (CP)—The Canadian Association of Broadcasters said today in a brief presented to the Royal Commission on Arts and Science that the $2.50 annual licence fee on radio receiving sets should be abolished and an independent body should be established to regulate radio in Canada.

The Association, whose membership includes about 100 of the 120-odd privately-owned stations in Canada, said in a 10,000-word submission that two systems of broadcasting should exist in Canada.

Three Proposals

It suggested:

"1. A national system, provided with sufficient public funds as to be independent of commercial considerations and devoted to the best development of radio broadcasting in all its forms.

"2. A free enterprise system of radio broadcasting stations completely dependent upon revenue from advertising for their existence and in free and open competition with each other in providing such item.

"3. To such extent as regulation may be required, these two systems should be subject to the jurisdiction of a separate, impartial and unbiased regulatory body."

The new body, fashioned after the CBC Board of Governors, would take over the regulatory powers now exercised by the CBC but would in no way be connected with any radio stations.

The brief suggested that the annual $2.50 fee on receiving sets be abolished and replaced by annual statutory grants from parliament to the CBC. Evidence had shown the fees were hard to collect and many were not paid.

Like Other Media

The brief said that as a medium of mass communication, radio broadcasting falls into the same category as newspapers, magazines, motion pictures and the like. It was the belief of C.A.B. that a free press and a free radio are essential to the protection of the personal freedom of Canadians.

Ontario Farmers Must Increase Production Efficiency to Hold Place in Market Says Professor

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Efficiency of production must be increased to the limit if Ontario farmers are to maintain in a favorable position in future markets, Prof. G. N. Ruhnke, director of research at Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, said today.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the 90th annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association, Prof Ruhnke said that with "large increases in farm adjustments underway in the farming industry at the present time there is a greater need for strengthening our organization and forces for agricultural education, research, and extension than ever before."

He warned against thinking in terms of production by total hundreds, pounds or bushels of agricultural products. Noting that farming efficiency in Ontario has a long way to go before reaching the level of several of "our competitors," he said the average Southern Ontario beef producer can put 100 pounds of beef per acre — compared with 500 pounds in Denmark.

"Scottish milk production, he said, "is 9,600 pounds an acre, 3,000 lines our average production."

Prof. Ruhnke stressed that the answer to our efficiency problem lay in "utilizing more scientific methods of management, a system that has brought

U.S. Air Force Notes it May Be Plane Missing in Baltic

London, April 11 — (AP) — Russia charged today that a United States military plane opened fire three days ago on a flight of Soviet fighters over Latvia, and said one of the Soviet planes fired back.

A Soviet protest, lodged with the U. S. Embassy in Moscow, declared the plane as a B-29 bomber, but U. S. Air Force headquarters at Wiesbaden, Germany, said the plane in question may have been a missing navy aircraft sought since Saturday in the northern Baltic.

The Air Force officials said this plane, a navy version of the B-24 bomber, was not armed.

This plane had 10 men aboard when it disappeared on a round-trip flight from Copenhagen, Denmark, to Wiesbaden, Germany. Called the Privateer, it had four engines like the B-29. U. S. planes have been searching for it since Saturday.

Russian Statement

The Russians reported the shooting took place roughly 350 miles east of Copenhagen. They gave the site as Lepaya (Libau) on the Baltic Sea, and said the plane penetrated about 15 miles over Latvia, which is reported by Moscow as Soviet territory.

Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, in his protest to U.S. Ambassador Alan Kirk, said the plane "bearing American identification marks" was sighted south of Lepaya last Saturday.

"Owing to the fact that the American planes continued to penetrate into Soviet territory, a flight of Soviet planes took off from a nearby aerodrome and demanded that the American planes follow it and land at the aerodrome.

Says Plane Failed to Comply

"The American plane not only failed to comply with the demand but opened fire on the Soviet planes.

"Owing to this, an advanced Soviet fighter was forced to open fire in reply, after which the American plane turned towards the sea and disappeared."

"The Soviet government announces its resolute protest to the government of the United States against the gross violation of the Soviet frontier by an American military plane which at the same time constitutes an unheard of violation of the elementary rule of international law."

No Official Knowledge at Washington

Washington (AP) — The United States Air Force said today it has "no official knowledge" of any American bomber exchanging fire with Russian fighter planes.

That was in only immediate comment on a Soviet report that a B-29 opened fire on the Soviet planes over Russian territory along the Baltic Sea last Saturday.

The report from the Russian news agency, Tass, said one of the American planes had fired back at the American ship.

Protest Note

"The government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics draws the attention of the government of the United States of America the following:

"According to verified data, on April 8 of this year, at 17 hours 30 minutes, south of Libau, a four-engined military plane of the B-29 type, a flying fortress, having American identification marks was sighted.

"The plane penetrated the territory of the Soviet Union to a distance of 15 miles or more.

"Owing to the fact that the American plane continued to penetrate into Soviet territory, a flight of Soviet fighters took off from a nearby aerodrome and demanded that the American plane follow it and land at the aerodrome, by gusts up to 50 miles an hour.

Says Plane Failed to Comply

"The American plane not only failed to comply with the demand but opened fire on the Soviet planes.

"Owing to this, an advanced Soviet fighter was forced to open fire in reply, after which the American plane turned towards the sea and disappeared."

Vishinsky denounced the incident as a gross violation of the Soviet frontier and "an unheard of violation of the elementary rules of international law."

U.S. OPENS MOVE TO HAVE BRIDGES LEAVE COUNTRY

San Francisco, April 11 — (AP) —The United States government today moved for immediate revocation of Harry Bridges' citizenship.

Such action, if successful, would open the way for a federal hearing to deport to Australia the C.I.O. longshore boss, convicted of perjuring himself at his 1945 naturalization hearing by denying he ever was a Communist.

For that conviction, Bridges was sentenced Monday to five years imprisonment. Two labor union aides were given two years for similar perjury in the behalf of the citizenship hearing.

The government move to ask revocation of citizenship was based on the contention that the naturalization was mandatory under the statute governing Bridges' indictment.

The man to decide that is the trial judge, George B. Harris, who said as he passed sentence:

"By lying, cheating and defrauding the United States government, Mr. Harry Bridges was granted a certificate of naturalization. He was aided and abetted by two co-defendants . . . he had bestowed upon him the priceless benefit of citizenship.

"Mr. Bridges' conduct cannot evoke either sympathy or consideration on my part."

Bridges, 48, key figure in paralyzing port strikes on the west coast and Hawaii and twice victor against previous government efforts to deport him, listened in glum silence to the proceedings.

Lawyers Sentenced

His lawyers, both of whom were sentenced for contempt during the history-making, 5-day trial, said they would carry appeals to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, contending that the trial was conducted on a "political" and not on a "patriotic" basis.

Bridges was convicted of perjury and conspiracy with his two aides to commit perjury. He was given five years for perjury, two for conspiracy, with both terms to run concurrently.

The two aides, Henry Schmidt and John P. Schomberg, also were given two, two-year terms, running concurrently. One was for perjury conspiracy, the other for conspiring to defraud the government.

All three were released on bail, until it was learned that bail was fixed at $25,000 and the other two at $10,000 apiece. Previously each of the three had been under $5,000 bail.

Four Boys Who Drifted Overnight On L. Erie Found Dead of Exposure

Cleveland, April 11 — (AP)— The bodies of four boys who had drifted overnight on a little rubber raft were recovered today from the wind-chopped waters of Lake Erie.

All four were pronounced dead.

A Coast Guard picket boat pulled the bodies aboard the craft. The crew applied artificial respiration, but the boat sped for Fairport Harbor.

But when it arrived, Coroner W. E. Gerber pronounced them dead. He said they had died of exposure.

The group had been swept into the lake at dusk Monday night as they went after a drifting canoe.

An air-sea rescue force of a dozen planes had conducted a search for them.

Thinly clad in cotton shirts and blue jeans, they had been tossed by waves which were whipped while five Coast Guard boats zigzagged across an area up to 20 miles offshore.

Believe Death Due To Self Mutilation

Superior, Wis., April 11 (AP) — The death of a 46-year-old farmer in his two-room shack came after "what appears to be self mutilation," district attorney Andy Forg said Monday night.

Earlier, a neighbor followed bloody tracks in the snow and found the body of Benjamin Benquist in bed with his toes and finger tips amputated. A butcher knife lay on the kitchen floor.

J. P. McGill, assistant district attorney, said a preliminary coroner inquest indicated Benquist had died from loss of blood.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 11 (CP)—Synopsis: Cold air is flooding into Western Ontario this morning in the wake of an intense storm centred in the Georgian Bay and moving rapidly northeastward. South of the storm's path, winds shift to strong westerly and showers end with the arrival of the cold air. Colder elsewhere in the storm passes, rain changes to snow, which will end locally.

Cloudy, cool weather with light winds is expected on Wednesday.

City and District News

SHORT CIRCUIT CAUSE OF BLAZE

A short circuit in the electric wiring is believed responsible for a fire which Sunday morning did considerable damage to a car owned by Mr. Maurice Joudwa, 536 Bridge Street.

The owner of the car had started the engine and had moved the car out onto the street when he saw smoke and fire coming from beneath the dash. Firemen were called but before the flames were extinguished the body and upholstery had been badly burned.

20 MOTOR ACCIDENTS REPORTED OVER WEEKEND

Result of slippery street conditions which caused a series of accidents, city police were exceptionally busy on Saturday afternoon and evening with close to 20 motor accidents being reported over the weekend.

No personal injuries were reported as result of any of the accidents and in only two or three instances did property damage amount to more than $100.

The accidents occurred in almost every section of the city at icy intersections made it difficult for motorists to keep their vehicles under control.

70-POUND WOLF SHOT AT MONEYMORE

There's one big bad wolf that won't bother farmer's livestock anymore. The big timber-wolf-dog he was big-he tipped the scales at 70 pounds-was shot five miles east of Roslin near Moneymore yesterday by Robert Alexander, 144 Station Street. Alexander is a student at BCI. He will collect the township and county bounty.

Alexander's wolf is the fifth to be shot in the county since the first of the year. This number is a marked decrease from the number destroyed over the same period a year ago, according to county officials.

Municipal Bd. Holds Hearing On Three Matters

The Ontario Municipal Board is holding public hearings at the city hall on Wednesday with respect to three different matters of city business.

One of the matters under question is the proposed purchase of the Barlow property at the corner of Victoria and MacDonald for park purposes. Other matters to be considered are the purchase of an accounting machine for the city hall with payment by way of debenture, and defining of the commercial area for the Parkwood Heights district. The hearings are scheduled to start at 2 p.m.

This afternoon at 1 o'clock the municipal board will sit at the city hall to hear the appeal by the city from the decision of Judge W. G. Ross regarding certain assessments in the Parkwood Heights area. In his decision on the assessment appeal by seven Parkwood Heights residents Judge Lane reduced the assessments and suggested a re-assessment of city properties.

Motorist Suffers Ankle Injury

Douglas P. Burley, 409 Bleecker Ave., suffered injury to his ankle and property damage amounting to nearly $900 resulted early Tuesday morning, when two vehicles collided at the corner of Bleecker Ave. and Pine St. Burley was taken to hospital for X-ray.

Burley was driving north on Bleecker Ave., when at the Pine Street intersection his car collided with a westbound car driven by Ross Hyatt, 93 Bridge Street West.

Police stated the Hyatt car went for a distance of 116 feet after the collision, the vehicle ending up across the sidewalk. Damage to the Burley vehicle amounted to approximately $500 and to the Hyatt driven car about $150.

It was reported that the Hyatt driven car failed to stop for the "stop" sign at Bleecker Ave.

Kinsmen Favor Commission To Operate Swimming Pool

Members of the Belleville Kinsmen Club favor a separate commission operating their proposed community pool and will following its completion rather than operation by the club.

This was decided at their regular fortnightly dinner meeting of the local service club held Monday evening at the Hotel Quinte when the various aspects of the two forms of operation were discussed.

Club member Ross Bailey in presenting a brief in favor of operation of the pool by a separate commission, pointed out the construction of the pool would actually be a community effort and it should be operated by the community.

Community Effort

Members of the club will go all out during the month of May to raise funds for the construction of the swimming pool and will undertake an extensive canvass covering every part of the city seeking public contributions to the fund. A special names canvass will be undertaken before the date for the opening or the general canvass.

Kin Harry W. Rollins, chairman of the swimming pool building committee, noted that prices received for pool equipment would cost a total of $6,245. Delivery date of the equipment would be six weeks following placement of the order.

Cleo Colling, chairman of the swimming pool committee, said his committee had now done all it could do. It was now up to the club members and to the citizens. He was quite confident that the swimming pool, when completed would show a profit if operated in the correct manner. This was supported by club president Ernie Colebourne who said a canvass of swimming pools in the province showed they showed a profit.

Send Six Delegates

The club will send at least six delegates to the district convention to be held in Montreal May 5-6-7 when Arthur Croll, past president of the club and current deputy governor for district No. 6, will run for the office of governor. Another local club member is Murray Davis, will run for deputy governor, it was decided.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mr. Herb Harling, representative of Trans Canada Air Lines, who told of the progress of the air lines since its inception back in 1937. Capt. Grier was in charge and was expressed by Kin Jack McNab.

Two Men Face 75 Charges For Bad Cheques

Facing approximately 75 charges for bad cheques passed in various parts of the province, Kenneth Johnston and Frank Greeley, both of Picton, will appear in county police court on Thursday, April 13th., it was stated today by provincial police.

Arrested in Stayner, Ont., more than a week ago, the two men were brought to Belleville late last week and were remanded for court appearance on Thursday. At that time it is expected there will be a further remand.

Provincial police stated that the two men face a total of 11 charges in Hastings county of passing bad cheques made out with a cheque writing machine. The cheques were cashed at neighboring centres of Frankford, Stirling, Marmora, Point Anne and Shannonville.

In addition it is stated the pair face four charges at Trenton involving bad cheques and one at Deseronto.

Police believe Johnston and Greeley were responsible for a series of bad cheques passed in the Belleville district during the Christmas shopping season. The cheques were written on Belleville business firms and cashed at stores in rural villages near Belleville.

Woman Goes to Jail, Hugs Flour Bag Containing $50,000

Atlanta, Ga., April 11 (AP) — A 50-year-old woman was arrested early today on charges of selling flour without a license, and went off to jail hugging a flour sack containing more than $50,000.

Detectives R. A. Boone and J. E. Sikes, however, declined to allow Mrs. Elizabeth Spears to post a cash bond because it would be unfair for her to go unprotected with so much money. They said that one package of currency alone amounted to $10,000 in $100 bills.

Mrs. Spears spent the night in an office—not a cell — at police headquarters. The detectives said they were worried "about what might happen to that money" if she locked Mrs. Spears in a cell with run-of-the mill convicts.

Many Airmen Given Promotion

Two hundred and fifty-two Ontario airmen are among the names of RCAF personnel in a semi-annual promotion list for airmen issued by Air Force Headquarters, Ottawa. The list includes promotion from the rank of Leading Aircraftman to Corporal, Corporal to Sergeant, Sergeant to Flight Sergeant, Flight Sergeant to Warrant Officer Class II, and from Warrant Officer Class II to Warrant Officer Class I.

50-Year-Old Law Bans Portable Radios in Parks

Bolton, Lancashire, England April 11 (Reuters) —Anyone who wants to hear his radio while loafing in this town's 12 parks will have to get official permission—or risk prosecution.

A 50-year-old law bans music in parks without consent of the council, and park keepers are enforcing it.

Councillor H. Woods, vice-chairman of the parks committee, said:

"The law was formed long before portable radios were thought of, but I think it would be wrong to allow sets to be used in the parks.

"A park is a place for rest and quiet. If we allowed portable radios there, nothing could stop a brass band going there to practice."

Forgets Trap Set To Guard Pigeons, Owner is Slain

Boorsem, Belgium, April 11— (AP)—Algeon Fercier L. Kinnie, began missing big pigeons and figured they'd been stolen. So he rigged up a gun in the pigeon loft so it would go off when the door was opened.

He forgot about his invention when he went to count his pigeons the next day.

The 45-year-old pigeon fancier will be buried tomorrow in the local cemetery.

Charles H. Kerr Well-KnownTweed Resident Dies

Tweed, (Special)—Well-known Tweed business man and a former member of the village council for a number of years, Charles Henry Kerr died on Monday at Kingston following illness of two months.

Born in Madoc, Mr. Kerr was in his 72nd year and had spent the greater part of his life in Tweed where he had been in business for 50 years. He started in business with the late George Martin in the men's furnishing business, later becoming a partner with Mr. Martin. He also became associated for a number of years with Miss Jennie Wright in the dry goods business and purchased Miss Wright's interest in 1945.

In the affairs of the village and county he took a keen interest and served in a capable manner as Reeve of the village and a member of the County Council. In the village and throughout the district he was held in high esteem by many friends.

Mr. Kerr was a member of the St. John Bilton's Church, where he was a member of the board of Stewards and fraternally he was a member of Tweed Lodge A. F. and A. M. No. 239; he was also a member of the Order of Oddfellows.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Pearl Barrett; one son, Arthur Kerr, and one daughter, Miss Ethel Kerr, both of Toronto; three brothers, John Kerr, Penetanguishene; Alexander Kerr Midland and Walter Kerr, Penetanguishene; three sisters, Mrs. Phoebe Shippen, Toronto, Mrs. Mellasa Campion, Marmora, and Miss Margaret Kerr, Tweed.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

ASK AUTHORITY TO PURCHASE HOMES

Lakeview, April 11 — (CP) — Seventy families in this Toronto suburb, facing eviction from their wartime housing dwellings, have decided to ask permission to buy the houses and make necessary repairs. As an alternative, they ask for a stay of order of the eviction deadline now set for Dec. 31. Tenants under the threat of eviction proceedings was that septic tanks used by the families are considered a threat to health.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, Tweed, on Wednesday April 12th, at 2.30 p.m. Interment Victoria Cemetery. A11

IN MEMORIAM

COOK — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Samuel Hudson Cook, who passed away April 11th, 1949.

He is gone, but not forgotten,
And as years roll on,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are with us ever.
Days of sadness still come over us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
Sadly missed by wife and family. A11

FAULKNER — In memory of Hunter Faulkner who left us suddenly one year ago.

Not now, but in the coming years,
It will be in a better land,
We'll read the meaning of our tears
And then up there we'll understand.
Wife and family. A11

Picket Line Offers No Resistance On Second Day of Plant Opening

Trenton (Special) — Fifteen hundred spectators who turned out to see a recurrence of yesterday's picket line violence at the Downs Coulter plant were disappointed today as the approximately 90 workers went to their jobs without incident.

Only about 20 strikers turned up to picket the plant which until yesterday had been strikebound for 14 weeks. The picket line stayed until eight o'clock, then they got into cars and drove away. At 8:15 the workers arrived and entered the plant without incident.

The sequel of yesterday morning's incident when violence flared as workers returned to their jobs, will be heard today in police court.

Union organizer George Beckett, arrested yesterday morning for assault on a worker, will appear in police court as will a striker Mary Lou Bird who has been charged with using obnoxious language. Still another striker will appear before the court on a charge of common assault as she was entering the plant.

Following his arrest during Monday morning's flareup, George Beckett was released on $500 bail.

Although workers went to their jobs this morning without incident they were afforded even greater police protection than yesterday. This was because union organizers had stated the picket line would be strengthened by sympathetic plant workers from other plants in Trenton and district.

The strengthened picket lines failed to materialize, however, and V. Bjaranson, A.F.L. organizer stated this was due to lack of support from the other plants. "This does not mean that we have given up the fight," he stated.

Imperial Oil And Ford Stocks Heavy Gainers

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Western Oil and industrial stocks climbed briskly in early trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today but faded slightly as the session progressed.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,750,000 shares.

The initial burst of heavy buying boomed oil stocks into new high ground. Imperial Oil rolled ahead 38 to 28 but settled at 26 7-3 up 1 3-8 from the previous close to feature the list. News that the company had acquired extensive property for development in Northern Alberta along with recent heavy New York interest helped the advance.

Other industrial stocks were also higher to carry the group to new high ground. Some reduction of gains developed in mid-session under pressure of realization. An excellent annual report and record sales, earnings and production sent Ford Motor of Canada A up 4 1-4 at 32 also touching a new high at 33.

Royallte gained 3-4 at 14 5-8 to lead western oils in a continuation of their five-week advance into new high ground.

Golds weakened although low-priced stocks continued active traders and a few base metals were mixed. Steel Mines was in good demand while East Sullivan lost under profit - taking sales.

BRIEF SUGGESTS

In evidence placed before the commission, the C.A.B. was impressed with the fact that no group, with the possible exception of the CBC, had suggested any "shortcomings on the part of free enterprise stations with respect to community service."

"The criticisms of free enterprise radio stations have been that we do not use sufficient live talent and that we use too many transcriptions and recordings of American origin.

"The problem of the use of live talent in such areas where live talent of sufficient calibre does not exist is entirely an economic one. The broadcasting of large symphonic groups, of operatic societies, of philharmonic orchestras or amateur dramatic groups is a very costly one, and one which cannot be borne by an individual broadcasting station except under very unusual circumstances."

Networks Ease Costs

The CBC was able to carry such programs because the costs were distributed over a number of network stations.

Private stations spent $2,784,039 on programs in 1949 compared with $2,817,986 spent by the CBC.

The lack of network facilities which prevented the sponsoring of more live talent was largely responsible for the use of records, transcriptions and recordings were syndications in the radio broadcasting industry.

"We have in the newspaper industry, the syndication of columns and comment," said the brief, "it would not be possible for any individual newspaper to afford for its own exclusive use the services of some of the outstanding writers who appear in their columns today. The ideas and the impressions of these outstanding writers can be secured for the benefit of the public at large only because the writings are syndicated."

In radio it seemed wrong to suggest that ni some communities, particularly the smaller ones, the talent available should take "precedence in radio broadcasting over the well-renowned talent that is available on transcriptions and recordings."

There were few recordings of Canadian origin and that was why most of the recordings used were imported.

WORSHIPPER ROBBED OF PURSE AND PAPERS

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Thieves stole a purse from a woman worshipper on church premises Monday night as she left an Easter service, Mrs. Thomas Farrell told police she lost $3 and personal papers.

Many Cars Involved in Accidents

Trenton —(Special)— Trenton police had a busy Easter weekend as no less than 10 accidents were investigated involving 26 motor vehicles. Slippery roads and blinding snow Saturday were blamed for the increase in automobile accidents while heavy holiday traffic also made driving difficult.

During the 6 o'clock rush an accident occurred on the Dundas bridge when a car stopped for the red light at the corner of Dundas and Front Streets causing the cars which were following to skid into each other. Damage to at least four cars amounted to only $150, but traffic was tied up for over thirty minutes.

The traffic light on Dufferin Street was the scene of another accident when a car driven by Keith Anderson of Wellington, Ont., was proceeding south on Dufferin and was unable to stop due to icy roads at the red light. Anderson's car skidded on across Dundas Street and hit a car driven by Thomas Coltman of 195 Sydney Street, which was about to turn off the Carrying Place road onto Dundas Street West. According to police, Coltman pulled as far over as possible but was unable to avoid being struck. Damage to Coltman's car was estimated at $200 while damage to Anderson's front corner and door amounted to $100.

Fire in Hold Of U.S. Freighter Under Control

New York, April 11—(AP)—Fire in a hold of the United States lines freighter American Producer has been conquered, and the ship proceeded under her own power today toward Halifax.

The United States coast guard cutter Ingham aided in getting the fire under control at sea, 540 miles southeast of Newfoundland.

The cutter then escorted the freighter toward Halifax for nine hours, but left her early today when it was apparent that the American Producer was in no danger.

The Ingham, which was nearby when the 8,228-ton freighter radioed for aid, put about a dozen of its own men aboard to help fight the fire. The freighter has a crew of about 50.

Windsor, April 11 — (CP) — Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, today reported record production, sales and profits for 1949.

Production of 112,130 cars and trucks brought a total sales volume of $212,036,000 and net profit of $17,256,762, or $10.40 a share.

Output compares with 97,015 units, dollar sales of $178,289,888 and net of $7,969,534 or $4.80 a share in 1948.

Last year's total sales were up 42 per cent over the record peacetime year of 1947 when the company's factories built 101,185 vehicles.

The report said the increase in sales volume last year was wholly attributable to improved sales in the Canadian market. The Canadian market, it added, absorbed 84.5 per cent of the Canadian-made cars and trucks sold by the company in 1949.

SAYS 15 HOUSES UNFIT FOR HABITATION

Owen Sound, April 11 — (CP) — Mayor E. C. Sargent said Monday that 15 Owen Sound houses are unfit for habitation and that an effort will be made to promote a slum clearance program. The houses are in the northeastern section of the town.

Windsors Greeted by Crowds On Way to Duke's EP Ranch

Swift Current, Sask., April 11—(CP) — Hundreds of Swift Current citizens turned out Monday night to welcome the Duke and Duchess of Windsor when the couple passed through here on the way to Calgary and the Duke's EP ranch.

Cowboys, sheriffs, stenographers, business men and R.C.M.P. officers mingled in the crowd that surged around the couple's private car. The Duke and Duchess appeared on the car platform.

"It's certainly good to be back on the Prairies," the Duke told the crowd. "I have not been to my ranch for nine years and I am owned."

looking forward to it with a great deal of pleasure. My wife and I plan to do a great deal of riding while at the ranch."

The Duchess, wearing a beige suit and a mink wrap, said she was enjoying "the friendly hospitality of the Prairies" to the full.

The couple signed autographs for schoolchildren. The adults until the trails pulled out shortly before midnight.

Earlier, at Moose Jaw, the Duke was asked about reports that he planned to sell the EP ranch. He replied:

"I intend to keep my Alberta ranch. It is the only land I've ever owned."

Cure for TB Meningitis Near Hope of World Scientists

Denver, Colo., April 11—(AP) —A close-linken team of medical scientists "on both sides of the Atlantic is straining what they hope is a cure for a killer disease—tuberculous meningitis.

Their main weapon is streptomycin—one of the so-called new wonder drugs. With it, about six of every 10 persons stricken with the disease are being kept alive.

Only four years ago, the disease was considered certain death within six weeks to two months.

However, small group of researchers is making no great claims of success.

They look at a patient like a curly-haired, blond boy of five here. He was brought to National Jewish Hospital five months ago. His case was considered hopeless. Shows Some Improvement

The new treatments and nurses caring for him like a baby around the clock have kept him alive. He has shown a little improvement. He seems to be able to hear a few sounds. His blue eyes are open—but they don't see. He can't move although his chubby hand gropes aimlessly around his white bed.

Will he ever get really well?

"We can't say," replies Dr. Allan Hirsch, medical director of the hospital who told about the medical battle in an interview. "I'm afraid he was too far gone when he reached here. We can only help him live, hoping that some day a way of really curing him will be found."

The disease is the gross cause of death from tuberculosis in children under three. It attacks at any age.

The way the disease works is just what makes it so hard to cure, slight bacteria in the blood reaches the blood stream. It moves to the brain and out to the linnges — these covering. The inflamed this tissue, perhaps works down into the spinal column.

The inflammation forms adhesions and scarred tissue. This usually set up a block between the brain and the spinal column which the brain supplies with fluid.

Two dozen doctors in the U and Europe have found they can stop the sudden spread of the disease if they catch it in time. The first step is their biggest job: to find a substance which, when injected with the streptomycin will accompanying the germs will either dissolve or prevent the adhesions.

Thus far, their only answer is quick treatment. They must catch a case before the horrible inflammations have set in.

COMMANDS FRIGATE

GREAT CANADIAN ACTRESS PASSES

The recent death in Boston of one of the great Canadian actresses of all time, Julia Arthur, recalls to many Belleville residents of a number of years ago an event of the greatest civic importance, the visit Julia Arthur, and her company paid this city to present for the first time here one of the great dramas of George Bernard Shaw, the famous Irish playwright. The play she presented was "Saint Joan," the dramatic interpretation by Shaw of the life and influence of the Maid of Orleans, whose name we still use only in the native France but in the whole world. The occasion was memorable for not only did the great actress and her company offer to the local public this great drama but it was likewise a major theatrical event, the visit of a world famous star.

That time is remembered for another reason, the Coronation of the City of Belleville tendered the Canadian actress the freedom of the city. This memorable event took place before the city hall.

Those who were in the great concourse of people on the occasion when the freedom of Belleville was bestowed on a woman who had made Canada famous in the theatrical world by the supreme quality of her art have not forgotten the day when Belleville paid its tribute to one of the great forms of art.

Julia Arthur had won a place on the North American stage as one of the queens of the theatre more than half a century ago. She was the outstanding Canadian-born actress to win a reputation covering this continent. Her place in the theatre was established.

She was born in Hamilton in 1869 and had early given promise of remarkable gifts for acting. When only a child she went barnstorming with a company of strolling players and before she had reached the age of twenty she was playing in the Sir Henry Irving Company such great roles as Portia; Ophelia and Desdemona, roles famous in England and the repertoire of Sir Henry, the great English actress.

She had long been off the stage. She left it on her marriage at the age of thirty and returned several times and played with all the brilliance of performance which had marked her work in her early days.

Canadian theatrical art owes the memory of Julia Arthur a high place. Abroad her fame was acknowledged in the theatre circles.

It is a happy recollection that this community years ago acknowledged the greatness of Julia Arthur as an actress of the romantic drama by bestowing upon her the honor of citizenship and its freedom and in packing the old opera house on the performance. It remains Julia Arthur and with Belleville citizens recollections of a magnificent performance of the Shaw version of the Maid of Orleans.

THIS AGE AND ITS PROBLEMS

"Just to live on this earth involves the human race in many problems," says the Monthly Letter of the Royal Bank. "Then deeper we live here, and the more of us live here, the more complex our problems."

Only the generation that is now mature has been worried greatly about relations with people on the next continent but now we cannot help getting involved in the affairs of other nations. There are potent forces at work in Europe which affect every one of us." The writer of the letter examines the causes of this distracted state and says that we need to study geography," the nations of people and how they are connected with their soil. We need to understand people in other lands and learn what makes them different from us."

In this the schools can make a unique contribution to world understanding. He says "they can provide a bridge to bring the people of many nations together. But what a long way some countries have yet to travel to reach a meeting place!

"If we look around us we can see in the eyes of right-minded people the conviction that with good-will, honest purpose and effort we can achieve our goal. We may, for our objective, paraphrase the words of the Roman philosopher who said, 'So far as I am an individual, my country is Canada; but so far as I am a man, I am a citizen of the world.'

"We of the Western World still have a creative spark in us, and if we find the grace to kindle it into flame, then nothing on earth can stop us from erecting, in due time, the kind of human society in which it is good for all men to live."

Careless pedestrians involved in motor accidents are being treated too leniently by the courts, a Manitoba appeal Court judge recently declared. In far too many cases where the victim is entirely to blame the helpless motorist is assessed heavy damages. — St. Catharines Standard.

JUST FOLKS

'HUMBLE MINISTER

He was a humble minister
Who went from door to door,
And night or day would kneel to pray
Upon the barest floor.

The plight of poor folk he could sense,
He understood their needs;
And what he lacked of eloquence
Made up with gracious deeds.

"As servant of the Lord," he'd say,
"My time is not my own
And at His business I must stay
So long as need is known.

"And since God's children all are we,
No call can be delayed.
I know the Lord is trusting me
To comfort and to aid."

His body sleeps; his soul lives on
By all the poor adored.
A humble minister, but one
Who chose to serve the Lord.

Ministers Believe Pact Will Help To Prevent War

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The Prime Ministers of the new mutual defense pact Australia and Pakistan have signed a pact which they soberly agree has pulled their countries back from the verge of war.

After ten days of difficult discussing in New Delhi, Nehru of India and Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan achieved an agreement which may carry them after Sunday's meeting. It is approved by both parliaments and is implemented. The Indian government already has ratified it.

This agreement apparently did not attempt to deal with all the troublesome issues between the two great states. It is aimed chiefly in the minority problems which have been bringing so much bloodshed and destruction of property in both countries.

These troubles of course stem from the fierce religious conflicts which have been waged between the Hindus and the Moslems from time immemorial. This strife was given fresh impetus by the separation of the great Indian peninsula into the two dominions of India.

The division was based on the composition of the populations in the various areas. That is to say, the Hindu territories were segregated together and the same was done with the Moslem areas as far as possible. However, this resulted in a bad division of Pakistan — which was held in Lieut. Col. Lazier's S. S. Lazier's office the following officers were elected for this year:—Patron, Thomas Ritchie; First Vice President, Dr. Guss Porter, M. P.; Second Vice President, J. F. Wills; Treasurer, Lieut. Col. No New Cases Of Smallpox In Glasgow

Glasgow, April 11 (Reuters) — Glasgow's industrial satellite, Hamilton, home town of Dr. Janet Fleming, first victim of the Scottish smallpox epidemic, was expected to get the "all clear" from health today.

No fresh cases have been reported there since Dr. Fleming's case was taken to hospital almost two weeks ago.

Now is just more than two weeks since the smallpox was brought here by an Indian seaman.

It has killed six: Dr. Fleming, three nurses, a hospital laundry maid and an 11-month-old baby girl.

Fifteen persons still are in hospital.

As many as 25,000 persons have been immunized in Glasgow in the last few days. That would be half of Hamilton's 40,000 population have been vaccinated.

But Glasgow is not yet free of infection. If no new cases occur this week, the city will be given a clean bill of health Sunday.

Teachers to Have More Freedom Under New Plan

Toronto, April 11 (CP)— Ontario School teachers will have more freedom under the new school curriculum than ever before Education Director Dr. J. G. Althouse told the Ontario Educational Association today.

"The changes are neither perfunctory nor superficial," he said. "And there is no intention of concreting the curriculum by imposition from the schools."

Curricula changes were designed to "give greater freedom to the child; to call: Consideration of individual differences; encouragement, establishment of continuity in the educative process, and a desire to help the growing child to make his own decisions.

IT DOESN'T STAY LONG IN THE NOSE

Although the subject, today, is the nose—and what people do to it, I can't resist a preliminary mention of the throat and what people do to it. The idea in gargling seems to be that the disagreeable germs may be lodged in the tonsils and adjacent areas of the throat, and that these may be routed by taking a swig of something, drawing a deep breath, throwing the head back and saying "gug-gug-gug" as long as the breath lasts.

What is actually accomplished by that? The answer is—nothing whatever. The gargle gets no farther than the back of the tongue. That excludes the entire throat. Even if the gargle did get farther into the throat—what would happen? Nothing whatever.

Germs don't live on the surface like people walking for a street-car on the pavement. They distributed "underground" as well as superficially. You could squirt something at the tonsils and adenoids all day without disturbing 1st to "underground" germs. Moreover, you could wash away some of the surface germs, a matter of very little importance. If applying antiseptics to an infected area really did the business, the speed by antibiotic drugs would diminish considerably.

The best known of the modern "miracle drugs" is penicillin. It may be used in the form of a powder, or incorporated in a fluid. Penicillin is a powerful antibiotic, in sufficient quantity, makes it difficult or impossible for certain other disease-causing germs to survive in the tissues. Powerful as it is, however, there are germs, it is harmless to the tissues which they attack. Penicillin is not a local antiseptic. It is an antibiotic—something entirely different.

If penicillin is kept in close contact with an open, infected area, it will destroy the germs of the infection, if they are of the class which is sensitive to penicillin. Good luck to their nefarious actions. In a few instances, may be permanently cured, if constantly maintained, will cure the infectious process.

The timing of the drug is provided with microscopic "cilia" (hair-like processes) which "wave" or vibrate about seven times per second. They move the fluid in which they are suspended, like oars moving a boat. Penicillin powder or liquid form, is sprayed into the nose, it is promptly removed by the cilia. If it is dissolved in the nose, the action of the cilia is impeded and the drug is removed by the cilia, for disposal.

The infection of the lining of the nose, which may be susceptible to the action of penicillin, can be reached by penicillin only to the extent that the drug can be kept in contact with the lining. That goes for every other drug as well as penicillin. Despite the fact that drugs promptly remove the drug, it has been used, in medical practice, for the past fifteen years. There are several proprietary devices on the market which are used in depositing penicillin within the nose. There are also several products available which provide penicillin in liquid form.

It now appears that the public is using these devices and products, without medical advice or guidance, on a wide scale. They are used, often, for infections which are not susceptible to the action of penicillin, as for instance "Cold, or the common cold." With the exception of occasional severe allergic reactions, this practice may be harmless enough with one exception. The constant use of these means may be to accustom the user to their actions that when some dire necessity arises, and life-saving effect, they are found to be powerless.

Simple and well meaning dosgitst who dispenses these drugs, may be doing a disservice without prescription, is hardly doing the patient a favor. And the patient who seeks to by-pass the physician is being too smart for his own good.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Area of Low Humidity

Answer—New Mexico, Arizona, Southern California.

Baby's Dermatitis

Having had so much trouble with my first baby's bowels, I am baffled as to what procedure to follow with my baby, now 6 months old. (Mrs. P. M.)

Answer—Use a little late, but the best policy is to leave the babys' bowels alone. Send 10 cents for cents and stamped self addressed envelope for a copy of the booklet "Baby's Dermatitis."

Ridged, Brittle or Spooned Nails

Have noticed my nails getting ridged crosswise, very easily broken and sort of concaves. (E. L.)

Answer—Nutritional deficiency often manifests itself like that. Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks. Remember, it takes three or four months for new nail to grow, so if you supplement your diet with foods rich in iron and three vitamins you must keep it up for three or four months at least; you can't expect to notice much improvement within two or three months.

THE PACKSACK

OI' GREGORY CLARK

Excessive courage is often psychopathic. In the last war, we came around to the kindly point of view that a soldier was psychopathic — that a man whose nerve failed him was the victim of a mental condition due to battle fatigue, But it never occurs to us that people are also capable of enormous daring and courage are also, little unbalanced, mentally.

Even so skilled a man has soldiered in battle or flown aircraft in the air since the days of the last war zones know that there is an impulse in all nervous people that comes and goes—to dare or to tempt fate. A good psychologist could possibly relate it to a temporary suicidal impulse. But when danger threatens, there appear always to be a percentage of those men present who rise to the occasion with a reckless daring.

The interesting fact, however, is that it is rarely if ever the same men in any given group who become regularly afflicted with reckless daring. Now and again, they emerge a man among us who is always daring. But as a rule one day it is Tom; the next day, Dick; and the third day, Harry. Excessive courage is possibly a kind of fever. It could be psychopathic.

For those who are interested in fear and courage, and for every man who served in North Africa, Sicily and Italy, there is a new book out called "Private Army" by Lt. Col. Fletcher Pratt who is not who is no other than "Popski". Popski's Private Army operated for twenty or thirty men, never more than a hundred and fifty strong. The Canadians saw Popski's little army blaze incredibly and furiously into action on two or three occasions when, like hawks in a chicken yard, they struck and vanished in some ugly battle. They were a legend, secret, hush-hush, miraculous. Popski's Army spent most of its time far behind the German lines. This book is a tremendous study of courage, very useful to all of us who imagine we are either brave or cowardly. It stings us both.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD AT THE HELM

Robert Louis Stevenson, describing a profound crisis in life, writes as follows: "I came about like a well-handled ship. There aloft at the wheel that unknown steersman whom we call God."

It is very mysterious as we think back upon the providential deliverances to see how they have been achieved. There has been a power beyond and above our own, bringing things to a certain issue. The man who has no faith in things spiritual and believes that every thing happens as the result of chance or by the blind drive of cosmic force has a lot of explaining to do in connection with the circumstances in which he finds himself at any given moment.

There is a great mystery about the way God deals with us. We stand confronted by some dreadful circumstances, fully expecting that they will be our undoing, precipice and suddenly we find ourselves walking in the paths of peace and all about us is sunshine. Or we find ourselves in sorrow and disappointment and feel that we have come to the end of the road, when suddenly there is unlooked-for joy.

There is much we can do, and much we must do, to work out our problems and bring the issues of life to a successful conclusion, but it is God who does the greater part. The unknown steersman stands at the wheel and brings us at last through the tempest, and we look back upon it almost like a well-handled ship under His loving hand.

RESCUED DEER DIES

Toronto, April 11 (CP)— A young deer, rescued from dogs by two boys near the Humber River in Toronto's suburbs, died Sunday night of fright and wounds inflicted by the dogs.

At first 200 officials thought the deer might be one of five which escaped from High Park Zoo last week. Later reports said the deer was white and probably wandered down the river in search of food.

The five are still missing.

Swept off Feet By 92-Mile Gale At Blackpool, Eng.

London, April 11 —(Reuters — A 92-mile-an-hour gale struck a resort of Blackpool yesterday sweeping people off their feet, smashing shop windows and tearing slates off roofs.

Thousands of Easter holidayers were promenading on the seafront in Spring sunshine when the gale ripped in from over the sea.

Many clung to lamp-posts to save themselves, streetcars swayed in the gusts, and iron seats were flung across the promenade.

Five women and two men were taken to hospital with cuts from debris.

Snow in Scotland, and gales and wintry showers round almost the whole British coastline, made this Eastertime one of Britain's bleakest in years.

The gales interrupted ferry services across the Firth of Forth when one ship, the Mary Queen of Scots, was blown off course beneath the Forth bridge. She eventually completed the crossing but took three times longer than usual.

SCREEN VETERAN, STRICKEN ON 66th BIRTHDAY PASSES AWAY

Walter Huston, stage, screen star veteran, died last Friday, of a heart attack, at the peak of a long and distinguished career. The Toronto-born actor was in thriving health until he suffered fatal attack, on his 66th birthday. Huston's stage career began in Toronto's Massey Hall in 1900. He appeared there as an end-man in a minstrel show. After a few years of attending dramatic classes in Toronto and appearing in several plays, he headed for New York, where he soon won recognition for his acting ability.

Modern Lighting Of Public School Planned by Bd.

Madoc (Special) — At a recent meeting of Madoc Public School Board, several interesting items regarding Madoc School were discussed and action taken. It was decided to contact the Hydro Commission regarding lighting the school and have the heavy engineer submit plans and estimates for complete modern lighting in the school.

Ted Hallstone was to be engaged to look over waterworks system and report. Plans were also made to level grounds for a softball diamond and playground equipment to be purchased. Some trees on the grounds are to be removed. Mr. Rothwell spoke on certain readers that are required by the Department, and it was decided that they be purchased and placed in the school for the school term commencing Sept. 1st. Mr. Rothwell showed work done by ditto machine and explained its advantages, it was decided that the board purchase one. He also spoke of the appreciation of the fact that the Board had made possible the service of hot drinks or soup to the pupils during the winter months.

Strange Cloud Effects on Mars Due to Explosion?

Osaka, Japan, April 11—(AP)—Japanese astronomers report new observations of strange cloud formations on the planet Mars, caused possibly by a "terrific explosion."

Tsuneo Saeki's discovery of the phenomena Jan. 26 set off a world-wide watch of the nearby planet. Now Trugua Ebizawa tells of observations he started March. 29.

Saeki joined him in the watch and reported that clouds originally grey turned dirty yellow in two days, bluish white in another four days and dirty white but without brilliancy after a week.

Saeki said the clouds were similar to those he saw in 1948.

"When I first observed the clouds, in January I thought it was an illusion," he told Kyodo News Agency. "Now I know I was not wrong because my observations have been confirmed by recent observations made by Ebizaw. However, I am still unable to establish whether the clouds were caused by volcanic ashes."

Saeki had expressed the opinion in January that the clouds were caused by a "terrific explosion."

Eight Reservists Escape Injury In Plane Crash

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 11 —(AP)—Eight naval reservists escaped injury yesterday when their PV-2 twin-engine craft landed just off the Lake Michigan shoreline.

One of the crew, 22-year-old Lyle Paskel of St. Paul, Minn., swam about 200 feet to shore to get help. The others were brought in by canoe.

The craft—attached to the Glenview Naval Air Station at Chicago—had circled blindly over this area in a driving rain for more than an hour.

Hundreds of persons watched the plane go down, but before anyone could reach the scene of the crash the seven occupants had climbed out and were standing on top of the fuselage.

Dr. Bouton Sowers paddled his canoe out into the calm lake and brought the men back to shore in four trips.

139 Pounds Meat Consumed Per Capita in 1949

Ottawa (CP)—Canadian livestock producers had a tough time selling meat on foreign markets last year, but did a roaring business on the domestic front.

The average Canadian consumed 139.2 pounds of meat in 1949, an increase of 4.7 pounds per capita from the 1948 figure of 134.5, the Bureau of Statistics reported Saturday.

Meat production in this country totalled 2,131,000,000 pounds last year, down 5 per cent from the 1948 total of 2,235,000,000 pounds.

Due mainly to reduced United Kingdom purchases of Canadian bacon, exports of Canadian meat on a cold dressed carcass basis fell to 205,669,000 pounds last year from 418,313,000 the year before, but still above the 1935-39 average of 193,436,000 pounds.

The bureau also reported that exports of all kinds of live animals except calves were lower last year than in 1948.

Big Export Decline

The most significant decline in meat exports was in pork, which fell to 72,000,000 pounds from 229,496,000 pounds and was less than half the 1935-39 average of 176,630,000 pounds. Exports of other kinds of meats also dropped. Beef exported in 1949 totalled 103,121,000 pounds, compared with 133,822,000 the year before; mutton and lamb fell to 3,906,000 pounds from 5,036,000, and canned meats to 13,312,000 pounds from 43,079,000.

Canadians ate more pork and canned meats last year and less of other kinds. The per capita consumption of pork rose to 59.3 pounds from 53.9 pounds in 1948, and canned meats to 5.7 pounds from 2.7 pounds. Beef was down to 56.5 pounds per capita from 57.5, veal to 8.1 pounds from 10.9, and mutton and lamb to 3.0 pounds from 3.5.

POLITICAL CAREER IS ENDED BY BULLETS

Charles Rinaggio, the Kansas city politician who rose to power after the death of machine boss Tom Pendergast, and one of his henchmen, were found shot to death in the Democratic club in Kansas City, Mo. The other man was identified as Charles Gargotta, an ex-convict and reputed gambling figure. Rinaggio's body, pierced by four bullets, was found beneath a gold-framed portrait of President Truman in the club, which served as the dead man's political headquarters. Although the police have called the deaths "double murder," residents believe the shooting is linked with politics and the underworld.

41 Persons Feel Effect Gas Fumes At Church Service

Stratford, April 11 — (CP) — An Easter tragedy was narrowly averted Sunday when a nine-year-old boy was overcome and 40 persons affected by coal gas fumes in a seldom-used church at nearby Newton, opened to hold special Easter services.

Cameron Waddell, sitting beside a hot air register, collapsed and fell on his face. He was removed to Listowel hospital where he was placed in an oxygen tent. At first his condition was said to be critical, Today he was reported improved.

Eight Waddell children, ranging in age from six to 17 were at the service with their father, Hugh H. Waddell, Newton postmaster. One of the six-year-old twins was the first to become ill and the father took her outside. Another child was taken out by an older sister before Cameron collapsed.

The Presbyterian church is not used regularly. However, a special Easter service had been arranged with Rev. Mr. Matheson of Chesley as guest speaker.

Bella McDonald, an elderly woman, suffered a weak spell after service and collapsed against fence outside the church. Others in the congregation of 40 persons were less seriously affected.

Dr. P. L. Tye of Milverton, who was driving by, was stopped by members of congregation. He gave medical assistance and ordered Cameron removed to hospital.

Bunk House Burns, Owner, Fireman Are Injured

Thessalon, April 11— (CP) — Fire of unknown origin early Sunday demolished the bunk house at Morgan's Mill, three miles north of here. Loss is estimated at $10,000, partly covered by insurance.

J. B. Morgan, the owner, suffered severe burns when struck on the head by a piece of burning timber. Volunteer fire fighter Jack Thomson was also injured when he fell from the roof of the burning building.

Morgan was asleep in a downstairs bedroom when he smelled smoke. He rushed upstairs to awaken three mill employees. The other employees were away from the camp for the holiday weekend. All lost their personal belongings.

you do not ask a FAVOUR*

When the housewife calls at the grocery store and orders a supply of provisions, she is not asking a favour . . . she is buying goods for which she will pay on delivery . . . purely a matter of business.

So with your bank. It is a business proposition just as much as the grocery store.

The grocer deals in groceries . . . the banker deals in credit. And as the making of loans is one of the principal ways by which his bank derives its revenue, he is as anxious to sell his credit as the grocer is to sell his groceries. And like the grocer, the banker naturally wants to know that he is going to be paid for his goods . . . that his loans will be met when they fall due. That, too, is only good business.

When you have occasion to ask for a loan, look at it this way. Come to the Bank, not feeling that you have to ask a favour, but to offer the manager a sound business proposition which will be of profit both to you and to his institution.

Hundreds of thousands of Canadians in all walks of life have since proved for themselves, by the experience of borrowing at the Bank of Montreal, the full meaning of this message . . . that if your proposition is sound, there's money for you at the B of M.

Yes, when you ask for a loan at the B of M, you do not ask a favour.

Women's Institute

UNIONDALE WI.

Uniondale—The April meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at Mrs. Ross Thomas's, 6th concession of Sidney, with a large attendance.

Thank you letters were read by Mrs. Herrington. Mrs. K. Faul read of the opening of Mrs. Fuchs' er and Miss Lewis in May. A committee of Mrs. M. Sine, Mrs. W. Rose, Mrs. G. Herrington, Mrs. H. Frost was formed to look after Spring at Scott's community hall.

The election of officers for 1950 are as follows, President, Mrs. Milton Grills; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Fred Farmer; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. H. Frost, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Frank Looey; pianist, Mrs. Carman Frost; sick committee, Mrs. Herrington, Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Frost. Other officers and conveners remained the same as 1949. Programs for 1950 to be printed immediately.

A short program and quiz were much enjoyed by all. Several visitors were welcomed and it was decided that a diary be kept of visitors at each meeting, giving date of their birthday.

Mrs. Harry Orr, of Stockdale, was quiz winner.

A vote of thanks was extended to the hostess. Delicious refreshments were served by the April hostesses.

May meeting to be held at Mrs. Gerald Herrington's, 4th concession of Sidney.

Women's Canadian Club Outlines Past Year's Activities

At the annual meeting of the Women's Canadian Club which was held recently in the Corby Library, the secretary, Mrs. Hickey, read a lucid and interesting report of the work accomplished during the year.

There has been a marked increase in membership and lecture attendance, and in some instances, an overflow audience. The total membership is now 236, an increase of 76 over the previous year.

Three committees have been formed and have functioned effectively during the past season. a Speakers' Committee, with Mrs. J. Grant Sparling, 1st. vice president, as convener; a membership committee, with Mrs. J. Gilbert Scott, 2nd vice president, convening, and a Citizenship committee with Mrs. W. J. Doyle, convener.

Mrs. Doyle, as head of the Citizenship committee, has excellently filled her position as convener. Some of the highlights of the year's Citizenship interests being new Canadians have been welcomed, and have had a year's membership arranged for them; a party of 90 was sponsored for them at the Capitol Theatre as well as having tickets provided to enjoy drama productions.

Acts On Committee

The appointment of Mrs. W. Finkle to act on the nominating committee to fill the resignation of Mrs. Gilbert Scott; that of Mrs. G. G. Wright as Film Board representative; the inviting of super school history students as guests to the open meeting lecture on "The Tito-Stalin Feud," and the honor ast students to the lecture on "Why Modern Art," were some of the manifold activities.

Contacts have been made with the neighbouring communities to interest them in the Canadian Club activities; shower gifts have also been sent to D.P. camps in Germany, and unpackable articles to the Belleville Hospital. Plans were made for drafting of a new constitution under the convenership of Mrs. W. C. Mikel; Mr. Eric W. Norse, National director met with the executive and the discussion proved most stimulating. As a result a letter has been addressed to him detailing the aims and activities of the Club. Plans for the fall season are now under way.

Twenty-four girls of the Bridge Street United Church Explorer Group reported that they "thoroughly enjoyed" a tour through the plant of the Ontario Intelligencer yesterday where they viewed the teleprinters, linotypes, rotary press and other mechanical devices of a newspaper in actual operation.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Bayside W.M.S. Entertains Aikens, Holloway Societies

White's District — The Bayside Woman's Missionary Society held their Easter meeting at White's Church with Aiken's and Holloway Street Church Societies as guests.

The president, Mrs. C. Rush presided. The pianist, Mrs. W. A. Jeffery, played quiet music, "Our Heritage" served as a prelude to the devotion service, the theme of which was "He Is Risen." The Scripture was read by the president followed by responsive reading and the singing of "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross" as a hymn.

Mrs. H. Rutter continued with the meditation. Mrs. Livingstone extended a welcome to the guests, many of whom had been guests on former occasions. Several recalled incidents, one of which was her own wedding and that of her grandparents in this historic church.

The guests favored with several numbers. Mrs. Ross Marshall, accompanied by Mrs. Hamilton contributed a solo for Aiken's Society, Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Scrivens rendered a duet "O Seek Him" for Holloway Street Church Society.

Mrs. Matthew Denton, of King Street Church, Trenton, was guest speaker and brought a wonderful Easter message closing with a short poem.

Mrs. F. Moon, of Aiken's Society, gave a reading "Arise, "His Name was Paul" and Holloway Street Church Society, contributed a duet, "Open The Gates of The Temple."

Mrs. Glen Meyers moved a vote of thanks to all who had assisted in the program.

Following the program refreshments were served by the ladies of White's Church and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. Fred Wilson, on behalf of the guests, moved a vote of thanks to the ladies of Bayside W.M.S.

River Valley W.I. Views Film On Historical Pageant at Guelph

Rawdon — (Special) — Last Wednesday evening over seventy people gathered in the town hall in the Legion Hall. Twenty-four members of the River Valley W.I. were in attendance, and they, with their husbands, families and a few friends, were loud in their praise that the evening had been such a success.

Fifty people sat down to a bountiful full course supper topped off with pie of all description. The folks who attended the supper felt the twenty persons who came later had missed a treat.

The president, Mrs. Harold Morgan, opened the program and Mrs. Clarence Chard officiated at the piano. The guests were welcomed and all unnecessary business was left over until the May meeting which will be held one week later on Thursday May 11 at the home of Mrs. Fred McDonnell. The election of officers will be held and a large slate of business.

Mrs. J. L. Donohue, secretary treasurer, gave a full account of the finances and reported $45 in the treasury.

Will Equip Hospital Room

The Institute plans to raise $164 as their share for West Hastings W.A. to equip a room in Trenton hospital. The first donation of $5 has been given and the project is now open for subscriptions and anyone wishing to donate to this worthy cause may contact Mrs. Roy Bush, district president, or the president or secretary of any River Valley W.I. In May some special event will be held to raise the balance of the money not already donated, as the funds have to be in by June.

Mr. Jack Chard, O.S.D. Belleville, gave a thorough explanation of the cost of rental and expenses for the project and films which amounted to almost $8, and Mr. Sheldon McIntosh very kindly donated the cost of that item. The Institute will decided at a later date if they wish to join the Hastings County Film Council at a nominal fee.

The R.W.I. deeply appreciated the kindness of Mr. Jack Chard who assumed all responsibility on behalf of his brother, Mrs. Clarence Chard, and arranged for three of the films and the projector. Jack also made a special trip from Belleville to bring the equipment and show the films as he is fully qualified in the use of the projector. Mrs. S. McIntosh thanked him for his efforts and she also thanked the visitors who assisted with the program.

A collection was taken to pay for the hall and for March of Dimes by Miss Beverley Morgan and Patsy Donohue and $11 will be remitted to the fund for polio.

Mrs. Roy Bush presided over an interesting program which followed. Mrs. Lindsay Fraser, piano, and Mr. Kenneth Belcour, violin, delighted between pictures with several musical numbers.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen contributed a reading, "The Cake Mother Made."

Home and Country

The first film "For Home and Country" depicted the motto of the Women's Institute. It was organized to raise the standard of homemaking and early in the minutes we read, "a nation cannot rise above the levels of its homes, therefore we women must work and study together to raise our homes to the highest possible level." Rural women generally owe a great debt of gratitude to the pioneer men and women for the wonderful heritage which they have bequeathed to posterity in this great W.I. organization. Soon after these women first organized in Stony Creek, they put forth every effort to extend their organization to fit other communities across the country so that other women might reap its benefits.

Mrs. Laura Rose Stephen was their first lecturer and organizer, and she rendered valuable service in building the organization in its early days.

Film on Australia

The second film gave a vivid picture of the hinterlands of Australia with its wealth of gorgeous wild flowers, its birds and animals, As the screen unwound, the automatic narrator revealed the beauties of the unknown land.

Mr. Charles Barnard, caretaker of the Legion Hall, was presented with a gift as a token of appreciation of R.V.W.I. members. Mrs. Morgan spoke briefly and thanked Mr. Barnard for all his many acts this winter to make everyone comfortable at the Legion Hall.

Mrs. Roy Bush spoke briefly and referred to the Institute as "The Christian organization and that is why it is always opened with the "Lord's Prayer," the same as in the Parliament of Canada. She also reminded her audience that this was Holy Week and all the churches were holding special services. It was regretted that no one thought of it in time, so this regular April meeting could have been held one week later. Fifteen members were absent, and some of these felt they could not attend open meeting because of extra services in their own churches.

Film on Guelph Meeting

The main film "Let There be Light" was then shown. This was filmed from a real pageant presented on June 18, 1947, on the grounds of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. Twelve thousand women were in attendance on that memorable occasion. Two members of R.V.W.I., Mrs. Hugh Jones and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, were at Guelph for that celebration and they enjoyed viewing the film, which brought back memories of that day in June, long to be remembered. A few other members took in the trip to Guelph, but were unable to attend this part of the meeting.

The Guelph celebration was blessed by perfect weather, and was successful beyond dreams. It was the greatest gathering of members of any one women's organization ever assembled in the Dominion of Canada. The members of the anniversary committee never planned for more than ten thousand people. When the day arrived, twelve thousand women crowded the campus and the staff of the O.A.C. had many problems in feeding this great throng of people and in finding parking space for cars and buses.

In all one hundred and eighty-five chartered buses brought delegates, as well as three special trains and thousands of private motor cars. Delegates were present from all over Ontario, from most of the provinces of the Dominion, from the United States, from Great Britain and New Zealand.

The pageant platform was decorated in the Institute colors, blue and gold. Mrs. Laura Rose Stephen told the origin of the Institute colors. She said, of Victoria, the reigning Monarch at the time and her family name was Guelph. It is called the Royal City. At one of the early W.I. conventions held in Guelph, the Royal colors 'blue and gold, were chosen as the Women's Institute colors, a very wise and appropriate choice."

Historical Pageant

"Let There be Light" was a historical pageant produced by Brownlow C. Croft with Harvey Logan and his orchestra supplying the music. The pageant revieved the fifty years of Institute history and the spread of organization across Canada and throughout the world. Hundreds of folk took part in the pageant and they were all active Institute members, Junior Institute and Home Club members, or Junior Farmers.

The colorful costumes ranged from period dresses worn by women in Stony Creek Institute in 1897 to the national costumes of the various countries who are now a part of the Associated Country Women of the World.

The pageant story portrayed Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless, founder of the Women's Institutes. In 1896 she spoke at Guelph on "The value of need of having domestic science and sewing taught in public schools."

Mrs. Hoodless had lost her eighteen-months-old son by death and the doctor told her it was occasioned by using impure milk and could have been prevented. Mrs. Hoodless gave such a stirring message at that meeting that Mr. Erland Lee (who later became president of the Farmers' Institute) was keenly interested. Through his efforts in January 1897 Mrs. Hoodless was invited to speak to the women of Salt Fleet Township. In February of that year the first Women's Institute was organized which was called Stoney Creek W.I.

The Light spreads in the founding of MacDonald Institute where Mrs. Hoodless interviews Sir William MacDonald of Montreal and receives a donation of $200,000. Here young women are taught the art of homemaking.

Then the motto "For Home and Country" is born and Miss Laura Rose (who later married Mr. Stephen) is engaged as lecturer and organizer.

Ontario Leads the Way

Ontario leads the way and we have Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario and then as the Light spreads to the provinces we have Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

In 1934 through the leadership of Mrs. Alfred Watt, Institutes were organized in England and Miss Emily Quest helped them spread through Scotland.

Then the torch is carried throughout the world in Europe and Asia, wherever there are rural women and the pageant pictures the various nations assembled to salute Canada.

Many W.I. workers have a place on the platform and many tributes of appreciation are received and read which included messages from the King and Queen.

Miss Anna P. Lewis, Director of the Women's Institute Branch, said, "the Women's Institutes treasure the past and face the future." She gave a vision of the coming years and a stirring plea that Institute members go forward with faith, vision and determination for greater achievement in the years that lie ahead.

The grand finale was a mass setting with all those who had taken a part assembled on the platform.

Leslie Bell Singers

The last picture was a delightful amusing number depicting the training of the "Leslie Bell Singers" in Toronto.

Mrs. Roy Bush, president West Hastings District W.I., announced that Mrs. Sayre, president of the Associated Country Women of the World, would speak in Belleville on May 9 at 2 p.m.

Members, Friends Of Neighbors Aid Entertained

2nd Thurlow — Mr. and Mrs. C. Howard entertained about 50 friends and members of the Neighbors Aid to a euchre party on Friday night. Twelve tables of euchre were played. Prizes were given as follows: ladies, Mrs. V. Ortt; Mrs. Douglas Aitkins; consolation, Mrs. R. Clazie; men, Mr. Wesley Gray; Mr. Roy Green, consolation, Mr. Starratt; lone hands, Mr. Eric Leeming.

Mrs. H. Thomson moved a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Howard for opening their home for the enjoyable time. A euchre will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Mitchell on April 12th. Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

NORTHPORT
One Hundred Friends Honor Bride, Groom

Northport — About 100 friends and neighbors invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Norton on Friday evening to honor their son Douglas and bride (Doreen Fairman.

The evening was pleasantly spent, after which an address was read by Miss Helene Mallett and Misses Nancy Mills and Elaine Mallett wheeled in a nicely decorated carriage laden with a variety of beautiful gifts for which appreciation was expressed.

Best wishes of the community go to Douglas and Doreen for a happy and prosperous future.

NORTHPORT

Northport — Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hough were recently honored on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. The members of Northport, where they reside, presented them with a handsome tri-light lamp. As Mr. Hough is not enjoying good health, the event was marked quietly.

A committee consisting of the Rev. and Mrs. Carsen Duquette; Mrs. Ray Simpson; Mrs. David Barker; and Mrs. Beath Barker represented Northport friends, calling the day before the anniversary. Mr. Duquette read an appropriate address and Mrs. Simpson presented the lamp. Mr. D. Barker presented colorful daffodils and iris.

On Tuesday a box of daffodils and snap dragons came from Demorestville and Fish Lake friends and from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hough.

Many friends called during the afternoon and evening to congratulate the esteemed couple. Mrs. Thomas Potter presented an artistically decorated anniversary cake.

In the evening refreshments were served by Mrs. Duncan Smith, Mrs. Jack Fraser, Mrs. Martin Read, and Mrs. J. H. Mallett.

More than 75 cards and other messages were received, also gifts including a chime clock from Mr. and Mrs. Will and Mrs. David Walker.

Their only son, Leo, resides in San Francisco and was unable to be home for the occasion.

Mrs. Hough was formerly Georgina Juby, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Juby of Sidney; and Mr. Hough, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Embury Hough of Hallowell.

They were married at the home of her parents, 2nd Concession of Sidney, March 28, 1900, by Rev. E. A. Tonkins. The attendants, Mr. Hough, Mrs. Seymour Hamilton, Belleville, and James Juby, Peterborough) are both living.

After their marriage, Mr. Hough made cheese at Foxboro, later at Big Island. In 1912 they bought a general store in the village of Demorestville and operated it until 1943 when they retired and moved to Northport.

During these years they gained many friends as a result of their friendly, helpful service and fair dealing.

While Mr. Hough is confined to his home, Mrs. Hough remains well and active in community work. A member of the United Church, also a member of W. A. and W.M.S.

Mr. and Mrs. Hough were pleasantly surprised at these expressions of good will and very feelingly expressed their appreciation for all the kindness they received.

DDGM Attends Masonic Lodge On Official Visit

Picton — Masonry's contribution to civilization as a great moral force was stressed as speakers at the reception tendered by Prince Edward Lodge No. 18 A.F. and A.M. at a reception tendered District Deputy Grand Master Rt. Wor. Bro. Carl D. Crosby of Belleville, here.

Wor. Bro. Frank Hepburn, W.M. of the local lodge, was toastmaster. Musical numbers were given by Phil Huddleston, Stanley Wiggins and Stanley Creegan of Belleville.

Toast Proposed

Toast to the Grand Lodge was proposed by W. Bro. Ross Eaton with response by Rt. Wor. Bro. Crosby and Most Wor. Bro. R. B. Dargavel.

The D.D.G.M. referred to Masonry as a vital force opposed to the insidious propaganda of communism. He urged cultivation of harmony, peace and justice toward our neighbors. The parable of the Good Samaritan indicates Masonry in action.

"We are all victims of the mounting tension which is a part of today's living and we do not take time for the repose and reflection that is necessary. Caught up in this rush, some have forgotten how to live and some have lost the faculty of finding single things charming," said the D.D. G.M. "See to it that we are not short on tolerance and understanding which are those which the brotherhood of man can be established."

Past G.M. Present

Most Wor. Bro. Dargavel, Past Grand Master said that Masonry never was intended to be a substitute for the church, even though it has religious implications. A good Mason is a faithful member and supporter of the church, he said.

Toast to the guests was proposed by Wor. Bro. C. S. Slack. Responding were District Chaplain Wor. Bro. the Rev. F. F. Smith and W. Bro. W. D. Emery.

A unique feature was the proposal of a toast to the newly installed candidate, Bro. Neil Love, by his father, R. W. Bro. W. D. Love of London, Ont.

Three hundred were in attendance.

American Sources Will Not Comment On Danish Report

Copenhagen, Denmark, April 11 (Reuters) — Official American sources here would make no comment today on Danish suggestion that the large-scale American air search for a missing bomber was a move in the cold war to observe the Russian fleet, known to be exercising in the Baltic.

More than 20 American aircraft and 250 airmen arrived during the weekend at Kastrup airport, near Copenhagen, which they are using as a base for the search for a four-engine American bomber missing with 10 men aboard since Saturday on a flight from Wiesbaden, Germany.

The search has started many rumors in Denmark which resolve themselves into two principal theories:

1. That the Americans produced a "missing plane" as an excuse to search the Baltic.

2. That the Americans are testing the feasibility of "occupying" a country—in this instance, Denmark—under the apparently peaceful pretext.

No proof of the rumors have thus far appeared in Danish newspapers.

In Stockholm, Sweden, observers were searching for the plane today spotted a white object and two oil streaks half a mile off Laangelot, on the eastern coast of Ealand to the southeast of Sweden.

They said the object might have been a fishing boat, an aircraft wing, or something similar.

By midnight Monday, American search planes had covered 56,284 square miles over the Baltic Denmark and Sweden in 149 flying hours.

Rumors Denied

Wiesbaden, Germany, — Lt.-Gen. John K. Cannon, commander of the United States Air Force in Europe, denied today that the United States is using the search for missing four-engine American bomber as a pretext for large-scale aerial reconnaissance.

"Such a claim is fantastic," Cannon told the Associated Press. "The search is not being utilized as a survey of these countries for any reason whatsoever. The sole object of the search is to locate the missing airplane and rescue the personnel aboard."

Winter Weather Chills Maritimes

Halifax, April 11—(CP)—The sun came out over the storm-weary Maritimes today for the first time since Thursday. But it didn't mean the return of spring.

Successive snow storms blowing up from the south have pounded the Atlantic coast since Friday.

Winds were dropping and skies were clearing over most of the Maritimes today. But the weather office forecast intermittent snow and more cold.

As snow-piled highways slowly struggled back into service, telegraph and telephone communications were snarled.

At Moncton, N.B., the mercury dipped to 28 degrees, continuing three days of record cold.

On Cape Breton Island, six collieries in the Glace Bay and New Waterford areas were idle as blocked roads kept many miners from the pits. Trains were up to five hours late and many outlying settlements were isolated.

Kids Will Go Crazy Over These Toys -- When They Can Get Them

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

The trade fair season is coming up and three of them are of particular interest to Canadians.

They are the British Industries Fair at London and Birmingham May 8-19; the Third Canadian International Trade Fair at Toronto May 29-June 9; the First United States International Trade Fair at Chicago Aug. 7-18.

Word from the first of them, the British Industries, describes it as the "biggest ever" featuring industrial developments of the post-war era. However, it will have a lighter side, even if somewhat fearful in its own way, and that's the 72,000 square feet devoted to toys and games.

Here are some of the things you may expect from the small fry in the future if they can get their hands on them:

A "radio-controlled" target plane which a boy can fly by remote control. "Jet-propelled" cars powered by a chemical rocket.

A submarine which dives to the bottom of the bathtub, travels beneath the water and finally surfaces on an even keel.

Guess that's enough to scare anybody.

RAWDON Seeney Family Honored by Friends On Eve of Departure

Rawdon—On Thursday evening last Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey entertained all the old neighbors on the first concession in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seeney and their family, Ronald, Mabel and Marion, before their departure to their new home at Castleton.

Clarence was born on that concession and lived there all his life until two years ago when he, his wife and children moved to Stirling.

The neighbors and friends which included Clarence's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Simpson of Mount Pleasant, all enjoyed a delightful social hour.

Mr. Bob Hoard was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly and Mrs. Frank Bailey read an appropriate address signed by old friends.

Mrs. Hector Whitton made the presentation of an electric bedroom lamp and a wall pu pue.

Clarence and Mrs. Seeney both graciously replied and decply appreciated the kindness of their old neighbors and hoped all would visit them in their new home at Castleton.

Mrs. Arthur Bailey and several other ladies served refreshments.

The party closed with everyone wishing the Seeney family many new friends in their place of abode and every success in their new venture.

On Easter Monday the members of Carmel Adult Group presented Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seeney with a lovely printed tablecloth. Clarence and Theda have been valued members of Carmel United Church and have been active in the group. The gift was accompanied by an address of appreciation.

Ontario Cabinet Shuffle Reported As Contemplated

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — The Telegram says in a news-page story today that the Ontario cabinet is being shuffled and several ministerial changes will be made.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow, retiring Health Minister since Health Minister Kelley's illness is mentioned as new Minister of Health. Hon. Russell T. Kelley will remain on executive council as minister without portfolio, the story says.

Two men are mentioned for the public welfare post: Rev. J. W. Foote, V. C., now deputy commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Board and C. E. Rea, member of the Legislature for Toronto St. Patrick.

Five Shots Fired At Police Chief Pursuing Burglars

Leamington, April 11 — (CP) — Five shots were fired at Leamington Police Chief J. Earl Cooper early today as he chased would-be burglars from the British American Oil Company office.

Pursuit failed when the police car failed to start and a provincial police car was unable to find suspects.

A 10-foot pipe, readied as a battering ram, was found at the scene but the office had not been opened.

GUNS DON'T FIT LANDSCAPE

Preston, April 11 (CP) —Two First World War field guns obtained from Ottawa as souvenirs for the Canadian Legion Memorial Home five years ago no longer fit into the landscape pattern since the Legion moved to new quarters. The town has applied for permission to dispose of them.

GERMAN INDUSTRY

Occupation authorities in Germany reported that approximately 75 per cent of industries survived the Second World War.

1,200 CANADA GEESE ARRIVE

Renfrew, April 11 — (CP) — Coincident with the spring breaking up in Muskrat Lake near here 1,200 Canada geese arrived from the south over the weekend Game wardens are feeding the birds 200 pounds of cracked corn, wheat and barley every 24 hours. The feeding will continue until the birds move farther north.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

White's District—Mrs. Mathew Dafoe, Belleville, was a Tuesday and Wednesday visitor, of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

Mrs. W. A. Jeffery was a visitor at King Street Church, Trenton, on Tuesday afternoon.

The ice went out of the Bay of Quinte on Wednesday morning, following the rain on Monday and Tuesday and assisted by a strong wind.

Mrs. H. L. Mooney and Mrs. H. J. Filyer, as delegates, also Mrs. C. Rush and Mrs. A. C. McCallum, attended the Presbyterial Convention at Tabernacle Church, Napanee. This was also the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Women's Missionary Society which took place at the Tabernacle Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford DeShane of Toronto, were Saturday tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

Miss Mary Rush, of Toronto, is spending the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Rush.

Easter service was well attended at White's Church on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. A.C. McCallum chose as his topic "Living on the Right Side of Easter" for an inspirational Easter address. The choir assisted in the service with two anthems "Victory" and "The Old Rugged Cross." Tulips and daffodils decorated the front of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Miller and children of Trenton were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock.

10 Cops Huff, Puff Three Hours To Get Evidence

New York, April 11 (AP) — Five policemen weren't enough Monday to get the goods on a 70-year-old woman. It took 10 of them.

The woman identified only as a Mrs. Soldezzo, was accused of selling two glasses of wine without a license.

Each barrel weighed 200 pounds.

The basement steps were steep and narrow — narrower than most of the cops.

So five more were summoned.

After three hours, the 10 huffed and puffed and got the last barrel out.

RAWDON

Seeney Family Honored by Friends On Eve of Departure

Rawdon—On Thursday evening last Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey entertained all the old neighbors on the first concession in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seeney and their family, Ronald, Mabel and Marion, before their departure to their new home at Castleton.

Clarence was born on that concession and lived there all his life until two years ago when he, his wife and children moved to Stirling.

The neighbors and friends which included Clarence's sister, and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Simpson of Mount Pleasant, all enjoyed a delightful social hour.

Mr. Bob Hoard was master of ceremonies and spoke briefly and Mrs. Frank Bailey read an appropriate address signed by old friends.

Mrs. Hector Whitton made the presentation of an electric kettle room lamp and a wall pu pue.

Clarence and Mrs. Seeney both graciously replied and decply appreciated the kindness of their old neighbors and hoped all would visit them in their new home at Castleton.

Mrs. Arthur Bailey and several other ladies served refreshments.

Clarence and Theda have been valued members of Carmel United Church and have been active in the group. The gift was accompanied by an address of appreciation.

Planeload of Cattle Will be Flown To Quito, Ecuador

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — A $25,000 planeload of Canadian cattle was scheduled to take off today from suburban Malton airport for Quito, Ecuador.

Dennis E. Hall of International Livestock Exporters Ltd., said the cattle were bought by six breeders who will show the 16 Holsteins and two Hereford calves at the Quito fair in June.

CHARLES WEIR CANDIDATE

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Charles Weir, 39, Monday night was named Labor-Progressive party candidate in the May 15 Toronto Broadview by-election. The seat was made vacant through the death recently of T. J. Church, a Progressive Conservative.

Ontario Cabinet Shuffle Reported As Contemplated

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — The Telegram says in a news-page story today that the Ontario cabinet is being shuffled and several ministerial changes will be made.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow, acting Health Minister since Health Minister Kelley's illness, is mentioned as new Minister of Health. Hon. Russell T. Kelley will remain on executive council as minister without portfolio, the story says.

Two men are mentioned for the public welfare post: Rev. J. W. Foote, V. C., now deputy commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Board and C. E. Rea, member of the Legislature for Toronto St. Patrick.

Five Shots Fired At Police Chief Pursuing Burglars

Leamington, April 11 — (CP) — Five shots were fired at Leamington Police Chief J. Earl Cooper early today as he chased would-be burglars from the British American Oil Company office.

Pursuit failed when the police car failed to start and a provincial police car failed to find the suspects.

A 10-foot pipe, readied as a battering ram, was found at the scene but the office had not been opened.

GUNS DON'T FIT LANDSCAPE

Preston, April 11 (CP) —Two First World War field guns obtained from Ottawa as souvenirs, by the Canadian Legion Memorial Home five years ago no longer fit into the landscape pattern since the Legion moved to new quarters. The town has applied for permission to dispose of them.

GERMAN INDUSTRY

Occupation authorities in Germany reported that approximately 75 per cent of industries survived the Second World War.

10 Cops Huff, Puff Three Hours To Get Evidence

The woman identified only as a Mrs. Soldezzo, was accused of selling two glasses of wine without a licence.

Each barrel weighed 200 pounds.

The basement steps were steep and narrow — narrower than most of the cops.

So five more were summoned.

After three hours, the 10 huffed and puffed and got the last barrel out.

Winter Weather Chills Maritimes

Halifax, April 11—(CP)—The sun came out over the storm-weary Maritimes today for the first time since Thursday. But it didn't mean the return of spring.

Successive snow storms blowing up from the south have pounded the Atlantic coast since Friday.

Winds were dropping and skies were clearing over most of the Maritimes today. But the weather office forecast intermittent snow and more cold.

As snow-piled highways slowly struggled back into service, telegraph and telephone communications were snarled.

At Moncton, N.B., the mercury dipped to 7s degrees, continuing three days of record cold.

On Cape Breton Island, six collieries in the Glace Bay and New Waterford areas were idle as blocked roads kept many miners from the pits. Trains were up to five hours late and many outlying settlements were isolated.

NORTHPORT

11 Receive Certificates In Leadership Course

Northport — The closing meeting of the Leadership Training School under the auspices of Township S. S. Association was held in the form of a supper in W.A. hall with Mrs. John I. Thompson, Fairmount, as toastmaster.

Capt. Morrison, Salvation Army, Picton, was guest speaker, taking as his theme, "As Jesus Taught," and it was very impressive, with students coming from Bethesda, Fairmount and Northport.

In the course of the evening Mr. Robert Wallwork was presented with a music edition of the United Church hymnary by Mr. and Mrs. Duquette in recognition of his service to the charge during their vacation in January, also his assistance at the training school. The trio rendered their service to the closing meeting.

Mr. Thompson expressed appreciation to the ladies of Northport community who prepared the supper.

TWEED

Tweed — Mr. and Mrs. Cameron of Welland returned Saturday after visiting their sons, Dan and Keith, of Tweed Grocery.

Edward Alexander of Moneymore and Lorraine Winslow of Napanee spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Milton McTaggart.

FOXBORO

Foxboro — The April meeting of the W.M.S. was held in the S.S. rooms on Thursday afternoon. After quiet music played by Mrs. Eggleton, Mrs. Harold Stewart announced the theme "Christ Is Risen," and with the assistance of Mrs. Wm. Hodgen, the Easter worship program, as given in the monthly, was carried out. Easter hymns were sung and scriptural texts read relating to the first Easter. It was the news of a Holy Resurrection which the first missionaries preached.

An interesting report of the Presbyterial at Napanee was given by Mrs. J. G. Sills, for which a vote of thanks was rendered. She said: that "measure and advance" were main topics of the meeting and reported the speaker as saying it was a privilege as well as a joy to work in Japan. If there was more world friendship, there would be no more war, and the doors of Japan are always open. She asked the question: "Why are we glad to be members of W.M.S.? and closed by stating that each W.M.S. member should be in her place in church on the Sabbath Day.

The thank offering of over $26 was received by Mrs. Stewart and dedicated by Mrs. Hodgen.

The treasurer, Mrs. Wilson, reported having sent over $70.00 to the branch treasurer. Some business items were discussed and Mrs. Hollinger and Mrs. Wilson have charge of the May meeting.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Belleville may not be "The Only City Between Toronto and Montreal Without a Baseball Team" after all.

We have definite information that a small group of sports-minded businessmen of the city, have been working quietly during the past few weeks, studying the possibilities of a 1950 junior baseball team here. The junior baseball league, held by the Kiwanis Club, has been franchise hitherto held by the Kiwanis Club, has been dropped by that service club, we understand, and the aforementioned group, if given the proper support, will take up matters where the Kiwanis dropped.

As a matter of fact, matters have reached the point where a special meeting has been called for Kiwanis Centre tomorrow, Wednesday night starting at eight o'clock.

The aforementioned businessmen, and there are not too many of them thus far, are willing, we hear, to place certain monies on the line. But they cannot do it all. As is common knowledge, and in these days of high cost of sports equipment, it takes plenty of the green lettuce to operate any sports organization. A few dozen baseball-minded men of the city who would be willing to contribute financially would see the proposed organization through to a successful start.

After the fiasco of the now defunct idea of entering a team in the Central Ontario Baseball League, when exactly five people, outside of press, radio and players, turned up, we cannot help but feel a bit pessimistic about the idea. But the similar-named business folks are going to try and get somebody interested in a junior set-up, and that is about the last hope Belleville has for baseball this year.

The meeting tomorrow night is called for organization purposes. It is hoped that a large number of those interested in baseball especially of the junior brand will turn out if for no other reason than to find out what is going on.

It appears to be Belleville's last chance to enter organized baseball, so how about it, fellas?

If a junior team is formed and sponsored, there is a strong possibility that it obtain an entry in the Lakeshore Baseball League. At any rate, the village would have some sort of baseball representation.

Fifty stout-hearted blokes, willing to toss a ten-dollar bill into the pot would help tremendously. In fact any donation would be, is acceptable.

So think it over, mates. The meeting is, as was said before, in Kiwanis Centre Wednesday night starting at eight o'clock. How about turning out?

President Don Lee of the Commercial Softball League informs us that a meeting of his executive has been scheduled for tomorrow night at Kiwanis Centre. The jersey adds, the conclave is an important one, inasmuch as the date is the deadline for entries. He also points out the fact the significant fee of entering but there is room for more. So potential entries are advised to have representation at the meeting so that arrangements for the season's schedules etc. can be completed, and other pre-season work done. As was mentioned in a former column, Commercial League play is operating on its own axis this year, and will not affiliate with the Ontario Amateur Softball Association. Its executive is a strong one with Ferral and Gerry Emmerson as Harry Rollins and Harry Knott on the payless pay-roll.

Speaking of Lakeshore leagues, a ladies softball team from this city has been invited to join the Lakeshore Ladies Softball Loop. Two teams from Cobourg and squads from Fort Hope and Trenton with, it is hoped one from Belleville, will round out the league. Cliff Howlett, who coached a Northern Electric ladies softball team last year is seriously considering the proposal.

A long, lanky, hatless individual in a state of joyful inebriation came sailing merrily into the city hall, and dropped another before the window of the registrar of births and deaths.

"Why do you say 'gentlemen'?" asked the man behind the window. "Can't you see I'm alone here?"

"Alone?" shouted the astonished father. "Only one of you. Then I'd better go home and take another look. Maybe it isn't (hic) twins after all."

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By JACK TRACY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, April 11 (CP)—There is a feeling that New York Rangers' upset of Montreal Canadiens in the National Hockey League semi-finals could be the ill wind that might blow the Habs some good.

Andy (Moutreal Standard) O'Brien says the decisive defeat has the effect of giving Canadiens' general manager Frank Selke a green light for a major rebuilding operation next season.

Andy says Selke has always been keenly aware of fan sentiment "and that awareness extends particularly to the French-Canadian reaction as exemplified by the extremely touchy French press."

"But it's now obvious to all that Canadiens' survival depends on a cold-blooded assessing of talent, regardless of sentiment, and rebuilding accordingly."

Thereupon, Andy makes what he indicates is an educated guess on five of the regulars for next season. They are:

"Gerry McNeil in goal. Doug McPherson and Tom Johnson for defence. Paul Meger and Bert Hirschfeld up front. And, since the active roster of an NHL team allows 18 men, the five represent a 22-percent face-lifting right there.

"In addition, Selke is known to be thinking of a 'kid line' from the West. Then there's Peter Bibowski, a spectacular centre with Gerry Arthur skills in running as understudy for Elmer Lach on the punch line, Elmer has all the guts and go in the world but he's taking a bad battering and the 70-game grind doesn't help."

Andy makes no attempt to say who on the Canadiens will get the big chop but Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson comes right out with it when he quotes Selke:

"Rangers out-hustled us, won on their merits. A few of our players went well. Others played poorly, and plainly are not for this league. That goes for (Roger) Leger (Leo) Gravelle and (Bob-by) Fillion, one or two others. They won't be with Canadiens next season."

Guelph Biltmores Tackle Montreal Junior Canadiens

Montreal, April 11 — (CP) — Guelph Biltmores, who caused a major upset by winning the Ontario Junior Hockey championship, are in Montreal today confident of continuing along the Memorial Cup trail.

The New York Rangers' farm club oppose Montreal Junior Canadiens tonight in the opener of a best-of-seven final series for the eastern Canada title and a berth in the Dominion finals.

Piloted by Al Pike, a former New York Ringer, Biltmores ended up fourth in the nine-team Ontario circuit, but came through to knock out Barrie Flyers and the favored Windsor Spitfires for the league honors.

They met with stiff opposition from the Northern Ontario title-holders, Porcupine Combines, but had the drive to take the all-Ontario series in five games.

Second encounter of the finals will be at Toronto Saturday afternoon. Winner of the Eastern Canada title goes against the Western Canada champions to be decided in a final between Port Arthur Bruins and Brandon Wheat Kings later this week.

TEAMS TIE IN GAME

Ottawa, April 11 — (CP) — Ottawa's Morrisburg Sailors and the Woodstock Senators tied 40-40 Monday night in the first of the Ontario Senior Basketball Association's two-game intermediate semi-finals.

After the second game Tuesday night, the winner will move on to the C.A.B.A. finals against the Algos of Sault Ste. Marie.

Favored Detroit Red Wings And Rangers Clash Tonight In First Game for Stanley Cup

Detroit, April, 11—(CP)—Today's National Hockey League question which is better—a first-place club which has just struggled through a tough semi-final series or a fourth-place team that's had plenty of rest?

That just about sizes up Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers as they prepared for the first game of their Stanley Cup finals in Detroit tonight—and the first all-American title game since the 1942-43 season.

The betting fraternity doesn't seem to think the Red Wings are too game-weary after the grueling semi-final series against Toronto Maple Leafs. The Leafs forced the league champions to seven tough games, but today's odds stood at 12-5 in favor of Detroit.

But, anything can happen tonight.

Not Given Chance

Rangers weren't given much of a chance when they met Montreal Canadiens in the semi-final after finishing fourth during the regular schedule. They polished off the Canadiens in five games and bedded down for a long rest.

It's the first time Rangers have been in the finals since they beat the Leafs in 1940, and manager Frank Boucher says:

"We looked very, very good against Canadiens. The team seems to be in top physical and mental shape . . . I guess we're the underdogs but we don't feel like it."

Coach Lynn Patrick of Rangers said he wasn't sure how he faced Toronto than Detroit but said both clubs appeared "tired and drawn" in the game he scouted in Toronto last Saturday.

Arrived Monday

The New Yorkers arrived here from Toronto Monday where they held a final practice session. The Rangers won't have the use of Maple Leaf Gardens for "home" games.

Reminded that Rangers won only one league game in Toronto in two seasons, Boucher opined: "It doesn't mean a darn thing in the playoffs. Records seem to fall apart then. Anyway we're playing in Detroit."

Only one Ranger is on the sidelines—defenceman Wally Stanowski who was out of action the last half of the regular schedule because of a knee injury.

Red Wings Confident

Meanwhile, the Red Wings had little to say about the outcome of the series other than they were confident of winning the cup.

They have three regulars on the injury list. They are forwards Gordie Howe, Jim Peters and Pete Babando. The latter two are nursing a collection of bruises and may see action later in the series.

Howe, who underwent brain surgery for a head injury in the first game against the Leafs, was discharged from hospital Monday. His only comment: "This is one series I don't want to miss even though I'll have to be on the sidelines."

DOG SAVES FAMILY

Croydon, Que., April 11 (CP) —A pet dog early today roused a family when fire broke out in their home in this village on the St. Lawrence south shore. Mr. and Mrs. J. Macdonald and their seven children escaped from the 1-2 storey bungalow after the dog had awakened them by his barking. The house was destroyed.

Montreal Wins Senior Cage Title Ousts Manitoba

Montreal, April 11 —(CP)— Montreal today is in possession of its first Canadian Senior Basketball championship. Monday night, Montreal YMHA Blues trounced University of Manitoba Bisons 57-38 to capture the best-of-five series, three games to one.

More than 2,000 persons jammed McGill University's gymnasium to see the Montrealers score an easy win over their less-experienced opponents from the West.

The Westerners, who fought every inch of the way, lacked the polish and smooth-passing combinations of the Blues. Their defect was also due to hard luck, having the close play in the last half of the game they lost star forward Don McDougall and Carl Rildd, forced out with five personal fouls, early.

Rildd proved to be the top performer throughout the series for the Westerners, Monday night he shared top sniping honors with Don Reid and Roy Willson each with 11 points. The lanky Rildd was the biggest obstacle the Blues had to overcome through out the series. This was evident as Rildd was leaving the game just after being charged with his fifth foul.

Shakes His Hand

The whole Montreal team rushed over to shake his hand before he left the floor and the capacity audience gave him a thunderous ovation that lasted a full two minutes, holding up the game. This brought tears to Rildd's eyes as he sat down on the bench. Speedy Murray Waxman of Blues stole the spotlight as he streaked the length of the floor nine times to register sensational field goals and pile up the highest point total of the contest. His nine baskets and one free throw gave him 19 points. He was followed by Little Meny Morein with 12 points. Morein dropped three brilliant set shots from almost centre floor.

Throughout, the Montrealers held a wide-margin over the collegians. At halftime, Blues had a 30-16 lead and were moving away.

Top Hatters Win Frankford Bowling League Title

Frankford —, The Frankford Bowling League wound up their regular schedule this week, with three of the positions not being decided until the final game. Top Hatters had previously clinched first place, and Uniques had second. Aristocrats held on to third place, but just by the narrowest margin of one point, as they dropped five points to the last place Head Pins. Sky Liners made a desperate bid for third place, but could wrangle only five points from the Aristocrats. The Merry Macs took four points from the Uniques, and climbed into fifth place over the Merry Macs.

Final Standing:

Team	W.	L.	P.
Top Hatters	53	21	126
Uniques	48	26	114
Aristocrats	45	29	103
Happy Gang	44	40	100
Merry Macs	43	41	100
Greenhorns	42	42	99
Skyliners	34	50	77
Head Pins	28	56	59

Port Colborne Defeat Gans By 6-3 Count

Kingston, April 11 (CP)—Port Colborne Sailors defeated Gananoque 6-3 Monday night in the first game of the Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A round robin series. Tillsonburg is also in the series.

By DON ROSE

Toronto Ont., April 11—Belleville collegiate Intelligence basketball set back Toronto's starry Jarvis squad, 48-35 here last night in the first round of the Ontario Interscholastic basketball tournament. The boys meet Ottawa CI. tonight in second round. In the first game Niagara Falls defeated Humberside 59-28 at the Ryerson Technical school. Homer Townsend's squad took Jarvis by surprise from the first whistle and managed to obtain a 10-8 lead at quarter time. Again the same nickname was unwisely given to our locals, "farmers."

The second quarter proved more exciting with a see-saw scoring which finally resulted in a tie 21-21. The final nine minutes welcomed as both squads were playing their excellent ball with the occasional rough spot. One Jarvis fan was heard to remark, "That's not right, ump. He was just blocking fair and square."

"Farmers" Take Lead

The quarter time netted a bad break. Alan Galbraith, starry centre was dismissed from the game with his limit of fouls. Mc-Clay did a fine job in centre and the team plugged ahead 38-31.

With tension tightening both on the floor and in the bleachers the boys showed real stability. Tom Buchanan who swished 17 pts. was right after a whole game of steady play.

Each shot that our fellows made had the Toronto fans more silent the result was that the few faithful Belleville fans put on a real cheering display. Out of a game consisting of 39 fouls and tight competition Belleville triumphed 48-35.

Lineups:

Belleville: Mulrhead, Dolan, Buchanan, McMillan, Bowen, Mc-Bridge, Summers (5). Fulton (11), Ketcheson (3), Ewald, Massey (2), McKay (10), Galbraith.

Toronto Jarvis: Storey, John Madger (4), Kawaski, Wells (1), Horovilla (2), Sowten (2), Wily (9) Rogers (10), Yakomin (1), A. Wily (0), Natapbon (12).

Toronto, April 11—(CP)—Sudbury tech edged London Adam Beck 41-39 here Monday night in the feature game of the Ontario "A" series Interscholastic basketball tournament. The Sudbury squad will clash tonight with Niagara Falls collegiate, who drubbed Toronto Humberside collegiate 59-28, in the quarter finals.

In the other tournament games played Monday night Toronto Runnymede edged out Hamilton Tech 27-24, Toronto East York Collegiate downed Hamilton Westdale 34-29.

In the quarter finals to be played tonight, Belleville will meet Ottawa, Sudbury will clash with Niagara Falls, Runnymede will go against Windsor and Toronto East York will meet Sault Ste. Marie.

London Beck and Toronto Jarvis will also meet tonight in a consolation "B" series.

SEVEN BREAK JAIL

Tijuana, Mex., April 11 (AP)—Police said seven prisoners broke jail here Saturday — by tunneling 20 feet under the walls with table spoons. Raul Enriquez Cabrera, 25, suspected of narcotics peddling, was later shot and killed by police. Jorge Bravo Aguilera, 24, held on fraud charges, was recaptured. Search for the five was extended across the international border into California.

BORROW TRAIN

Opheim, Mont., April 11 (AP) — A Great Northern Railway crew borrowed a train Saturday night for a 50-mile mercy trip in a blizzard to get a desperately ill little girl to hospital. The trip was made for seven-year-old Karen Blem, stricken with pneumonia and possibly a ruptured appendix. Today Karen was reported in fair condition.

Senators Cinch To Finish Last In American Loop

By JACK HAND

Charlotte, N. C., April 11 (AP) — Only a major deal can rescue the pitcher-poor Washington Senators from another trip to summer in the American League cellar.

Oddly enough, new manager Bucky Harris has the one pitcher both New York and Boston would be glad to see Scarborough. But one pitcher can't help Washington. What Bucky needs is hurlers.

The Yankees appear best prospects for a win. They have only expendables as pitchers Fred Sanford, Don Johnson, Clarence Marshall and Spec Shea.

On paper, stand, the Senators are slitting back waiting for the others to ask waivers and hoping to grab an attractive discard. Their only worry is to stay above the water until outdown time comes May 15.

Harris has a fair infield and a promising young outfield of Gil Coan, rookie Irv Noren and Sam Mele. Noren is the former Brooklyn farm hand purchased from Hollywood for $70,000 after a .330 year. He is the most attractive young player.

Pitching is the real sore spot. Harris will start with the second dare risk in a big league game. Any recurrence of Ed Hudson's shoulder injury left him dangerously thin.

Robinson, a good first baseman with power at the plate, is the solid man of the infield. Al Kozar at second, Sam Dente, an improved batter, at short and Eddie Yost at third are the others. Sherry Robertson and George Genovese, a draftee from Hollywood, are the reserves.

Behind the regular outfield of Coan-Noren-Mele, Bucky has Eddie Stewart, last year's most consistent hitter and Clyde Vollmer.

WILL ANNOUNCE DECISION

Chicago, April 11 — (AP) — Clarence Campbell is expected to announce his decision this week whether or remain as coach of the Junior Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, President Will Tobin said today.

"Consacher has heavy oil interests in Western Canada," said Tobin. "He plans to meet with his associates in Calgary to judge whether his full time is needed in the oil business."

THOUSANDS OF BIRDS STARVE IN N.S.

Halifax, April 11 (CP)—Thousands of birds, plump and healthy from their Southern sojourn, are starving to death in Nova Scotia as a result of the unseasonable storm which has swept the province since Friday, game officials announced last night. Hundreds of robins were scavenging for food in back yards and streets of Halifax.

Vancouver Wins Second Straight Over Toronto

(By the Canadian Press)

Vancouver Ellers Diamonds edged out Toronto Montgomery Maids 57-51 Monday night at Toronto for their second straight win in the best-of-five Canadian senior girls' basketball finals. The third game in the series will be played tonight. Vancouver led 26-21 at half time.

Toronto took individual scoring honors, Nora Young at left forward tallying 15 points with seven field goals and a foul shot.

Haliburton Huskies evened up the best-of-five Ontario Rural Hockey Association Senior Championship series with Breslau Red Shirts at two games apiece by taking a 5-1 victory before 809 fans at Lindsay Monday night. Veteran Glen Dart sparked a first period offensive which netted four goals. Dart fired two and Curry Bishop and Bob Johns tallied the others. Berry Schnar scored the lone tally for Breslau in the second. Young Eric Dartels of Haliburton collected the only goal in the third.

Al Widmar, 25-year-old St. Louis Browns righthander, threatened Monday to sue baseball under the Sherman Anti-trust Act. He said "the Browns are preventing me from earning a decent living in baseball." The big pitcher quit the Browns recently and came to his home at suburban Dunmore to sit out his bid for a higher salary hand, said Widmar, "if I don't get at least $10,000 this year, I'll sue baseball in the courts the way Danny Gardella did."

Gardella brought a $300,000 damage suit against organized baseball after he was banned from baseball for jumping to the rival Mexican League.

Philadelphia Phillies Monday lost one of their prized bonus pitchers, Charley Bicknell, to Boston Braves. It was the second time in less than a year that the Phils had to give up one of their highly-regarded youngsters. The other, Hugh Radcliffe, was grabbed by New York Yankees.

Bicknell went to the Braves for the $10,000 waiver price. He cost the Phils $20,000 when he signed out of Plainfield, N.J., high school.

Havahome Stable's Sweet Dream overwhelmingly ridden by Eddie Arcaro, fought off a desperate stretch challenge by Spring Hill Farm's Nell K. to win the $18,125 Coronation Handicap before a crowd of 29,467 fans at Jamaica Park Monday.

Four South African women swimmers, Miss F. Wilks, Miss S. Black, Miss E. Maskell and Miss Daphne Robb, Monday broke the women's 440-yard world relay record with a time of 47.3 seconds at Kimberley, South Africa.

The previous record of 47.4 was set by The Netherlands National team in 1948.

The twice-called-off National Boxing Association heavyweight title fight between Ezzard Charles and Freddie Beshore probably will be held at Buffalo in June, matchmaker Charley Pinto of the Fairview Athletic Club said Monday night.

Charles must be pronounced okay by New York State Athletic Commission heart specialists. He was due for an examination about May 10.

Windsor A.K.O. basketballers got a big top-up in the first of their two-game total-points series against Montreal Y.M.H.A. for the eastern Canada junior basketball championship when they trounced the visitors 61-28 at Windsor Monday night.

Toronto Y.M.H.A. scored a 35-30 victory over Montreal Y.M.H.A. at Montreal Monday night in the opening game of the eastern Canada two-game, total points juvenile basketball semi-final series.

Officials of the Detroit Red Wings announced Monday that Glen Skov, star forward with Windsor Spitfires Juniors for the last two seasons, has signed a professional hockey contract for the 1951 season.

Ewell Blackwell Appears Ready To Start Season

Charleston, W. Va., April 11—(AP) — Is Ewell Blackwell ready or is he not ready?

That was the big question today as Cincinnati Reds rolled in here for the windup of their spring training exhibition series with Boston Braves.

"Blackie" Monday had 'go to the rescue of Ken Raffensberger in the eighth inning. The "he's not ready" voters got in the first licks. The tall right-hander got the side out in the eighth but the first four men to face him in the ninth got on base on a double, two walks and an infield hit.

Then the "he's ready" boys had their turn to shout. Blackwell began using his fast one along with a crackling curve and he fanned three men in succession to save a 8-7 victory for the Reds.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

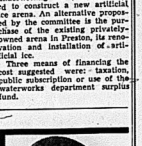
Athens, Ga., April 11 (AP) — The University of Georgia has finished spring football practice, but some of the boys were out "on their own" Monday ... and in a downtown restaurant Coach Wally Butts was explaining the situation . . . "I'd like to know how some of these coaches get the boys out 10 or 12 weeks," drawled Wally. "I couldn't persuade them to do it. We had five weeks and now they're just running around in shorts. Last week we tried a split practice. They learned a lot the first three weeks but after examinations and the spring holiday they had to get in shape all over and didn't learn a thing . . . and do you know what boy Dodd (he's the Georgia Tech coach) said? He said with those coal strikes in Pennsylvania and Ohio my boys were too busy reading the labor news to pay any attention to football."

Quote, Unquote

Bucky Harris (in a New Orleans newspaper): "Enos Slaughter should be held up to every American boy as an ideal. His name should be in school textbooks along with this country's heroes . . . he never quit. He never will. He would even let down . . . he is the greatest competitor ever to put on a big league uniform."

ADMITS KILLING WOMAN

Pittsburgh, April 11 — (AP) — A frail 45-year-old woman who admitted killing her husband's sweetheart, was sentenced Monday to eight to 16 months in jail.



Judge J. Frank Graff fixed the degree of guilt at voluntary manslaughter after Mrs. Nola Sincavaged guilty to the fatal shooting of Mrs. Helen Benke, 37, last Nov. 13.

Mrs. Simons testified Mrs. Benke had "kept company" with her husband, Roy Simons, for six years.

MAY PUT IN ICE

Preston, Ont., April 11 (CP)—A finance committee was chosen at a public meeting here Monday night to investigate means of underwriting the $150,000 needed to construct a new artificial ice arena. An alternative proposed by the committee is the purchase of the existing privately-owned arena in Preston, its renovation and installation of artificial ice.

Three means of financing the cost suggested were: taxation, public subscription or use of the waterworks department surplus fund.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 11 — (AP) — What's wrong with Hollywood's public relations?

The most obvious answer is contained in the front-page antics of Ingrid Bergman, Rita Hayworth, Robert Mitchum, and others. But scandal is not the whole answer. Many observers claim Hollywood has worked too hard for publicity and hardly at all for public relations.

Publicity is concerned with selling products—in the movies' case, stars and pictures. Public relations means making friends for the industry as a whole. . . Faller Needs Friends

Hollywood has been lax at answering its critics. The town gets knocked everywhere from Pravda to the U.S.] Senate, and not all the pans are worth reply. But many of them are, and the industry as a whole has usually answered too late, too little or not at all.

Much of Hollywood's bad publicity comes from the town itself. There are 325 press correspondents, 91, foreign press, 45 news photographers and 12 radio people registered with the Johnson office. The majority of them want their news to be exclusive.

Misfactated

Naturally there can't be enough real news and feature stories to supply all of them. Other material has to be manufactured and some of it does not reflect well on Hollywood.

Supplying this tremendous news need are 170 press agents employed by the studios. The press agents are competing for news space, and some of them press along bad news about another.

U.S. DEFENCES IN GOOD STATE IN MIDDLE EAST

Washington, April 11 (AP)— J. Lawton Collins, United States Army Chief of Staff, said Monday the defences of the Middle East are in far better shape than when President Truman first acted to provide American arms to

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Some hearts are broken during bridge week. All the matches are duplicate tournaments; all tables playing the same hands. There can be good and bad breaks for or against a side.

In such a battle came the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ 9 7 6 5 4
♦ Q 9 8 3 2
♣ 10 5 3

WEST
♠ A 10 3
♥ Q J 10 3 2
♦ J 10
♣ K J 6

EAST
♠ J 9 8 7 6 5
♦ K
♣ 9 8 7 4 2

SOUTH
♠ K Q 4 2
♥ A K
♦ A 7 6 5 4
♣ A 5

At nearly all tables south became the declarer at either five or six diamonds with this kind of bidding:

South	North
2 D	2 NT
3 S	4 C
4 NT	5 C
5 or 6 D

An opening bid of two in a suit says the bidding by the pair should not stop short of at least a game. An immediate two no-trump response admits the lack of a sure trick in responder.

Thereafter the responder shows if he has support for a suit that partner has named. Four no-trump is a original that asks partner how many aces and kings he has. Five clubs reply says none.

Most declarers took 12 tricks with an opening lead of the heart queen from west. These did so when they carefully handled the trump situation. All they lost was a club with a finesse.

Two declarers in south took only 11 tricks when the opening lead from west was diamond jack. Dummy foolishly covered with the queen. West thus got a trump trick with the ten and later a club.

But the break came to one south declarer when he showed into a grand slam in diamonds. This fellow took all 13 tricks. It came after a favorable lead was followed by correct play. You can probably guess what happened. But I will tell you.

In sporting matters, chum, you take them as they come.

Turkey and Greece in 1947, Collins told a press conference, however, that none of the Middle East countries could hold off an attack by a major power alone and indefinitely.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

The mailman came while we were eating breakfast and ma started to sort the letters saying Here's one for you from the treasury department William. It cant be your income tax form, they already sent you that, didn't they? she said.

They did indeed and they've got it back again, neetly and fearfully filled out, pop said. So it must be one of 2 things. Either some government scout has located a uranium deposit in our back yard and they're offering me 5 million dollers for the land, or else they're writing to inform me that I made a mistake in my tax return and they're eagerly awaiting the rest of the money together with an appropriate fine. Which do you think it is, my dear? he said.

I know without thinking, ma said, and pop said So do I.

And he opened the envelope with his butter knife, saying Yee gods, it seems I made a mistake in addition in my 1947 return, and the government owes me one dollar and 4 cents, for which I shall receeve a check in due course. Mr. I can hardly wait, pop said.

Just think if it, moving the whole vast machinery of the government for you special benefit, ma said. William, that's positive proof that our luck has changed, and it couldn't of come at a more appropriate time. I'm going to change my mind about putting off recovering the living room furniture. I'm going to start looking at materjals this afternoon, she said, and pop said. A man cant win a womans werld.

Duke of Windsor Says He Will not Sell EP Ranch

Moose Jaw, Sask., April 11 — (CP)— The man who once ruled the world's largest Empire said his farming might be will keep his Alberta ranch because "it is the only land I've ever owned."

The Duke of Windsor, who as King Edward VIII ruled the British Empire for part of a year until he abdicated in 1936 to marry a commoner, issued the statement in an informal press conference. His private car, bound for Calgary and his EP ranch, stopped for an hour between trains.

The Duke and his Duchess, the former Mrs. Wallis Simpson, talked at first from the platform of their car. When they were told that more than 1,000 persons were waiting in and about the station to greet them they left and walked through the crowd.

Canadian Pacific Railway police escorted them.

Police Deny Traces of Poison Have Been Found

Lincoln, England, April 11 — (Reuters) Police Monday officially denied reports that traces of poison have been found in the in the bodies of two elderly men exhumed last week at the Lincolnshire village of Whaplode Drove, where they are probing local suspicions of murder.

Organs from the bodies are still being examined.

Wide excitement over reports that mass murder by poison might be uncovered drew a special statement Monday from the Chief Constable of Lincolnshire, R. H. Fooks.

"It is quite untrue that any positive results have as yet been determined from the examination of the organs removed from the two bodies nor is it likely that there will be any results, either positive or negative, for some time, possibly not for two weeks" he said. "Until the results are known, no further developments of any description are likely or contemplated."

The Chief Constable also denied that any other exhumations are about to be made, though it is known that police inquiries led to investigations into the deaths of several other people within the boundaries of four Midland counties.

Worker Shoots And Kills Mother

Detroit, April 11 — (AP) — A 30-year-old automobile worker shot and killed his 57-year-old mother Monday night, police reported.

Detectives said Robert La Des admitted shooting his mother, Mrs. Ruth La Des, as she lay on a bed in their three-room apartment. Mrs. La Des was divorced from La Des, a Chrysler employee, is on strike in the current pension dispute between Chrysler and the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.)

La Des was held without charge for questioning.

Police quoted La Des as saying: "I wanted to kill her and then shoot myself. But I lacked the guts to blow my own brains out. We haven't been getting on too well lately - - - -"

DIED NATURAL DEATH

Los Angeles, April 11 — (CP) — Sally Oswald, 30-year-old divorce whose nude body was found in a hotel room last Wednesday, died of acute alcoholism and pneumonia, Dr. Frederick Newbarr, county autopsy surgeon, reported Monday after completing an autopsy.

At first police thought Mrs. Oswald, a waitress, might have been slain. Strange notes, with some of the words undecipherable, were found penned on her breast and back.

Equipment Made Available to Rawdon Farmers

Spraying equipment owned by Rawdon township will be made available to farmers of the municipality for the spraying of cattle for warble fly, it was decided by members of the township council at their regular monthly meeting.

Farmers wishing to avail themselves of the service were asked to contact the township clerk or the road superintendent as soon as possible.

Reeve Wilfrid Spencer and the deputy reeve were named a committee to interview Gordon Duffen of the Department of Education regarding the high school area.

To take care of work planned for the coming year it was recommended that 210 lineal feet of 15 inch steel culvert and 88 lineal feet of 18 inch culvert be purchased with the necessary couplers.

Bounties on ten foxes shot during the month of February were ordered paid. Bounty of two dollars each for nine foxes shot was paid to James Wright, with James Gordaneer being paid for one fox.

Rehabilitation Program For Alcoholics

Toronto, April 11 (CP)— Rev. John W. Foote, Deputy Ontario Liquor Commissioner, and Monday night the Provincial government hopes to develop a rehabilitation program for alcoholics.

It will be patterned after Connecticut's program for prevention of alcoholism, he said in an address for delivery on an Ontario network in the CBC's free-time series, "Provincial Affairs."

"The scope of (the Connecticut) commission includes the care, custody, detention, treatment employment and rehabilitation of alcoholics and —what is most significant in the long run —the prevention of alcoholism."

Mr. Foote said representatives of the government, churches and other interested groups will visit Connecticut soon for a first-hand study of the project.

Lighthouses on Main, False Duck Islands Operating

Milford — With navigation open on the Great Lakes, the lighthouses on Main and False Duck Islands are again in operation, Kenneth McCormick and son James have arrived at the False Ducks to commence their duties. Wesley Thomas, Picton, is at Main Duck Island. The Point Traverse light will be in operation shortly. It has no keeper, operating automatically, Charles Newman, keeper, has moved from Cherry Valley to Point Petre light.

The annual sucker run is on at Milford. The fish came up from South Bay, and also from the lake up Black Creek. There is a good demand for these fish which are also known as mullets.

Sensible Code Might Help Sport be Healthy

Toronto, Apr. 11—(CP)—A university professor suggested Monday that "a sensible code of amateurism" might help to keep sport healthy.

Dr. W. G. Hardy of the University of Alberta, Edmonton speaking to the Men's Physical Education section of the 90th annual convention of the Ontario Educational Association, said:

"It is not sensible, when something is taken in the gate, to say the boys who play the game should not be reimbursed for time lost from work."

Dr. Hardy said he is opposed to "negotiator pros." There was a tendency among many persons "to participate in games through the seat of their pants."

He said professionalism has "brutalized sport and brought in corruption."

"When professionalism enters a sport, there is a deterioration of athletics because people become spectators rather than participants and the prize becomes more important than the contest itself."

He considered athletics a necessary and important part of general education.

"Athletics can be one of the most important character - building forces in education. But such sport should be spontaneous. The university's job is to provide the facilities for sport and then let the students organize themselves."

Governor Dewey Vetoes Bill on Split Twin Bills

Albany, N.Y., Apr. 11—(AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey today vetoed a bill that would have prevented major league baseball clubs from staging "split" doubleheaders in New York City, with double admission fees.

"This is still a free country," Dewey observed in vetoing a bill introduced by a Brooklyn Dodger fan, assemblyman Lawrence P. Murphy.

The Brooklyn Democrat said his bill was aimed at stopping what he called "the common practice" at Brooklyn's Ebbets Field of paying morning and afternoon games, or afternoon and evening games on doubleheader days. Fans must pay two admissions to see both games.

He maintained that a doubleheader should mean two games for the price of one.

YOUTH ORDERED FREED

Portland, Me., April 11 (AP)— Franklin Wade, 15, convicted last February of manslaughter in the shooting of his high school sweetheart, Monday was ordered freed by the Maine Supreme Court. He was serving a seven-to-14 year term.

The tribunal found he had been confined illegally; that the municipal court should have considered the case one of juvenile delinquency.

Wade was convicted of shooting Katherine B. Furbish, 16, in her bedroom last November. He testified the gun went off when she grabbed it during a lovers' quarrel.

MADOC

'Hockey' Theme Of Address at Community Club

Madoc—The Madoc Community club held the April meeting in the form of a banquet in the I.O.O.F. hall on last Monday evening with the Madoc Hockey Club and other sportsminded citizens as their guests and the sons of the members.

The banquet was catered to by the Oakdale Rebekahs and very thoroughly enjoyed by those present. Following the repast, all joined in community singing with Stanley Hawthorne at the piano.

C. I. Ross president of the club welcomed the guests of honor and presided over a short business session. Plans were made by the club to sponsor a midget softball team during the summer with Clarence Farrow and Tom Ross in charge. A solo was rendered by Douglas Courneya "An Irish Lullaby" accompanied by Stanley Hawthorne as an encore, Doug and Stanley played a piano duet.

Wellington (Duke) Munro introducing the guest speaker, Aubrey (Dit) Clapper of N.H.L. fame, gave Mr. Clapper's hockey career from the days he played in the old Trent Valley League to his coaching position with the Boston Bruins.

Mr. Clapper who now runs a sporting goods store in Pembroke says hockey is the toughest rough spoke mainly on hockey. He explained the scouting system of a professional hockey team and how a player is developed. He gave many highlights of his long hockey career with the Bruins. Stressing what a budding hockey player should learn, he emphasized skating, shooting and stated that speed is one of the essential points in hockey today.

Mr. Clapper recalled many of the famous hockey games while he played and said the greatest thrill of his life was when his name was entered in Hockey's Hall of Fame at Kingston.

Percy Naylor thanked the club on behalf of the management of Madoc Hockey Club and Jack Baker on behalf of the players for the banquet accorded them. Jack Hatch Jr., and Ivy Burtis who brought provincial lawn bowling honors to Madoc were introduced and spoke briefly.

Dr. Grant Fraser expressed the thanks of the club and all to Mr. Clapper for his interesting and informative address. Tom Wright seconded motion. Masters Chris Rupert and Doug Courneyea spoke on behalf of the sons and thanked the club and Mr. Clapper.

Clarence Farry and Gordon Pigden thanked the ladies for the catering. Mrs. Heyworth replied for the ladies of the Rebekah Lodge.

TEA PRICES INCREASED

Toronto, April 11 (CP)— The Salada Tea Company of Canada Ltd., today increased its whole sale prices by four cents a pound. It was indicated other tea companies would follow suit.

If the entire increase is passed on to the consumer, it will bring the top tea price to $1.19 a pound retail.

"The costs in producing countries have risen 200 percent since the war yet the price to the consumer has increased only 65 percent," said one representative of a tea company.

The four-cent increase will bring the wholesale cost of one pound of Salada Orange Pekoe Tea to $1.05.

Claims U.S. Indulges In Indian Summer Day Dream

Philadelphia, April 11 (AP)—Claims that the U.S. is "indulging in an Indian Summer daydream" today in world affairs is surprising, says Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, first chairman of the council of economic advisers to President Truman. Each segment of the economy, Dr. Nourse added, must put the country's welfare "above short-run gains for their segment or the conditions of the U.S. is to avoid a depression. He spoke to a group of discussion arranged by the American Society of Tool Engineers.

SHOTGUN SUICIDE OF FRENCH POET

New York, April 11 (AP)—Hugh Ernst, 34-year-old radio producer and husband of actress Betty Furness, committed suicide with a shotgun in his home here Monday night. A clipping of a newspaper Broadway column reporting that Ernst and Miss Furness were to be divorced was found in the room.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

Tim Donovan's curiosity was a hard thing to keep under control but he fought with it all afternoon and valiantly refrained from asking Diane any more about Mr. Thurman's death and even about the illness and the animosity between him and Jean Radcliffe's party. He did learn, however by casually glancing at the register in the lobby of the lodge, who the other members of her party were.

Mort Taylor, Chicago was one reasonably he was the portly bald white-faced, paunchy man who sat with his back to Tim in the dining room. Mr. and Mrs. Jake Carson were the others, also from Chicago. Tim remembered Mrs. Carson a rather heavily made-up blonde of gorgeous figure and deep voice, being called Claire. Her husband was a lacthurn, thin man. Tall and with a shock of coarse black hair, Tim had thought him and odd sort to be with the party. Jean Claire, and Mort Taylor all seemed to be out for a good time; he figured they did a good deal of drinking because they had been in noticeably high spirits at lunch time. But Jean Radcliffe, although he looked like he'd joined in their drinking, had shown no sign of exuberance or high spirits.

That wasn't much information, but it was supplemented later in the day when Tim happened to come around the corner of the lodge on his way up to Greg's cottage few hundred yards to the south, and found himself within earshot of Mort Taylor and Grace Thurman.

"—Well, I'm sorry Mort," he heard Grace Thurman say. "But Bruce has as much to say about that as I have and he says no sale. I think you could make more out of it than we can, but Bruce wants to keep the place so keep it we shall." She laughed, nervously Tim thought. "He's been behaving himself so well to risk another upset—like before. No Mort I have more things to think about than simply making money out of the lodge. If I can't get my boy straightened out there's not much excuse for my living—with Emery gone."

"All right Grace," Tim heard Mort Taylor reply. "But I'm not giving up yet. I have too much involved."

Tim let them get out of sight before continuing up the path toward the cottage and then as he walked along he tried to fit the conversation into the haphazard little pattern that seemed to encompass the guests of Pokena Lodge. A glimpse of Mr. and Mrs. Enright emerging from their cottage a little way up the hill to Tim's left reminded him of the scene at breakfast. Maybe that was tied in some way with these other things, too.

Supper was uneventful that night. Two other couples had arrived during the afternoon and Grace Thurman was extending herself slightly to make them feel at home—getting up twice during the meal to cross to their table and ask if everything was satisfactory. And insisting that they make themselves right at home. Tim always thought that sort of thing annoying when it was done to him; watching it fall to somebody else was amusing.

Jean Radcliffe and her friends came in late and again Tim thought that they were a little exiled from cocktails. Nothing objectionable; just louder than they themselves realized and much more ready to laugh at the least suggestion of humor. Except Jake Carson of course. He wore a slight glaze on his eyes and his face was rich with color, but he held tightly to his stern expression. And again they all spoke to Grace Thurman and ignored and were ignored by, Bruce.

It was Saturday night and after dinner Greg thought it would be a good idea to drive into town and see what was doing. There was dancing every Saturday at the Pine Cone, a roadhouse on the outskirts of Pokena, Greg said. Diane was thrilled with the suggestion and promptly went up to the cottage to change her slacks for something more appropriate. Tim and Greg had put on sports coast before dinner and decided to stay as they were. They walked down toward the boathouse, just for the exercise, and sat on the pier for a few moments smoking.

Taylor looks old enough to be Jean Radcliffe's father," Tim said abruptly. "Are they engaged or something, or how do they happen to be here together?"

Greg drew deeply on his cigarette and sat for a moment in silence, staring at the slowly darkening water toward the last little pattern that seemed to encompass the guests of Pokena Lodge. A glimpse of Mr. and Mrs. Enright emerging from their cottage a little way up the hill to Tim's left reminded him of the scene at breakfast. Maybe that was tied in some way with these other things, too.

Greg drew deeply on his cigarette and sat for a moment in silence, staring at the slowly darkening water toward the last little pattern that seemed to encompass the lake and he launched his coat more snugly about his broad shoulders.

"No, they aren't engaged," he said at last. "Jean Radcliffe is a cousin of Mort's wife, Lee. And Lee went back to Chicago a couple of days ago. She's probably coming back. I don't know."

"She's taking a chance, if you ask me," Tim said grinning.

Tim looked at his friend sharply their eyes met for an instant and Greg's were distinctly annoyed.

"I mean," said Tim slowly "that Jean is an awfully swell-looking gal to leave as nursemaid for your husband. I meant it as a kind of joke, but I guess it wasn't very funny."

Greg didn't reply. He sat still a moment longer then flicked his cigarette into the water and rose. "Let's go back, Tim," he said. "Diane ought to be almost ready."

Greg's attitude angered Tim but the two had been friends for so many years that Tim knew there must be good reason behind it. He realized that the whole subject of the Thurmans and the Radcliffe crowd was one with which Greg was more familiar than he was willing to admit; he knew perhaps at some person whom he thought expected to see them. Tim didn't know. Diane apparently hadn't observed Greg's expression. At any rate she made no remark.

After walking about five minutes for service, Tim said. "Do you have to know somebody to get a drink here?"

"Joe's busy," Greg said. "Give him time."

"I take it Joe is the bartender," Tim said.

"Um-hmm," said Dian. "He's swell Tim. You'll like him." She glanced at Greg and grinned. "I hope he's in his regular form, hon don't you?"

"Yeah," said Greg.

Dian turned to Tim. "He usually has about one more than he can properly carry," she explained. "Not that he gets drunk, but for the sake of his business he ought to take an easy. The boys drinks on the house at the rate of about two for every one the customers buy."

Her remarks were punctuated abruptly by a curse from the kitchen. Tim looked by the unmistakable sound of a fist striking a jaw. There was unseen footsteps then, as of a man stumpling backward, and then Bruce Thurman ran from the kitchen across the barroom and out the door.

Greg had started from his seat almost simultaneously with the sound of the blow. He moved toward the kitchen, hesitated an instant as Bruce shot past him in heading flight, then stood in the doorway blocking the view of the other customers.

Tim pulled himself out of the booth and walked toward Greg. He was almost at the door when Greg reached a hand out behind him and gently gripped Tim's arm. Then Greg turned, still blocking Tim's view of the kitchen, and with a sudden hard grin led him back to the booth.

Tim didn't resist, but he did like a quick glance over his shoulder. A man wearing a bartender's apron was leaning against the stove rubbing his jaw.

When they were seated again in the booth, Greg winked at Tim but said nothing. Diane had caught just a glimpse of the man who ran from the barroom and her voice was tense as she asked: "That—that wasn't Bruce—?"

Greg merely nodded and turned his eyes back to the kitchen. Three men were in there with Joe now, friends of his apparently and they were talking excitedly among themselves. Joe was dusting off his elbows as if he had fallen down, although he hadn't. He was nervous and his face was flushed with anger as well as from the blow to the jaw. He looked at himself in a small mirror over the sink, then pushed past the three men to whom he hadn't seemed to say a word, and came out into the main room. He passed by Greg's booth and pulled up with a jerk when Greg called him.

INCIDENT NOT LIKELY TO CAUSE 'HOT WAR'

TRAVELS 5,200 MILES UNDER WATER

The U.S. Snorkel-type submarine Pickerel has set a record for under-water operations, by travelling submerged from Hong Kong to Pearl Harbor, a distance of 5,200 miles. The 1,500-ton vessel remained submerged for 21 days while making the record run, at an average speed of slightly over 10.3 land miles per hour. The Snorkel device is essentially a "breathing tube" which enables submarines to take in air for their diesel engines while submerged. Non-Snorkel submarines can operate on diesel engines only when fully surfaced. The trip proves that all ocean ports are within range of U.S. submarines. — Central Press Canadian.

WORKERS ACCEPT COMPANY-PAID PENSION PLAN

Ford Plant Strike Averted by Pact

Windsor, April 12 (CP)—Work went ahead on schedule today at the Giant Windsor plant of Ford Motor Company of Canada limited after the company's 11,000 auto workers averted a proposed strike by accepting the company's retirement pensions proposals.

The acceptance came late Tuesday during a special meeting of local 200 United Automobile Workers (CIO). It was approved by 79 percent of the 9,100 union members who polled secret ballots.

Major term of the new agreement, which ended a year-long pension dispute, was a $55-a-month company-paid retirement pension for Ford auto workers who retire at age 65 after 30 years service.

Ford, largest automobile manufacturer in Canada, will also finance in full a broader health and social security plan under the new agreement which changes as well 36 points in the union contract.

The retirement plan, company-paid pension-health point at issue—followed substantially along the company's original offer of $55 a month which countersued a union demand for $100-a-month for workers age 65 after 25 years of service.

Some Changes

Announcements by both union and company Tuesday said the accepted pension plan contained some substantial changes pounded out during final weekend contract talks called to avert the strike scheduled for 10 a.m. this morning.

Flying Bixbys Again on Wing For Midway Is.

The husband-and-wife team of Bob and Dianna Bixby, backed by engine trouble in their try to crack the late Bill Piper's 73-hour round-world record — left tonight for Midway Island.

They plan to stop at Midway two hours, then fly on to Hawaii and San Francisco.

The Bixbys left San Francisco April 1. They were ahead of schedule at Wake when engine trouble forced them to turn back to Calcutta.

Restaurant Owner Saves Life Leaping From Upper Window 300 Carry Pails, Aid Firemen

Owen Sound, April 18 — (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Bell and their 18-year-old son, Kenneth, recent arrivals from Toronto, made their way to safety through dense smoke, escaping from the flaming building just before it was engulfed by the blaze. They saved only a few personal belongings which they grabbed as they ran outdoors.

For more than an hour the fire threatened the Lions Head post office, Kirkland's Bakery and the home of Mrs. William Gillis. It was prevented from spreading to a garage at the hear of the Bell store, where a car and truck belonging to the Bell's were stored.

Damage is estimated at $20,000. Cause of the fire is unknown but it is believed to have started in the woodshed at the rear of Sing's restaurant.

A bucket brigade of 300 persons battled bitterly cold flames to bring the blaze under control. The Wiarton volunteer firemen ran a hose to a creek and soaked homes across the street from Sing's 60-year-old building.

Gale-force winds whipped the flames. Several hours after the outbreak, bursts of flames still kept shooting up from the ruins and members of the bucket brigade stood guard.

Port Arthur-Owen Sound fire brigade was called but did not respond. Fire Chief Angus McArthur said a local by-law prevents the department from going outside the immediate area of the city.

GRADUAL CHANGES SEEN IN NEW ONT. CURRICULUM

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — Ontario's new school curriculum, seen by Education Minister Porter, as a welding of fact and theory.

He told the Ontario Educational Association's annual convention today that gradual rather than drastic changes will feature the program. Certain school boards already have agreed to experiment with a modified curriculum this year.

He said the curriculum will seek to integrate practical matters like map reading and conservation of resources with more standard aspects of the program.

The over-all plan was for the Department of Education to provide a framework, with goals and suggestions. This would be filled in on the local level by teachers' committees who are familiar with each community's situation. This summer it was planned to offer courses at summer schools to aid in fitting teachers into the new curriculum.

Co-operation of Congregations Of U.C. and C. of E. Favored As Approach to Ultimate Union

Toronto, April 12 (CP)— Co-operation between congregations of the Church of England in Canada and of the United Church of Canada was recommended today as "an approach to ultimate union" of the two denominations.

The recommendation was made in a report released today by Rev. Dr. Gordon A...Sisco, secretary of the United Church General Council. The report, prepared by the executive of the United Church Commission on reunion, deals with the conversations that have taken place to date between representatives of the denominations concerning union.

Scheduled for presentation to the United Church General Council here in September, the report says a plan of union formulated by leaders and official bodies could not meet with success unless it awakened a response from the rank and file.

The report adds:

"It is the conviction of the United Church of Canada that the most fruitful approach to ultimate union will be through the encouraging of fellowship and sympathetic understanding at the local levels of our respective churches close across Canada."

The United Church of Canada, which claims 791,677 members, was formed in 1925 when the Congregational Churches of Canada, the Methodist Church, a section of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and the Local Union Churches in Western Canada were united. The Church of England in Canada claims 1,084,000 members.

Aim at Organic Union

Toronto (CP)— The United Church of Canada Commission on reunion today recommended that every member pledge himself "to seek to achieve organic union as a final goal of our endeavor."

The commission report also indicated that the United Church would be willing to accept a system of bishops "within a more constitutional form."

Acceptance of the episcopate, which "was for many centuries and by the greater part of Christendom is still accepted, would not be considered as committing us to any particular doctrine of the episcopate," the report said.

Under the "Anglican system" bishops appoint rectors to particular churches after consultation with the congregation. In the United Church the congregation call the minister of their choice, usually after hearing several candidates preach.

The report said any eventual decision on union would remain with the "rank and file" members of the church. Even if present conversations were successful and a plan agreed upon, it could not be authoritative unless it awakened "an answering response" from the membership.

Vancouver, April 12 (CP) — Several persons were injured, but no lives were lost when fire swept through an 18-room, three-storey rooming house today in the West End. Four men and two women were taken to hospital.

It was first feared five persons had been trapped in the three-storey room, but a later check showed all had escaped.

The fire started in the basement when the furnace exploded and within minutes the wooden structure was ablaze.

Fifteen tenants, were forced to jump from windows in the room of an adjoining building or to the ground, a distance of 35 to 40 feet. There were 25 persons in the house.

Those injured are: Clarence Paul, 29; Mrs. Betty Pratt, 23; Robert Pratt, 30; Charles Frame, 38; Cecil Farris, 30 and Miss Hedy Galnick, 21.

Some of the injured suffered burns in the jump from second hand, while others were hurt in the long jump from third storey windows.

JUDGE REFUSES COMMENT

Ottawa, April 12 — (CP) — The Ontario Supreme Court judgment today Tuesday said it had learned the Hope Royal Commission on espionage plans to recommend a two-year reduction in the Ontario primary school course.

The newspaper said the "most important (recommendation) will be that the primary school course be completed in six years instead of eight.

The commission's report now is believed at the final draft but is not expected to be approved for some months.

SNOW IN ROCKIES AND LATE SPRING CAUSE CONCERN

Weather of Next Four Weeks Deciding Factor

Vancouver, April 12 (CP) — The snowcaps of British Columbia's mountain peaks strike the visitor with their grandeur. But they can also strike terror into the hearts of those that live below them in the fertile Fraser Valley.

Every cold day on the peaks means more water to come thundering down the mountainsides when sun and warm air bring the inevitable run-off.

The amount of snow plus the suddenness of the rise in temperature produces the floods. The latter is dreaded by farmers.

It is still too early to determine whether the destruction caused in the valley in 1948 will be repeated this year. The next four weeks will tell.

Of the two main factors determining the flood potential of the mountains—last winter's snowfall and the lateness of the season—one is already assessable.

The Dominion Water and Power Bureau reports that total water content of the ranges this season varies from 97 to 153 percent of last year's. Whether the warm weather will move in gradually, allowing the run-off to find its way through uncrowded channels to the sea, is the undetermined factor.

Spring is nearly five weeks late and power board officials say the low density of the snow indicates that melting has not yet begun.

Man of course, has no control over either of these factors. All he can do is prepare and hope.

And he has prepared. Since the 1948 floods have caused $10,000,000 damage, dike work costing $10,000,000 has been completed.

Identifies Man As Companion Of Slain Girl

Hull, Que., April 12 (CP) — Alfred Gaschi, rooming house proprietor, today identified John Ralph Hooper, 35, as the man who checked into his establishment with Gertrude Marion Davies on the night the Ottawa girl was killed.

At a preliminary hearing before Judge Roland Millar, Gaschi testified that Hooper registered as "John Ralph" about 1 a.m. March 29 and left about an hour later. Miss Davis was found in her room about 12 hours later, a hand towel knotted tightly around her throat and a cord which had been dead for at least 10 hours.

A crowded courtroom was on hand for the preliminary hearing on the sex-slaying and murder of the girl.

Dr. Jean-Marie Rousell of Montreal, medico-legal expert, testified that while death resulted from strangulation, a bruise over the girl's left eye indicated a blow which could have knocked her unconscious.

Fierce Beast of Prey Appears In N. America, Dog-Coyote Hybrid

Washington April 12 (AP) — A fierce beast of prey, cunning and cruel, has appeared near the St. Lawrence River in some old-timer widely-scattered areas of the United States.

It's coyote-dog hybrid, it swifter than one of its forebears, bigger, and even meaner than the other, the keenly-intelligent coyote, says the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

And it's more vicious than either, the agency adds.

In recent years, the animal has been attacking deer, livestock and poultry in increasing numbers in northern New York state.

The biggest are: Clarence Paul, 29; Mrs. Betty Pratt, 23; Robert Pratt, 30; Charles Frame, 38; Cecil Farris, 30 and Miss Hedy Galnick, 21.

No Inclination To Treat Russian Protest Lightly

U.S. Search Plane Spots Life Raft in Baltic Sea

Washington, April 12 — (CP) — A "hot war" with Russia as a result of an airplane shooting scrape or any other single incident is regarded by American diplomatic and military authorities as highly unlikely.

At the State Department and defence headquarters, there is no inclination to treat lightly an official protest from Moscow that an American B-29 type bomber had violated Soviet territory in the Baltic area. Fired on Russian fighter planes and been fired upon in return.

But neither was there as much as a suggestion that either country might want to go off from there to knock chips off shoulders.

United States officials indicated Tuesday that the truth of the matter may be that an unarmed American navy patrol plane, missing since Saturday, was shot down by Russian fighters.

The next steps appear to be:

A tartly-worded rejection of the Russian protest. A complaint by the United States that had Russians evidently shot down an unarmed American plane. A sharpening of tension and a further deterioration of relations.

Yet officials here say the U.S. certainly doesn't want to pick a fight with anyone, and they have an idea that the Russians want to avoid one within the foreseeable future.

They reason that since the war the red has pushed the frontiers of communism forward here and there without using military force, and probably will want to see how far they can go with the process.

Note Personally Read

If the Russians did knock down the missing United States patrol plane, the Moscow protest could be viewed as an application of theory that a good offence is the best defence.

Foreign Minister Vishinsky called the United States Ambassador, Allan G. Kirk, to the Foreign Office in Moscow and personally read him the stiffly-worded protest note.

Meanwhile aerial rescue teams searching for the missing United States navy patrol plane extended their widening hunt in the Baltic Sea to an area only 30 miles off the Soviet-guarded coast of Latvia. A life raft was sighted by a navy plane today.

The plane and its crew of 10 vanished the same day that the Russians reported a fight over the territory violation.

Some of the 11 planes taking part in the search today probably came within sight of the Latvian coast, which is reported to be a wasp's nest of radar defences. But the search planes are said to maintain a heavy observation of navy and merchant shipping lanes. Danish fishing vessels approaching this coast have been picked up by Russian patrols and have not been heard of again.

The search already has been

Naked Nagas are Back Making Human Sacrifices, Hunting Heads

Rangoon, April 12—(AP)—Human sacrifice is being practised secretly by the naked Nagas inhabitants of the remote northern hills linking Burma with Assam (India), according to a report received by the Burmese government.

The report, made by a Naga chieftain, said that the practice banned by British authorities when they ruled Burma is spreading after a recent revival.

The chief said the latest sacrifices took place at the beginning of the rice harvest last November. Human heads are taken in ceremoniously killed as thank offerings to the god of food.

The naked Nagas are described in a government-issued handbook as a semi-primitive people whose territory in the northwest is the wildest in Burma. It was brought under administration only in 1940.

Authorities on the tribe say the Nagas practise head-hunting and human sacrifice to appease the primitive gods who alternately threaten and protect these barbaric people. The status of a Naga warrior is indicated by the number of skulls hanging at the entrance to his home.

Head-hunting and human sacrifice are prevalent especially at the start of the cultivation season and during harvesting time. When victims are needed, one tribal group goes in search of another. Any of the two groups can be obtained easily, then luckless members against the worshippers must be prepared to part with their own heads.

The Nagas are described as a hostile and suspicious people who live in isolated villages. The entrance to a Naga village, usually on a hill top, is through a tunnel lined with sun-bleached skulls and booby traps. A branch of a tree is placed at the entrance as a warning not to approach.

Every village has a "love house" restricted to young couples who plan to marry arrange without pregnancy. The Negas hunt their enemies, both animal and human, with spears and bows and arrows, often poisoned.

BOMBER CARRIES THIRTEEN AIRMEN TO FIERY DEATHS

Albuquerque, N.M., April 12—(AP)—A B-29 bomber carried all airmen aboard—believed to be 13 —to fiery deaths in a crash Tuesday night into Sandia secret weapons base.

Thirteen crew members were listed with the Albuquerque Air force official warned, however, the death toll cannot be determined with absolute accuracy until an actual count of bodies is made.

The air force drew a tight secrecy curtain around the tragedy in a remote area of the atomic bomb assembly installation.

Reporters were barred from entering the area, 7,000 feet high in the Manzano Mountains. The scene is some five miles east of Kirtland Air Force Base and 17 miles east of downtown Albuquerque.

Emphasizing secrecy cloaking the incident, one officer observed:

Basis of Assessment in Area Fair, Appraiser Tells Members Of Municipal Bd. at Hearing

Basis of assessment used by the City of Belleville in assessing one-storey and one-and-a-half-storey dwellings in the Parkwood Heights area is fair to the home owners, it was stated this afternoon by Charles E. Parnell, Hamilton real estate appraiser.

This was claimed by Mr. Parnell as he testified before the Municipal Board in support of the appeal of the city from the judgment of Judge Wilfred S. Lane in the case of eight Parkwood Heights residents against their assessments.

The Parkwood Heights residents appealed their assessments on the ground that one-storey dwellings were assessed at higher values than the 1 1-2-storey houses. In his judgment Judge Lane reduced the assessments of the eight buildings.

Judgment Reserved

At the conclusion of the hearing, Mr. Cummings, chairman of the Board, announced that judgment on the appeal would be reserved.

City Assessor Smith, appellant, was testified as to the assessing practice in the city, noting that the basis of assessment for residential property was $3 per square foot on the first floor of one-storey bungalows with a ratio of $3.50 per foot for 1 1-2-storey houses. "Frontage was valued at $1 per foot per square foot less," he said.

Questioned by Municipal Board chairman, Mr. Thompson, replied that he considered this differential sufficient to make allowance for the additional upstairs space in the 1 1-2-storey houses.

Figures Cited

Mr. Thompson cited figures to show that the square feet area of the bungalows in Parkwood Heights was considerably greater than those in the 1-2 storey houses, while the cubic area of the bungalows was also greater.

In support of the basis of assessment used in Belleville, and its resultant higher figure for a one-storey dwelling, Mr. Parnell stated that the bungalow type of house in Parkwood Heights was actually more valuable. For in given area it would cost more to build and was in much greater demand.

He said there was more cubic area in the bungalow and space was used to much greater advantage. Also insulation is more effective. It was his opinion the assessment was in line generally of value compared with the cost of construction.

Cost More to Build

To substantiate this he said that the 1½-storey and 1½-storey dwellings were built under the addition National Housing and the higher construction costs the mortgages were prepared to make bigger loans for this type of home.

He agreed, however, that the bungalow type of house was popular, stating this was due to the lower price and also because of their attractive design.

Donald J. Sutherland, local real estate appraiser, said a much higher price could be obtained for the 1½ and 1¾-storey dwellings. He felt the top price for the bungalow type house would be $7,200 for frame with an additional $300 in brick. The 1½-storey house would sell for $7,500 to $7,800 to $7,500 with an additional $250 in brick. The 1¾-storey house would sell for $8,000 in siding and for $8,250 in brick," he said.

CLEARY NICHOLSON Kingston, Ont.

Kingston April 12 — (CP) — Cleary Nicholson, severely burned about the legs Friday when the studio room in which he had been sleeping on took fire, died today in hospital. Mr. Nicholson, 54, was the brother-in-law of E. Nicholson of Belleville, and stepson of Mrs. Nicholson, Belleville, to whom are patients in the Hotel Dieu.

After he was rushed to hospital in serious condition, Assistant Fire Chief Charles Saunders said he would have been burned to death on the couch if it weren't for the presence of mind of Mrs. David Reynolds, fellow resident in the building. Mrs. Franklin detected the odor of smoke and rushed into Mr. Nicholson's apartment, and pulled him from the couch out of the flames. Shall not be known when the firemen arrived.

The fire, according to the fire department, probably was caused by Mr. Nicholson's smoking while lying down.

LATE FREDERICK BRUCE BLAKELY

The funeral of Frederick Bruce Blakely, at present a resident of Belleville, who died at Kirkland Lake on Sunday last, was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell street, on Sunday afternoon. The service in the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery was conducted by Rev. J. E. Hornsby, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The bearers, all of whom are members of the Kirkland Lake Order, were Arthur Nayler, William Bean, Herbert Reed, Fred Wilson, Cyril McMullen and Mont. Barlow.

Kiwanians View Film on T.C.A.

Members of the Kiwanis Club viewed a film, heard an excellent talk and had a fine lunch by Dan, and conducted several items of business at their weekly luncheon held at the Centre on Tuesday.

Mr. Harling reviewed the activities of the Trans-Canada Air Line since its inception, which showed remarkable progress. The review of Mr. Harling was given in the Ontario Intelligencer on Saturday. Members took much enjoyment out of the tribulations of "Mr. Barnaby" who was making his first flight, but who at the end of the flight in a T.C.A. plane was quite converted. Also the film depicted the detail that is used to have the engines of these planes up to the best possible standard.

The speaker was introduced by Milton Davison and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by Earl Emmerson. Taylor Franklin presided at the luncheon with Harold Carruthers acting as song leader and Louis Maraskas collecting the fines.

Announcement was made of an International ladies' night to be held by the Kingston Club on Monday April 24th and a large number of the members are making plans to attend this function. Secretary to Stew Robb tickets for the Iolanthe show to be sponsored by the club are selling well. Mr. Robb stated that the show comes highly recommended and will be the musical treat of the season.

Industrial commissioners. In conclusion, he stated that every citizen is a potential force in bringing new industries to our city, and that each one of us should be on the alert for opportunities to favorably impress visitors to the city.

Mayor Allin was introduced to the club by John Devine, and thanked for his kind address by Phil. Flagler.

H. Bankier Heads Optimist Club

At its regular Monday meeting, the Optimist Club conducted its annual election of officers. Past-President Donald Boyse presided, and the following were elected to govern the club for the coming year. President Harold Bankier, vice-president, Frank Clarke, Board of Governors: Paul Bradley, Ken. Campbell, Gordon Carter and Phil. Flagler. Howard Kokesh will continue in office as secretary, and Bill Lynch as treasurer.

Following the election, Mayor Jack Allin, in a brief address, commended the Optimists for their progressive work in this community ground. He regretted the serious lack of park facilities in Belleville. Several small playgrounds started by public-spirited citizens during the past year are helping to fill the gap, but much room remains for improvement. The problem of supervision is urgently being ironed out by co-operation between the Parks Board and the School Board.

Mayor Allin devoted the balance of his address to a resume of the problems and progress of Belleville's Industrial Commission. He stressed the value to a town of a steady supply of small industries rather than one large plant, whose ups and downs can affect the city's whole economy in a drastic fashion.

The speaker stated that it would be almost impossible for any one man to wield sufficient influence to bring a large new plant to town. Such corporations study trade and labor conditions, and many other points for lengthy period, before coming to their decision. Industry at present is tending to de-centralize, to move away from the large centres. The industrial departments of banks and railroads keep files on all large firms who may be contemplating such a move, and give out leads to municipal industrial commissioners.

Belleville Commission receives its supply of such leads and inquiries each year. Mayor Allin pointed out that the completion of aerial survey of Belleville, which was special commendable at a recent provincial conference of

Closing of City Poolrooms On Statutory Holidays Will be Considered by Council

City council will consider closing of poolrooms on statutory holidays, it was decided by council members Tuesday evening when they referred to their next regular committee meeting a police recommendation to the above effect.

Police Chief Walter Probert brought the matter to the attention of council in a letter which was enclosed a report from Police Inspector Claire. Hayes stating it had been observed that poolrooms were being used as a hangout on holidays for persons with no particular occupation. In the opinion of the police inspector no useful purpose was being served by the poolrooms remaining open on holidays.

Council considered the recommendation that council take the necessary action to have the poolrooms closed on statutory holidays.

Council took no action on the letter from the police chief and referred the matter to the next committee meeting without discussion.

Matters Referred Back

Council procedure of first discussing all matters at the committee meeting before they are brought before open council at the meeting the night's session considerably. Several matters coming before council on the night for the first time were referred back.

Among these was a resolution from the city of St. Thomas calling on Provincial Secretary Leslie Frost to form a select committee to investigate hospital costs with the view of bringing such costs down to within the ability of the public to pay.

With the matter having been discussed in Thursday's committee meeting council considered only a resolution from the city of London protesting against the proposed amendment to the Municipal Act which would permit slot machines to hold municipal office.

Figures will be Given

A recommendation to call for applications for a class 4 mechanic for maintenance of city-owned equipment brought a rise from Mayor Allin. Allin who asked if there was sufficient work for a mechanic to keep such a man. He also asked if consideration had been given to the type of equipment, which would be necessary to put the mechanic to work.

Alderman Don. Thomas as chairman of the committee stated that council was asking only for applications. "Cost figures regarding the mechanic's salary and equipment would be presented to council," he said.

Council concurred in a recommendation from the Planning Board asking that building permits for the commercial area in Parkwood Heights be withheld until the Board were able to submit a plan covering development of the area.

Alderman Armstrong noted that the land was privately owned and it would be unfair to the owner for the city to hold up development of the property and at the same time ask for payment for the land. It was pointed out that members of the municipal board now sitting in the city would be considering this area on Wednesday.

Will Attend Convention

A committee of Aldermen Thomas and Duffy was named to interview the Public Utilities Commission and the Bell Telephone with the view of having power and telephone service to Bayview Heights placed underground. The same two aldermen were authorized to accompany Mayor Allin to the Mayors' convention in Toronto.

Under inquiries Alderman Latimer wanted to know why there was such a delay in getting the sidewalk on city streets after recommendation from council. Alderman Armstrong said the matter of materials causing such a delay during wartime, but could see no reason for the present delay. Mayor Allin said he would take the matter up with the utilities commission.

Want Additional Lights

Alderman Liddle asked for an additional light at the corner of the footbridge gangway. In view of the present delay in getting the lights he was making the recommendation now so the lights could be ready by next autumn.

Alderman Argue asked regarding the motorcycle which was proposed for purchase by the police commission to enable better traffic control. He was informed the cost of the equipment had been removed from the police commission budget, and that the motorcycle would be purchased.

"That eliminates the motorcycle," agreed Alderman Argue, "but what about additional traffic control." He said that in the matter of panel delivery trucks were being driven recklessly on city streets much to the danger of pedestrians.

The much discussed matter of veterans' scrolls and the possible date of their delivery to veterans was brought up by Mayor Allin.

Scrolls are Ready

Alderman Tice said the scrolls were all ready and had been addressing and placement of seals.

"Does anybody want these scrolls now?" asked Alderman Tice.

Mayor Allin replied he had been asked on several occasions regarding the scrolls and Alderman Liddle was authorized to see the scrolls were properly addressed and placed in the mail.

Alderman Liddle asked regarding a piece of sidewalk at the corner of Victoria and MacDonald which he said had been damaged by a contractor installing sewer. He was told it was the responsibility of the contractor to repair the walk.

A notice of motion was introduced by Mayor Allin and Ald. Tice to the effect that the city engineer be authorized to prepare plans for the construction of a 30 to 36 inch storm sewer on Catherine Street.

Police Chief Denies Union Charge Dictaphones 'Planted' at Meeting

Trenton—(Special) — Charges that the Trenton Police Department was using dictaphones to listen in on union meetings were made today by A.F.L. union organizer, George Beckett.

The charge was made following a union meeting held Tuesday evening in the market room adjoining the police station office. During the progress of the meeting it was claimed that a "planted" dictaphone had been discovered, the wires from the equipment leading toward the police quarters.

Today, however, Chief of Police Jack Taylor disclaimed any knowledge of dictaphones, planted or otherwise.

"The Trenton Police Department has no equipment of that nature. I know absolutely nothing of it," he said.

The union meeting was being held in the market room to discuss charges of actions following the re-opening of the Downs, Coulter plant at Trenton on Monday morning when approximately 60 workers, most of them former workers of the plant, went to work after a 14-weeks-old strike.

Strikers showed resistance to the opening of the textile plant and as result three of the picketers face assault charges, while still another was charged by police with using profane language.

Following the re-opening of the plant union men claimed that the picket line at the plant would be increased, but this has failed to materialize.

Tuesday workers at the plant went to their jobs without incident, while the same was true this morning.

Police Chief Taylor stated today that since the start of the strike 14 weeks ago the union had been using the upstairs over the police station to hold their meetings. Last night another meeting had been scheduled for the accommodation and the union had been given permission to use the market room.

Nothing To Say

In Toronto, Deputy Attorney-General Clifford Magone said, "I would just as soon have nothing to say about it all. They have a board of police commissioners in Trenton and it is up to them to investigate the matter."

Mr. Magone added that he knew of no case in which provincial police had used microphones to eavesdrop on meetings or conversations.

Sen. W.A. Frazer Addresses Legion On Anniversary

Trenton—(Special)—The Trenton branch of the Canadian Legion held their annual anniversary banquet at the Queensway Hotel, Monday night.

The meeting began with a toast to the Trenton Legion by S.W.O. John Silver, who also gave a brief resume of the history of the Canadian Legion. John Cole responded to the toast.

Another toast was given to the town of Trenton by Ian McGaughey, who spoke briefly on the growth and history of Trenton. Mayor Kenneth Couch responded to this toast and in a brief address expressed the wish that civic pride become more apparent in the people of Trenton.

Foster Civic Pride

Mr. O. Alyea introduced Senator W. A. Fraser who was the main speaker for the evening. Mr. Fraser stated that one of the aims of the Canadian Legion is to foster civic pride and to maintain a democratic outlook among its members.

"I am of the opinion," said Senator Fraser, "that the infiltration of communism in this great democracy of ours is due to the spirit of malcontent existing amongst the citizens of Canada."

Mr. Fraser also said, "Legionnaires should be the apostles of democracy. They fought, and died, so that our system of government may be preserved. Therefore, as members of this great democratic organization, they should be the forefront to maintain the right to freedom of speech, religion and freedom from want, and fear."

Senator Fraser also made reference to the strike at the Downs, Coulter plant, he said, "I deplore the fact that some employees should be so easily led against their fellow workers by a few outsiders."

In concluding he again stressed the necessity for co-operation between those concerned in civic affairs.

Mr. O. Alyea congratulated Sgt. Major. Almey, who was celebrating the 31st anniversary of Lady-smith. Mr. Almey is a veteran of both the Boer war and the First World War.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Lyle Hartman, with Gracie Leeman on the organ and Loraine Marsh, vocalist.

After a toast presented by President Alan Vanderyeter, to the Legion comrades who participated in the famous battle of Vimy, the meeting was closed by the playing of the Last Post by Legion trumpeter Ford Gainsforth.

Remanded Until Next Monday

Trenton—(Special) — George Beckett, Textile Workers Union organizer (A.F.L.), Marylou Bird, secretary-treasurer, of Local 105 Textile Union, Russell Forbes, and Mary Gray, have been remanded to April 17th for trial.

The four were charged Monday for assault and obstructing police during the fracas which was the outgrowth of the Downs, Coulter textile plant re-opening.

Counsel for the defence, Ramsay Park, of Trenton, asked that the case be laid over until next Monday in order for him to prepare his case.

Beckett, Forbes and Gray are charged with assault and obstructing, while Miss Bird is charged with swearing and using abusive language.

Two Chimney Fires

Two chimney fires were investigated by Trenton firemen yesterday. Harry Kirk, 80 Stanley St., and Ray Kendall St., both received the immediate attention of the firemen after reporting their chimneys were on fire. Firemen stated that they were on the scene in time to prevent any serious damage.

Bitten by Dog

Mrs. H. Pettifer, of Glen Miller, was severely bitten by a neighbor's dog Monday, while she was walking near her house. Mrs. Pettifer was taken to Dr. Campbell immediately, who after examining the wound stated that there was no sign of the dog having rabies.

Owner of the dog, Chas. Knox said that this was the first time the dog had ever shown any tendency to be ugly. Not added, that he disposed of the dog immediately.

U.E.W. Protests Imports of Jap Fishing Bait

Peterborough, April 12 (CP)— The United Electrical Workers Union, charging that imports of Japanese fishing bait threatens the employment of workers here and in Glenburg, protested today to Trade Minister Howe.

Says Russia May Have 200 Subs, None Very Fast

Ottawa, April 12—(CP)—Lord Fraser of North Cape told a press conference today that Russia may have as many as 200 submarines but that none o fthem are "very fast."

However, the admiral of the British fleet predicted that given time—about five years—the Russians may develop a fleet of underwater craft that may prove of great danger.

But such democracies as the United Kingdom, the United States and Canada were keeping abreast of anti-submarine development. As long as this development work was kept up, the "submarine anxiety" would be no greater than it has been in the past.

"We've got to keep up the work," Britain's first sea lord said. "The danger is not so much now as in the future."

The bespibboned 62-year-old Lord Fraser met the press as he neared the end of a three-day visit to this capital—his first visit to this country.

Eight Arrested After Wild Fight In Restaurant

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — Eight men were arrested early today following a wild fight in a Yonge Street restaurant.

Police said six of the men recently arrived from Ireland. The other two men are from Hamilton.

Held on charges of malicious damage and creating a disturbance are Patrick Donaghy, 26, Michael Birmingham, 30, Patrick Tarpay, 23, Michael Costello, 21, Harry Scott, 31, and James McCabe, 22, all of Toronto; and Coleman Joyce, 27, and Eugene Gaffney, 23, of Hamilton.

The owner of the restaurant said the men had been molesting the waitresses and he had ordered them not to be served. One of the men threw a cup of coffee in Gaffney, and the group started to smash dishes, glass and cups and overturn tables.

THESE HOLIDAYS

Who has not thrilled during his early life at the thought of holidays? Easter holidays are in this respect like other school holidays. They lie ahead of us, filled with the strain of study and open the vista of nature at the time of the year when nature is preparing the modern miracle of "making all things new" as the poet says.

No season is more inspiring than that associated with spring. In the brief spell of rest from study and attendance at school the great majority of school children will take the fullest advantage as they see the revival of nature which in taking place before their eyes.

There is a natural affinity between the young and spring, the one fi at the beginning of life and the other the beginning of the growing year.

Out of this spirit which Mother Nature exerts upon them, these boys and girls will return to classes, their interest greatly intensified and their ability to study renewed as only spring air and the sight and sounds of nature can restore and revive their minds and bodies.

There will be a sense of renewal of drive and force as they troop back to the schools which in these days are the most attractive centres for children. They will enter upon their work with fresh zest, their outlook cheered and brightened by the fact that there is an entire season ahead in which more and more people will live in the outof-doors. Into their bodies come the reviving influences of nature — the best tonic anyone ever had while before them is the fact of the great living outdoors that they are growing in tune with nature as the season advances. From now until the next summer holidays begin is the growing season in nature's outdoors where young boys and girls like to be.

Today our schools are places of more than usual attraction. What an advance has been made in this regard only those who went to schoolhouses in the old days can understand! The place of education should be and is a pleasant one. It will in itself and in the many ways influence the lives which are moulded in the schoolhouses and colleges of the land. Modern educators have seen to it that these formative years are to be times of improvement in opportunity for the learning.

That important strides forward have been made in education is admitted by everyone. Pupils and scholars have reason to like the modern school which has the ideal of fitting them for the greatest possible opportunities which their lives can have. They can feel themselves a part of society which strives for the best possible conditions for young and old. The zeal and enthusiasm of the classroom and schoolyard are the fortunate signs of mental and spiritual growth of their parents and leaders of education.

These Easter holidays are like the summer vacation, an opportunity to develop mind and body. School days and holidays work together for the preparation of the young for the days of opportunity which lie ahead in this expansive age.

That many pupils early catch a glimpse of the future they would like to follow is a fact that is evident as one sees so many, young though they be, already girded for what will be their lifework. This is one of the most inspiring facts of this age.

School today lacks drudgery. Study requires attention of course and brings a great reward in the improvement of the mind and spirit.

Today's world represented by the older population is doing well by the boys and girls, offering them the finest opportunities to fill their place in life with the truest satisfaction of spirit.

AN AGE OF PROGRESS

Scarcely a day passes but brings news of progress in the science of health.

A great part of the world is inspired by the advance which is being made on all sides in getting at the roots and mystery of the ills which have clung to mankind all down the road of history.

This age of enlightenment is accomplishing wonders which could not have been thought possible. Take the improvement in public and individual health, thanks to the advance of medicine and discovery and of the great numbers of lives which are being lived out to a normal or lengthened span. Think of the millions of lives saved by modern sanitation.

Cattle at times, seem almost human. Take the barn fire in Louth Township recently, when the cattle were driven from the barn, only to return to the scene of danger, to be driven away again. — St. Catharines Standard.

Canadians smoke approximately sixteen billion cigarettes a year, and pay $170,000,000 in federal taxes on these cigarettes.

JUST FOLKS

TYPEWRITER

Typewriters, small or standard size,
Are servants mute, but oh so wise!
I know within their ribbon lie
Lies every thought that man will think.

I fashioned from the lettered keys
Such simple verses as are these;
But knew full well a richer mind
Among them loveliier lines ... will find.

There, waiting for the gifted brain,
The great unwritten books remain.
The songs by which men's hearts are stirred
Are they in hiding, still unheard,

I face the keyboard day by day
And to myself I often say:
Great truths are here beyond a doubt
If only I could pick them ... out.

The city gas plant is now operating near capacity and the quality of the gas is of the best. There are rumors that the price of gas may be reduced in order to induce users to use more.

The report of the operation of the market under the chairmanship of Ald. G. H. French was presented to the council and all members were pleased with the result under city management; a nice profit was realized and there is a possibility that part of the profit will be retired each year to provide a sinking fund to be used towards covering the entire outside market. Plans and specifications will be better for vendors and buyers. Ald. French brought in a resolution that Chas. German W. Reid be re-engaged as clerk of city market for year 1930 and until April 1st., 1931 at a salary of $1,200 per week. The recommendation was unanimously adopted."

The scene of the fire which destroyed the Carlaw grist mill on Moira Street east has been determined. It appears that peas were being put through a grader and with them there happened to be a small steel bolt which was ground along with the peas and the friction caused the peasmeal to ignite.

The school rate this year will be five mills for public school and two mills for high school purposes. The salaries for this year will amount to $23,625.

Mr. Edward Tickell of this city received yesterday from the Old Country an interesting and valuable souvenir, namely a medal which was awarded to his uncle, Gunner William Bettes, who served at Lucknow and died there as a result of sunstroke. It was awarded some years ago and is the first one of certain officers who forwarded it to Mr. Tickell. Gnr. Betten was a brother of Mrs. Geo. S. Tickell of this city.

Mr. Edgar Slater has left for Calgary where he intends to reside.

The tender of Hall submitted by W. S. Vandervoort for the market tolls this year has been accepted.

It is rumored that the police force will be reduced shortly by laying off two men.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, Albert Street, have returned to the city after spending some time in Kingston.

Mr. D. E. K. Stewart, barrister, Madoc, was in town today.

Mrs. Daniel Cannift has returned to Montreal after spending some time here.

At the residence of Mr. Geo. Dulmage, Hillside Farm, a successful parlor social was held in the interests of Holloway Street Methodist Church.

Messrs. Charles N. Sulman, W. B. Sprague, Dr. Ponton, Arthur Lewis, W. Hitchon and Ald. Sinclair spent an enjoyable time yesterday as the guests of Mr. C. Stafford at his sugar bush in Ameliasburg township.

Princess Margaret Smokes Another Cigarette at Show

London, April 12. (AP)— A young man took Princess Margaret to the theatre and she smoked another cigaret in public.

The 19-year-old Princess' escort was the Marquess of Blandford, who will be 24 tomorrow.

At intermission she took advantage of the British custom that permits smoking in auditoriums. She stayed in her seat and had a cigaret in a holder.

Lately she has smoked on other occasions when the public was on hand to watch.

The public has taken it rather calmly.

WEDDINGS

SKINKLE—LOUGH

St. Alban's Anglican Church, Amelliasburg, was the scene of a lovely double ring ceremony on Saturday, April 8th., at 2 p.m. when Mary Victoria, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lough of Mountain View, Ontario, was united in marriage to Charles Walter Skinkle, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Skinkle, of Consecon, Ont. The Rev. C. F. Scott, of Carrying Place, officiated before a background of ferns and Spring flowers.

Mrs. George Stinson, organist of the church, provided the wedding music, and the soloist, Mrs. Glen Laurenson, of Belleville, sang before the ceremony, "Because", and during the signing of the register, "I Love You Truly".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in her bridal gown of cream satin featuring a nylon sheer bodice draped with satin, with bertha collar of fine Battenburg lace, with drapes of the same lace outlining the hip fullness. Her full length veil of imported French tulle, was held in place by a coronet studded with brilliants. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of white carnations and freesias, and wore a sapphire necklace.

Miss Margaret Hutchens, of Toronto, was maid of honor, gowned in yellow taffeta, designed with square neckline, full skirt with bustle back. She wore matching mitts, and carried green carnations and maline.

Miss Joan Hutchens, of Toronto, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of green taffeta fashioned on same lines as that of the maid of honor, with matching mitts, and carrying a bouquet of yellow carnations and maline.

Little Sandra Oram, of Belleville, was flower girl, dainty in her floor-length full-skirted frock of mauve taffeta, with matching headdress and mitts. She carried a bouquet of yellow daffodils in the form of a basket.

Mr. Douglas Skinkle of Belleville, R.R. No. 2, was groomsman and Ronald Lough, brother of the bride, and Fred Skinkle, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The reception was held in the Orange Hall, Belleville, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore navy sheer with grey accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy sheer with grey accessories and corsage of Talisman roses. The bride's table was decorated with daffodils and fern. The luncheon was served by the Orange Lodge ladies.

For the wedding trip to Niagara, Windsor, and points west, the bride chose a French blue gabardine suit with navy accessories and corsage of Sweetheart roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Skinkle will reside in Belleville.

The bride's grandfather, Mr. Jesse Barlow, of Bonarlaw, was present and was also celebrating his 86th birthday.

Mr., Mrs. W. Ray Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Last Thursday wedding bells rang again for Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ray, of Holloway. But this time the bells were going in memory of their 50th anniversary. All members of the family were present, including children and grandchildren, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Caverly, close friends of many years standing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray were married in Ivanhoe by the Rev. A. E. Weatherall, and have resided all their married life in their present home. Both were born in the county of Hastings.

They have seven children, four boys, Percy, Clifford, Gordon and Floyd, all residing on the 8th line of Thurlow township; three girls, Mrs. M. D. (Hazel) Wellman of Ottawa; Mrs. Hazen (Annie) Stairs, of Belleville; and Mrs. Rothwell (Edna) Reid, of Holloway. There are also 12 grandchildren.

On this memorable occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Ray were presented with a beautiful set of dishes.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Ray, with best wishes for future years of happiness together.

Women's Activities

CANNIFTON W.M.S.

The thank offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Canniffton United Church was held at the parsonage with a good attendance.

The meeting was opened by the president Mrs. Williams. Very encouraging reports were given by the treasurer Mrs. Empson. Mrs. D. Brenton read a letter received from Thurlow W.M.S. inviting Canniffton W.M.S. members to attend their thank offering.

The Mission Band also extended an invitation to the members and all parents to attend their thank offering meetings.

A number of "thank you" letters were read from sick, bereaved and shut-in members and others in the community. Mrs. Furniss reported the members had made 20 hospital and 22 home calls.

The worship service was in charge of the president, the theme "Christ Is Risen" with Mrs. W. Brenton, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Stewart assisting.

Mrs. G. Brenton gave the report of the Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society which was held at Napanee. A lovely solo was rendered by Mrs. Furmidge "It Was Alone The Saviour Prayed."

Refreshments were served at the close of the program and a vote of thanks expressed to Mrs. Madden for her hospitality and to those who assisted with the program and refreshments.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

Mrs. Eunice Latham of Minneapolis doesn't object to a pig in her living room provided the pig is well bred.

Mrs. Latham wouldn't think of turning out her pet porker, Susie, who not only knows the niceties of pig etiquette but who also gets a daily spray of perfume.

In cooking fresh pork remember that a slow fire will make the meat more tender than a fast intense flame.

When you are pan frying pork chops and you are in a hurry, you may brown them well on both sides and serve. They will be much more tender, however, if you merely brown them on the surface and then place them, covered, in a slow oven for 1 hour to be thoroughly cooked.

Excess fat from fresh pork should be cut off, chopped coarsely and then cooked over a slow flame until melted. This fat—which is lard—can be used for pan frying pork chops or for other frying purposes.

Order 4 one-inch-thick pork chops cut from the centre of the loin. Wipe with a damp cloth. Cut off excess fat from sides of chops and melt in a frying pan.

Place chops in a paper bag with 1-4 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Shake bag well to coat chops.

Pour fat to a depth of 1-4 inch in a heavy frying pan. Cook chops until brown on both sides.

Place chops in saucepan fitted with tight lid. Add 1 can of undiluted consomme, 1-4 cup tomato juice and 1-4 cup water. Bring liquid to a boil over a top flame. Add 1 tablespoon flour mixed to a smooth paste with 2 tablespoons cold water. Simmer until thickened.

Place saucepan in a slow oven, 325 degrees. Cook for 1 hour or until chops are tender.

To prepare cabbage: Cut 1 small head of cabbage into 1-inch squares. Wash. Place in boiling salted water and simmer until barely tender 5 to 8 minutes. Drain. Add 2 tablespoons butter, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1-2 teaspoon, dry mustard, 2 tablespoons vinegar and 1 tablespoon chopped onion. Cook 5 minutes over a slow flame, stirring frequently.

FULLER PRESBYTERIAN MISSION CIRCLE

Ivanhoe.—The regular study meeting of the Mission Circle was held last Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. McTaggart. The president, Miss Mary Thompson, was in charge and opened the meeting. The scripture lesson, John 20: 1-20, was read by Mrs. Charles Irvine.

Sixteen members answered the roll call. Necessary business was dealt with. A treat was sent to Bonnie Smith, and get-well cards purchased. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Thompson. Program Committee consists of Mrs. Charles Irvine and Mrs. L. Adams.

The offering amounted to $2.57.

The program was as follows:

Readings were given by Donnie McTaggart, Mrs. Harry Redcliffe, Helen Adams, Mrs. Borden Redcliffe, Margaret Evelyn Mitts, and Mrs. Chas. Irvine.

Duet, Reggie Irvine, Gary McTaggart; Solo, Phyllis Wickens.

An interesting address was given by Mr. Herbert Burke on "The Resurrection of Christ". Mrs. Harry Redcliffe closed the meeting.

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary Honored By Friends, Relatives

Friends and relatives gathered on Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John St. John, Starling Street, to honor them on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Pink and white streamers formed a background for the three-tiered wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom, which later was cut by the bride and bridegroom of half a century ago.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Grace Tomaso and Mrs. Bert Taylor.

Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. St. John extended their appreciation and thanks to each and all for the lovely and useful gifts which they had received.

Guests were present for the occasion from Toronto and Montreal.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is love a business contract?

Love is not a business contract. Before you slowly decide all the angles and methodically weigh all the pros and cons. You either feel it in your heart or you don't.

That is what an impatient young man told the girl he wants to marry, who, on her side, wants to be very sure of her feelings before she makes a decision.

The girl has good reasons to be cautious. Only a few months ago she broke her engagement to another man, even though in the beginning she was, as she put it in her letter, "never more sure of anything in my life than my love for him."

The second man entered the picture just before she made the final break with her fiance, although for several months previously she had realized that the break was practically inevitable. The new heart interest, therefore, was not in any way the cause of the broken engagement.

It was only a month after they began seeing each other that the second man asked her to marry him. She told him it was much too soon after her other experience to commit herself and that she had no intention of rushing into anything serious quickly. He agreed but persisted in talking about marriage and urging her to make up her mind.

She says this man is much more mature than her former fiance, very kind, and that they appear to be a very compatible couple. She adds that he is not at physically attractive as the other man and that he would never be "wildly exciting or brilliantly charming," but that he is "very easy going and likable." Because he tells her that he knew right away that he loved her, he can't understand why she doesn't reciprocate his feelings. She wants to know if he is right in thinking that the three months they have been going together should be long enough for her to know her own mind.

"I know the final decision rests with me, but how does it all sound to you, Miss Fairfax? If I did find I really loved him, how could I be sure it wouldn't all end like we did before, with the other man, when I suddenly discovered I didn't love him after being quite sure that I did? I am very confused.

"He wants to get married in the fall. He is 26, and doesn't want to dawdle around for two or three years while I make up my mind. I feel that I have definitely decided anything by fall, he may lose patience and I can't bear the thought of losing him."

"All I need is time, I think. How can I hide my time in order to be sure—or is that the way I do it?"

The crux of this girl's difficulty, I believe, lies in something to which she apparently attaches little or no importance. That is the fact that she is only 20 years old.

This is a fact of which I think neither she nor her 26-year-old suitor should lose sight. It is all very well for a young man of 26 years," and if he finds the right girl, and can afford to support a wife, I see no reason why he should.

With a 20-year-old girl—even though, as she puts it, she is "almost 21"—things are entirely different. She should not be misled by any such fancy phrases as are quoted from her letter at the beginning of this article, namely, that in love you do not "slowly decide all the angles and methodically weigh the pros and cons."

What the young man may mean is that most people do not "slowly decide" and exactly what they should do. To be so carried away by emotion that you forget this, and enter a marriage without having considered it seriously enough, is to embark upon an extremely dubious future.

This girl is quite right when she says she needs time. It is entirely possible that before fall she may feel more certain of herself one way or the other. But if she isn't, she should not for one hasty moment allow herself to be rushed into making her decision.

Fashion Flashes

IT'S EASY to make up a smart suit with the assistance of tailored toppers of American broadtail and Persian lamb in variety of skin sizes.

A CAPITAL "S" tells the story of Summer dance frocks. the story is told in terms of white and short. Silk chiffon in a black and white Kline dessin with green or red centers is made up into a lovely dance frock, the softly gathered ruffles of which green on the bodice, the soft bodice tucking, the flared skirt of modified ankle length and the wide matching stole add up to a pretty picture.

PRETTY CONCEITS lend interest to the new blouses. A short-sleeved blouse of white linen has deep cuffs of white net lace, attached by one wing, giving a loose, fluttery effect.

YOUR HEART on your sleeve or your initials on your coat is very popular. Coats are trimmed with big embroidered sodalice spots on the pocket, are becoming increasingly popular.

TAKE A PEEP at your discarded costume jewelry; or one of those boxes of miscellany put in every attic, and see if you can find a necklace of coral sprigs. This old-time favorite was shown in Paris with many important frocks, and looks new and pretty, as do so many of the other fashion revivals.

Women's Activities

MADOC TRINITY W.M.S.

Madoc—Trinity United Women's Missionary Society held their April meeting at the home of Mrs. F. H. Naylor with an attendance of 18.

Mrs. Poulter was convener of the program and opened the worship service, and gave a talk on a child's conception and the impression of the first Easter. The Bible lesson was read from the 26th Chapter of Matthew "The Story of Easter." Mrs. D. Carmen read a story by Dr. Armstrong, (Missionary) "Jesus Lives, He is Risen."

Mrs. Hulin and Mrs. Jack Smith sang an appropriate duet "He Died of a Broken Heart." Miss Annie Holmes, the president conducted the business period, receiving the reports of the various departments and discussing the routine business in general.

Mrs. Fred Fleming, delegate to the W.M.S. Presbyterial held at Napanee, was assisted by Mrs Carmen in giving interesting reports on the meetings held during the day.

Mrs. P. H. Naylor paid tribute to an outstanding WMS worker, the late Mrs. W. S. Smyth, who gave of her time and her services to the leadership training school held at Whitby Ladies College every year. Mrs. Poulter closed the meeting with a hymn and prayer by Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. S. S. Ashley. Refreshments were served.

On Monday evening previously, an enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Poulter in honor of one of the W. M. S. members, Mrs. Percy Caverly, who was celebrating a birthday. Part of the evening was spent in sewing and later a short program was given.

Miss Anna Smith read a poem "A Little Bit of Everything." A humorous story on the occasion of Mark Twain's 17th birthday, by Mrs. R. Moore; Miss Holmes conducted a poem contest and Mrs. Wm. Carmen gave a reading "Ma and the Auto."

A birthday card signed by 22 ladies present was given to the guest of honor who in turn thanked the hostess and her friends for the pleasant evening together. A contest by Mrs. Carmen was enjoyed by the ladies. Mrs. Fleming and Miss Anna Smith being the winners. Sandwiches and ice and the usual birthday cake being cut by Mrs. Caverly were served by the hostess.

It's the Little Things That Count Toward Good Grooming

Courtesy Peggy Sage

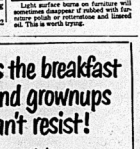
By HELEN FOLLETT

WITHOUT perfect grooming, no girl can hope to make the good-looks grade. Splendid appearance depends upon little things. One can't be too fastidious about the way one puts oneself together. A pretty, inside in a stunning frock is out of the picture if an inch or so of slip shows. Twisted stocking seams are the final touch of carelessness. And when they observe that the little hat you had not paid heed to that matter.



It is well to check up on small duties that are necessary to make the lady in the looking glass attractive. Her hairdo must be as neat as a pin. A whisp here and there and all is lost. The glorious crown should be so clean that it shines. It is only when it is scrupulously clean that wave lines will ... fluid, ringlets soft. Blowsy locks are the limit of untidiness and frumpishness.

Nail Polish

Some girls delay in laying on a fresh coat of nail polish with the result that the application is patchy. That is a beauty misdemeanor of the first order. Hurried makeup, when powder and r.-age are misplaced, makes a girl appear lithographic; that will be breaking a good looks law. A common error is not forming an even line with the lipstick, or not extending it to the corners of the mouth.

Now for some more items that cut down on the percentage of pulchritude; a coat that lacks a button; a dress that is not completely sipped; heels that are run over, in dire need of new tape; hats and cost collars crying out for a brushing; shoes that carry dust; lingerie blouses or neckwear that should be in the laundry hamper instead of on a lady-person.

While on the topic we must include mention of "B.O." There is no need of tolerating that dreadful affliction. At cosmetic counters there are offerings that can be used with satisfactory results. They come in various forms — creams, liquids, powders; if one doesn't do the business, another one will.

Wife signs cards "John and Jane"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is there some set rule regarding the following question? How should greeting cards or any other kind of cards sent by husband and wife be signed . . Jane and John Doe or John and Jane Doe?

C. M. H.

The rule of courtesy is the rule here . . . that is, it is courteous for the one signing the cards to write her or his name last. Since cards sent by husband and wife are usually signed by the wife, she writes her name after his . . . John and Jane Doe. (If the husband signs the cards, he naturally signs her name first: Jane and John Doe.)

To large, general showers the mothers are invited

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper to invite the bride's mother, the groom's mother and the bridal attendants to all showers? Or if the bride's mother is invited must the groom's mother and the bridal attendants be invited also? These questions have come up so many times here lately, and we'd like to have you advise us as to the proper thing to do.

S. S.

Whether or not "the mothers" and the bridal attendants are invited to a shower for the bride-to-be depends on what kind of shower it is to be. That is, if it is a large or even rather large shower with a general list of guests to be invited, guests of varying ages perhaps, relatives and friends, the mothers and the bridal attendants should certainly be invited. Indeed at such a general shower these guests would be expecting to be present, perhaps invited to stand with or near the bride-to-be as the guests are being greeted and introduced. But when a small shower is being given, say by a group of the bride's co-workers, or by her club members, or by a small group or bunch of her friends living in her church, it is proper, and taken for granted, that only the members of such an intimate group are invited to the shower.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As a wedding present (wedding to take place in a few weeks) I have bought my fiance a very handsome pocket watch and chain. I believe it would not be proper for me to present this gift to him before the ceremony. Is this so? The problem is that we're going directly after the ceremony, won't be returning to this area for some time, and my parents are so eager to see this present, which I had especially gift-wrapped and so don't want to open now. What can you suggest?

H. P.

It's entirely proper for you to present your wedding present to your bridegroom-to-be a few days before the wedding . . . no reason to wait until after the ceremony and it is not customary to wait. As a matter of fact he will undoubtedly want to wear it at the wedding . . . just as he may give you a wedding present that you will wear at the wedding (for example, the traditional necklace or brooch or bracelet).

BEAUTY

DON'T LET YOUR BEAUTY FETALS FALL

Every woman who would hang on to the good looks that were given her, must get down to basic principles, not put too much faith in those items of artifice that she picks out of the make-up box. Let her keep in mind that good health is a love of life, and a kindly disposition contributes to the building of beauty as well as charm.

No woman whose skin is smooth and fair will visualize herself as cursed with wrinkles. Yet, if she is in her forties, she must observe the first faint signs—tiny creases around the yes. She may want to know how others, deeper furrows can be avoided. These blemishes depend upon temperament. If one lacks courage, the effects of worries, disappointments and cares that weigh heavily on the heart will be stamped upon the countenance. The woman who faces her responsibilities, who does not weaken under them, will remain youthful in appearance to the end of her days. It is largely a matter of character.

It is necessary to respect the laws of health and hygiene.

After all, giving way to one's trials does not lessen them or make them easier to bear. A little faith, and much hope, will keep one going. After all, it is possible that the tide will turn. Life is full of changes, and changes for the better come along now and then.

To look younger than one's years and to give the laugh to the old gent, with the scythe and the long, while whiskers, it is necessary to have respect for the laws of health and hygiene. Also much can be done to keep facial tissues toned in normal condition.

The skin has much to contend with—atmospheric dust, the ravages of strong winds and blazing sunlight, the constant removal of its natural oil because of the use of soap and water. It is senseless to believe that it can continue to have fine texture, a smooth surface and healthy coloring without a certain amount of intelligent attention.

The soap used should be of the blandest. While all toilet soaps are good, one may suit your complexion more than another. It should lather up quickly; the suds should be completely removed, as the slightest film left on the flesh will make it look oily.

Lubrication is of the utmost importance. Remove make-up with a thin cream. Use soap and water; rinse, dry and apply more cream. This should be the nightly ritual. Take a clean face to bed with you, and you'll have a nice, fresh, radiant one in the morning. The tissues will lap up the cosmetic as a kitten laps up cream.

A five minute tapping of face and neck will increase the blood supply, upon which every cell depends.

KING FAROUK HAS FOUND A WAY OUT

Grandmother And Grandson Die in Fire

Breckenridge, Que., April 12—(CP) — A 71-year-old grandmother and her 11-year-old grandson were burned to death Tuesday in a fire which destroyed a two-storey farmhouse about two miles west of this village.

$296 Burden Lifted off Mind By Gift to Govt.

Ottawa, April 12 — (CP) — A conscience - stricken Canadian has sent the government a big Easter present in the form of cash.

The gift, amounting to $296, was delivered to the local income tax office Tuesday, wrapped in a brown paper parcel and addressed simply to the Receiver-General of Canada.

Apparently trying to keep his identity a mystery, the sender placed only his initials on the outside of the paper package. Even the postmark was blurred, thus preventing investigators from finding out the part of the country in which the parcel originated.

The gift, one of the biggest conscience packages to be received in the local office, was made up of the following bills: 20 ones, three twos, 48 fives and 3 tens.

Moose Battling Pack of Wolves Is Overcome

North Bay, April 11—(CP)—A two-year-old moose, attacked by a pack of six or seven hungry timber wolves about 50 miles north of here, put up a fight that moved back and forth over two miles of bushland.

Leaping out with sharp hooves at the startling pack, the moose fought gallantly. But the odds were too heavy. When the moose tired the wolves closed in dragged it down and ate most of it.

Still hungry, however the wolves soon afterwards ran down and killed two deer.

Bevin Will Undergo Minor Operation

London, April 12 — (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin went into hospital Tuesday to undergo a minor operation, it was officially announced today.

A usually reliable source said Bevin is suffering from haemorrhoids. He expects to be back at work in about two weeks.

The ailment is not connected with heart trouble from which Bevin has been suffering.

U.S. Grants Military Aid to Thailand

Bangkok, Thailand, April 12—(AP) — The United States has granted $10,000,000 worth of arms and other military aid to Thailand to fight communism, Premier Pibul, Songram disclosed Tuesday.

This was the first concrete manifestation of decisions reached at the Bangkok Conference in February.

Philip C. Jessup, U. S. Ambassador-at-Large, set forth the American position there of giving military assistance to Asian countries displaying the will to stand against the communist tide.

Under Songram's leadership, the tiny kingdom of Thailand has taken its place alongside democratic powers in the cold war against communism.

PASSES CENTURY MARK

London, Ont., April 12 (CP) — A century passed Monday for Mrs. Nell D. Gillies as she celebrated her 100th birthday.

Born in East Williams, she came to London 46 years ago after the death of her husband. Five of their seven children are living. There are also three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

EIGHT ESCAPE AS CAR TAKES FIRE

Fort Erie, April 11 — (CP) — Eight Etobicoke residents narrowly escaped injury Monday night when their automobile caught fire while crossing a Niagara River bridge to Grand Island. The fire caused $250 damage to the vehicle, owned by William K. Thompson.

Caught All His Lunge Within City Limits

Peterborough, April 12 (CP)—Joseph Micolucci, 58, Peterborough's greatest muskellunge fisherman, died Monday night. He operated a little tailor shop but he spent his leisure hours during the summer fishing. He never missed a day the city was caught all his muskellunge within sound of the city hall clock. Every year he got his limit and his largest ranged in weight from 30 to 35 pounds. His biggest year was 1946 when he caught 30.

Rawdon—Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Holmes, Marilyn and Melburn, of Kingston, spent Friday and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes, at Mount Pleasant.

Mount Pleasant W.M.S. will hold their Easter meeting on April 12th at the home of Mrs. Ross Hoard, and their annual Easter Thankoffering on Easter Sunday. The Mission Band and Baby Band will also receive their Easter Thankoffering.

Mrs. Thomas Andrews visited her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Scott on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seeney, of Carmel; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McKeown, of Gethel; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoard, of Hoards; Reeve and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. McKeown of Ryletston; and Mr. and Mrs. A. Greenley of Stirling, were among those who attended the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Spencer.

Mrs. Cecil Mack, Bethel, is a patient in Belleville Hospital.

Mr. Edgar McKeown is canvassing the various houses in this district re shrubs and flowers.

A large number of W.M.S. organizations in this district were not represented at the Belleville Presbyterial meeting which was held at Napanee on Thursday, March 30th. This is the first time since 1927 that Mount Pleasant-Rawdon W.M.S. has not been represented.

Mr. Eric Summers spent an evening last week at Hoard's railway bridge owing to an ice jam and heavy flow of water.

Mr. John Holmes was called to Frankford to assist with a washout on the tracks.

Miss Eleanor Brown has accepted a position in Bird's grocery.

Mr. Clarence Seney has sold his Rawdon farm and transferred his brick residence in Stirling in a deal with Mr. and Mrs. K. Chaffey, Castleton, Ontario, for a confectionery store and pool room, and a school bus route. Mr. Seney expects to move after Easter.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen afind Miss Grace Dunham attended the Palm Sunday service in the evening at St. Paul's when their senior choir gave the sacred Cantata "Olivet to Calvary" by Maunder. This rendition pictured in song the last days of our Saviour previous to the crucifixion.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw, and Wayne, at Ivanhoe.

Picton Man Given 3 Months At Hamilton

Hamilton, April 12 — (CP) — Brought back from Picton, by Detective George Wright to face charges of false pretences, Otto Storms, 30, of Picton, today was sentenced to three months definite and three indefinite on each count. The sentences will run concurrently.

Detective Wright said the accused last Dec. 7, obtained gasoline from Morris Fitzgerald with an N.S.F. cheque for $6.15.

On Dec. 9, Storms obtained credit to the amount of $100.03 for some Christmas trees from Michael Fitzgerald by tendering an N.S.F. cheque.

Baby Seal Thrives On Milk in Bottle Wrapped in Fur

Santa Barbara, Calif., April 12 — (AP) — Vance Phillips found a 15-pound baby seal abandoned on the beach, took it home and tried to feed it with a baby's bottle.

But the flippered infant did not get the idea and began losing weight.

Phillips took the animal to the Museum of Natural History. Miss June Hopkins, museum aide, wrapped the bottle in fur and gave it to the seal.

The youngster is growing plump again.

Claims Estate in U.S. For Relatives Behind Iron Curtain

Bellingham, Wash., April 12 — (AP) — It was all couched in good legal terms, mind you, but the State of Washington Tuesday said it isn't inclined to put much stock in a claim by the government of Bulgaria.

A suit filed here by the Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Exetraordinary of the People's Republic of Bulgaria claimed the $7,000 estate of the late Costa Rangeloff, a coal miner.

Rangeloff, said the Bulgaria

Family Rendered Homeless by Fire

A flash fire resulting from an explosion occurring as the owner was applying floor preparation Tuesday night rendered a family of three persons homeless in the 9th concession of Thurlow township.

The family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wilkinson and their five-year-old son, Wayne, escaped only with the clothes they had on. The household contents and frame dwelling were completely destroyed.

Mr. Wilkinson stated he was applying a wax preparation to the floor when the liquid caught fire the acrid fumes forcing he and his wife and their son out of the building. The fumes were so heavy they were unable to re-enter the home and a few minutes later the kitchen oil stove exploded spreading the flames.

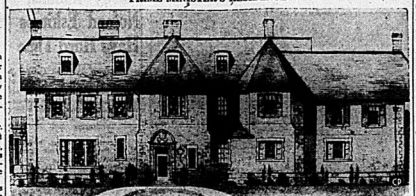
Hair Singed

As result of the flash fire starting from the floor preparation Mr. Wilkinson had his hair and eyebrows singed. Only two dining room chairs and a settee were saved from the building.

Three members of the Belleville Fire Department under Fire Chief Gerald Vance responded to the alarm with the city pumper but before the fire truck had covered the 12 miles the fire was beyond control. Water was pumped from a spring creek 400 feet distant to keep a neighboring house and barn wetted down. A heavy wind was blowing at the time.

Mr. Wilkinson is proprietor of The Swap Shop in Belleville and had acquired the rural home as living accommodation. The home had recently been completely renovated with a bathroom installed.

M. P. and E. E. through a local lawyer, left three sisters and a brother in Bulgaria.



"Balderdash," answered the state in longer words. "We doubt if Rangeloff has any heirs behind the iron curtain — and if he had, we doubt they would get the money from the People's Republic."

Toronto—(CP)—A government wildlife expert said today there are coyotes and coyote hybrids "all over southern Ontario."

Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, chief of the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Ontario Lands Department, said there is "no reason why they couldn't cross the St. Lawrence River into New York State."

He was commenting on a Washington dispatch which said coyotes seen crossing the river may in some cases be the parents of a coyote-dog hybrid which attacks deer, livestock and poultry in northern New York State.

Dr. Harkness said, however, that the migration routes of the animals are not certain. The hybrids also were found in Ohio and it was just likely that they reached New York without entering Canada.

Coyotes "came east" with the clearing of land in the northwest, Dr. Harkness said. They were responsible for some killing of game and livestock in Ontario.

SEX OFFENDERS HIT

Albany, N.Y., April 12 — (AP) —Sex offenders may be sentenced to prison for any period up to life, under terms of a bill Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York state signed Tuesday. The law also sets up a broad program for combating sex crime through psychiatric treatment of offenders. It bars their release on parole unless they are considered "good risks" by state authorities

WORKERS ACCEPT

The pensions scheme will go into effect four months after the month in which it is accepted by the union, which will be Sept. 1. It can be negotiated again after five years and will be administered by a joint board with equal company and union trustee representation under a neutral chairman.

He highlight is company acceptance of part of the union's proposed system of compiling past service. Breaks of less than four years in an employee's service will be counted as continuous service. Longer work breaks will be subtracted from the employee's continuous service record for pensions consideration.

30 Years' Service

Top retirement pension of $55 monthly will be paid to workers with 30-year records retiring at age 65, and pensions will be graduated down to $30 a month as seen with 10 years service retiring at 65. Shorter service is not considered under the plan.

Both company and union officials expresses satisfaction with the agreement.

Company officials estimated the cost of the pensions plan at $1,000,000 annually but future pension runs are about $1,650,000 additional year to finance past service on the basis of a 10-year funding scheme.

The new health and social security plan, entirely financed jointly by company and employees, will be put into effect by the company. Among improved benefits, starting April 15, will be a 50-per-cent increase in life insurance, and an increase in the maximum period of hospitalization benefits from 21 to 70 days.

Minimum weekly benefits for disability care have been increased to $25 and the maximum period of benefits from 13 to 26 weeks.

Among the 36 contract changes are several which union spokesmen considered major points. They include a clause allowing factory arbitrators to depart from statutory penalties at their own discretion and another clause which permits the union to make complaints of alleged speed-ups direct to top management to avoid what the union called "the most frequent causes of wildcat strikes in automobile industry."

Weekly Pay Cheques

Hourly workers will get weekly pay cheques. Instead of twice monthly, rest periods are allowed before starting overtime periods of two hours or more; and the probationary period for new employees is reduced from 180 to 90 days.

No additional paid holidays or extended vacations, as asked by the union, were granted.

The pension dispute, which has lasted more than a year, has been regarded by union leaders in Canada as a possible pattern for future labor negotiations in Canada.

Pension talks have also been going on here between the Chrysler Corporation of Canada Limited and Amalgamated Local 195 of the U.A.W. as in the Ford negotiations, Local 195 asked for company-paid retirement pensions of $100 a month and the company countered with $55-a-month offer.

An arbitration board met recently and its report is awaited. Meanwhile, 4,000 Chrysler workers in Windsor are laid off because of a Chrysler strike in Detroit over the same issue.

GRADUAL CHANGES

"In the final analysis," said Mr. Porter, "great responsibility will rest on the shoulders of teachers. Only teachers who favor the new scheme will be asked to undertake it."

Along with the teachers the whole community would play a significant part in designing this more flexible program.

He told the County Council section of the delegates and trustees earlier that "the young people must be impressed with the imminent need of a conservation program and with its future benefits."

More Stress on Youngsters

He told a general meeting that details of the school curriculum should matter less and less so long as the program is a challenge to the student's capabilities.

The school trustees and ratepayers were told by Chancellor C. J. Gilmour of McMaster University, Hamilton, that education became dangerous when "amateur S. R. Ross of Windsor, president of the Ontario Educational Association, said that the modern teurs become frightened of professionals and allow themselves to be bullied by us so that we can have our fling without risk of criticism."

He said teachers should be free of destructive criticism, free of misunderstanding "and free of the degradation that somehow has touched the profession. . ."

600.00 Illiterate

An Ottawa teacher P. J. Kennedy told the Catholic Education conference that 600,000 Canadians over the age of five are illiterate. He said he felt no one "can seriously contend that we are affording Canadian youth education democracy."

Federal grants to education in Canada would go a long way toward alleviating the inequalities existing in educational systems, Mr. Kennedy told the separate schools section. He said the grants should be given on the basis of need and school population—"the same fair basis as family allowances."

Mr. Kenedy said the poorest province are those with the greatest birth rate and the greatest number of children to educate. He said federal grants, distributed according to the number of children, would help guarantee all Canadian children equal rights to educational opportunities.

GRADUAL

To Ask Federal Aid

John J. Connelly of Ottawa told the Catholic Education Conference that 3,400 of Ontario's 18,000 teachers work in Separate Schools. Of the province's 8,849 elementary schools, 947 are Separate schools.

However, he said, the percentage of Catholic private schools is higher. Of 44 girls' schools, 34 are Catholic and 17 of the 26 boy's schools.

The Ontario Federation of Catholic Parent-Teachers' Associations, formed last year, will ask federal aid on the same grounds as the Home and School Association, said Mrs. Ross Van Zubin, vice-president.

The federation registered its continued opposition to sex comic books and also to what it called the increase of nude and almost nude figures in magazine covers displayed on news stands.

J. T. Kerr, Oshawa, was elected president of the federation.

Hardy Indians, Nomad Eskimos Have Hard Time

Winnipeg, April 12 (CP)— A measles epidemic and threats of famine are adding to the normal burden of hardy Indians and nomad Eskimos who scratch a bare livelihood from the barren North-west Territories and Northern Manitoba.

The plight of the Eskimos arose when their winter larders, slim because of a switch in the fall migration route of Caribou, were emptied.

An R.C.A.F. plane has dropped emergency rations in the Ennadai district, and an R.C.M.P. constable is investigating the possibility of moving northern nomads about 125 miles south to Neutlin Lake where they may be employed in a fish products plant.

Eskimos at Padlei will have more trouble if the migration of Caribou should bypass the district.

Eskimos in the Point-Chesterfield Inlet district on the west coast of Hudson Bay were the centre of a poliomyelitis epidemic last year. Thirteen died before the scourge was halted in January.

KEEPS REASON TO SELF

Ottawa, April 12 — (CP) — Mysteries of the mind of a woman.

Mrs. Elsie Berwick, found guilty of allowing a dog to run at large, decided she'd rather go to jail than pay the $3 fine.

"You will have to go to jail for one day", said Deputy Magistrate Sauve sympathetically. "But I'd like to know why you have this dog at all."

Mrs. Berwick pursed her lips and remained silent.

THIRTEEN AIRMEN

The air force said no buildings were involved in the crash.

Officials declined to say, however, whether the plane fell in an area about which there have been guarded reports in the past hinting at underground atomic installations.

Air force officials said the plane plowed directly into the mountainside instead of making a turn or steering to gain altitude to clear the peak.

It was the second tragedy at Sandia in slightly less than a month. Fifteen military prisoners died in a fire at the base prison March 8.

ESKIMO BOY TREATED

Halifax, April 12 — (CP) — Oolak, a 12-year-old Eskimo boy, whose feet were infected with gangrene, was flown here by an RCAF aircraft and taken to the naval hospital.

The RCAF flew the boy here from Goose Bay, Labrador, after a long flight to his home at Arctic Bay, 250 miles inside the Arctic Circle on the northern tip of Baffin Island. The infection was said to have resulted from frozen feet.

GALES DELAY LINER

Southampton, England, April 12 — (AP) — Heavy Atlantic gales have delayed the luxury liner Queen Mary at least two more hours on her way from New York, the Cunard White Star Line said Tuesday.

Big Budgetary Surpluses no Longer Needed

Ottawa, April 12. (CP)—With inflation resulting from war at an end, big budgetary surpluses built to fight inflationary effects no longer are needed, Finance Minister Abbott said Tuesday night.

That was one reason why the government was budgeting for only a small surplus—$20,000,000 —in the 1950-51 fiscal year, the minister added.

Mr. Abbott spoke in a free-time political broadcast in the "nation's business" series over the CBC's Trans-Canada network.

He said he believed that if any of his listeners had been in his shoes, they would have brought down the same kind of budget he brought down in the House of Commons March 28—a budget in which revenues are expected to be a little more than enough to meet expenditures, "but not much more."

2,000 WORKERS INVOLVED

Cornwall, April 12 — (CP) — Ontario Labor Relations Board will conduct a hearing at Toronto, April 19, concerning an application by the United Paper Makers of America, C.I.O. to be certified as bargaining agent for workers at the Cornwall division Howard Smith Paper Mills Limited. About 2,000 workers are involved.

Police prevented re-occurrence of fighting at the Trenton, Ont., textile plant where a strike has been in effect for 15 weeks. On Tuesday police escorted 100 workers through picket lines into the plant after they had arrived by bus. Here the strike-breakers are surrounded by cheering citizens as they prepare to enter the plant.—Central Press Canadian.

Conservatives Cannot Be Blamed for Wondering How To Win a Cheer or Two

London, April 12 — (CP) — Britain's Conservative party can hardly be blamed for wondering what it has to do to win a cheer or two.

After enduring five weary years as second fiddle to the Labor government's overwhelming forces, Winston Churchill and company find that a position of near parity in parliament bears its own special responsibilities.

Briefly, the Conservative complaint is that they are accused of shirking their duties if they give Labor too much slack, and of irresponsibility if they do try to take a fall out of the government.

The situation is particularly painful for a party which during the 1945-50 parliament was repeatedly reminded by government spokesmen of its inferior position.

Thus when last February's general election left the two main political groups nearly equal in strength, the Conservatives obviously relished their new status. But they promised not to abuse it: National considerations were to come first, party politics second.

Anthony Eden, deputy Conservative leader, said there would be no "factious or fractious" opposition.

Protests Made

This brought protests from sections of the Conservative press, which warned against flattering, irresolute policies. A couple of weeks later, Churchill's forces caught Labor napping on a minor issue, and defeated the government by 26 votes.

That didn't please the critics, either. The Observer, a weekly newspaper which jealously guards its independence, wrote that in deciding on a snap decision, the Conservatives cast themselves in the role of schoolboys organizing a practical joke.

"If the Conservatives set out to humiliate the government they will discredit themselves, while handing the government the sympathy which in this country always goes to the underdog," the Observer said in a critical leading editorial.

Angry Letters Written

Correspondence columns of the serious newspapers were filled with angry letters from Conservative members denying that the government defeat had been any kind of organized ambush or sneak bush, but the Observer stuck to its guns.

Critics of the Conservatives also cropped up in an unexpected quarter. Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, always anti-socialist and usually pro-Conservative, opened its columns to an avowed Liberal, Charles Wintour.

Under the heading "Don't Trust The Tories," Wintour warned Liberal leaders to watch out for the Conservatives. He said the Tories will treat the Liberals like fish worms—as bait to catch the big fish in the form of votes."

Walkout Fails To Impress Port Of Naples

Naples, April 12 (CP)— Communist-led trade unionists, prevented by a heavy guard of police and soldiers from hampering the unloading at Italy's first shipment of American arms, called a general strike here today in protest.

But the scheduled eight-hour walkout appeared this morning to have had little effect on the normal life of this historic port in the shadow of Mt. Vésuvius.

The city's streetcars were exempted from the strike order and functioned normally. Stores opened on schedule.

Screened off by a strong cordon of troops, riot police and carabinieri non-communist dockhands unloaded the arms, mostly howitzers and other mountain equipment.

Communists had threatened mass demonstrations against the arrival of the arms, and urged the populace to turn out. But the demonstrations failed to materialize. The Communist-dominated Chamber of Labor then issued the strike call.

Fine Inadequate Claims Justice

Brampton, April 12 — (CP)— A fine of $25 for not remaining at the scene of an accident was termed Tuesday "totally inadequate" by Judge A. Cochrane in a written judgment of a Crown appeal for a beaver action against Norman Laver of Cooksville.

Judge Cochrane fined Laver $200 or 60 days and ordered his driver's licence suspended for six months.

"My own view is that if more hit-and-run drivers were given prison terms such offenses would not be as common as they are today," the Judge said in his judgment. "However, the public as a whole is somewhat inclined toward lenient treatment for traffic offenders . . ."

Laver was involved in a highway accident Sept. 25 on the Queen Elizabeth Highway in which William Sobola of Lakeview was killed. Laver gave himself up to police 24 hours later.

SNAKES ON SALE BY THE POUND

One Feared Lost After Terrific Blast on Ship

New York, April 12—(AP) — One person was feared lost but 50 others were reported saved Tuesday night from a terrific explosion and fire which ravaged a Norwegian ship in mid-Atlantic.

The United States coast guard said radio messages from an Italian rescue ship reported 40 crew members and 10 passengers of the blast-racked freighter Geisha had been picked up from lifeboats. The first mate of the 5,113-ton Geisha was reported missing. Earlier it was believed all hands were saved.

The rescue ship, the Maria Paolina G, radioed that the Geisha was carrying a cargo of nitrates, a high explosive, when the first in a series of blasts rocked the ship about noon Tuesday.

"Following the explosions," the radio reports said, "the whole ship burst into fire."

It was first thought that the Norwegian vessel would sink immediately, but the ship today was described as "drifting" and "still on fire."

The burning ship was some 1,443 miles east of New York and 400 miles west of the Azores.

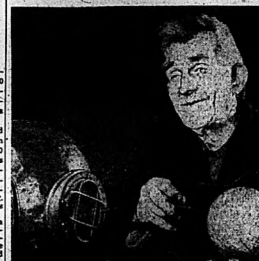
Sabbatical Leave For Teachers Is Suggested

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 12 — (CP) — A sabbatical leave plan available to all Ontario teachers has been suggested by the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation, now convening here.

The suggestion will be passed on to the Ontario Teachers' Federation.

The proposal is that certain teachers, after a specified period of service, would be granted a year's leave of absence, with full or part pay, for study or travel. The plan would be similar to that already in operation in Toronto and London, Ont., and in some United States cities.

SCHOOL FOR FLORISTS



Guelph, April 12 — (CP) —A school for florists may be held here at the end of June.

Lectures on salesmanship, business management and other phases of the retail flower trade are planned for the course. It is proposed to hold it at the Ontario Agricultural College under sponsorship of the National Association of the Florist Industry, Allied Florists and Growers of Canada, Inc.

AIM OF LABOR CITED

Vancouver, April 12 — (CP)— Harvey Cutterill, Canadian Congress of Labor political action director, said Tuesday night the major aim of labor this year must be the $100-a-month-pension."C. C. L. unions, he told the Vancouver Labor Council, will aim their sights on such a pension for every Canadian citizen, "whether he belongs to a union or not."

Students Snatch Coffin of Cakmak From Pallbearers

Istanbul, Turkey, April 12 — (Reuters) — A crowd of angry students snatched the coffin containing the body of Marshal Fevzi Cakmak from the hands of Turkish army pallbearers when the National funeral was due to begin today.

The incident occured outside the Beyazit Mosque. The students rushed the coffin towards Eyoub Cemetery leaving generals, cabinet members, government leaders and diplomatic representatives standing astonished behind the gun carriage.

Demonstrators were reported Tuesday to have considered that insufficient official notice had been taken of the death Monday of Cakmak, one of Turkey's greatest heroes and former Chief of the General Staff.

Cakmak was 78. He was among the closest collaborators of Kemal Ataturk in founding the new Turkey and creating her modern army.

Indigents Not Brutally Treated Police Report

Montreal, April 12 — (CP) — Police Lieut.-Col. Gabriel Piche yesterday answered accusations made by veteran city Councillor Victor Levesque that indigents here were brutally treated by police.

In a letter to L. A. Lapointe, Montreal's director of services, Mr. Levesque voiced his indignation at the way indigents were sheltered in police cells for the night.

Stating that his station housed between 25 and 35 indigents per night who sleep on floors and on benches, Lieut. Piche remarked "I am wholeheartedly in agreement with Mr. Levesque that the situation is appalling, but what can we do unless we leave those people in the cold?"

He said the indigents, from as far away as Vancouver, came to the police station of their own will and were never treated "in a brutal manner" by police.

He also said that nine out of 10 homeless were orderly persons out of work and eager to work and drew attention to the fact that they were not "night birds" or drunken tramps.

Harding Fund Reaches $8,580

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — Reeve O. E. Crockford of suburban Scarboro township said last night the fund for the Harding family total $8,580.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harding last week lost all their eight children in the worst residential fire in the township's history.

Donations of food and clothing have poured in from various organizations and citizens wanting to help the family. The Hardings have been promised free labor and most of the materials for construction of a new home.

Michael Nicols, vice-president of the Building and Construction Trades Council (A.F.L) said his organization is prepared to serve as co-ordinator in building the new home.

More Than Half of Canada's Deep-Sea Shipping Fleet Approved for U.K. Registry

Ottawa, April 12 — (CP) — Canada's deep-sea shipping fleet is rapidly getting pared to the 400-ship nucleus laid down by the federal government.

The streamlining program has reached the point where more than half the Canadian-owned fleet has been approved for United Kingdom registry under the government's plan of having the ships operated at low cost out of the Old Country.

Only about 20 remain to be designated for U.K. registry to fill out the quota which the British government has accepted in a move to save the Canadian vessels from being laid up or disposed of because of tough ocean competition.

Of the remaining 51 of the 174-ship fleet, 40 are to be subsidized in the extent of $3,000,000 for a single year by the federal government under the plan. It announced last December for allowing a portion of the big post-war merchant navy.

Beset by Difficulties

The plan was worked out between the Canadian Maritime Commission and the United Kingdom Government when Canada's shipping became operating costs are second-highest in the world, found themselves beset by competitive difficulties.

Under the scheme, Britain is accepting 123 Canadian vessels for registry in that country. Operating costs must be sliced to British standards — saving some $300 a year. Then, Canadian-owned ships also will be able to pick up sterling cargoes.

Ownership will remain in Canada, with the operators getting their net profits after the U.K. is dollars.

Some 92 ships already approved for registry in the U.K. 35 had been sailing out of Canadian ports, the other 57 built during the war in Canada, had been laid-up awaiting to the U.K. government but were due to return to Canadian registry this year. They will remain under the British flag.

GARBAGE COLLECTORS BACK TO WORK

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — It will take four days for trucks to clear suburban York Township streets of uncollected garbage following a 36-hour strike of civic employees which ended Tuesday.

Work Commissioner O. M. Falls said garbage collectors who returned to work Tuesday afternoon will work all day Saturday to catch up.

Township council agreed Tuesday to pay the 230 strikers statutory holiday wages for Good Friday. The union asked for wage increases up to the Toronto wage scale. This would mean a raise from 4^1-2 cents to 17 cents an hour.

Organizer of the United Textile Workers A. F. of L., George Becket was arrested Monday and charged with assault, later released on bail. He said the strike would continue, and more pickets would be assigned to the plant.

BANK THIEF CAPTURED

St. Louis, April 12 — (AP) —A 26-year-old man captured by a woman bank teller has been involved in bank thefts amounting to more than $1,000,000, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said today. William R. Evans was charged Tuesday with larceny of a bank. Miss Audrey Lewerenz, a teller, captured Evans with the help of a passer-by Monday. She chased Evans through downtown streets and stores after more than $1,500 was taken from her bank.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

"Can we get a few drinks, Joe?"

"Oh, oh, hello there, Mr. Laswell, Mrs. Laswell. How you been?" He nodded at Tim. He turned a broad grin upon Greg and Diane. "Whatcha gonna have?

"Three beers, Joe," Greg said. "And I want you to know my friend Tim Donovan. Tim and Joe shook hands and Greg added "Joe Gage, Tim."

"You must have been talking when you should have been listening," Tim said, looking at the bruise on Joe's jaw.

But Joe didn't see anything funny in the remark. His grin faded and he stared at Tim in silence, his eyes seeming to search the man's face for some sign of hidden meaning. Then he lifted his eyebrows in an expression of eloquent contempt and said, "three beers. Be right witcha." He turned on his heel and went to the bar.

"You must have been talking when you should have been listening," Greg quoted, looking up at the ceiling. A very useful expression, Timothy. And by the way you ought to observe the strong and beautiful shoulders of Joe Gage. He didn't put too much of a fight with Bruce, but I don't think he could have if he'd wanted to."

Greg stared at his friend, sadly shook his head. "I shouldn't have said it. I guess I—"

Diane had been quiet all this time except for a few gestures, but even then her words had been muffled by the words of Greg and Joe. Now she leaned her pretty chin on her hands as she hunched over the table and turned around to look directly at Tim.

"I'm all for you Tim, I hope you get to the bottom of all this nonsense but I don't think should any man take a crack on the jaw without fighting back!" Her lustrious dark eyes swung to her husband. "You act as if you were involved in a thing yourself, Greg—what do you care if Tim wants to finds out the story back of all this? Last year we talked about it ourselves—you know we did. And this year you act as if it was all straightened out."

It was a long speech but Greg listened attentively, and when Diane had finished he laid his hand gently on her wrist, just below her chin. "You look cute, Di," he said, "with your head bobbing up and down when you talk. And you're right about Tim. He has every right to nose around all he wants. But I'm telling you to keep out of it. That was what Joe suddenly hard—"and no nonsense about that."

Joe returned then with the beer and as he set the glasses down Diane stared in genuine surprise at her husband. She didn't look at Joe except to observe that he fairly dropped the glasses on the table and returned to the bar without saying a word or looking at any of them.

"The fellow is really annoyed with me," Tim said. "I hope I haven't spoiled a beautiful friendship. He isn't even talking to you."

"I don't think he's sore," Greg said. "He's got a lot of customers to be handling alone."

"Yeah," said Tim. "I guess that is what he thought. A woman helping him now. Looks like it might be his wife. Oh, oh. Joe is taking a runout powder."

Diane leaned over toward the edge of the table to get a look into the room but Joe had gone out a side door and ate didn't see him. A moment later they heard a car start up out back, then the sound of tires on gravel as Joe turned out of the yard toward the highway.

They sat there, Tim and Greg and Diane, for an hour and a half after that, and Joe's wife served them three or four more beers. The other customers kept the record-player going when the corny three-piece band was recuperating at the bar, and with the noise of laughing couples and the music and general Saturday night excitement time ate the time passed swiftly.

It was almost 2 o'clock when Tim finally gave voice to what they'd all been thinking. "Joe's been gone a long time."

Greg didn't say anything but he looked at Tim gravely and nodded.

"I'd sure like to know what the fight was about," Diane said. "Then Greg broke down a bit, too. "I imagine it was over Bruce's drinking Di," he said.

"Probably some lie here and asked Joe for a drink and Joe refused. I think Grace and Joe have an agreement on that subject. And as far as Joe's dashing out of here is concerned, I bet he went to the lodge to tell Grace what happened. He has a lot of respect for Grace Thurman, and he's always liked Bruce."

"I bet he doesn't like Bruce much right now," Tim said. "A poke in the jaw like that one could break up any friendship."

"Maybe Bruce was drunk when he hit Joe," Diane said thoughtfully. "That might be why Joe didn't hit him back."

"Maybe," said Gregg.

Joe's wife then she side opened again and Joe came in. Tim could see him from where he sat and he nudged Diane. Greg was avoiding Tim's eyes, staring with a slight frown at his cigarette as he tapped its ashes into the tray in the centre of the table.

Diane leaned over as far as she could and she and Tim saw Joe step quietly behind the bar and plunge his hands into a tub of water there and then dry them on a towel hanging from a nail on the back wall. His wife looked at him with an expression of suppressed anger, then brushed past him and went outside.

Diane straightened up again as Joe began taking care of his bar chores and she said to Tim, anticipating his question: "Joe's house is out in back. He's a farmer mostly; just runs this place for a little side money. I think his wife hates it, too, but Joe's the boss in that family."

Greg gave her a curious look. Diane answered sweetly.

Greg winked at Tim. "The first requirement for a successful marriage," he said, "Keep the little woman properly cowed."

They finished their drinks then and got up and went out to their car. The drive back to the lodge only took about 15 minutes and they talked about nothing much except the brilliance of the moonlight and how cold it had gotten. Greg parked the car in the open shed back of the lodge and they walked up the winding path through the pines to their cottage. All the other cottages were dark.

Greg and Diane went directly to bed but Tim sat up for a while to have a last cigarette and finish a story he was reading in a month-old magazine. Then he tossed some ashes over the fire in the fireplace, turned out the lights and went back to the guest bedroom in the rear of the cottage.

The bed felt good because he was tired, but for some reason he didn't feel sleepy. For perhaps half an hour he toured restlessly, trying to strike a comfortable position, but at last he gave it up as a bad job and realigned himself to lying there with his eyes open staring into the blackness with him.

He didn't know how long he lay there like that, but suddenly a sound that seemed to come from outside startled him. He shook his head to clear it of the sleep that must have come upon him and quickly got out of bed. He crossed to the open window facing the path up which they had come a short time ago and peered out. In the shadowy light of the moon he could make out the path, could barely see the dewy, glistening roof of the shed where they'd parked the car, but that was all. He turned to the other window on the north wall of the room, opposite his bed, but that opened toward thick woods through which the moonlight didn't penetrate. He stood there for several minutes listening but he heard no sound. At last he got back back into bed, and in a little while he dropped off into sleep.

It seemed to Tim that he woke up thinking about that sound he'd heard during the night. He knew he'd dreamt about it and in the dream it had grown into an enormous thing, a crashing sound as of some heavy body falling among dried branches. But the dream had no other parts that he could remember and he had to conclude that, having been half-asleep when he heard it, it was more a subconscious recollection than an out-and-out dream.

He was up and dressed before Greg and Diane began to stir, and when he finally heard Greg moving around inside room he called out that he would meet them in the dining room.

"Okay," Greg called back. "But don't wait for us. Go ahead and get a coffee. We'll be there in 20 minutes."

But Tim was anxious to get on his way to scout around back of the cottage and find out what had taken during the night, making so much noise that it woke him up.

He went around back to the path. He walked slowly in the direction of the shed. He had to pass back of the cottage where Jean Radcliffe and the Carsons and Mort Taylor were staying, and he heard voices inside but he couldn't understand what was said. He noticed then that the path, just before it tipped steeply down the hill to the shed, came within about 10 feet of a small gully or ravine. The ravine wasn't deep but it was thick with brush and scrub pine. He peered into it as he passed, saw something down at the bottom, almost concealed by the brush caught his eye. He looked away quickly and hurried on. When he reached the shed he sauntered past it to the far end, then circled around back and walked about 30 feet up the ravine. He stopped and stared for a moment at the body of Bruce Thurman, then walked slowly down to the lodge.

Young Indian Seaman Popular With Patients

Glasgow, April 12 (Reuters)—Behind the sombre "out of bounds" notice and whitewashed wall of the isolation compound at Glasgow's Robroyston Hospital where smallpox patients and suspects are cut off from the outside world, a young man is brightening the tedium for the small quarantined community.

He is Mussa Ali, a young Indian seaman who carried from Bombay the deadly smallpox germ to Scotland. The outbreak has so far killed five Clydeside women and a baby girl and scared almost 1,000,000 people into vaccination queues.

Ali no longer shows any signs of the disease, but it will be at least another two weeks before he returns to his seafaring life.

Meanwhile, the monotony of life in the sealed off fever compound is forgotten as Ali struggles to find expression in English which is a long way removed from his native Hindustani. Already he is able to carry on a halting conversation with the other patients.

Popular with both patients and medical staff, scarcely an evening goes by without his entertaining nurses and patients with card tricks.

All travelled with 49 other Asiatic seamen from India on board the S.S. Chitral to man a ship which was lying in the Clyde basin.

Docking at Tilbury, near London, he travelled here to join his ship, but fell sick before re could board her.

Despite the tragedy which he involuntarily brought to Clydeside, there will be many at Robroyston who will wish him luck when he leaves the hospital.

Seretse Khama Cannot See Wife At Tribal Capital

Lobatsi, Bechuanaland, April 12—(Reuters)— Seretse Khama, whom the British government has refused to confirm as chief of the Bamangwato tribe, has been refused permission to see his wife at the tribal capital of Serowe, Seretse's lawyer said here Tuesday night.

Lawyer P. Fraenkel added that the original understanding when Seretse returned from London consultations with the government was that he would be allowed to visit the Bamangwato reserve for his wife's confinement, expected in June. His request to go there now had been refused.

In Johannesburg, the British information office said Seretse must furnish "precise information" he intended to marry before he is allowed to visit the Bamangwato tribal area.

Stromboli Given Adult Rating

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — "Stromboli" has been given an "adult entertainment" rating by the Canadian Motion Picture censorship board and passed for showing in Ontario.

The film, produced by Roberto Rossellini, and starring Ingrid Bergman, has been criticized by church groups as a result of an extramarital affair between Rossellini and Miss Bergman.

Want Additional Help to Feed Canada Geese

Pembroke, April 12—(CP) — The Pembroke District Fish and Game Association Tuesday night called on the federal and Ontario governments for additional help in feeding thousands of Canada geese now northward bound in their annual migrations.

Association officials said at least $2,000 worth of feed would be required to feed the 8,000-odd geese flocking into this district. The geese normally stay here about a month during their northward flight. Officials said each government had agreed to provide $275 worth of feed.

Bolivia Outlaws Reds

An official statement said the move was necessary to prevent events "which could cause irreparable harm."

Last month the government announced it said smashed a communist revolutionary plot directed by a high-ranking Russian army officer sent by Bolivia by the cominform. Six days ago a police official announced the capture of Soviet agent but gave no additional details.

Bolivia Outlaws Reds

An official statement said the move was necessary to prevent events "which could cause irreparable harm."

Last month the government announced it said smashed a communist revolutionary plot directed by a high-ranking Russian army officer sent by Bolivia by the cominform. Six days ago a police official announced the capture of Soviet agent but gave no additional details.

The Frankford fire brigade were called out Sunday, to a chimney fire started at the home of Jerry Flevak. However, prompt action by Mr. Flevak and some helpers quickly extinguished the fire, and no assistance was required from the fire truck.

The First Frankford Boy Scout Troop held their weekly meeting Friday afternoon in the form of a hike. The boys travelled north along Trent Street, and above the village to the sid-run, where they stopped and cooked a meal. The Fox Patrol laid a trail covering several miles in that district, and the other Patrols followed the signs left. A Court of Honor meeting was held on the hill before returning to Frankford. In the evening, the boys worked on posters and signs for their Patrol corners.

A special open meeting was held in Frankford United Church Sunday School Easter Sunday. In place of the regular class meeting, teachers from the various departments brought a short talk to the lesson to the whole Sunday School: Members of Mrs. Johns' class of small boys presented a pencil sack in which they had been saving pennies for several months, to the Missionary fund. An attendance of 208 was recorded. This is the 103rd the United Church Sunday School has had an average attendance of 100, which is quite outstanding in view of the great amount of sickness during the first two months of the year.

MOTHER-IN-LAW QUIET: "Next month I'm entering a widower with two young children. I would like to appear in all ways a normal wife. Should I tell him I've had a mother-in-law? Should I mention that she is a very quiet soul?"

What a lovely mother you'd make, Jamblyn would like to say. But he would tell her that if she's going to marry, I don't think it would make any difference.

QUICK FACTACT: "I'm a stranger in Toronto. Can you tell me where in Toronto I'm likely to find Tweeds?" Try the new Tweeden Dress give quick, effective relief. Just 1 dose in water is guaranteed up to make 2 pints of delicious, refreshing drink.

The new Tweeden address is 14 Bloor Street West but those small centrally located drug stores listed in the Toronto Telephone Directory will be glad to give you directions. Tweeden is also available in handy packages of 14 doses for 50c.

CROSS-EYED BABY: "Our baby, eight months old, is cross-eyed. Is she too young for an operation?"

Most doctors claim that many young children outgrow cross-eyedness, but the condition should not be left if the child becomes older. But if you're worried, take your baby to a good doctor. That sets your mind at rest.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H./CARVER, Sports Editor

If "Ole Josh" Townsend ("Red" to us guys in the Belleville back-fifties) and his COSHA basketball champions from the green pastures of good ole BCI, at present engaged in jousting with the best the high-school knowledge-knibbling quintets of the province can produce, earn no other distinction it can be said they were selected as an outstanding team if only through nomenclature.

In the good old days when we were the mainstays, paddless hockey paraphernalia and basketball briefs of drab old PCI we were taught that the geographical boundaries of this fair Dominion were Alaska and the United States on the north and south and sidewise a couple of oceans called the Atlantic and Pacific.

We were also taught that Montreal was a great big city in Quebec where once upon a time an English general by the name of Wolfe, after eradicating with bonnes la monnaie-climbing, bet a Frenchman by the name of Montcalm three frigates, seven punchoons of mulled ale, half-interest in Lloyds, a seat on the Stock Exchange, and season's tickets to Drury Lane, that he could take him in one fall. The bout was staged on the Plains of Abraham in one of the greatest outdoor shows of the era. Wolfe won the bout but lost his title to the "peasant" (farmer, in those days).

We also learned that Tawrasia was formerly known as "Muddy York" and later dubbed by cut-of-town sports writers and others "Hogtown."

Tawrasia, we afterwards learned, was a place where Pop, Uncle Ben, Obediah, Theophilus and Sawtooth took our aunts, and herds of cattle to the annual fair. That is they took the cattle to the fair and the aunts to a hotel. The aunts came back with pockets-full of cash, the cattle with colored ribbons, and the aunts with hat-boxes, new clothes and the firm resolve that in future they would ask for blue-prints of dimly-lit hotel room corridors so they could find the proper doors-to-enter without barring in unintentionally on honey-moon couples or poker games.

And we discovered, too, although not in the cloistered classrooms of good ole PCI, that Montreal was a place for, Uncles Bim, Obediah, Theophilus and Sawtooth visited at long intervals. And that Montreal and the old country home, it appeared there were no fairs in Montreal while the "boys" were away on business.

They were farmers, and danged proud of it. They weren't ashamed of their high celluloid collars and shiny blue suits. True, smart city aleck twitted them about their calling, but the yanks paid no attention. That is, all but Sawtooth. One day while walking along the Rue de San Katrina, a wizened little pasty-faced tout lolling on a street corner with his pals, made a slurring remark about farmers.

Sawtooth didn't hesitate. He stopped, grabbed the half-pint runt by his coat lapels, held him high in the air, and slowly lowered him to the ground, all the while keeping the face with palms that were hornier and harder than a hardhead in the runt's back. Then he let the little runt down and hoisted him into the next block with a drop-kick that would make the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame go green with envy.

It seems, at least since we've been old enough to have fans, especially those in the adolescent age, of any communities and especially the metropolitan areas, take umbrage at light in dubbing the baseball, hockey, cricket, checkers, canasta or marbles opposition from a small town, "farmers."

Or, in baseball games with the small-town pitcher on the mound are heard the derisive calls, "Take the big farmer outta there. Time to milk the cows, youse guys. That allya got, hayseed?"

Farmers? Sure. And proud of it. It will be a sorry day indeed for major sport on this continent if the powers-that-be ever decide to confine tournament to populations of the metropoli and slightly-less larger centres. The idea is fiendish is ridiculous, for the vast majority of the world's outstanding athletes claim the Parkdales, Cabbagetowns, Shelgum Creeks and the rural barleybeard boulevards as their home towns.

And if every athlete so born was obliged to retain the tag "farmer" then the mighty National and American Baseball Leagues, the National and American Hockey Leagues should add the word "agricultural" to their imposing titles.

Coach "Red" Townsend's fighting BCI basketball crew were dubbed "farmers" by an irate Niagara Falls coach after the "farmers" defeated his team. Monday night in Toronto when the "Red-Hots" defeated the Jarvis Collegiate Institute team, and get this, the team that was picked by the secretary of the Ontario Federation of Secretary Schools and no other, to enter the tournament finals with the Windsor entry, the word "farmers" echoed in the Sir Oven York gym from Jarvis supporters.

But "Ole Josh" Townsend, tongue-in-cheek and his Belleville "barleybards", like Ole Man River "just kept rollin' along" and defeated the Jarvis prides in what the officials of OSSAA secretary Dali, While called an "upset".

To a hardened veteran of the basketball court, hockey cushion and football gridiron like "Red" Townsend, the tag "Farmer" means as much and less as the spray that falls on the proverbial duck's back. The same goes for his charges. As a matter of fact, the Jarvis studes' idea of perhaps demoralising the BCI squad, or at least "getting their goat" seems to have boomeranged judging from the result of the game.

If such is the case, we'll tag along with the "city slickers" and dub the Church Streeters "farmers". This is being written before the score of the BCI-Ottawa CI game came in, but in any event we're pulling for the — city, we'll go snooty, agriculturists from the "sticks" of Belleville.

Red Wings Off to Flying Start In Stanley Cup Series After Beating N.Y. 4-1 in Opener

By CHARLES C. CAIN

Detroit, April 12 — (AP) — Detroit Red Wings are off to a flying start in the final Stanley Cup hockey playoffs, and it appears that New York Rangers will have a hard time catching them.

The Red Wings, playing without their two star forwards—Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe who were out with injuries — whipped the New Yorkers 4-1 Tuesday night.

The victory put the Wings one up in the best-of-seven championship series which shifts to Toronto for games No. 2 and 3 Thursday and Saturday nights. New York must play its "home" games in Toronto because a circus has moved into New York's Madison Square Garden.

The fast New Yorkers Tuesday night gained a one-goal lead in the first period, during which they skated circles around the Detroiters.

But the National Hockey League champions surged back with a four-goal blitz in the second period to take the game away. After that, the Detroiters played defensive hockey against the Rangers' futile efforts for a tally.

The game lacked the blood-and thunder physical play that marked Detroit's bruising semi-final series against Toronto Maple Leafs. In fact, a goodly number of the 13,415 fans filed out of the rink halfway in the third period.

Lot of Tough Luck

New York, which surprised everyone by slapping down Montreal in the semi-finals, had a lot of tough luck.

The Rangers picked up a first-period goal on Buddy O'Connor's six-foot poke, and just missed connecting on two other shots that bounced off the Detroit goal posts behind goalie Harry Lumley.

Coaches Lynn Patrick of New York and Tommy Ivan of Detroit agreed in post-game discussions that those near-misses cost the Rangers the game.

"The breaks certainly went against us on a couple of those shots," Patrick said.

The tying goal was scored by Joe Carveth as two Ranger players looked on from the penalty box. That came at 4:43, and within the next 10 minutes Jim McFadden, George Gee and Jerry Couture slapped in goals to make it a 4-1 game.

Rayner chalked up 22 saves during the evening, two less than Lumley, but most of the New Yorker's saves were on difficult shots that kept him hopping around.

Patrick blamed the loss on over-confidence.

Lineups:

Port Arthur Bruins Win Over Brandon

Port Arthur, April 12—(CP)—Port Arthur Bruins Tuesday night won the Western Canada Memorial Cup semi-final, defeating Brandon Wheat Kings 6-2. They took the best-of-seven hockey series 4-3.

Bruins, with three and one loss on home ice in the series, left no doubt of the outcome. They took a 2-0 lead in the first period added one in the second, and outgunned the Indians champs 3-2 in the finale.

Ray Bolvin and Maurice Levesque led the home-towners with two apiece. Gil Carlson and Bobby Wrightsell got the others.

Water Fowl Drops Almost 25 P.C. Within Last Year

(By The Canadian Press)

The United States government estimated Tuesday that the number of water fowl in North America dropped almost 25 per cent within the last year.

The United States Fish and Wildlife Service at Washington made the estimate in a report on the annual water-fowl inventory conducted Jan. 10 to 13 by more than 1,000 observers in the United States, Canada, Mexico and West Indies.

While the service declines to release its figures, experts outside the government had estimated the water-fowl population a year ago at 42,000,000.

Service director Albert M. Day said the late breeding season last year in the far north and drought in prairie sections of the United States and Canada combined to reduce production and account for much of the loss. He also said major factor was the heavy legal kill last season.

Election of 1950 officers will be a feature of the annual meeting of the Ontario Lacrosse Association's annual meeting at Toronto Saturday.

Three persons have been nominated for president including last year's top man J. G. McLeod, Owen Sound. Others nominated are: A. E. Brown, St. Catharines; and G. Hipkin, Brampton.

Secretary treasurer Charles Rowan and his assistant E. C. McDermott, both of Mimico, were returned by acclamation.

Montreal Y.M.H.A. juvenile Blues Tuesday night at Montreal trounced a weaker Toronto Y.M.H.A. squad 46-41 to take a two-game, total-point semi-final series 92-76 for the eastern Canada basketball crown. Toronto took the opener 35-30 Monday night.

At Buffalo, N.Y., Richard C. McCabe, one-time pitcher for Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago White Sox, died Tuesday night. He was 53. McCabe had been associated with a brewery for the last 19 years. During his baseball career McCabe also played with Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League Fort Worth of the Texas League, Jersey City and Buffalo of the International League.

At Toronto, Vancouver Eilers took the Canadian Senior Girls Basketball championship Tuesday night with their third straight victory over Toronto Montgomery Maids, 61-37. Eilers captured the lead from the opening whistle and increased it in every quarter for the highest score of the best-of-five series.

Windsor's A.K.O. junior basketball team won entry into the Dominion finals Tuesday night when it defeated Montreal Y.M.H.A. juniors 46-47 to win the two-game total-points series for the Eastern Canada Junior Basketball championship. Windsor advances to the series with a 129-75 score and will leave Thursday for Winnipeg to play Winnipeg Stellars in a best-of-five final series opening Saturday night.

Guelph Biltmores Lose First Game To Montreal 4-2

Montreal, April 12 —(CP) Montreal's junior Canadiens today are a step further along the Memorial Cup trail following a 4-3 decision Sunday night over Guelph Biltmores in the opening of their best-of-seven Eastern Canada final series.

The more experienced Montrealers, bolstered by a hometown crowd of 8,000 fans, displayed a smooth-skating and slick-passing attack that the visitors were unable to cope with.

Dickie Moore paced the winners with a pair of tallies, the other markers coming from the sticks of Art Rose and Bob Dawson. For the losers, it was his brother combination of Andy and Frank Bathgate.

The edge in play sported by the junior Habs was backed up by shots on goal—30 for the Montrealers, 21 for the Ontario champions.

But the game also was a rough hard-fought affair. A total of 20 penalties were handed out, Montreal drawing 11.

Although six Canadiens were forced to retire temporarily for repairs after suffering cuts and bruises, not a penalty was called against Guelph. This went to Frank Eddolls, who was handed a major and a minor penalty for cross-checking Montreal's Bill Sinnett.

Scoreless Opening Period

Following a scoreless opening period, Dawson sent the Montrealers ahead near the halfway mark of the middle session. Eight minutes later, Rose brought the count to 2-0 before the end of second period scoring.

In the finale, Moore brought the count to 3-0 before Andy Bathgate got the Guelph team back in the game, beating Montreal goalie Roger Morrissette with a short drive from close in. Then with one minute and 55 seconds remaining, Frank Bathgate beat Morrissette on a neat passing play with brother Andy.

Coach Al Pike pulled his goalie and put on six forwards but the move backfired when Moore sent a long shot into the empty cage with 13 seconds of play left.

The teams go at it again tomorrow night.

Guelph (Biltmores) — Goal, Hicks; defence, Clune, Ashley; centre, F. Bathgate; wings A. Bathgate, Theberge; subs, Dimarco, Konnesny, Dickenson, Guidolin, Bellringer, Kulik, Oberholtzer, Brklacick, Mooney (subs goalies).

Referees: Bill Morrison (Ohawa); Sibby Mundy (Montreal).

Boston Red Sox Picked to Win American Loop

By JACK HAND

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 12 (AP)— Boston Red Sox appear to be the class team of the American League, with awesome power and enough pitching to win the pennant after two close seasons. All they need is a swift boot out of the starting gate.

Joe McCarthy figures to get the Sox off fast and slide home Oct. 1 with a little to spare. Maybe Joe knows he can't afford another lazy start.

Just as a warning, this writer handed out the same Red Sox pennant pick the last two years. Look what happened, Cleveland and '48 and the Yankees last summer didn't pay any attention.

New York and Detroit probably will make the most trouble with their fine pitching staffs. The Yankees have that "strong bench" to help in case of emergencies.

Cleveland has too many infield "ifs" despite prospects of great seasons by pitchers Bob Lemon and Mike Garcia. Lou Boudreau, Joe Gordon and Kenny Keltner must come back to make the Tribe contenders all the way.

Philadelphia's sore arm epidemic has cooled off the A's as a real hope. If Joe Coleman and Dick Fowler are in serious trouble, A's are in tough shape.

How It Looks

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Boston
2. New York
3. Detroit
4. Cleveland
5. Philadelphia
6. Chicago
7. St. Louis
8. Washington

Boston wound up last season with 21 straight at Fenway Park. McCarthy thinks he is in better shape with Al Zarilla in right field and Billy Goodman on first.

There is no reason to believe that Ted Williams and Vern Stephens, each of whom drove in 159 runs last year, will not have good seasons. Second-baseman Bobby Doerr, at 32, is in his best spring shape in years. Dom DiMaggio looks fine as does Johnny Pesky. Birdie Tebbetts will have catching help from veteran Buddy Rosar.

Ellis Kinder and Mel Parnell will top the pitching staff.

The Yanks are in better shape than last spring when many were relegating them to the second division. Joe DiMaggio, in a hospital with a sore heel a year ago, is playing nine innings every day and hitting over .400.

Cleveland Indians have come up with a power hitting rookie in rightfielder Luke Easter. Much depends on Bobby Feller's ability to bounce back after a discouraging for Feller—15-14 season.

The Coleman-Fowler arm aches have upset Connie Mack's hopes for a golden jubilee pennant for Philadelphia in his 87th year.

WHAT'S FOR 1950? - By Alan Mayer

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By AL VICKERY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, April 12 (CP)—Although the 1950 football season still is several months off, fans already are scanning the sports pages daily to see which imports are being signed.

Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan isn't one that in the Western Interprovincial Football Union the Edmonton Eskimos already have signed four imports and have another ready to sign; Saskatchewan Roughriders have three Americans under contract and Calgary Stampeders, have three signed and two others likely to return.

Allan says naturally, followers of the Blue Bombers are wondering what the score is, and, perhaps, is rather lost the top men are falling asleep on the job.

However, the Tribune sports editor is not condemning the Bomber club for its slowness in signing Canada of seven United States imports.

"Just keep your shirt on, fellows," he says. "If the club pursues its present policy of going after the talent—and is not stampeded into premature action — you can rest assured the seven imports Bombers eventually wind up with will compare more favorably with the best in the West.

". . . A would be a calamity if they got the jitters and signed up a couple of duds, just so they could say "we've got some imports, too."

Young Pats

Of the 17-man Pat playing roster, Dryden says nine still are eligible for juvenile competition, four more are 18 with another year of junior ahead of them and only four are in their graduating year.

"If this were a war year, say 1944 . . . it wouldn't be so unusual for a young squad to advance so far. But this is 1950 . . . the junior brand of puck-chasing is back to its pre-war standard.

"It all adds up to a large feather in the caps of Armstrong (Murray Armstrong, former National Leaguer), the coach who brought them along, and his executive cohorts who helped rebuild the machine."

TAKE ONE-GAME LEAD

Spokane, Wash., April 12 (AP) —New York Rovers Tuesday night slipped past the defending champion Spokane Flyers 2-1 to take a one-game lead in the semi-finals of the United States senior amateur hockey playoffs.

The Rovers now lead two games to one in the best-of-seven series. The fourth game will be played Thursday.

Race Commission Will be Composed Of Four Members

Toronto, April 12. (CP)—The Ontario Racing Commission to cover all horse racing in the province, will be composed of four members, it was learned Tuesday.

In addition to the previously-announced chairman, Magistrate Tupper Bigelow, appointment of George C. Hendrie and Donald A. Macintosh, both of Toronto, and Burton L. McLean of Lindsay, is expected to be confirmed at an Ontario Cabinet meeting later this week.

While the number of the Commission will not exceed four, it is possible that that body will have the assistance of an additional staff, including a secretary-treasurer. These appointments will be made later.

The incorporated Canadian Racing Associations will continue to function, primarily to set dates for the various track meets. However, it will be subordinate to the Commission at all times.

Mr. Hendrie is president and managing director of Hendrie and Co., Ltd., and president of the Ontario Jockey Club. Mr. Macintosh has been interested in racing for many years and possesses much practical experience in the industry. He is a past representative on the I.C.R.A.

Mr. McLean, former Mayor of Lindsay, has been prominently identified with fall fairs for some years and has acted as agriculture department representative at these exhibitions.

The Commission will control harness and flat racing, regulating and licensing persons operating race tracks, owners, trainers, drivers, jockeys and apprentices, grooms, jockeys' agents and valets, exercise boys, tradesmen and others.

It will fix fees for the various licences, register colors, assumed names, partnerships and contracts and employ stewards, veterinarians and analysts to represent it at the various meets.

It also will have power to hold hearings in line with its duties and to subpoena persons and take evidence under oath in any investigation it undertakes.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Atlanta, Ga., April 12—(AP)—"The only thing I'd told Dick Jones this spring was to find me an extra-point kicker and a piano player," chuckled Robert Lee Dodd, Georgia Tech's football coach. . . "I sure do like to have a piano player on my team. The boys have more fun out on the road." . . . Dick Jones has been a 1 talent "co-ordinator," chimed in: "I've got one, coach—for two years (now. He's down at his little high school in the hills now and he's good. When he gets through with football I'm going to sign him up for a radio show." Dodd, who used to be a real golf fan, got to talking about the masters tournament and the way Jim Ferrier's game fell apart at the finish. . . That's why Bobby quit the game—"There's enough strain in football. I'd rather go fishing. I can really relax." . . . But he added he had played in one match that showed him just how Ferrier must have felt. . . Seems the boys had been wagering a few pennies on their game and they piled up until everything depended on the last putt. . . The players punched at it and the ball died six inches short of the cup. . . As it trickled to a stop, the suffering golfer turned to his partner and said: "Honest to gosh, I hit it with every ounce of strength I've got."

Seven. No! Eleven

The golf pros still are commiserating Herman Barron on his mistaken count of 11 at one hole in the Masters' tourney that charged him with a stroke penalty each time he hit into the water. When under the new rules it should be distance only—so it should have been a seven.

U.S. Producing More Efficient Rocket Motors

Schenectady, N. Y., April 12.—(AP)—The United States is producing rocket motors 10 per cent more efficient than the German V-2s of the Second World War, an army ordnance expert said Tuesday.

If produced in a size equal to that of the V-2, the United States rocket motors—or, more exactly, power plants—could carry payloads 40 to 50 per cent greater, Lt.-Col. James G. Bain told reporters.

The secluded test station is operated by the General Electric Company as part of its program of rocket research and development for the ordnance department.

THREE MORE BOYS

Collegiate Hoopsters Blow Three-Point Lead and Lose Tense Battle to Ottawa 31-29

By DON ROSE

Toronto—Belleville Collegiate senior basketballers met with their first defeat of the year here last night at Ryerson Technical Institute, when Ottawa Lisgar Sliines edged them out 31-29 in an overtime game after dropping a three point lead. Both teams played strictly sloppy ball and there was a total of 50 foul shots of which neither team scored 50 percent because of the tenseness of the game. Niagara Falls came through 66-40 over the Sudbury Blue Devils in the opener. Referees R. Strom and B. Zeaman ruled the play.

The first quarter started with confusion on the part of both teams. The boys seemed unable to make any headway against either form of defence and numerous fouls were handed out. Ottawa came out with a 7-6 edge.

The second half started with a spurt of action as both representatives which seemed to give the boys some new pep. But the loss of Tom Buchanan as a result of five fouls slowed the team down some. Nevertheless, Belleville led at the half 16-13. Fouls, fouls and more fouls is the story of the third quarter. Both teams played steady and scoreless ball. The low score of eight points total for the quarter gives an idea of the tightness of the chapter and Ottawa was the leader again 19-8 when the whistle ended the quarter.

Tension Terrific

The last quarter proved more exciting and the tension was terrific. The fans, of which a good share were Bellevillians really got a basketball story with a surprise ending. The two minutes marker resulted a tie 24-24.

Belleville turned on the pressure and secured a 3 point lead and succeeded in ragging the ball until the 51 second mark. Then fate, bad luck or whatever it was struck and Ottawa came back and tied the score 27-27 with only five seconds to go.

Overtime of three minutes was played and from set-off Ottawa racked up two points. Belleville responded with a long basket. Ottawa's turn came again but Belleville stalled for the time to get the valuable basket needed and lost by two points.

Now Belleville is in the group 'B' class and meet East York today at 4.30 at Hart House.

Ottawa: Zeender 12, Phillips 3, Wesley 3, Millikeen 3, Hudson, Peters 2, Rochon 8, Randoll 1, Abelson, Pollock 4, Addleman.

Coach H. Rothwell.

Belleville: Buchanan, Dolan, Ewald, Faulkner 10, Galbraith 4, Ketchesn 3, Mayhew 2, McCrae 4, McMillan, Massey 4, Muirhead, Summers 2.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 12 — (AP) — The movie industry is launching its biggest drive to better its public relations.

In the last year, Hollywood has become acutely aware of the effect of political opinion. High echelon confabs are plotting means to put the film industry in higher esteem and give it more dignity.

All the important elements of labor and management in Hollywood banded last year to form the Motion Picture Industry Council. The guilds and producers agreed to use the council to co-ordinate matters of common interest. One of the major items is public relations, and the council has answered some of the industry's critics.

The idea of such an industry-wide group now is being established nationally. Theatre men have joined the producers in the council of motion picture organizations.

Constructive Side

The latest group formed to improve public relations is the Screen Producers Guild, which held its first meeting last week.

How are these organizations going to sway opinion to Hollywood's side? That's what they're trying to figure out.

One thing they hope to do is show the constructive side of the industry. They point out that a great many Hollywood people stay happily married for life, although the divorces get more news space.

They are citing the record of the war, when Hollywood took on—without pay—a large part of entertaining the fighting forces. They point with pride the town's unstinting effort for worthy charities.

But Hollywood realizes that all this constructive talk can be overshadowed by one juicy scandal. Offhand it would seem that the playful stars cannot be too cautious.

The standard contract between studios and players contains a morals clause—but if a studio ever has invoked it to discipline a star, the fact remains a deep, dark secret.

Hollywood seems destined lose some of its circus elements in an effort to achieve more dignity. It mentioned to a public relations-minded official that the town has been built on glamor and make-believe.

"Yes," he replied, "But there's a difference between entertainment and a strip tease."

Several Changes Made in Game, Fisheries Act

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) — Lands Minister Scott announced today several changes in Game and Fisheries Act. It now is illegal to carry any traps or firearms in a provincial park. Formerly the act read it was illegal to hunt or trap in a provincial park.

Other changes:

Anyone hiring a guide in future must ensure he is licensed; hunters of pheasants, rabbits and hares must obtain township licence; racoon hunting, legalized last year, now is restricted to licensed hunters, using licensed dogs; a bag limit of six cottontail rabbits now applies all over the province and ferrets are forbidden.

The carrying of incriminating equipment and firearms capable of killing deer now is forbidden between sunset and sunrise during the closed season. Fines for offences involving mink and muskrat have been increased to not less than $5 and not more than $25 a pelt.

NOURISHING FOOD

The protein content of fish is generally higher than that of many other foods.

Surprises in bridge are not so surprising. The human element can make a difficult problem out of the simplest hand. On turn the most difficult hand into the easiest kind of a problem.

Look at the tournament deal shown here:

South	North
2 D	2 NT
3 S	4 D
6 D	Pass

The two no-trump response by north denied a sure trick. South knew they it was futile to probe for aces So, he jumped into six. He had made up his head to be there when north showed support.

The one trouble with such a decision is that some partners must be reckoned with. If you don't make six without an ace in their hand, they reason, seven can be made if they have a void suit.

It happened that this north player figured in this manner and went to seven diamonds. Which, of course, can be defeated with

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

It wasn't raining any more but the streets were still wet, and I heard some of the fellows yelling and arguing outside, and I said to ma,-Will it be all rite if I go out now, ma?

Yes, ma said.

Making me start to feel lucky, and ma said, If you put your rubbers on.

Aw heck, ma, gosh, I could only find one rubber the last time I looked, I said, and ma said I'm perfectly well aware of that, so now you have an ideal reason to look for your other rubber till you find it. I'm not going to have you going out and catching a cold, that's the whole problem in simple terms, she said.

But Jimmy's roomiem, ma, how can I keep on looking when there is not more places to look? I said. I mean I proved it was really lost, I said, and ma said, Nothing is lost while there's life and hope, and the will to find it.

Aw ma, that's only true when ladies look, I said. I bet you could find it in a month of Sundays if you

t said, and she said, Easy or hard, I don't intend to try.

But G wizzickers, ma, holey mackerel, I've still got one rubber, I said, and ma said, Is anyone contendicting you on that point?

No mam, ma, but why isn't one enough to discourage a cold if I go easy with the other foot? I said, and ma said, If you argue till you're blue in the face, my answer will remain calm but unchanged.

The result being I used all my skill power and imagination and found my other rubber in the bottom of the umbrella stand.

WITHOUT A NAIL

This circular three-storey stairway at Wolverton, Ont., is probably without equal in Canada. Knox Wolverton, well-known South-western Ontario flour miller, built the three-storey home in 1853 and then searched 2 years for someone who could build the stairway. He found an English millwright who took two years to complete the job. There isn't a nail in it. The pieces were steamed to the correct curves and joined with wooden pegs.— (CP Photo.)

Property Damage By Auto Accidents $293,960 so Far

Toronto, April 12 (CP)— Property damage caused by automobile accidents in Toronto will move about $300,000 before the weekend, police officials predicted today. This means a damage rate of close to $3,000 a day they said, almost $1,000 higher than last year's average.

Police attributed the rise in the damage rate to increased traffic in the city and an increase in the cost of repairs and replacements.

The property damage so far this year amounted to $293,960.

Lie May Visit Moscow in Hope Ending Deadlock

Chinese Representation Issue Cause of Crisis

Lake Success, N.Y., April 13—(CP)— A visit to Moscow by Secretary-General Trygve Lie may be in his next move in attempts to settle the United Nations deadlock, brought on by the China impasse.

This was disclosed Wednesday when Lie told reporters he has not eliminated a journey to Moscow as his planned trip to Europe starting April 22.

Pointing up the possibility he may go to the Russian capital is the fact he will take along Lo Fuchow Yeh, Chinese representative in the UN. secretariat.

He is Communist S. Zlachenko, a former top assistant of V.M. Molotov, Soviet Foreign Minister. Zinchenko now is U. N. assistant secretary general in charge of security Council affairs.

Lie said if he goes to Moscow he will talk over the "general situation" in the U.N.—indicating the discussion will center on the Chinese representation issue.

Russia has plunged the world organization into its gravest crisis.

Boycotted 19 Organs

Nineteen countries have boycotted the U.N. organs since Jan. 13, protesting presence of Chinese Nationalist delegates.

The Security Council, where Russia's boycott started, met Wednesday and almost simultaneously the Economic and Social Council called on the big powers to redouble efforts towards establishing of workable peace.

Mahmoud Fawzi Bey, Security Council president for April, told council members the U.N. is "practically as helpless as the League of Nations."

The council later voted 8 to 0 to appoint Owen Dixon of Australia as mediator of the Indo-Pakistan dispute over possession of Kashmir.

Sir Owen, 62, a justice of Australia's Supreme Court, is directed to work out a plan for withdrawal of Indian and Pakistani troops from Kashmir within four months. The demilitarization is to be followed by a plebiscite to determine whether Kashmir will be part of India or Pakistan.

U.S. INTENSIFIES PLANE SEARCH IN BALTIC SEA

Copenhagen, April 13—(AP)—A new report today of possible plane wreckage in the Baltic sent United States search craft off the Swedish island of Oeland in their hunt for a navy patrol plane missing since Saturday with 10 men aboard.

The first officer aboard the German steamer Juno said he saw what looked like an airplane cabin floating in the Baltic at the southern tip of Oeland, which lies off the coast of Sweden across the Baltic from Latvia.

U.S. officials in charge of the search at Copenhagen said confirmation was sought over the area. Others were directed to concentrate their search.

The new clue coincided with the first hint from the Russians that they consider the missing navy plane with 10 men aboard to be the same craft shot down by Soviet fighter planes Saturday when Moscow charged a U.S. B-29 bomber plane flew over Latvia. Moscow said that incident occurred in the neighborhood of Lepaya, Oeland Island is due west of Lepaya, across the Baltic.

American authorities have expressed the fear that Soviet fire caused the navy plane to crash into the Baltic.

Meanwhile the official Communist party newspaper, Pravda, said the missing navy plane violated the Soviet frontier in an attempt at espionage over Russian territory.

Report Sitra Hope

The report from the German radio stirred hope in U.S. air force headquarters at Wiesbaden where gloom has risen in the search for finding any of the plane's survivors. Officers have given up their attempt to find what had been described Wednesday as a life raft off the Danish island of Bornholm.

The first note of pessimism in the five-day search came from Capt. D'Jack Klinger, director of the search.

But he put 15 planes into the air over the Baltic at noon, with some ranging near Latvia. Klinger said his crews are observing strict security to stay 40 to 50 miles away from Soviet-controlled territory.

One air force spokesman said survivors of an crashes have been known to live weeks in emergency equipment carried by the plane.

The Communist paper in Moscow said that the Soviets "gave American plane "got a proper lesson." The paper said the U.S. plane had been "engaged in a pursuit of knowledge over Soviet territory."

A CHEAP FARM

Melbourne, April 13 (Reuters) —The price of land in Wedderburn, Victoria, from which retired farmer David Butterick has dug up more than $53,000 in gold nuggets, cost him $420 when he bought it from a bank three years ago. He said today that he had lived next to the land for 27 years and "always had an inkling it held gold."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 13 (CP)—Synopsis: That large mass of cold polar air which moved over Ontario to Ontario this week is still making its presence felt. Temperatures will be below or near zero in Northern Ontario Wednesday night and in the far north and southern part of the province. At present the cold air covers the eastern half of the continent from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico. As it moves slowly eastward today and Friday clearing conditions and some slight moderation in temperatures can be expected. This moderating trend should continue into the weekend as the cold air gives way to milder air of Pacific origin.

ANGRY MOB ATTACKS MEETING PLACE OF SECT

Shawinigan Falls Scene of Wild Disorder

Shawinigan Falls, Que., April 13 — (CP) — An angry mob, said to have ranged in size at various times from 200 to 1,500, Wednesday night smashed the meeting place of a Christian Brethren group.

Twenty-seven persons huddled in fear in an upstairs flat visited the mob, made up of men, women and children, hurled stones, empty bottles, chunks of ice and even eggs.

The plate glass windows of the building, which also housed a store, were smashed. After an hour-long demonstration, a part of the crowd entered the store, used as a chapel, and wrecked the furniture, including the pulpit.

Leaders of the sect, the Christian Brethren are said to have small congregations scattered throughout Quebec province. They have no ordained ministers and are led by workaday people, men who are called to the work.

They are said to receive no salary.

Benoit Mongrain, a wheel - chair paralytic who owns the building, said the sect brothers were in the store chapel when the mobbing began. There were 20 men.

Mongrain said he is not a member of the sect but he allowed the group to take shelter in his home above the store.

Indians Honor Late President Of United States

Monticello Island, April 13 — (CP) — Monticello Island, April 13 — (CP) — Monticello Island, a fishing and trap lines Wednesday to honor the memory of President D. Roosevelt, late President of the United States who died five years ago today.

President Roosevelt ventioned the Island in August, 1943, just prior to the Quebec conference. After his death a bronze tablet was erected on his camp site by the Ontario government.

Annually since then the residents of the area have held a ceremony on the anniversary of his death.

Chief Clarentogosi, who was the President's guide on the 1943 trip, said worms were used as bait and Roosevelt "had good fishing luck. He lost one strike.

What happened then?

"He cuss good," said the Chief.

STUDENT INJURED

Cambridge, Mass., April 13 — (AP) — A home-made bomb exploded on a window sill of Harvard University's Lamont Hall early today. The blast injured one student, shattered panes and blew three 150 freshmen into an uproar. It shattered more than a dozen panes of glass and blew out a window frame. Police said Lamont Hall's explosion was the work of pranksters.

Excavations of Indian Garbage Reveal Details of Tribal History

Vancouver, April 13—(CP)— Tomorrow's historian may owe a debt to the man who collects your garbage.

Those cans, comic books, old shoes and tattered clothes could help into your schizen every morning have a story to tell—if you know how to read it.

Dr. Charles E. Borden of the University of British Columbia has been "reading" Indian refuse heaps for years and is slowly piecing together a history of the life, culture, dramatic tragedy and simple heroism of Indians on the coast of the Pacific northwest some thousands of years ago.

Like future archeologists, let us say 1,000 years hence, were to investigate our refuse dumps they would find a great deal of information about the life and culture of the people who had discarded these items." Dr. Borden said in an interview.

These Indians garbage heaps, called mounds or middens, exist all along the Pacific coast, but one of the most significant for archeological study is the Marpole Midden at Vancouver's Fraser River, about 10 miles south of here on the Canadian-United States border.

There, Dr. Borden has just completed excavations that reveal a pattern of invasion and disaster that wiped out an early B.C. culture.

His findings show that northern Indians of the Athabaskan tribes, equipped with superior "secret weapons" of hard stone and with military skills in new ways was far superior to that of any earlier tribes, moved slowly down the B.C. coast and gradually wiped out the older, more domestic tribes.

Our present-day Indians, he said, are descendants of both these peoples, the invaders and the invaded.

Other archeologists, studying the language of the Pacific coast tribes and early explorers' diaries, have theorized that somewhere in the west was "super-race's of redmen from which a number of eastern tribes, including the Algonquin, sprang.

The similarity of languages, Dr. Borden agrees, may suggest that somewhere in the western part of the continent lies the ancestory Bay, about 10 miles south of Indian tribes.

Briefs Ask Greater Federal Aid for Education in Canada

Ottawa, April 13.— (CP) — Greater Federal aid to education, changes in the regulation of radio broadcasting and improved equalizers for national cultural institutions were among the things urged today by three organizations in briefs submitted to the Royal Commission on arts and science.

The organizations were the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the Association of Canadian Clubs and the Radio Manufacturers Association of Canada.

The T.L.C. said there should be equality of education for all Canadians and this could only be brought about by more assistance from the Federal government.

This congress believes that the mental capacity of the pupil shall be the sole determining factor and not the financial ability of the parents," said the brief. "To some extent this objective has been reached, but the goal set many years ago has not been attained."

While more financial assistance was needed for, many branches of education, the congress felt that the responsibility for the Christian education should be upon the universities, "and even should help to make education free in universities free.

On broadcasting, the T.L.C. said it did not wish to see any change in the present system of regulating broadcasting. It said it could not support a Canadian broadcasting system which was a quest for an independent body outside of the CBC to control all broadcasting.

While the Congress favored the operation of a system of radio free within the present broadcasting framework, it was wholly opposed to the creation of another national system under private control, financed by others sufficiently enough to support two national systems.

The Congress has "no quarrel whatever with the individual independent stations as they are at brief. "We believe that, in the main, these private broadcasters are doing a good job in their own areas, and in the manner to which they are best suited."

In urging that the regulatory powers over broadcasting be left in the hands of the CBC, the Congress urged that labor be given greater representation on the CBC board of governors.

The Congress said it was opposed to any increase in the annual $2.50 licence fee on radio receiving sets. It suggested that the CBC be given an annual statutory grant if it needs more funds.

On television, the Congress said "This Congress would prefer to see television developed in Canada as a national publicly-owned utility."

The brief suggested that the government-owned National Film Board be given the same corporate status as the CBC to remove it from day-to-day political interference.

The Congress supported the plea of the National Gallery for a proper building and sufficient funds to make it a fountain of art for a great country. It believed the National Museum should be provided with the space and the funds necessary for the efficient carrying on of its important work. A national library should be an immediate objective.

The brief said the commission would be remiss in failing to recommend appointment or a full-time director with full leadership in the development of arts, culture and science in Canada.

The Radio Manufacturers Association of Canada, made up of some 60 Canadian companies engaged in the manufacture of radio, television and electronics equipment, filed a short, separate brief to radio matters.

The association recommended:

1. A separate regulating body for radio and television broadcasting in Canada.

2. Support to frequency modulation broadcasting in Canada, permission of separate FM broadcasting and elimination of the present limitations on power.

3. Reduction of the radio receiver licence fees.

4. Elimination of the excise tax on radio and television receivers.

The Association agreed with the Congress that the licence fee on receiving sets should be abolished and the CBC financed out of the public treasury.

'Mighty Peculiar' Says Weatherman Of Cold Wave

Toronto, April 13 — (CP) — The weatherman had a tough time trying to explain why temperatures in Toronto will probably drop to 15 degrees tonight — five degrees lower than the 1885 record low for April 13.

This, coupled with the blizzard sweeping Northern Ontario, brought a meteorological spokesman to: "Mighty peculiar."

The Toronto temperature, expected to drop still during the day, was expected to drop sharply with the arrival of the Arctic high Hudson's Bay.

Meanwhile, at Hearst, snowmobiles were being used for transportation with five to four inches of snow reported. Some trains were running late. Kirkland Lake recorded five inches during the night.

Snow flurries swept through Toronto this morning with increasing winds off Lake Ontario. The cold weather was expected to ward and clearing conditions with moderating temperatures were forecast for Friday.

At Windsor the temperature dropped to 18 degrees, the same early today to set a record April 13 low for the area. The previous record low mark for April 13 was 21 degrees in 1940.

Light snow flurries which have fallen in Windsor during the last two days are expected to end tonight, with a predicted low temperature of 18.

Students Realistic, Stage Scene of Russian Walkout

F. G. Trinka, a Rutgers University senior, impersonating a Russian delegate, took exception to a ruling by the chair Wednesday.

Then he took a walk—right out of a city college lecture hall. He was followed by delegates of the entire Russian bloc.

TEACHERS OPPOSE ANY LOWERING OF STANDARDS

Claim Training Should Be Kept at High Level

Toronto, April 13. (CP)— Ontario's "Teachers' Parliament" was on record-today with a resolution opposing any lowering of the standards required in teacher training.

The trustees and ratepayers' section of the Ontario Education Association Convention passed unanimously a resolution that teachers with lower qualifications should, if possible, be trained, should not be admitted permanently to the Teachers' Federation. It concerned an interim report of the Ontario Royal Commission on education which recently suggested lowering of academic standards in an emergency training program to meet the teacher shortage.

The same section of the convention heard W. A. Bryce, director of public safety at the University of Toronto, urge development of school driving courses.

Many Ontario drivers, if thoroughly tested, would be ill - advised a licence, he said. Youths should be taught driving rules after a cursory examination and then go out on the highway in traffic with many inexperienced drivers.

"There would be just as much sense in sending a youngster out with a professional hockey team as expecting him to learn to drive and trade body checks with the people he will meet on the road or the highway and expect him to come off free," he said.

Mr. Bryce said a 13-point pattern of driving education had been operating with great success in Kitchener for the last year.

Marine Mass Education

Mass education in North America has resulted in "a sort of lowest common denominator of dull mediocrity," Dr. Carl B. Hardy, professor of Classics at the University of Alberta, said in a speech Wednesday to the supervising and training section. Dr. Hardy said one result of mass education is an under-educated, over-confirmed mass of people.

Dr. Hardy said the first aim of education should be to turn out "a man who can think" rather than human beings in social relationship, or "mere" technically trained persons.

Mrs. Agnes Jones Innes, Dr. Wendell Yeo of Boston University told the guidance section that schools and parents must realize students are "failing their educational future" if they underestimate the capacity to create.

Dr. Toronto architect, John B. Parkin, told the Urban and Secondary School Trustees Section that schools must realize that the future may look like, the main thing is to "steer clear of the fetish of stylish architecture and tradition," to "always think of what we can do next."

Standard Form Of Accounting May be Answer

Toronto, April- 13—(CP)—The Ontario Association of Accountants today that some form of standard procedure in hospital accounting could be followed by all hospitals" said an official of the association.

The first of four institutes on accounting, under the sponsorship of the association and the Ontario Health Department, is at present under way at St. Michael's hospital here. Representatives from all over the province are attending the four-day institute, which began Monday.

The other institutes, all to be held this month, will be at Sudbury, Windsor and Ottawa.

Negro is Charged With Murder In Ottawa Slaying

Four Others Apprehended As Material Witnesses

Ottawa, April 13 (CP)—Simon Normand, a 30-year-old Negro today was charged with murder in the lower town slaying of Malcolm Donaldson, 23, of Saint John, N.B., in an early-morning stabbing incident.

Normand was remanded for one week without plea.

Police arrested at the Lower Town rooming house shortly after the incident, which occurred about 3 a.m. EST. They found Donaldson lying on the floor in a pool of blood, surrounded by five men, one of whom was Normand.

All five were taken into custody as material witnesses, while Donaldson was rushed to hospital with a deep stabbing wound in the chest. He was given a blood transfusion but died about an hour after the stabbing.

Police said the incident did not stem from a drinking party but that both the accused and the victim had been drinking earlier. It was reported the stabbing followed an argument over the price of a bottle of wine.

Well Known x Police

Donaldson, who used an alias of Patrick McNabb Donaldson, was well known to police both here and in Montreal, Ottawa City Police Chief Thomas Kidd said. His record included breaking and entering and theft as well as a series of petty offences.

While the names of the other four men involved were not immediately released, it was learned that one was Ronald Gordon Donaldson, 27, a brother of the murdered man.

The brothers had appeared in court here Wednesday on a vagrancy charge and were sentenced to the four days they had already spent in jail.

Flow of Rivers In March Average 111 P.C. Normal

Ottawa, April 13 — (CP) — Stream conditions in Ontario during March were fairly well distributed and with few exceptions flows were above normal, the Dominion Water and Power Bureau reported today.

Run-off averaged about normal from the Atlantic coast to Lake Ontario and above normal from Ontario to the Pacific coast. It was below normal in the Lake Winnipeg, Nelson and Saskatchewan basins.

Flow of 22 representative rivers averaged 111 per cent of normal and 123 per cent in February.

Reserves of water in storage on the principal power producing rivers improved during the month with the exception of a continuing shortage in Alberta.

Detailed figures showing the percentage of normal for February include: Ottawa River, Mirid Magnetawan 115, Aux Sables 140, Misisiquoi 109, English 147.

Historical Meeting of Two Irishmen Excites Interest of 'Mike' Pearson

Ottawa, April 13 — (CP) — This is one of those intriguing days that come along occasionally in the External Affairs Minister Pearson.

A Canadian with Scottish blood and an Irish-American wife, Mr. Pearson introduced two Irishmen on a historical occasion and one of them was responsible, in addition, to keep his political opinions to himself. That's the time when partition is fairly rampant in the winds of argument.

The occasion was the presentation of the credentials of the first Irish Ambassador to Ottawa, Sean Murphy, to Ulster-born Viscount Alexander, the Governor-General. Hitherto the Irish envoy here has been a High Commissioner. Ambassadors don't present credentials, being members of the Commonwealth family.

The three gentlemen lunched together after the ceremony at Government House, an occasion which Mr. Pearson, looking forward with some anticipation.

Reporters met him this morning in what he called his "undercover" role as the formal rites for such occasions. He confessed that the Irish Ambassador's party had more than the usual drab attractions.

The Governor - General, he said, is supposed to have no political opinions in his position. But he couldn't help wondering if partition wouldn't come up through one of those unsuspected channels of approach at which the Irish are so adept.

Mr. Murphy's (Southern) friend feels that the whole island should be part of it. Viscount Alexander's Ulster country's delegated much more heartily.

RUSSIANS STREAM INTO SHANGHAI SAY EVACUEES

Hong Kong, April 13—(AP)— Russians are streaming into Shanghai as foreigners just arrived from Communist China said today.

"You don't see them so much as you feel them." That was the comment of one of the arrivals, the first large group to get out of Shanghai since the Reds eased their ban on train travel by foreigners.

Best estimate of these foreigners is that 5,000 Russians are in Shanghai—mostly civilian technicians and political workers. Not a one saw a Russian in military uniform.

This was in contrast to many reports that have filtered into Hong Kong. Those within recent weeks have had Russian soldiers parading Shanghai streets, manning anti-aircraft defences and filling other military duties.

All the arrivals were among 154 foreigners jam-packed on the little coastal vessel Haichih. Built to ben, built to accommodate 36 passengers. The ships took them aboard at Tientsin, North China port where they had gone by rail from Shanghai.

Sixty-eight other passengers disembarked from North China brought out by the International Refugee Organization. They left immediately by air for Palestine, via Kowloon.

There was no enthusiasm for Shanghai under the Communists. Forty said about 2,000 foreign refugees want to leave Shanghai.

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States said in Washington Wednesday the U.S. is moving up efforts to get the 2,000 out by sea. The Communists balked an attempt by the U.S. consul to the line Gen. W. H. Gordon. Acheson said the U.S. would use the Reds to permit the foreigners to get out by rail to Hong Kong or Tientsin.

A Briton who was among the arrivals here said conditions in Shanghai are comfortable but only for foreigners but for Chinese as well.

The Chinese, he added, are developing underground resistance and the Reds are replying with more rigid discipline.

Car Smashes Door, Sleeping Woman, 88, Escapes Uninjured

Hamilton, April 13—(CP)—An elderly woman narrowly escaped injury when a car, driven out of control, ran away from its parked position, then mounted the curb and rammed head-on into the front door of her home.

Mrs. Mary Doolittle, 88, was sleeping on a chesterfield behind the front door when the crash occurred. The vehicle smashed the door from its hinges to the floor beside her but Mrs. Doolittle escaped unscathed.

Police said the driver of the jeep, driven by Kenneth Hill, of Hamilton, told them he had only one day's experience as a driver. He was not charged.

Sea Cadet Corps Complimented On Fine Work

On Tuesday R.C.S.C. "Quinte" had its annual equipment and clothing inspection, Lieut.-Cmdr. J. Crist, R.C.N. (R)., conducted the inspection, accompanied by the Ship Commanding Officer, and Supply Officer. The inspection was most satisfactory, and in this particular phase, the Corps acquitted itself very well indeed.

At Divisions the following promotions were announced by the Commanding Officer, Ord/Cadet Buck to Able Cadet, O/C Minto to Able Cadet, O/C Meldrum to Able Cadet, and O/C Judge to Leading Sea Cadet.—Cmdr. J. Crist presented the new able cadets with their certificates and congratulated them on their fine work in the Corps. After divisions a number of cadets were examinations for their ranks of leading cadet and petty officer. The results are to be announced before the annual inspection on May 9th.

The plans for the annual inspection were outlined by the Ship's commanding officer and were heartily approved by the inspecting officer. It is expected that this inspection will be the most successful in, the history of the Ship. A great deal of work and preparation is done by all officers and cadets prior to this inspection, which is one of the most important events in the training year. A full turn out by the citizens of the city and district is cordially invited to witness this inspection of their local Sea Cadet Corps.

Interesting Items Revealed in Old Copies of Paper

A number of old copies of the Belleville Daily Ontario dating back to 1883 have been sent to the Ontario Intelligencer by Mrs. Jessie Walker, 31 Raymond Ave., Toronto, who found them behind the mirror of an old dresser.

It is interesting to note that in those days, shirts were selling at 75 cents a piece. The Fish Wholesale and Retail Shirt Manufacturers, and W. J. Hunter was running the only first class fish market at the west end of the lower bridge in Belleville.

Crime was kndwn in the good old days too! Five prisoners and two tramps were reported lodged in the city cooler. The suspicious nature of a local police officer was testing the vendor's product for watered milk.

In the United States the Brooklyn Bridge was first opened during this year, and celebrations at Delaware College drove an ox into the office of their Alma Mater's president causing $300 damage.

Profit Sharing Assists Business Builders Told

Profit sharing by business management, if it is also sound amiable management-labor relations and co-operation, will help build for the survival of free enterprise, members of the Belleville and District Kiwanis Club at a change were told Tuesday evening.

Speaking before the above organization on the topic "Labor Relations and Your Business", Mr. Robb stressed that the free enterprise system could survive only if profit sharing was adopted. The success of the system had already been proven by increased production and efficiency on the part of the workers, he said.

Business firms having adopted profit sharing were not troubled by labor unions, with wage increase disputes and grievances. The reason for this they were still making profits.

Cheaper Production

"If it's sound business for the management, it is also sound for labor," Mr. Robb said. "Such companies are producing cheaper and more economically. They have wider markets, thus greater production which in turn adds up to lower per unit costs."

The speaker pointed out there were over 700 plants in Canada and the United States which had gone bankrupt during closing days. These firms had made money and so had their employees. Those firms were financed in profits he was interested in making profits for the future ones.

In contrast to the profit sharing principle, Mr. Robb said that trade unions tend toward planned economy and inefficiency. This inefficiency would continue as long as labor and management had diverse interests.

Trade unions had been formed because there had been a need for labor to protect its interests, because in many instances labor had been working 12 hours per day for wages below the cost of living.

But present day industry had not been too successful in solving their labor problems, he said. "As for the fact," Mr. Robb urged, "The present system will not work. Under the present system we are doomed to failure."

Free Enterprise in Danger

"Let us take a new view," he went on. "There are not ten instances labor unions are trying to destroy the free enterprise system. Labor unions merely utilize its sights we cannot succeed."

The only way for management to consider profits for its business is through a labor relations agreement. If free enterprise is to survive profit sharing should be supported by the minds of management.

Representatives of the builders' exchange will meet with the bargaining committee of the local carpenters' union to discuss renewal terms for their 1950 wage agreement, it was decided. The meeting will be held Friday evening. W. Harry Rolling reported on the recent meeting of the Canadian Construction Association held at Kingston.

Owing to the limited office space used by the builders' exchange only members of the organization will in the future be permitted to inspect plans and proposed construction products at the exchange office. it was decided.

Transport Truck Bumps Bake Shop

Rolling easily down a slight incline after being left parked on Pinnacle Street, a heavily laden highway transport this morning bumped into Harry's Bake Shop on Pinnacle Street, near Station Street. Very slight damage was caused to the bake shop, it was reported.

The transport had been left parked near the Uptown Tire and Battery Service on the north side of the street when it moved slowly away. The transport zig-zagged across the street and then bumped into the bake shop on the west side of the roadway. The incident will not prevent the new bake shop from opening on Friday as scheduled, it was stated.

Municipal Board Refuses City Permission to Buy Property Without Vote

City Council lost out Wednesday on its hope of purchasing the Barlow property for park purposes when the Ontario Municipal Board at a special sitting at the city hall refused to grant permission for the purchase of the property without a vote of the people.

Purchase of the Barlow property at the corner of Victoria and MacDonald Avenues had been under discussion by council for several months, it being considered by several members that this property represented the last chance the city had to acquire suitable park property at a reasonable figure. Cost of the property would have been about $500 for approximately six and one half acres.

Council had given two readings to a by-law authorizing purchase of the property and were waiting approval of the municipal board before giving the final reading. The city requested approval of the board for dispensation of a vote of the people to purchase the property.

Not Opposed to Parks

Mayor H. J. Allin told the board members that he opposed purchase of the property, not because he was opposed to parks but through a desire to fulfil his election promise of keeping city taxes reasonably low. However, at the same time, he felt the property in question was suitable for park purposes.

Ontario Land Surveyor J. T. Thompson and the city's local planning board, said the property was low and would take a lot of yards of material to bring it to the proper level. For the entire length of the property there was considerable water.

Mr. Thompson said that on the property were but swamp trees and these would be difficult to get out after the land was filled.

Alderman Favors Purchase

Alderman Angus Duffy spoke in favor of the purchase, stating that facilities were badly needed in an area which in future would be heavily populated. He said it was impossible to get a local park for the district, being confined to the parks now developed.

Mr. Cummings interrupted to point out that the Municipal board are very unwilling to dispense with a vote of the people on any matter to which there was opposition. "There seems to be considerable opposition to this matter," he said, noting the local parks board last year had disapproved of the property.

The this Alderman Duffy replied the decision of the parks board had been reached without the members viewing the property or ascertaining the correct boundaries. He said the parks board had since withdrawn their opposition.

"Yes," replied Mr. Cummings, "but the parks board has not registered its approval with the board. We cannot go behind official resolutions."

Alderman Duffy stated he was only too willing that the matter be put to the people but said there was no time as the option on the property would shortly run out.

Not Duty of Board

Again Mr. Cummings stressed that it was not the duty of the Municipal Board to choose a park site—merely to decide whether there should be a dispensation of the vote of the people.

He said that the owner of the property on which any new business subdivision was planned might well be asked to set aside certain property for park purposes. Otherwise, he said, this was done, he said.

Alderman Clarke also opposed purchase of the property stating the area formerly was low and swampy. In the event there were other parks close by and the Barlow property was not needed.

Not Too Low is Claim

Mrs. Elizabeth Hosang, Parkwood Heights resident, was in favor of purchasing the property. It was not too low, she felt.

In view of the failure to the purchase of the property Mr. Cummings said the board would refuse to refuse the city request.

"I would advise the different parties to get together and decide where the park is wanted," he said. "Council can then request dispensation of a vote of the people allowed and then only in cases where there is complete local agreement on the subject in question."

Plans for Suitable Commercial Area in Parkwood Heights Left to Parties Concerned

Decision regarding plans for a suitable commercial area for the Parkwood Heights district will come out of a round table discussion attended by all parties concerned.

This was the suggestion put forth Wednesday by members of the Quinte Municipal Board following a special hearing at the city hall by council of the local planning board, said the property was low and would take a lot of yards of material to bring it to the proper level. For the entire length of the property there was considerable water.

Mr. Thompson said that on the property were but swamp trees and these would be difficult to get out after the land was filled.

Empire Groceteria Will Present Fine Foods Show

Guests at the "Open House" in the Empire Groceteria on April 19th will be entertained by an educational film entitled, "From Good Earth to Good Tables."

The feature attraction, being arranged by Mr. C. W. Griffin, agent for Fine Foods of Canada Ltd., will picture many interesting things, such as the laboratory control of special seed strains, the careful soil control through proper fertilization methods, the field supervision of planting and cultivating, together with plant growth charts, which permit the harvesting and canning at the peak of perfection, their famous brands of Green Giant Peas, Green Giant Beans, vacuum packed Niblets corn, fresh off the cob, etc.

A special trip from the harvest areas, through the many inspection points, including plant operations, will impress the audience with Fine Foods main objective and the precautions used in the most economical and popular lines.

Mr. Griffin who originally represented the Canning company, The Minnesota Valley Canning Company of LeSueur, Minnesota, was appointed sales manager for Fine Foods of Canada, company with plants at Tilbury, Leamington and St. Martine, Quebec. Mr. Griffin will be on hand to give a short chat before the cutting for the sale of the various brands of peas, beans to corn under different grades, sizes of fancy, choice and standard.

The guests will observe attractive displays of Fine Brands and Fine Foods' products, and will be permitted to examining and tasting the contents of sample tins which will be opened for their examination.

City to Purchase Tax Machine By Debenture

Approval of the Ontario Municipal Board was given here yesterday for purchase by the city of a tax accounting machine at a cost amounting to $4,200 to be paid for by debenture.

The matter was brought to the request of city council by the city treasurer because the machine by debenture.

Mayor H. J. Allin in briefly outlining to Municipal Board members the reason for the request by the city stated the cost of the accounting machine had originally been included in the 1950 estimates.

However, at the last minute, it had been decided to provide for a full time medical officer of health and as council was unwilling to disturb work already completed it was suggested the money estimated for the accounting machine be used for the medical officer's salary, with the machine to be financed by debenture issue.

Chairman of the Municipal Board L. R. Cummings asked if the machine would pay for itself in the machine out of revenue over a five-year period. Under the by-law council would be given two years to issue debentures for the machine. It was suggested the machine might be paid for.

Mayor Allin stated the council had budgeted for only a very small sum and as the matter was had considered it advisable to debenture for the accounting machine.

ASSEMBLY HOUSE STONED

Shawinigan Falls, Que., April 13 — (CP) — A crowd, estimated at several hundred persons, Wednesday night stoned a house where a meeting of Jehovah's Witnesses Assembly was taking place, breaking windows in the building and damaging a car parked nearby.

A squad of police stood guard outside the house but were unable to prevent the crowd from hurling stones at the windows. Window glass was broken and the roof of the house, in one side after several bystanders let the air out of the tires.

The crowd began to gather before the meeting of the sect was to begin.

There were no arrests.

Race With Stork Nearly Unnerves OPP Constable

Police officers patrolling Ontario's highways have to be prepared for almost any emergency according to Provincial Police Constable J. Gable of Belleville.

And just to bear out this statement he cites his experience when his police cruiser was put to use in a quick trip to Belleville hospital in a close race with the stork.

The officer was patrolling south on Highway 401 between Frankford and Trenton when a taxi pulled up alongside. The driver asking if it was okay to exceed the speed limit on a trip to the hospital. The driver explained his passenger was an expectant mother from the village of Frankford.

Just then there was indication the arrival of the stork was near at hand so the woman was transferred to the police cruiser and the remaining 15 miles to hospital was covered in record time.

The baby arrived after the stork with plenty of time to spare but the officer says he was never so scared in my life.

IN MEMORIAM

KILPATRICK — In loving memory of my dear mother, Annie Ash Kilpatrick, who passed away April 13, 1949.

Two years have passed since mother left us,
The one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will.
But in our hearts she lives still.
Lovingly remembered by Vernon and Arbor.

DUESBURY — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, James Harold Duesbury, who died April 13, 1947.

Dear Dad, I still tell how I miss him,
My heart cannot tell you what I feel.
God alone knows how I miss him,
He is with Jesus in Heaven.
Remembered by wife and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 13—(CP)—Mining stocks were the centre of attraction as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds and base metals pushed slowly higher while profit-taking sales depressed industrials and western oils. Volume for the first three hours was 2,309,000 shares.

Much of the booming activity was accounted for by low-priced golds. Business was the busiest since the devaluation or currencies last September.

Senior Golds were fractionally higher with McIntyre leading on an advance of 3-4 at 62 1-4. Mac. Lead-Cockshutt, a feature performer in recent months following drilling news from the property in the Little Long Lac area, Northwestern Ontario, paced junior profiters with a gain of 30 cents at $4.05. Omega, Roybar, Nicholson, Aumaque and Norsemaw were among the more active penny stocks.

Base metals gained steadily although some signs of heavier selling showed at the half-way mark. Consolidated Smelters was ahead 7-8 at 96 1-4 and Steep Rock, United Keno Hill and East Sullivan churned upwards.

Utilities and Papers were strong in industrials but steady selling gained headway as steels and refining oils. Key Western Oil stocks slipped from recent advances.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, April 13 — (CP) — The small cattle supply was cleared at steady prices this morning at the Ontario stockyards. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: cattle, 30; calves, 10; hogs, 70; sheep and lambs, none. Left from Wednesday were 120 cattle.

Hogs were steady at $26-$26.75 for Grade A.

'Made-in-Canada' Goods Popular Says Store Head

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Those who are not so old, yet not so young, will remember when the words "made in Canada" were relatively rare on the things they bought. And when an import label seemed to add an air of distinction.

How complete a change has come about was illustrated Tuesday in a statement at the annual meeting of Simpson's Ltd., by R. G. Burton, president. Said he:

"By far the largest proportion of goods sold in Simpson's is made in Canada—in fact—more than 90 per cent."

Probably about the same could be said by other retail outlets.

Consider this fact—that Canadians are making most of the things they use, and the fact that population has nearly doubled in 30 years and you have a large part of the explanation for the country's industrial growth.

It points up, however, why this is not too easy a market for other countries to enter, so far as consumer goods are concerned.

However, Mr. Burton stated that wide-spread devaluation of sterling and associated currencies in September, "we were able to increase our overseas purchases during the last year and the trend has continued into the spring."

The Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy at its convention in Toronto April 17-19 will devote one full day to discussing the problems of finding uranium, the mineral from which atom bombs are made.

Monsanto Chemical Company of St. Louis, Mo., says plywood adhesive the size and thickness of a postage stamp can suspend the weight of a large automobile. It adds: "What gives such an adhesive its remarkable strength is not fully understood."

A Wall Street Journal survey says United States advertising outlays in 1950 will at least hold up to record 1948-49 levels of nearly $3,000,000,000 annually and may be even bigger.

R.C. Conference Has Been Formed With 4 Colleges

Toronto, April 13 (CP)— The Ontario Catholic Athletic Conference, comprising four Roman Catholic colleges in the province, has been formed, it was announced Wednesday night.

The four clubs in the conference will be St. Michael's College and De La Salle College, both in Toronto, St. Jerome's of Kitchener and St. Peter's of Peterborough.

Football and basketball will constitute the chief sports, with track and field and boxing scheduled to move in at a later date.

Two divisions will be in operation in Football, St. Michael's-De La Salle and St. Jerome's will foster a senior A division, and all four schools will have representation in the senior B class.

STEAL LOAD OF LUMBER

Toronto, April 13 — (CP) — Thieves Wednesday stole a load of new lumber which was donated to build a home for Mrs. George Boothroyd and her four children. The lumber was part of a fund set up by local residents to look after the Boothroyd family after Mr. Boothroyd died in January. The lumber was valued at $80.

Duke Will Return To EP Ranch For Fall Shooting

High River, Alta., April 13. — (CP)—The Duke of Windsor said Wednesday that he may return to his EP Foothills ranch this Fall to do some shooting.

The Duke and Duchess stopped off in this ranching centre after inspecting their 4,000-acre ranch 65 miles southwest of Calgary.

They spent an hour chatting with excited townspeople, visited a teen-town gathering and toured the town's new memorial community centre.

The Duke, introduced as a prospective commercial cattle-raiser, also dropped in on a stockmen's meeting and the Duke and Duchess shook hands all around.

The Duke and Duchess are scheduled to leave Calgary, Friday for Ottawa where they will spend Monday night as guests of the Governor-General and Viscountess Alexander.

Thrown 20 Feet Motorist Rolls Out of Train's Path

Pickering, Ont., April 13 (CP) —Harold Lavine of Toronto remained conscious long enough to roll from the path of a train that struck his automobile today and threw him 20 feet down the track. He was rushed to hospital in Oshawa, 11 miles east of here, with head injuries.

Lavine's car was carried 100 feet before it was caught under the train and almost demolished.

Train service was held up more than two hours while pieces of the wreckage were taken from the locomotive, Canadian National Railways officials said.

SOUND OF ELECTRICIANS AT WORK CAUSES STIR

London, Ont., April 13—(CP)— Five police cruiser cars converged on a downtown bank early today after a citizen reported noises as if someone were hammering to safe.

When police closed in on the Bank of Toronto, Dundas and Wellington Streets, shortly after 2 a.m. they found no safecrackers. The noise was being made by electricians working nights on a repair job in the bank building.

IT IS NEWS AND GOOD NEWS

"It is pleasant to be able to record the fact that over Easter holiday weekend the whole Ottawa area was free of traffic fatalities or serious accidents, although there were as many cars on the roads." These were opening words of an editorial in the Ottawa Journal this week under the heading "News When No Traffic Accidents." Everyone will agree that this is the best news so far as motoring and safety are concerned. Would that all units of Ontario could report the same freedom from accidents week after week.

Readers will agree there is no better news than to be told that all the multitude of cars on the roads over holiday weekend there had not fallen the gloom of tragedy or anxiety as a result of traffic mishaps in the Ottawa area. It is to be hoped areas took the same course can be said. It is the goal towards which all users of roads should set their "thinking caps."

Conditions have not been altogether ideal for driving the Ottawa district as the Journal writer notes. This weekend showed what can be done for safety when ice is exercised. Motoring today has an added peril in the addition of paved roads which have withered badly and are marked with humps and depressions and patches from which the top surface has been peeled and conditions are at high speed a driver might easily lose control of vehicle. Where there are such conditions as the result of the winter, the editor advises extra caution until repairs can be made and adds that "on such a scale this is no mere task."

Motorists can surely look forward to the day when the accident will be a rarity. That is an ideal for which to aim. The millions of them of the future such a happy state would be welcomed for it would lighten the task of driving. Surely it is not too high an ideal to hope for.

WALTER HUSTON, ACTOR, PASSES

Canadians who have seen many a picture of life through the screen in which Walter Huston took a part, in the highest artists will pay their silent tribute to the memory of a sincere artist of the stage and moving pictures. They have had the pleasure of seeing this outstanding player in many a picture and if they had not yet decided the odds are that few would have become familiar with the fine acting of Walter Huston.

The sincerity of his work was manifest in every picture wherein he took a part. He gave his best and the interpretation of life as the film reveals it and many picture of memory hangs in minds of Canadians who saw him on the screen.

To be belonged to the old school, he was a trouper of the days and knew what hard work went into acting. He had the vigor for the roles he was called upon to represent and gave his best for the movie art. Through the movies he has come to be known by millions upon millions of people, and fluence which he could never have hoped for in the old days before he went into pictures.

He has entered into the last passed along that way which is the finest commentary on life, the way of the matter whether of drama or of the screen. The movies have enriched modern life, added much happiness and delight to the lives of the people of the world but the film of the movie art he was one of the great figures whose memory cannot pass'away.

The air of sincerity went with this artist and he has left on the millions many of the truths of life which the motion picture theatre has been able to present. Millions have seen him and others through the screen who will never come into contact with him had his audiences been limited to the old-style theatre.

His virile conception of the figures he played was a notable contribution to the influences which are at work in this age pointing men through good actions. In these virorous and rugged characterizations he gave a great impetus to the finest conception of life.

MAPLE SYRUP TIME

This city (New York) is full of maple syrup lovers. These faithful expatriates have been known to give "sugaring off" parties in the kitchen, trailing hot syrup in substandard snow or crushing ice cubes to shave from the refrigerator. For the ordinary consumer it is enough to taste the syrup and give thanks for the tree. It's a wonderfully sweet stuff, with never a cloy in a barrel-full. For his sake we hope for more frosty nights this spring — in Vermont! — New York Times.

HAIR APPOINTMENT

Young man when you are married for your wife you'll often wait,
Sit for a hair appointment she won't be one minute late.
You'll ever get the notion you have powers that can persuade
Your partner to forget it once a hair appointment's made.

While her down for luncheon. "Don't worry," she will reply,
I am going to have a hair-do and it takes an hour to dry

And another hour to set it.
I don't like to tell you this,
A hair appointment's one thing that I really mustn't miss."

No bridge game; no canasta on that most important day;
No shopping trip; no luncheon and, of course, no matinee.

You will learn it, wiften you're married, by she either well or ill,
If she has a hair appointment Keep that date she surely will.

WORK

The newspapers this week have been filled with accounts of labor disputes, strikes, picketing, and even a certain amount of violence. The total wages not earned by people not working must be a staggering sum, if one could compute it. And the total of goods not produced by people not producing — at this time when the world face critical shortages—is unmeasurable.

Except for those who are physically disabled, most people who are idle are not idle just because they are dissatisfied with the wages offered. Some of them regard work as unpleasant. They look upon it as evil to be endured only under the lash of necessity.

Yet today the great majority of the people throughout the world must work if they are to live, and if their nations are to function. What a boon to mankind it would be if we all could understand the enabling influence of work and its vital importance to our character and life—if we could appreciate that honest labor would make it a challenge, not a burden.

Long ago the poet James Russell Lowell gave us this message:

"Not under the lash I toil, whose work
Is not born with him; there is always work,
And tools; to work withal, for those who will;
'And blessed are the horny hands of toil."

TODAY'S TALK

By George Matthew Adams

SHUTTERS OF THE MIND

In my youth I lived mostly in small towns, and into the better homes that I was wont to enter, I usually first observed one room—they called it the parlor in those days—that was habitually dark, because of the blinds with shutters that kept out the light. No matter how well furnished that room might have been, to me it spelt only gloom, for there was no light allowed to give it cheer.

People have minds like those parlors, with blinds and shutters that shut out the light in the form of ideas, truths and knowledge. None of us are inspired by contact with such minds, for we see only darkness there, and what is there is only for exhibition purposes to the ignorant, who would not know the difference anyway.

Few homes these days have those old fashioned blinds and shutters. People have learned that there is health in the light and in the air, and the so-called parlor today is the living room, where the family and friends gather for mutual enjoyment and helpfulness. Today we are not afraid of the light in our homes, but there still remain those who are afraid of the truth, and so shutter their minds to it.

Note that this word shutter is made up of the one word shut, which means to keep closed or stay out. We can almost read this word, as a sign, on many people's minds, as we talk to them. They don't want the light to come in for it might show up within, or willful neglect—as it probably would. They don't want any new light. They prefer the dark.

The tendency, in all new homes and business buildings, is to give more light—no shutters. And that is the tendency in all our literature and all educational enterprises—to give people the light that they may know more and the better serve their time. There was a day when a book like "The Origin of Species" created a sensation. It opened the shutters to new knowledge, as so many such books are doing today, but not so dramatically.

When Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote that beautiful poem, "The Chambered Nautilus" he advised us to "shine outgrown shell." A suggestion to eliminate the dead and useless by a way with all shutters to the mind.

Impressions of Britain

A DORSET FARM

By RALPH CAMPBELL

Oxford, England, Special—Thanks to the arrangements made by an organization known as the Dominions Office, overseas students in Britain are able to spend a week or more with families in different parts of Britain. This is the same service operated by almost the same people, which enabled many servicemen to visit British homes during the war. Perhaps the organization would be useless were there not a great number of kind and generous British people who seem to enjoy entertaining overseas guests.

We have just returned from a most pleasant and profitable week on a farm in Dorset, a rural county on the south coast about fifty miles west of the Isle of Wight. During that week we learned first-hand a very great deal about English farming methods and difficulties, perhaps we could give a clearer picture if we first describe this farmer and his farm.

Large Farm

Our host was a genial and extremely well-informed bachelor who rents a farm of 1,000 acres. Some of the land on this farm is very rocky and not suitable for cultivation, though quite valuable for sheep pasture. He followed a program of seeding down a good deal of the arable land to grass, and is now intending to use a chemical weed killer rather than plow it. He said that pasturage continues even during the winter months pastures more or less successfully clean, is washed after every rainfall and sterilized by steam once per day.

Commando Fine Price

All the milk is sold to London about 130 miles away, and commands a premium price. In February, it brought about $4.85 per hundredweight, with another 50 cents per hundred bonus for being from an "T" herd (Tuberculin Tested). The latter is set by agreement, as we explained in letter, by the National Farmers' Union, and is known a compulsion-basis price. This price is much higher in the winter months than in summer to encourage the farmer to keep a round flow of milk, rather than precautions for his cows and the safety of those within his spray range and so on. Near the old Siwash—the doctor gave him 100,000 units of penicillin, and maybe a shot of dope besides, and the young man thrilled the con-

Britons Fly Across Channel In a Glider

Brussels, April 13 (Reuters)—Two Britons Wednesday flew across the English Channel in a glider to Belgium—a feat performed only once before.

Lorne Welch, 33-year-old chief instructor to the Surrey Gliding Club, flew from Redhill, Surrey, to Brussels in 6 1-2 hours, a distance of 203 miles.

Flt. Lt. John Miller flew from the R.A.F. Glider School at Detling, Kent, to Coxyde on the Belgian coast. His time and distance were got immediately announced.

The channel was first crossed by a glider when G. H. Stevenson flew from Lancashire, Bedfordshire, to the beach at Calais in 1939.

Skipper Reports Plane Wreckage Seen in Baltic

Stockholm, April 13 (AP)—A German steamship reported today it dipped over the wreckage what appeared to be airplane wreckage in the Baltic Sea off Oland Island. This could be a new clue as to the fate of a United States navy plane missing in the Baltic region since last Saturday night.

The ship—the Juno—had no radio and made the report upon arrival at the Port of Oernskoeldsvik, in Northern Sweden. The semi-official Swedish News Agency, T.T., said the first officer of the Juno described the debris as an airplane cabin.

PEOPLE ARE CHILDISH ABOUT THE C-R-I

C-R-I is not another word for "cold". It is a coined word, an abbreviation for the cumbersome phrase Common Respiratory Infection. Somebody has to say "C-R-I" (pronounced kree) instead of literating those three words. Neither you nor your doctor knows or can tell at the onset what the C-R-I, which you hope is just a slight distemper, in disposition or, if you are very ignorant indeed or very vicious, a slight "cold," will turn out to be — meningitis, measles, flu, infantile paralysis, virus pneumonia, scarlet fever, septic sore throat, tonsilitis, acute bronchitis, whooping cough or whatnot. Therefore if you are a decent citizen you call it C-R-I until the nature of the trouble becomes manifest. If you are a moron you insist it is "just a cold" until it has become pneumonia and then have among the persons who are unfortunate enough to come into your spray range what I call C-R-I- mates.

Every school that is reasonably safe for children to attend a child who shows signs of the symptoms of the C-R-I is automatically excluded or excused from school attendance until the manifestation or illness is over. In some schools, however, the health of the pupils is not so protected. On the contrary, parents and teachers encourages pupils to come to school as long as they are able, regardless of "simple colds." This attendance record must be kept high at whatever cost of war and health.

The radio programs, television and public forum presentations, participants are sometimes praised for appearing in spite of "severe cold" or perhaps for "getting over" the "flu" in order to attend the performance.

One of the members of a football team that had a fair chance to play the Rose Bowl game came down with the C-R-I but he was before the final and critical game of the season. He, his coach, his family, his team mates and everyone, it seemed, including the doctors were concerned, encouraged him to subordinate all precautions for his own welfare and the safety of those within his spray range and to play the game. He did Siwash—the doctor gave him 100,000 units of penicillin, and maybe a shot of dope besides, and the young man thrilled the con-

Eczema

Answer—Yes, I was recommending that you write in reference to tonsillectomy for all the victims of infantile eczema. I am very sorry. I lost a lot of medical friends that way—but I believe I saved a few children.

Coffee and the Heart

Should one with coronary disease drink coffee, alcohol, or tea together? (F. K.)

Answer—On the contrary, moderate use of coffee is beneficial in many cases of coronary disease. The caffeine (active principle or alkaloid of coffee) tends to dilate the coronary arteries, and so the blood delivers more oxygen to the heart muscle.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Democracy is one of those elastic words that like a chinese straw hat, will fit any head. Even the smaller dictionaries give seven definitions of it, and the first President Roosevelt, Theodore, entitled "Game Fish of the Northern Waters" and "Wilderness Provinces." that estimable and departed gentleman wrote a chapter on how to go camping and how to take a bath in the woods.

He submits that two gentlemen going fishing should hire two guides. Democracy, then he provides a fine Sibley tent, the guides a small A tent and a great length. For the men, as he calls them, a single A tent would long will suffice. The grub list is magnificent. It concludes: "Several pounds of brown sugar, the same of butter and two gallons of molasses is sufficient." Fine anglers and five men. It is not necessary to give the pure white sugar or coffee: They are carried for the gentlemen, and all the other calculations are made on that footing."

The idea of democracy, you see, expands.

Heavy-Set Thug Sought by Police Assault Alleged

Ottawa, April 13—(CP)—Police are searching for a heavy-set thug who allegedly attacked and beat up a taxi driver on a lonely road about five miles northeast of here today.

The driver, Rheal Marion, 21, of Forbes, Ont., told police he had been knocked unconscious when he was struck about the head and face with a heavy object.

Marion said he picked up his passenger at Forbes and was instructed to "keep going and he would give me directions later." He became suspicious when his passenger told him to turn off the highway down a side road. As he stepped out of the cab to question the man and ask for his fare he was struck by a heavy object.

At hospital, Marion was found to be suffering deep gashes to the face and head and possible internal injuries. Police were unable to find a murder weapon as the money carried by the driver was left untouched by his assailant.

Heavy Ice at Soo Delays Navigation

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 13 (CP)— Harbor Master Frank Parr said today that navigation here may not open for another two weeks.

The opening this year will be one of the latest on record, marine men say. Solid blue ice, 20 to 31 inches thick, in the St. Mary's River is keeping upper lakes navigation closed.

Two United States Coast Guard icebreakers have cut about one-third of the way to Detour, Mich., the opening into ice-caked waters of Northern Lake Huron.

Commander T. A. Dahlburg of the Coast Guard expects it will be five or six days until the ice breakers open the lower St. Mary's River channel. No attempt has been made to open the section of river between here and Lake Superior.

The first upbound vessel last year reached here March 26, one of the earliest navigation openings in Sault history. The latest shipping start in recent years was in 1928 when the first ship arrived May 1.

MacKenzie's Column: Turkish People Put on Show At State Funeral

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

What an amazing drama that was which the people of Istanbul staged Wednesday at the state funeral of Turkey's military hero, Marshal Fevzi Cakmak!

As the Marshal's casket was being carried from the Beyazit Vezir mosque to the waiting gun-carriage after the service, a group of citizens seized the coffin and hoisted it to their shoulders. Then they bore it 10 miles to the cemetery at the head of a procession of 50,000 through streets lined with hundreds of thousands more. As they marched many they shouted:

"He came from the people! He belongs to the people, and the people will bury him!"

To understand such a demonstration you must know the Turk. He feels deeply and registers his emotions strongly. I saw an exhibition of this in 1938 in Istanbul at the time of the death of the great Kemal Ataturk, father of modern Turkey. Everywhere in officers and on the streets, men wept openly.

Marshal Cakmak was one of Ataturk's right-hand men. Among the triumphs associated with Cakmak's name was the successful defence of the Dardanelles and Gallipoli in the First World War.

Cakmak's passing will be a sharp reminder of that fateful campaign to all the living military greats and statesmen who were involved. It has been one of the most bitterly disputed military operations of history, but the consensus is that if the allied plan had succeeded, it would have ended the war two years sooner than the actual conclusion.

Churchill's Project

The Dardanelles project was the brain child of Winston Churchill, and there have been two schools of thought about it. One has maintained that the project wasn't feasible and the other has insisted that it was feasible but was fumbled badly by those who were entrusted with its execution.

I believe the latter argument never will be settled, but I ran into an interesting sidelight not long after the allies abandoned the campaign. This was a disclosure by the late Capt. George A. Schreiner, newspaper man and author, who was a war correspondent with the Turkish forces defending the Dardanelles.

The allied naval attack by British and French warships was given up as a failure March 18, 1915. Schreiner told me that shortly before he fleet withdrew this day a Turkish officer came to him and said:

"Pack up your stuff, Schreiner, and get ready to move. We can't hold out against this bombardment any longer. We are going to withdraw immediately."

So Schreiner packed, and the defenders were all set to retreat when the allied warships ceased fire. The astonished Turks halted their preparations for evacuation and waited to see what was happening. They got their answer when the fleet sailed away, never to return.

The great allied military offensive on Gallipoli followed. By the end of July, 1915, that also had failed in a grim welter of death, disease and suffering.

That's how Marshal Cakmak became a hero, and how the Dardanelles campaign perhaps missed a different outcome by a hair's breadth.

WIDOW GETS $9 MILLION

Mt. Clemens, Mich., April 12 — (AP) — Edsel B. Ford, only son of the founder of the Ford Motor Company, left a total estate of $128,039,503, it was disclosed Wednesday in court. The widow's inheritance amounted to $19,105,887, the accounting showed.

WEDDINGS

DEERING—LUMMISS

Marmora. — The wedding was solemnized at St. George's rectory, Peterborough, at 7 p.m., on Thursday, April 6th., of Audrey Frances Marion Lumniss, daughter of Lloyd and Mrs. Lumniss, Lumniss, of Marmora, and William Richard Deering, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Richard Deering, of Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. . .

Rev. E. C. Moore officiated.

The bride wore a suit of grey gabardine with navy accessories. Her corsage was of American Beauty roses.

Miss Josephine Kourl, of Marmora, was bridesmaid, attired in a turquoise suit with wine accessories. She wore a corsage of cream roses.

Mr. Thomas Neal, of Marmora, was the best man.

The bride and groom left on a trip to Toronto. They will reside in Marmora.

MERRICK—MORRISON

Rawdon.—In the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison, 3rd Concession Rawdon, was tastefully decorated for the wedding of their youngest daughter, Frances Ann, to Robert George, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Merrick, Second Concession of Rawdon, on Saturday, April 8, at 2:30 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. H. C. Vaclavik, pastor of Rawdon circuit, beneath an arch of pink and white bells and streamers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father was lovely in a floor-length gown of white brocaded satin with pleated net yoke and bouffant skirt. The sleeves were long and tight fitting, ending in petal points at the wrists. Her fingertip embroidered veil fell gracefully from a pearl coronet headdress. The bride also wore a three-strand necklace of pearls with matching earrings. She carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses tied with satin streamers.

Miss Eleanor Johnson of Stirling, was maid of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of green moire taffeta with matching headdress, fingertip veil and lace mittens. She carried a nosegay of yellow roses and sweetpeas.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy, Madoc Junction, was bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length corsage of red tulle taffeta with matching headdress, veil and lace mitts. She carried a nosegay of yellow daffodils and bouvardia.

Miss Ruth Mumby, wearing a floor-length gown of pink brocaded satin with corsage of red roses, provided suitable wedding music during the afternoon.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 50 guests. The bride's mother received in a frock of navy crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. George Merrick, of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, wearing flowered silk jersey and a corsage of red roses.

The wedding room was tastefully arranged with small tables and the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth, centred by a three-tier wedding cake suitably decorated. Easter lilies were used to add beauty to the occasion. The wedding luncheon was served by Mrs. Kenneth Murphy, Mrs. Don Drewry, Miss Grace Dunham and Miss Joan Hoard, with Mrs. Charles Vance in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Merrick chose for travelling to New York, U.S., a navy blue tailored two-piece suit with topcoat and navy accessories.

The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond set ring with matching tray; to the pianist and soloist, Bradshaw Helen Grant at the altar, the honor and bridesmaid, china cake plates, and to the groomsman, gold pocket knife and pencil.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The problem of widowhood

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a widow in my forties, with three sons, 17, 15 and 12. I would like to meet an intelligent man and really don't know how to go about it. Those men I have met are very rude and uneducated.

I love sports, music and dancing, have a nice home and love to cook.—M.V.C.:

Dear M.V.C.:

You must be going to the wrong places to make friends if all the men you meet are so objectionable. I advise you to look around and see if there aren't some better place to go for companionship.

I am sorry, but there is no possible way in which I could help you to meet men, intelligent or otherwise, as I do not believe in promiscuous acquaintances by mail.

The best thing you can do, is to join some reputable organization such as a YWCA, or other group, and fill what leisure time you have with interesting activity. There is always a chance that if you make a lot of friends, you may sometime meet a male relative of one of them, but you should try to plan your life so that you can have a good time whether you find a husband or not.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl 16, and am going with a boy 23. I love him very much, but when I see my girl friends going out with different boys every night, it makes me want to do the same thing. I have never gone out with any other boy yet, and I never expect to.

We have talked of getting married, and I'd love to marry him very much, but we would have to wait such a long time. Do you think it is wrong to force myself to wait for him—way in the future, I mean?— J. M.

Dear J.M.:

I think if you feel that you would like to go out with other young men, it certainly is wrong to tie yourself down to this one, or any other. It is perfectly natural for a girl of 16 to want to go around with a lot of different friends while she is still so young.

You say that you have never gone out with any other boy, and to me, that is unfortunate, as it gives you no chance to know other types of young men and get any really intelligent idea of the kind you like best.

My advice to you would be to talk this over frankly with this chap, and tell him that you really feel both of you should have more freedom for a while. If he really cares about you, he will want to do what you wish.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Do you brush your hair?

" Perhaps you fancy it was just a quaint idea of grandma's to have given her hair 100 strokes of the brush every night when she was a Sweet Young Thing. At that time hair was valued by inches. Long hair, like long limbs, the higher the beauty grade.

At that time hair was valued by inches.

What now, my friend? Once upon a time you had a hair brush, but where is it now? You haven't a notion. Anyhow, you believe you must preserve the finger waves and ringlets, and that brushing will weaken them. If you don't brush, you may not have as many ringlets a few years hence. Your locks thrive on grooming. It imparts lustre. It does a rousing house cleaning, shaking out dead shafts. The sooner they are out the better, so that silky little understudies can emerge and carry on.

Brushing removes surface dust, of which you can collect plenty in twenty-four hours. Few girls shampoo their tresses oftener than once a fortnight. By that time the scalp carries dead skin scales and deposits from sebaceous and sweat glands, all of which should not reside there for any length of time if the growth is to be in a healthy state. Think it over. Dig into those remote corners of the dresser drawer. Find that forgotten brush and use it.

If your hair looks dejected, lacks lustre, seems just about sick abed, trot to the beauty shop for a course of scalp treatments. The wise, far-seeing woman has a course of treatments twice a year, spring and autumn. You will find that brushing is an important part of this beauty ritual, which includes brisk friction of the scalp to stir up the circulatory streams from which every shaft gets food and drink.

Professional scalp work follows a pattern. The hair is parted in the centre down to the nape line. Small strands are groomed, the hair being held away from the head. Then there is a parting from ear to ear, and strand-brushing continues. The hair is thrown forward, the bristles of the brush sweeping from nape to crown.

A tonic that brings a glow to the flesh is applied to the scalp as the hair is separated at various places. When the distribution is complete, massage follows.

All this can be done at home. Massage consists of circular movements of the fingertips. An effort to lift the flesh is made by pinching between thumb and finger.

It won't do to take your glorious halo for granted, believe that the growth will remain luxuriant. If the scalp is dry, oil treatments are necessary. Apply olive or mineral oil the night before the shampoo, frictioning it in well. Rub it on the ends of the hair that are always dryer than the growth close to the scalp.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Father-in-law-to-be should't stay "Dad"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should a prospective father-in-law sign a letter to write to his prospective son-in-law? Should his signature be his first name only . . . or his given name and surname. . . or would it be permissible to sign "Dad", in this modern age, before the marriage occurs?

S. R.

The prospective father-in-law should sign this letter with his first name and surname. . . . Henry Roth. Signing his first name only would be unnaturally informal, and would seem to suggest that the younger man calls (or should call) the older man by his first name. And signing the letter "Dad" would certainly be premature and in very poor taste. . . .unless or until the father-in-law-to-be has suggested that his son-in-law-to-be call him by this intimate name, and the son-in-law-to-be has accepted this suggestion. This is not a question of "in this modern age" . . . it is a question of consideration of another person's feeling or reaction. For even though there might be a very strong devotion between the two men, the younger man might be entirely unwilling to call anyone but his own father by the loving name "Dad". If this is true he would certainly not be pleased to receive a letter signed by the name he cherishes for his own father. So until another more intimate name is decided on by all concerned, the girl's father should sign his first name and surname.

Engraving Dresser Set

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance gave me a dresser set for Christmas. It was not engraved with any initials. Now we are planning to be married soon, and we both think it would be nice to have his last initial engraved on the pieces of the set. But some people have said that this would be improper, that since we weren't married when I received this gift, I should use my first initial. What is your opinion?—A.B.

I think that for such a personal possession as a dresser set, the logical initial to use, if you are planning to use only one initial, would be the initial of your first name. (As when one initial is used on handkerchiefs, lingerie, letter-paper and so forth—the initial of the first name is used.) The initial of your first name would be my suggestion, whether you have the set engraved before your marriage or after. But if you would like to use either two or three initials, and have the set engraved after your marriage, the initials to use would be those of your informal name (for: ABC, for Alice Brown (maiden surname) Clark (marriage surname).

Wants cousins as junior bridesmaids

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My question is about bridesmaids at my June wedding. I have no sisters, and my close friends are not available for bridesmaids. However, I have two young cousins whom I have always regarded more as my sisters than cousins. One is 13 years old, the other 11, and they are both quite mature for their age. Would it be proper to have them as junior bridesmaids? My aunt, who is forty, will be matron of honor. Do you think there will be too much difference between the ages of my matron of honor and the junior bridesmaids to have a pleasing effect? If you do, I could simply have a matron of honor.— B.J.

You very much want those two young girls who are so dear to you to be junior bridesmaids, and I think you should have them! They are of the right age to be junior bridesmaids. . . have them dressed alike and very simply and appropriately for their age. . . have them walk together, too, in the recessional, after the matron of honor and before the ushers. (The difference in age between them and the matron of honor isn't at all inappropriate, since junior bridesmaids are always young girls, from a tall ten to fifteen or sixteen.)

SAUERKRAUT IS ONE OF THE WORLD'S MOST HEALTHFUL VEGETABLE DISHES

Recommended for Spring Eating Because It Actually Increases Appetite

Sauerkraut is more than a delicious vegetable; it is a valuable addition to the diet. A favourite for centuries because of its pleasantly stimulating flavor, science has found that sauerkraut is among the most valuable of preventive and corrective foods.

EASY TO DIGEST

Sauerkraut has all the beneficial properties of cabbage in a more easily digested form, and it is more valuable as a food. The process which it undergoes produces lactic acid, the same type of lactic bacilli which is found in buttermilk, yahourt and sour milk, all of which are well-known for their health-giving properties.

PRAISED BY SCIENTISTS

Among the many scientists who have been convinced of the great value of sauerkraut is Pasteur, the father of Pasteurization, who placed it first of all vegetables from a health standpoint. Sauerkraut has often been prescribed as an appetizer and an aid to digestion, and it is known to have the effect of retarding many diseases of middle and old age.

DESERVES POPULARITY

Sauerkraut, which rates so high in food value, is one of the most healthful and most economical vegetable dishes you can purchase. And, in the words of a keep them in condition, pink-cheeked, bright-eyed, and with keen appetite and increased capacity for other duties of the menu than any other thing I know of.

MODERN METHODS INCREASE VALUE OF SAUERKRAUT

Sauerkraut as made today in Libby's modern kitchens is far superior to that made by old-fashioned methods. Only the choicest cabbage is used, and they are finely cut with absolute uniformity by specially constructed machines. This insures even and uniform fermentation. The correct proportions of salt and cabbage are scientifically maintained and temperature is regulated. The most extreme cleanliness is observed throughout the entire process of manufacture and a uniformly high grade product is the result.

Kingston, Ont.—(Special)— In the first game in the Queen's University invitation high school tournament John Hayman's Albert College quintet defeated a formidable Trenton team by a 31 to 24 count. Keith Buchanan opened the scoring for the collegians with a hard drive in shot but baskets by Jordan and Hanna pushed Trenton into a short lived lead 4-2. Thomas and Dixon Palmer paced the Albert club to 9-7 lead at the quarter. In the second quarter both teams traded hoop for hoop ending up with Albert holding a slim 17-16 lead at the half. B. Palmer and Jack Thomas hooped four spices in the first half.

Albert looked jetty at start of the second half as they widened their lead with three quick hoops. Albert College boys outplayed their opponents in the last canto as they came up with the 31-24 win. Cook, Bruce Gillespie failed to hit the scoresheet for the winners with Keith Buchanan and Jack Thomas on top with 7 and 6 points. Albert College will face the strong Ottawa Nepean squad Thursday morning with the winner almost certain for a spot in the B section finals.

Teams:

Albert—(31)—Mills 2, Slater 5, Thomas 6, Harris 1, Fitzsimmons 1; Palmer, D. I. Gillespie, Buchanan 7, Utting 2, B. Palmer 6.

Trenton—(24)—Ethier 1, Jordan 6, Woodward 2, Hanna 8, Collier 2, Smith, Flynn 5, Campney.

Senator Bridges Proposes U.S. Planes be Armed

Washington, April 13—(AP)—Senator Styles Bridges (Rep. N. H.) proposed Wednesday that American planes patrolling near Russia's borders be "armed to the teeth" and ordered to shoot back if fired upon.

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, Bridges asserted that the Soviet air force had "ambushed and shot down in cold blood" a slow and unarmed American patrol plane which drifted into Russian-occupied Latvia last week.

Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia contended in a formal protest Tuesday that an American bomber of the B-29 type fired on Russian fighters, one of which returned the fire, and then turned out to see.

The plane in question is believed to be an unarmed United States navy privateer, missing in the Baltic Sea area with 10 men aboard.

No Night Harness Racing Under Existing Law

(By The Canadian Press)

The newly-appointed Ontario Racing Commission said Wednesday in Toronto there will be no night harness racing in the province under existing law.

Tupper Bigelow, chairman, announced that racing would not be permitted under the hook system of wagering. Wagering by pari-mutuel at night would require an amendment of the Criminal Code. Therefore there could be no night racing at least until such a change was made.

A syndicate which has a lease on Toronto's Thorncliffe track has been endeavoring to get permission for harness racing under floodlights.

The commission, at its first meeting, also:

1. Approved 1950 running horse dates set last fall by the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association which the commission replaces. The season therefore will start May 3 at Toronto's Dufferin Park.

2. Named W. J. Riswick as supervisor of racing, his duties to include liaison between the commission, the various tracks and racing associations.

3. Appointed R. L. Horrigan, secretary of the I. C. R. A. to a similar position on the commission.

4. Announced a $25 fee for each owner's license.

5. Said other permanent appointments, to be made later, will include commission steward, assistant steward, analyst and veterinary.

The Montreal Gazette said today in a sport page story that Joseph M. Breen, well-known former Canadian athletic czech and official, will be asked to accept the post as the first Commissioner of Eastern Canada Intercollegiate football.

Breen, onetime grid star at the University of Toronto and a former coach at the University of Western Ontario, London, and Queen's University, Kingston, was one of three persons considered for the position, the report said. Others were Leslie Blackwell, former Attorney-General of Ontario, and Lt.-Col. Stuart Forbes, former McGill University coach.

Building Supply Workers in B.C. Halt All Jobs

Victoria, B.C., April 13. (CP)

The noise of power drills, hammers and saws and the bustle of business are halted here today by a strike of building supply workers. It is the 15th day of the strike.

Work on public and private buildings, homes and housing projects is at a standstill, and millions of dollars in construction delayed.

A strike of 71 employees of Evans, Coleman and Johnston Ltd., one of British Columbia's largest suppliers of building materials, has made 500 tradesmen idle.

Negotiations in a wages dispute are deadlocked as delivery of building supplies has dropped to a trickle and pickets parade before major projects.

The workers walked out March 1 demanding a pay-boost of 15 cents an hour. The company made a final offer of five cents.

Present rates range from 96 cents an hour for laborers to $1.34 for crane, shovel and bulldozer operators.

A later offer from the company was a seven-cent-an-hour boost for laborers and a three-cent-an-hour increase for all other workers. It was rejected.

The strikers are members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.), which is the general bargaining agency for truckers and others employed by the company.

Other building tradesmen quit work when ordered by their unions to respect picket lines.

The value of building projects tied up by the strike is placed at $8,000,000.

Colchester, Essex, England—(CP)—Roman Emperor Claudius is still revered in Colchester. This year the town celebrates the 1900th anniversary of the founding of Colchester by him as a Roman colony in 50 A.D.

POPULATION CHANGE

Oslo—(CP)—The Norwegian Labor Directorate has predicted a large change in the makeup of the country's population. By 1975 it says there will be 200,000 more persons over 65 years of age and 60,000 fewer children.

FORD PLAN STEP FORWARD — LABOR

George Burt

Rhys M. Sale

The $55-a-month pensions plan agreed on in Windsor by Ford of Canada and the U.A.W. members was hailed by George Burt, Canadian U.A.W. director, as setting a new goal for the whole Canadian labor movement. Labor officials regard the industry-financed pension plan as a strong argument in favor of abolishing the government's means test, "We enter into settlment without reservation," Rhys M. Sale, Ford president, said, "although the terms we proposed and which the union membership has accepted place a heavy financial obligation on the company." — Central Press Canadian.

Negro Tenant Dies of Wounds

Kosciusko, Miss., April 13 — (AP)— Thomas Harris, Negro tenant farmer shot and paralyzed in the Jan. 8 massacre of three children by three white men, is dead.

Harris, 27, was carried into court on a stretcher to identify the men accused of slaying his daughter, Ruby Nell Harris, 4 and his two step-children, Mary Burnsides, 8, and Frankie Thurman, 12.

Sheriff Roy Braswell said Harris' death Tuesday night "undoubtedly was the result of a pistol wound of the back inflicted by Leon Turner."

Turner, described in court as the trigger man in the wild slayings, now is serving three life sentences for murder. Two other white men also are serving prison terms in the slayings.

Crown to Return Money Seized

Toronto, April 13 (CP)— The Crown will return the $1,350 seized from Stanley Grzelczak, 52-year-old Polish born laborer who pleaded guilty Wednesday to illegal possession of U.S. funds and was fined $350. A second charge of attempting to export the currency was withdrawn.

Grzelczak worked 23 years to save up a total of $1,450 to bring his wife and sons from Poland and when he sailed for Poland in 1949 he took $200 with him, leaving the rest in a suitcase which was to follow him. The suitcase however, was inspected and the money was seized at the U.S. border at Fort Erie.

At the court appearance Wednesday Ald. Joseph M. Gould, counsel for the foreign exchange department, said that the seized money would be returned to the accused. He said the department had taken lenient view of the case and suggested a fine of $500 would be sufficient.

Flying Bixbys Complete Flight Around World

San Francisco, April 13. (AP) —The Flying Bixbys completed their globe-girdling flight today —10 days behind schedule.

They landed here, their April 1 take-off point, at 3:06 a.m. P.S.T. (6:06 a.m. E.S.T.).

They hoped to shatter the late Bill Odom's world circling record of 73 hours, five minutes, 11 seconds. But engine trouble near Calcutta smashed that dream. Magneto trouble at Tokyo forced a second delay.

Asked if they planned to try again for the record, the Bixbys replied "no comment". Previously, Bob '36 and Dianna 27, said they would make another attempt if they could ge financial backing.

SPRING LIGHTING

Sudbury, Ont. — (CP)—Young couples found College street here a good place for spring evening walks recently. Water in underground lines cut down the street lights to a dim orange glow.

Three Skeletons Of Babies Found

Baltimore, April 13. (AP)—The skeletons of three babies apparently dead for more than 25 years were discovered Wednesday night in the boarded-up fireplace of a home here.

Mrs. Marie Plage dropped her ring through a crack in the mantle. To get it, she ripped up a piece of loose tin and uncovered a bundle of cloth.

She unwrapped the cloth and saw the skeleton of a small baby. She jumped back, screaming. Police probed into the opening and removed two other small skeletons.

One of them was wrapped in a paper dated Sept. 18, 1921, and the other in a paper dated Jan. 27, 1923.

Mrs. Plage told police she had lived in the house about a year.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

As Tim pulled open the screen door of the lodge he glanced back over his shoulder in the direction of the shed and the ravine, where he'd seen Bruce Thurman's body. There was a man standing at the corner of the shed, apparently watching him. The man turned and walked behind a hedge toward the rear door of the lodge as soon as he saw Tim looking at him.

Tim frowned as he crossed the porch of the lodge and stepped inside the lounge. A fresh fire was going in the fireplace and he dropped into a chair near the hearth to think for a moment. He didn't feel like eating.

Bruce Thurman was dead and people didn't just quietly walk into a pile of underbrush in a ravine and die natural deaths. Bruce Thurman had been murdered, or at least killed by violence at the hands of someone else. There was always the chance that it was justifiable homicide and not murder, if Bruce, for instance, had forced the other person to kill him in self-defense.

But all that was a matter for a jury to decide. It ran through Tim's legal mind in a smooth sequence and passed on satisfactorily, the ways cleared for further speculation or maybe deduction based on the facts that he already knew.

Last night, Saturday—and this was Sunday, Tim suddenly realized, and he had to go into town to church—Bruce Thurman got in trouble with Joe, the bartender. He gave Joe a crack on the jaw and then beat it out of the saloon followed about 15 minutes later by Joe. That is, Joe left the saloon 15 minutes later. Tim squirmed a bit over his own sloppy thinking. He didn't know that Joe had followed Bruce. It was only a strong hunch.

All right then. Joe came back an hour and a half later, stepped behind the bar and wiped his hands—that might be something. The towel might contain a clue or two. But what about the noise during the night, at least a couple of hours after Joe had returned to the saloon, and when he, Tim was in bed and almost asleep? That surely had to be the time when Bruce's body had been dropped or knocked into the ravine.

Dropped or knocked. There, that was better; legal logic and careful terminology. Tim laughed to himself. Dropped was a very much different than knocked, under the circumstances. If it dropped, then Bruce might have been killed earlier and simply deposited in the brush for convenience. If he was knocked into the ravine it would mean that death had been administered at that moment or had resulted shortly afterward, and in that case Joe the bartender would seem—Tim repeated the word seem in his mind—to be in clear, because he was then, presumably, still in the saloon.

Grace Thurman came into the dining room then, from the kitchen, and Tim saw her going to the different tables primping the little bouquets in their tiny vases and smoothing the cloths, which were already smooth and sparkling white. Tim thought she looked tired, as if she hadn't slept well. He got a sickish feeling in his stomach, watching her go about those routine duties, knowing nothing about what lay in the ravine out in back of the shed. And who was going to tell her? Tim knew that he wasn't.

Then he got to thinking about the man who'd been watching him when he looked back from the door of the lodge. He'd been a little, stocky fellow in a leather jacket and those blue denim trousers that most of the farmers and hired hands in the country wore. He supposed the fellow was one of the hired men for the lodge.

His speculations on that score were settled quickly.

Grace Thurman still without having eaten him, returned to the kitchen and came out a moment later followed by the man Tim had seen. She came right into the lounge and, seeing Tim then for the first time said: "Oh, good morning Mr. Donovan. My, but you're an early riser!"

She smiled and Tim was again conscious of how exhausted she looked.

"There's too much to do up here to spend one's time in bed" he said. "Even though it's wonderful climate for sleeping," he added.

"Yes, isn't it?" Grace Thurman replied absently. Then she turned to the man who'd been standing behind her, his soiled cap in his hand and his shaggy, sandy hair looking like a rag mat on his head. "That's what I was talking about, Sid," she said. "See how the bark from those logs makes a good ground for hearth? You'll just have to trim the loose stuff off after this before you bring the wood in here."

"The girls can dust it up," Sid replied surlily.

"Never mind about that!" Grace Thurman said sharply. "Trim those logs after this. And for today you can just dust it up yourself. Get me the broom from the kitchen." She turned and walked to the porch door, and Tim could see that she was angry with Sid and very much upset.

Tim started to get up himself to go into the dining room, then decided to wait and see if Sid would have anything to say while he was "dusting up" the loose bark around the hearth.

But Sid had nothing at all to say He came back with the broom and he looked at Tim as impersonally as if he, too, were a piece of bark. Not until after the man finished his work and went out of the room again did Tim give a second thought to one fact.

All the time Sid had been sweeping around the hearth he'd kept glancing at Tim's shoes, or at least in the neighborhood of his legs and feet. Tim thought at the time that the fellow was one of these introverted, stupid people who are afraid to meet anyone's eyes. Now that he thought about it again, he wondered if maybe those sharp glances at his feet might have had some significance. It was quite possible that there were footprints near where Bruce Thurman's body lay in the ravine.

Tim crossed his legs and considered the shoes he had on. They were heavy rubber-soled affairs with dark brown, soft moccasin tops. The soles, although he'd had the shoes several years, were still deeply ridged in their original "nonskid" pattern; distinctive because of the diamond shaped block at the ball of the foot, where the most wear would be, and strips maybe a quarter-inch wide and a quarter-inch apart spreading out in the same shape like ripples from a stone dropped in the water. The heel also had a diamond in the centre and lines running around it.

He was sitting there thinking what a nice bit of irony it would be if he were to be suspected of taking a hand in Bruce Thurman's murder because his footprints were found near the body, when Greg and Diane barged in. "Why didn't you go ahead and eat!" Greg demanded as he stepped up to the fire, Diane alongside him, and started warming his hands. Greg looked full of energy with his face shiny from the soft water and soap of his morning shave, and Diane looked pleasantly lazy as she always did in the morning. Her big dark eyes seemed darker then than at any other time of the day, and she always looked kind of soft and huddled up, so you wanted to put a comforting arm around her. She smiled at Tim as she warmed her hands at the fire.

"I wasn't very hungry," Tim said answering Greg's question. "That's better than trying to tell you I was being polite."

"A lot nearer the truth, anyway," Greg said. "Well, I'm hungry. Let's eat."

Tim got up and they went into the dining room. The waitress came as soon as they were seated with orange juice and steaming hot oatmeal. They were just finishing the cereal when Greg took time off to look up at Tim and say "How late did you stay up after we turned in?"

As he spoke the waitress opened the door from the kitchen, bringing them their bacon and eggs, and through the open door Tim could see Sid, his eyes suddenly narrowed and obviously intent upon what Greg had just said:

"Not long," Tim said, his eyes still on Sid as the door swung shut. He turned a thoughtful glance toward Greg. "About 15 minutes, I imagine," he said quietly.

The waitress had served them, the door was open again as she returned to the kitchen. Sid was listening again as Greg said, "I heard you moving around a long time later. Thought maybe you were just going to bed then."

Tim sighed quietly and shook his head. Sid was certainly getting an earful. The dour had swung shut in time to cut off his answer. "I got up once because I thought I heard something outside. Couldn't see anything though."

They ate in silence for a moment. Then Diane said, "are you going into church Tim? The service is at 2.30 I believe."

"Yes," Tim replied. "How about you folks picking me up at the boathouse about 1:1? I ought to be back by then."

"Sure," Greg said. "We'll get in an hour's fishing anyway, while you're gone and dinner isn't until 2. We'll have time for a run up to the end of the lake after you get back."

That was the plan when Tim left the lodge to drive into town but it was to be seriously altered a very short time later. There wasn't much fishing done that day by any of the guests at the lodge.

Parents and Daughter Found Brutally Beaten, Stabbed To Death in Blazing House

Huntington, W. Va., April 13—(AP) — A couple and their 10-year-old daughter were found brutally beaten and stabbed to death in their burning home early today.

Firemen stumbled into the gory setting after they answered an alarm that the house of William A. Blanks was on fire.

A couple's son, 18-year-old Billy Blanks, Jr., was picked up by police two hours later and rushed to a hospital with undetermined wounds.

The inside of the box - like house was a shambles.

The body of the girl was sprawled face up, with young arms bared her knees, on her smouldering bed in the front upstairs room.

Blanks, 40, and his wife, Mildred, were found in the rear bedroom. Mrs. Blanks was on the bed, face down, and Blanks was on the floor near the bed. He lay stretched on his left side, as if he had attempted to escape the killer.

Police found a 16-inch bloodsmeared kitchen knife and a bathroom hammer in the house.

In the kitchen lay the family's dog, its animal's skull had been split open.

PARKING BAN HURTS

Workingham, Bershire, England —(CP)—Since a no-parking order has been enforced in the local shopping street, tradesmen complain they have lost 25 per cent of their business.

Broken Fuel Line Caused Plane Crash

Washington, April 13 —(AP)— The United States Air Force Wednesday blamed a broken fuel line for the air crash which killed Laurence Steinhardt, U.S. ambassador to Canada, near Ottawa March 28.

Brig.-Gen. Victor E. Bertrandias director of flying safety for the air force made the report—the first investigation of the crash of the American plane carrying Steinhardt from Ottawa to the United States.

A statement issued by the air force today said:

"The report by the investigating officers to U.S. air force headquarters states that a fire developed in the right engine soon after the plane levelled off at a cruising altitude of 2,000 feet. Evidence indicates that the fire was caused by broken fuel line which sprayed gasoline into the accessory section of right engine. The fire spread rapidly through the right wing and fuselage and the right engine dropped off before the plane crashed."

The accessory section of the engine is where the starter, generator, oil cooler and other accessories are situated.

WINDSORS IN CANADA

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor are shown on their arrival in Calgary to visit their 4,000-acre EP ranch at Pekisko, Alta., about 65 miles southwest of Calgary. The Duke and Duchess last visited Canada and their ranch in 1941. They said they have no intention of selling the property which nestles in the Rocky Mountain foothills. — (CP Photo.)

Many Soft Coal Mines in U.S. Being Forced Out

Pittsburgh, April 13 — (AP)— The United States soft-coal industry today is suffering from curtailed production while even greater woes are foreseen in the immediate future.

Industry spokesmen predict spreading unemployment and a chain of mine closings as a result of reduced coal output and the inroads of competitive fuels.

The 8,000 bituminous (soft coal) mines in the country produced a record-breaking 631,000,000 tons in 1947. Now they are reverting to a normal market estimated at around 400,000,000 tons. Last year 430,000,000 tons was dug despite several strikes.

Many high cost or low quality mines already are being squeezed out. And thousands of miners are joining the ranks of job hunters.

There are 400,000 soft - coal miners in the United States.

The National Coal Association estimates 50,000 coal miners will be jobless in coming months. Another 50,000 transport workers, who haul coal from mine to market also will be laid off, the N. C. A. predicts, as the result of oil imports alone.

Natural gas and fuel oil continue to creep into fields once dominated by coal. Railroads are changing from coal burning locomotives to diesel engines.

Windsors Say They're at Ranch For Business and Not Pleasure

By EDWIN FRICKE

Pekisko, Alta., April 13 (CP) —The Duke of Windsor, who made news by falling off horses when he was Prince of Wales, isn't doing any riding this week.

"We're on a business, not a pleasure trip," said the Duke yesterday, standing in melting snow under tall leafless cottonwoods in front of his ranchhouse. A warm Chinook wind ruffled his sandy hair.

Good-naturedly but firmly they summoned press photographers, reporters and newsreel cameramen who had come 65 miles from Calgary to report on the Windsor's first day at their 4,000 acre foothills ranch.

They consented to pose briefly for photographers with the proviso that they then be allowed privacy. "After all this is private property," said the Duke smiling.

While cameras clicked with the Duke and Duchess against a background of the Rock Mountains and their 12-room red-roofed ranchhouse with the Pekisko Creek gently flowing nearby, they chatted pleasantly.

"We don't like closeups," the Duchess warned photographers.

They intended to "see everything here"—the red barns, the 35 purebred Aberdeen cattle, 100 Suffolk sheep and a score of Yorkshire pigs. It was evening time on the EP (for Edward Prince) Ranch and foreman Bill Elliot reported eight calves had been added to the herd.

The Duke did not elaborate on the business angle. Yesterday he said "we plan to develop the ranch by switching from shorthorn to Hereford cattle." This was taken in some quarters to mean that he intends to stock the ranch, which with its present small herd is far from a full-scale proposition. Its grazing ranges are rated with the best in Southern Alberta.

The Duke, who had tried for oil in 1943 and 1944 but didn't get anything, also said earlier that he will not be alone again. Both denied the ranch will be sold.

Ten minutes after the Windsor's arrival the Duchess with the Duke nodding agreement, said: "Well, we've got business to attend to. Have a nice ride back . . . don't get stuck."

They intended to return to Calgary that night. W. G. Waddilove, the Duke's private secretary, said it is uncertain whether they will overnight the ranch this trip.

A few miles from the ranch, a big Union Jack flew from a flagpole in front of the South Fork trading post.

Red Protest Over Defence Arms Fizzles Out

Cherbourg, France, April 13—(CP) — A communist protest demonstration fizzled today as French workers began unloading the first American guns sent under the Atlantic Defence Pact.

In spite of a furious press and leaflet campaign by the communists to get Frenchmen to refuse to unload the arms and to demonstrate in protest against their arrival, a feeble attempt early this morning by some 50 demonstrators ended in 10 minutes without a tussle.

The shipment — first to come to Continental France under the Atlantic Pact agreement — arrived before dawn today aboard the 9,000-ton freighter American Importer.

Dock workers, some of them suffering from long unemployment, defied communist-led union pleas to refuse to take the guns from the hulk. Instead 90 of them swarmed over the ship and began lowering heavy artillery on to the docks with cranes.

About 600 military police and infantry soldiers sealed off the unloading area of this northern port where the biggest U.S. war material poured in to sustain allied armies during the last year of the war with Germany.

The police guard allowed only those with passes to come to enter the area, taking no chances with the communists' oft-repeated threat to throw all such arms into the sea.

BACK YARD FORESTS

Four of 10 Patients Burned In Sanatorium Fire Strapped To Beds, Inquest Jury Told

Norristown, Pa., April 13 (AP) —A corner's jury has found that "negligence" existed at the Belle Vista Sanatorium where a fire killed 10 patients March 29 . . .

The jury reached its verdict Wednesday after hearing these disclosures:

Four of the 10 who died were strapped to beds, powerless to save themselves. Fifteen of the 82 patients who survived also were strapped to beds.

Doctors signed "restraint" orders giving a nurse authority to decide when some patients were to be tied down.

A previously convicted firebug who set the blaze, had keys to the rooms and a closet, handled matches and was allowed to go home weekends.

It took firemen 20 to 25 minutes to chop their way through meshbarred windows to reach patients trapped in four small cubicles.

The jury recommended that the arsonist Nicholas A. Verna, 26 be committee to an asylum. Earlier in the day, Verna was sent to the state hospital for the criminally insane.

Recreation Centre Wrecked by Boys

Lindsay, April 13 — (CP) — Boys are believed responsible for $200 damage to a building erected with the object of preventing juvenile delinquency.

Town council was told Wednesday night the boys ran riot Tuesday night. Mrs. L. Wynn, secretary of the kindergarten room in the Kiwanis Recreation Centre, said one boy damaged piano keys with a hockey stick. Others poked holes in the ceiling and walls, tore panels of electric light switches, broke panes of glass and pulled down paper decorations.

Expects to Look up To Young Son In Short Time

Indianapolis, April 13—(AP) —Ronald Street reached up to pass out cigars today and commented that it wasn't be long until he'll have to look up to his son.

Street, three feet and 10 inches tall, has been a trouper with the Art Noble Midgets. His four-day-old son, Danny Lee, a normal 6¼ pounds, should be able to look the old man straight in the eye in about six years.

The baby was born by caesarian section to Street's wife, Lela Mae, who is 26 years old and three feet, eight inches tall.

Woodpecker Pecks At Reflection of Tree in Window

Silver Spring, Md., April 13—(AP)—A bird has been annoying Mrs. Frances Browning for four days, by pecking at her window pane.

Mrs. Browning says the bird won't stop pecking until she raises the window shades. Then it sits on the lawn and glares.

A policeman went around to investigate.

The policeman reported he didn't get the bird, but he did have an explanation for its behavior. He said it was a woodpecker and that it simply was pecking at the reflection of a tree in Mrs. Browning's windows

Complete Weather Bureau Aboard Canadian Carrier

On Board HMCS Magnificent, April 13 (CP)— Canada's only weather forecasting office afloat is located in this 18,000 ton aircraft carrier, homeward bound for Halifax from a two-month training cruise to the Caribbean. To ensure complete and up-to-date weather information, the carrier's meteorological department maintains a round-the-clock schedule, producing three forecasts and four weather maps a day. They are based on weather data received from shore stations and the 24 observations made each day from the ship.

To assist in preparing ocean weather maps, the Magnificent reports to shore several times daily on local weather conditions.

Prior to flying operations, pilots and observers are given a complete weather, briefing. This includes information on surface winds, upper winds, type, amount and height of cloud, visibility, temperature aloft, freezing level, sea and swell.

"The met department has seldom given us a bad steer," one pilot said.

The weather office is as well equipped as any meteorological station ashore. Large red and white balloons are launched four times daily to determine wind direction and velocity of the wind at various altitudes. These are traced either visually or by radar.

In charge of the "met" office is W. F. Ganong, of Digby, N.S. a meteorologist of the Department of Transport. He is assisted by A. H. Osborne, Stellarton, N.S. and seven meteorological observers of the Royal Canadian Navy.

They include Able Seaman W.J. Johnson of Peterborough and J. C. S. Switzer of Kingston.

The St. Stephen, operated by the Department of Transport as an Atlantic weather observation post, does not maintain a complete weather forecasting office. The vessel is used as an observing station, but does not compile weather charts or make forecasts.

Thurlow Jr. Farmers Enjoy Social Evening

Corbyville — The annual Thurlow Junior Farmer and Junior Institute banquet took place at Plainfield Orange Hall when over 200 sat down to a bountiful supper provided by Zion-Bethel Institute.

Gerald Eggleton, president, proposed the toast to the King. Prizes, donated by a Belleville firm were presented by their representative, Harold Meyers to several holding the lucky tickets. Accordian music was supplied by George Gulliver, accompanied by Anne Clare at the piano. Quadrilet of Junior Farmers from Prince Edward County gave several numbers. Miss Helen Sulman of Belleville gave a reading. Violin solos by Harold McAvoy and comments by Philip Flagler of radio station C.J.B.Q. finished this part of the program.

John Huffman introduced the guest speaker, Malcolm Robb, barrister of Belleville, who spoke on "Farm Bankruptcy — Inevitable." Expressions of appreciation were given by Muriel Glass and Mrs. Roscoe Robson for all-taking part.

HILLIER

CHRIST CHURCH GUILD

Hillier—The April meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Morton with 14 members and five visitors present. The president welcomed the members and guests.

Oscar Judd Signs With Guelph In Inter-County

Guelph, April 13 — (CP) — Oscar (Judd of Ingersoll, veteran big league hurler who failed to come to terms for this season with the Toronto Baseball Club of the International League will line up with Guelph Leafs in the Inter-County League for the current season it was disclosed Wednesday.

Secretary Jim Kendrick of the Leafs said that Judd agreed to terms in a telephone conversation Tuesday night. The former Philadelphia Phillies southpaw pitcher promised to come to Guelph within a few days to sign a contract.

Judd's decision to play in the Inter-County League means that he will be returning to the team with which he starred in his amateur days. He pitched for the Leafs in 1932 when Guelph won its first and only Ontario senior championship.

Rain and Milder Weather Forecast For Maritimes

Halifax, April 13 (CP)—Marltimers were advised by the weatherman today to switch from overcoats to rainbcers and raincoats and to dust off the Easter toggery. Rain and milder temperatures were forecast.

In Cape Breton, many roads were still blocked following a heavy snowfall during the Easter weekend. Glace Bay, New Waterford, Florence and Sydney Mines pits of the Dominion Coal Company were idle Tuesday, bringing coal production to a standstill. Only one Cape Breton pit, at New Waterford, has struck a big vein since Good Friday.

Off Halifax Tuesday most deep-sea fishing vessels were idle as they weathered the tail end of an unseasonable gale-force storm.

Thinks Children Might Get Wrong Idea of God

Ipswich, Suffolk, England, April 13 — (AP)—A Church of England clergyman says the 10 Commandments should not be shown to children because they might get the wrong idea about God.

The East Suffolk Education Committee was considering a proposal to post the Commandments in nearby Wickham market school to fight a "decline in moral standards" among the pupils.

Rev. W. G. Hargrave-Thomas, Vicar of Needham Market, objected that this would be "misleading and wrong."

He quoted the second Commandment about a "jealous God" who visits the fathers' sins upon their children.

"No decent father," he said, "would do such a thing."

The committee voted down the proposal.

Injured Man Unaware Of What Happened

Owen Sound, April 13 (CP)—Frederick Albert Cottingham, 53 was found late Tuesday night unconscious and suffering head lacerations on the shoulder of the highway a mile east of the city.

Cottingham, who has a possible skull fracture, recovered sufficiently in hospital this morning to talk to police but was unable to tell what had happened to him. Provincial Police now discount an earlier theory that he was hit by a car, because his injuries were confined to his head. An attack and robbery theory was also abandoned, as a sum of money Cottingham was carrying in his pocket was untouched.

Cottingham told police his car had run out of gasoline and stalled. He walked to the farm of Cecil Toms, Egremont Gound Garage proprietor, where he was supplied with some gasoline in a jug. He was on his way back to his car when he was injured, but had no recollection of what happened to him. The jug of gasoline was found upright and unspilled.

Pair Remanded For One Week On Fraud Charges

Arraigned on one of ten forgery and uttering charges which they will face in Hastings county, Frank Greeley and Kenneth Johnston, both of Picton, were remanded for a week when they appeared today in county magistrate's court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The two men were not asked to plead and were remanded in custody.

Greeley and Johnston were arrested in Stayner two weeks ago when two cheque writing machines were stated to have been found in their possession. Police believe the men were responsible for a long series of bogus cheques which were passed throughout the province last autumn and early this year.

John D. O'Flynn, retained as counsel for the two men, stated he would ask for leave to have all the charges brought to Belleville for disposal. Crown, however, stated it wished to deal only with the charges originating in Hastings county.

34 DEATHS IN WRECK

New Delhi, India, April 13. — (AP)—The government today released official casualty figures on Wednesday's train disaster near Bareilly in the United Provinces, which caused 34 deaths.

The official report said 32 persons perished on the spot and two died later in the hospital. Another 157 persons were injured and 77 of them were sent to the hospital.

TERROR ON TICKS

Yusaka, Northern Rodcsia— (CP) — A new machine which sprays a kind of insecticide and kills ticks on cattle will soon be put to use in Northern Rodesia. The machine eliminates the need for dipping, and is said to be much more effective.

Says Microphones Helped to Prolong Textile Strike

Trenton—A spokesman for the United Textile Workers (A.F.L.) said today that microphones in a union meeting place have helped prolong unnecessarily" the 15-week strike at Downs Coulter Textile plant here.

George Beckett, union organizer, said Wednesday two microphones, with lines leading to the adjoining police station, were placed in the hall by police.

Beckett said the union has asked Attorney-General Porter of Ontario to investigate.

Police Chief F. J. Taylor repeated his denial that the microphones were placed by police. He said he had questioned all six men.

(In yesterday's story it was stated by union organizer that 'dictaphones' had been 'planted' by police. This should have read 'microphones' etc.)

Morality Squad Called to Stand In Windsor Probe

Windsor, Ont., April 13 — (CP) — Members of the Windsor police morality squad were called as witnesses today for fresh hearings of the police commission's investigation into allegations of corruption in law enforcement.

The probe, adjourned March 18 after hearing three half-days of evidence, was scheduled to resume this afternoon in the county court building.

A. Douglas Bell, of Chatham, commission counsel, said that Sgt. George Browne and all officers who have been on the morality squad in the last nine months have been ordered to attend.

Mr. Bell said he would present a report on findings made in Detroit by himself and Sgt. Brown. They checked Detroit police files for information on an international racing wire service. Mr. Bell will also present a summary of evidence to the three commission members—Chairman Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan, Mayor Arthur J. Reaume and County Judge Albert J. Gordon.

The probe was called originally by the Windsor police commission to investigate "allegations of corruption among our police officers." It was instituted largely by a judgment from Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan, in a election conviction involving bootlegger Joseph Assef of bootlegging the magistrate hinted at police laxity.

Says Some Mohawks Want to Move Back To Mohawk Valley

Fort Johnson, N.Y., April 13—(AP)—Mohawk Indians in Canada would like to know whether white people still live in the thickly - populated Mohawk Valley.

If there are any houses vacant, Miss Mohawk Indians want to move back to the land they claim belongs to the Six Nations of the Iroquois.

J. K. Martin, Chief of the Mohawks at the Confederacy Reserve at Caughnawaga, Que., wrote recently to the Fort Johnson museum:

"I thought I would ask you are they still white people living there in that reserve. I would like to know because a couple of our Indian family want to go back there to stay."

He added, "I would like you to tell me how many houses empty."

Arch. D. Anderson, museum curator, is expected to tell the chief there's a housing shortage in the valley.

NEW CIVIC ADMINISTRATION CENTRE IS OPENED

Cornwall, April 13. (CP)—Cornwall's new $140,000 Civic Administration Centre was formally opened Wednesday night by Mayor Aaron Horovitz. Close to 1,000 citizens attended the ceremonies and inspected the modern office quarters.

The two-storey brick building replaces city hall as headquarters for Cornwall's civic government. Municipal officials have used the hall, just south of the new Centre, since 1865.

Suspect Russia Anxious to Prevent China Recognition

Ottawa, April 13. (CP)—On balance, the majority of the numerous Canadian church groups and churchmen who express views on the subject appear to support Canadian recognition of a communist China, as External Affairs Department official said today.

But, paradoxically, there is a strong suspicion here that communist Russia, trying to sell off her satellites from the world, is interested in preventing western recognition as long as possible.

Officials made these other statements affecting the Far East:

1. China-born, Edmonton-raised Ralph Collins, Canada's representative on the Far Eastern Commission sitting in Washington, will leave shortly for London to join a Commonwealth working group's studies of plans for a Japanese peace treaty. He will visit Ottawa on the way for conferences on Canada's stand.

2. There should be an announcement within a couple of weeks about the next post for Hon. T. C. Davis, former ambassador to China, but the decision has not yet been made.

3. Ten Canadians, mostly missionaries, are among the 2,000 westerners left in Shanghai because of cancellation of American plans to evacuate them by sea. There are roughly 200 Canadians in communist- held China now.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

OFF TO NIAGARA

President Fred Bradley of the Ontario Baseball Association will rap his gavel sharply to the convention room of the General Brock Hotel, Niagara Falls on Friday, and the 32rd annual two-day conclave of the association will get under way.

Chairman S. H. Armstrong of the Ontario Minor Executive and his colleagues will hold the spotlight Friday afternoon while the delegates from all over the province are shaking the dust of travel from their Spring gabardines, soften and wrinkle, and shaking some of same from their throats.

Later in the afternoon President Bradley and his executive will go into caucus, and by this time the baseball brains from the province should be spick and span and ready for whatever the evening holds for them. And that part of the convention should be good. The Niagara Falls District Baseball Association has arranged some splendid entertainment for the visiting diamond firemen included in which is an elaborate floor show which should set as a part-deterrent at least to those whose convention theme song might be "Buffalo Gals Ainicha Comin' Out Tonight".

Over 100 delegates exclusive of newspapermen and radio representatives are expected to attend the convention which, it is predicted, will be one of the hottest in history. From an argumentative point of view, that is.

The convention proper opens at 9:30 Saturday morning with adjournment for lunch. Then back to the lengthy list of amendments, some 25 all told, we are given to understand, with no time out for tiffin or a cold ale.

The Intercourse "major league" of the association, will urge that the secretary be appointed with a definite salary. This, we think, is a fine idea. Bill Bradley has given more or less thankless job with an honorarium as remuneration. Intercourse will also recommend that the residence date be set for midnight July 15 as deadline for the attendance of young players.

The Hamilton contingent will battle against the selection of all-star minor teams for the Ontario Baseball Association playoffs. They will suggest that all "A" leagues operate a local minor league. A definite move in the right direction.

Several amendments, sponsored by the Toronto, Lakeland and Niagara groups will call for the prevention of minor league players, once moved up to a higher series, dropping back to their eligible series for playoff games.

Trenton will come up with the suggestion that a revision in age limits for minor series be injected into the book of words. They want a revision in age limit for minor series with junior under 19, midget under 17 years of age by May 1, and eliminating the juvenile series.

The Central Ontario Baseball League which will be represented by Secretary "Tip" Radley, Kingston and Vice President Jack Devine, Belleville will suggest to the powers-that-be that players be allowed to advance to their nearest senior club in the district east of Port Hope. As the situation stands now players must secure a waiver from the nearest clubs regardless of whether a player is a member of the club or not. We doubt very much if the COB league will go far with the proposal as the amendment was turned down in the western part of the province a year ago. However it's worth the trial. Joe Killeran, baseball writer for Kingston and S. Smith, convener last year, will also be in attendance at the convention. This reporter is going along in an official capacity and will pencil the doings from a ringside seat at the press table.

MUSTA BEEN OLE MAN SMITH'S SON

Speaking of baseball we heard one out of Brockville that should interest baseball fans hereabouts and especially around Batawa way. The coach of the Brockville squad was holding forth when a stranger approached and asked if he was looking for players.

"Sure" said the master-mind. "Are you a baseball player?"

"Used to be", replied the newcomer.

"Pitcher, catcher, or what?" grunted the coach without looking up.

"Pitcher, lefthander", said the aspirant.

"H'mmmm", h'mmmed the coach, "Lefthander, eh. Well, we've got a good lefthander. Play before?"

"Some" came the stunted reply.

"Where?" asked the coach, centering his attention on an unruly shoelace.

"Rome, N. Y., Thornhill, Batawa, and other places in Ontario" came the quiet response.

The coach jerked to an upright position. His tonsils worked up and down like the balls in a bingo basket. He stared at the latter.

"What, what's your name?" he finally asked.

"Smith" was the answer.

The coach wrinkled his brows and recalled somethinr about a pair of Smith Brothers who played in the Couch Drop League. He gave up.

What he didn't know was that the "Smith" of the story was none other than Derrede "Smokey" Smith, one of the best lefthanders that ever southpawed a batter into submission in these same Ontario parts. He probably knows by this time. "Smokey" used to twirl 'em for the Batawa squad. One of his best performances occurred in the playoff game between Batawa and Thornbury several years ago when he and "Lefty" Garten, ex-RCAF, another southpaw who was a coach's dream, duelled in an overtime battle on the Batawa diamond. Forty-two strikeouts were registered in that spine-tingling battle with Smokey getting 23 and Garson 19.

Life Still Left In Traditional Winter Sports

By The Canadian Press

Baseball, softball, golf and tennis are restlessly nudging hockey to the sidelines again as Canadian sportsmen prepare for another summer.

These four, together with bowling, yachting, racing, soccer and swimming, will be in full swing within a few weeks, a Canadian Press survey shows.

There's still life, though, in Canada's traditional winter sports Although Toronto and Montreal have been eliminated from the Stanley Cup playoffs, New York plays two games against Detroit in Toronto this week to keep big-time hockey fans happy.

Amateur hockey, including competition for the Allan and Memorial Cups, is still going strong. Some basketball titles are still to be decided. They're still curling at Kirkland Lake, Ont., where a schoolboy bonspiel was held this week.

Canada's top professional baseball teams—Toronto and Montreal of the class AAA International League—start their home seasons May 2. Crowds of 20,000 are expected in both cities, providing the weather is good.

Big Innovation

Four days, there'll be a big innovation in Toronto sport. It will be the city's first Sunday game. Recently Ontario legislation permits Sunday sport in cities where a majority of taxpayers favor it. Toronto and Windsor voters have signed the idea.

British Columbia, despite an unusually severe winter, is well into the golf sport swirl. Golf courses and tennis courts already are jammed.

Dates now has put a damper on Edmonton's hopes for an early start at golf and baseball. But conditions are expected to be satisfactory for the start of the Big Four intercity baseball season next month.

Baseball and softball get under way next month in Manitoba — but snow is in the picture there too. It is expected to make training periods brief and it may also retard the opening of some tennis courts and golf courses.

Ontario's golf tournaments still are six to eight weeks off but the individual "weekend golfers" have been at it for some time now.

Racing Starts in May

Harness racing, due to start in Ontario in early May, gets a hoist in Quebec with a meet scheduled for Montreal's Richelieu Park April 16. Quebec trout fishermen are casting an unhappy eye on the April 19 opening date—streams are expected to be covered with ice even then. And fishing through the ice is illegal.

The 1,200 members of five golf clubs at Quebec City hope to play their first rounds late this month and to get into full swing by May 15.

With hockey and basketball finished, New Brunswick has nothing special on the sport diary until June, when a six-team provincial baseball league and two Maine-New Brunswick circuits go into action.

Newfoundlanders are doing some sport fishing already but the big rush will come May 24, Avalon Peninsula in July finds most St. John's, is starting to hum with activity.

Barbini Takes Over Coaching Duties of Bruins

Port Arthur, April 13—(CP)—Lea Barbini's head does more than support that flashy feathered fedora—as a matter of fact Barbini's new hat will tell you.

Barbini, 32-year-old mentor of the Bruins, is the man who took over the team on their doleful return from two merciless drubbings by Brandon Wheat Kings at Brandon. Barbini's charge won the western Canada Memorial Cup last year.

Today his garish trademark—the canary chapeau garnished with multi-colored feathers—is a thing of beauty to townsmen.

Taking over the coaching reins from Bertrand (Bones) McCormack after the debacle in Brandon, Babini led, coaxed or drove Bruins to take four of the next five games in the best-of-seven series. His team enters the western final against Regina Pats.

The series opens here tonight, with another game in the best-of-seven encounters scheduled for Saturday.

Suspended in '48

As coach of Fort Williams Canadiens two years ago Barbini was suspended for pulling his team off the ice during a game with Thunder Bay finals against Bruins.

The following fall his suspension was lifted and he went to Stratford, where he guided outfit this season.

He returned to coach Fort William Canadiens before joining Bruins. Observers here say his attpointments was not an overnight decision.

He attended both Bruins' games at Brandon, where the lakehead-ers took 5-2 and 7-1 trouncings, and he mixed freely with the players.

After the second clash he told Bruins officials:

"You can beat that club. I'm positive you can.

His prophecy came true when Bruins won the next three games lost one, then clinched the series.

EXPECT GREAT THINGS

Montreal — (CP) — The public has great faith in the capabilities of the weatherman. K. T. McLeod of the Canadian Meteorological Service told a meeting here Thursday he January to August holiday weather in August, he said, and one woman even phoned to ask what clothes she should take to Reno, Nevada.

Dodgers Picked To Win it All In National

Orangeburg, S. C., April 13 — (AP) — This is the Brooklyn era in the National League. Unless the confident Dodgers trip over their own fleet-as clippings, they figure to win a second straight pennant.

Perhaps the aging St. Louis Cards, with their gilt-edged pitching, again can make it close. Maybe Billy Southworth can threaten with his revamped Boston Braves.

More likely, the Brooklyn club with its speed, extra base power, run-making ability and tight defence has too much on the ball. Except for erratic pitching, the Dodgers are a well balanced team.

The Phillies, a real surprise package last year, probably are at least a year away from serious pennant contention. Pittsburgh should do better for Second baseman Danny Murtaugh bounces back. New York, minus some power but stronger in the infield, shapes up as a second division club.

Despite a fine showing in the Grapefruit League, it looks as though the only club Cincinnati can beat out is Chicago. The Cubs' only hope for respect is to finish in jail.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Brooklyn
2. St. Louis
3. Boston
4. Philadelphia
5. Pittsburgh
6. New York
7. Cincinnati
8. Chicago

'Stand Pat' Club

Brooklyn is pretty much a "stand pat" club. Rookie third baseman Bob Morgan, up from Montreal, is the only important addition. He should add even more zoom to the Brooklyn batting attack that clouted 1,948 runs, twice as many as anybody in 1949.

Jackie Robinson, league batting champion at .342, Carl Furillo, Duke Snider and Gil Hodges were the big R. B. I. men last season. Although Robinson, now 31, reported overweight, there is no reason to think he won't be just as good.

Pitching is the Dodger problem. But they can't be too serious when you have an ace like Don Newcombe, the jumbo-sized Negro who won 17 games last year. He should win 20 without too much trouble.

Preacher Roe, effective with enough rest, Joe Hatten and sore-armed Ralph Branca are the other regular starters.

LOST NO TIME

St. Peter Port, Guernsey, Channel Island—(CP)—Derek Linker, 16—year-old deck-hand, went ashore to buy newspapers. When he returned he saw his ship sailing out of the harbor. Derek hitchhiked 100 miles to Southampton in another ship and arrived 10 minutes before his own vessel.

FIRST IN LINE

New Delhi—(CP)—India has been the first country to take advantage of the U.N.E.S.C.O. scheme to use coupons to overcome currency difficulties in buying $50,000 worth of film negatives and paints. Member countries may buy scientific materials in dollar countries with coupons bought with sterling.

SPOKE TOO SOON

Bembridge, Isle of Wight, England—(CP)—Nothing to report, said the footpaths committee at the parish council meeting. At that moment the village constable walked in and said: "Gentlemen, the cliff has collapsed near the coastguard station and your footpath has disappeared."

HOLLANDER'S STORY

Vermilion, Alta. — (CP) — John Vos, a young Dutch farmer who came to Canada two years ago, told of wartime farming conditions in Holland at board of trade meeting here. He said all his farm's stock was killed by German gunfire. He came to Canada because of a shortage of farmland available for young farmers.

New York Rangers Hopeful Of Tying Stanley Cup Final Against Detroit Red Wings

Toronto, April 13—(CP)—New York Rangers expect to tie up the Stanley Cup final against Detroit Red Wings here tonight.

Not in the least over-awed by Detroit's great record in league play, nor by Detroit's narrow victory over Toronto Maple Leafs in the cup semi-final, the Rangers figure them on the march. They blame the loss of the first cup game at Detroit on over-confidence. Wings won the opener 4-1 at Detroit Tuesday.

This is the first time the Rangers have been in the cup final since 1940 when they beat Toronto for their third Stanley Cup triumph. The others were in 1928 and 1933.

Ranger coach Lynn Patrick said flatly: "We can beat them." He put his players through a tough workout here Wednesday and made it plain he was disappointed in the initial defeat. Rangers had a 1-0 lead in the first game and Detroit scored all their goals in the second period. Patrick said "it looked as if they didn't care whether they won or lost. They didn't look hungry. We were too cocky after their first period."

The Rangers have 24 players available, including sub-goalie Emile Francis, up from the New Haven Ramblers and veteran of former seasons in the N.H.L. with Chicago Black Hawks.

Natural Favorites

Detroit Red Wings naturally are favorites to take the series but the record is against this stanter. Coach Tommy Ivan gave his players the day off at Hamilton Wednesday. The Wings still show the effects of the gruelling semi-final against Toronto, that was decided only by Leo Reise's goal after more than eight minutes of overtime in the seventh game.

Ivan said that ace left-winger Ted Lindsay will start tonight after being rested because of a back injury, and Detroit lacks only two players, Gordon Howe and Jimmy Peters. Howe, who suffered a head injury in the first semi-final game against Toronto, left hospital at Detroit Wednesday but is through for the season.

Maple Leaf Gardens has been sold out for tonight's game and the same situation is likely for the third game Saturday. The remainder of the best-of-seven series will be decided at Detroit. The crowded gardens, watching two "foreign" teams in an N.H.L. final for the first time, probably will root for the Rangers since it was Detroit that sent the hometown Leafs packing off for the summer in a bitterly-fought series.

Georgetown Nips Sundridge Team By 12-7 Count

Georgetown, April 13. (CP)—Georgetown Raiders swamped Sundridge Beavers 12-7 Wednesday night in first game of a best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate final. Harvey Chappell led the Raiders with three goals and an assist while W. K. (Bucko) McDonald, Liberal member of parliament for Parry Sound—Muskoka, who is playing coach of the Beavers, scored two goals and two assists.

Georgetown opened the scoring early in the first period when Jack Kemshed scored on a pass from Junior Beaumont and M. Bradbury at 6:36. "Tangledoot" Chappell counted Georgetown's second goal while Sundridge was a man short, at 7:34 mark, on a pass from D. Beaumont.

This ended the scoring until the 18:00 mark when Bucko McDonald drilled a hot one past Lawrence. Nine penalties were handed out in the first period, six going to Sundridge and three to Georgetown. Percival of Sundridge tossed a fifth while D. Beaumont was thumbed twice.

Seven Goals in Second

Sundridge came to life at the drop of the puck as K. Kidd and Sedore combined to score. Georgetown came right back with D. Beaumont scoring from Kemshed. Georgetown hit the net again two minutes later when M. Bradbury counted from Kemshed. Sundridge came right back as Rennie sang one from Empie at 8:38. J. Beaumont grabbed the puck behind his own net and made a neat solo effort through the Sundridge team to beat Schade at 10.30. Chappell and D. Beaumont combined two minutes later.

Georgetown counted when Marcel Ferri scored on M. Bradbury at 14:09. Ferri and D. Beaumont made a nice combination at 15:10. McDonald got his second goal when L. Bradbury shot one from a scramble. Sundridge ended the scoring that period as Russel beat Lawrence on a pass from McDonald.

Penalties were fewer in the third period with only four trips to the box, two apiece.

In the third period, Kemshed opened the scoring at 4:34. Sundridge came through as Sedore paid off at the seven minute mark. Kenny Nash came through with a solo effort, through the Sundridge team, to pass out to J. Beaumont who was the marksman. Lang counted Sundridge's last goal on a pass from McDonald at the 16.00 minute mark. Georgetown ended the scoring at 17:20 when Chappell counted his third of the night from D. Beaumont and Ferri.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By GRAHAM TROTTER

Edmonton, April 13 — (CP) — Canada may soon experience an invasion of top-flight professional football players from the United States but Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union aren't even slightly interested.

"It means nothing to us," Walter Sprague, president of the club, told Don (Edmonton Journal) Fleming.

Lew Hayman, coach of the Grey Cup champion Montreal Alouettes predicted recently that 142 U.S. grid stars will be available to Canadian teams this season, principally because of the amalgamation of the All-American conference and the National Football League.

Get 'em Young

But Sprague's statement was the tipoff on Edmonton's policy on American imports. Fleming quotes Sprague:

"We have decided that we are not interested in the pro football player.

"Most of the pros we in Canada have had access to are either over the hill or just not good enough. What we want now is the college player, who is on the way up. He can fit into our long-range plans, or at the very least we can have the services of a lad for a couple of years who will be improving right along."

Three of four Americans imports Eskimos have signed for the next season are right off the campus. They are quarterback Lindy Berry, end Morris Bailey and tackle Don Narrell, Southern Conference all-stars in their early days who performed last season for Texas Christian University.

Cheap?

Stan (Edmonton Bulletin) Mosher writes that "it would be a great thing for hockey if the homeless New York Rangers were to snatch the (Stanley) Cup. Quite conceivably a Ranger success would mean a revival of the razzle-dazzle, checkerboard type of play.

"The clutch-and-grab, win-at-any-price tactics, that paid off so handsomely for Toronto Maple Leafs, for instance, would disappear. Hockey would be again for a change.

Biltmores Blame Referee For Loss Of First Game

Montreal, April 13 — (CP) — Guelph Biltmores were "beaten by one man" Tuesday night in their first Eastern Canada Memorial Cup tussle with Montreal Canadiens, Evan Bell, president of the Guelph Club, said Wednesday night.

He said referee Bill Morrison of Oshawa, "went wild" in sending Biltmores from the ice for rough playing.

"We were accused of being rough," Brill said, "but we didn't start anything."

Guelph coach Al Pike, onetime member of New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, "has always taught the boys to play clean," Brill added. "And they do."

Of the 11 penalties against Biltmores Tuesday night, seven were called by Morrison. Eight penalties were called against Canadiens who won the game 4-2 and took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven final series.

Commenting on his team's chances for victory in tonight's second clash, Brill said:

"The kids are well pleased now. They had no rest after the trip here and were plenty tired when they met Canadiens Tuesday night."

"We'll make a good game of it," he added.

Both Biltmores and Canadiens rested up Wednesday after their first rough and hard-fought session.

Coach Sam Pollock of Canadiens also was confident of victory in the next meeting with the visiting squad. After a 10-day layoff since they waited through Halifax St. Mary's to advance to the eastern finals, Canadiens are well rested and in good shape to make their bid for the memorial Cup.

Both Pollock and Brill said lineups would remain unchanged for tonight's game.

Connie Mack Not Feeling Very Festive

Philadelphia, April 13 (AP)—Connie Mack began today a week-long whirl of parties and speeches honoring his 50th anniversary season — but the ageless baseball veteran wasn't feeling very festive.

Frankly, the 87-year-old owner-manager of Philadelphia Athletics was downright worried.

A month ago, Mack's athletics were being boomed as a first-rate flag threat by Connie Mack, Lou Brissie and Alex Kellner have been battered in spring training games by minor league opposition. And he hasn't a reliable relief pitcher on his roster.

With these worries on his mind, Mack embarked on the anniversary festivities commemorating his 50th consecutive season as manager of the Athletics, a feat unequalled in history and one which likely never will be matched.

Around the Home...

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

Was I fooled yesterday! I had been travelling in the Muskoka area and dropped in on an old friend who had just purchased a fairly large summer home. It was still standing before a comforting blaze in the fireplace I began to rave about the large artistic wrought-iron hinges on all the doors of the huge common room. My host chuckled and said "Come on over and examine them more closely". Imagine my amazement when I found the artistic wrought-iron hinges" were made of cardboard! There's no denying the fact they were attractive.

Stop Easy

With those April showers I find it difficult to walk across lawns where there is a downhill slant. Just yesterday right in my own back yard, I sank almost to my knees in the top on a dirt path that I intended to surface last fall. I am still in a quandary as to which is the best method of stepping stone. In case some others are in the same dilemma, I've had illustrated one or three of the best methods I have seen used.

There's still plenty of usefulness left in an old bureau drawer. The chap across the street has put some to good use about his home. Two of the ideas are shown and both are practical. Junior's toys are safe in the one that is covered and painted a gay color. The other one, made into strong shelves, is in the basement to hold his partially used paint cans.

Make Your Old Linoleum Smile

When I moved my family into our present house the agent remarked, "Of course, you'll have to lay a new linoleum in the kitchen". Would he be surprised to see the same linoleum five years and several coats of paint later! It is extremely easy to strip a painted floor and what is even more important at this time of the year—it won't show the dirt!

For more information on these and many other ideas, write Tom Gard, c/o MOLSON'S (Ontario) LIMITED, P.O. Box 490, Toronto, for the illustrated booklet "AROUND THE HOME".

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You need look no further for what is so rare as a day in June. It is an expert player of the cards at bridge who is also a perfect bidder. Only occasionally do you find one among the masters.

Most of these bobbles get into some goshawful contracts. There is nothing to recommend their being there. But their superlative play of difficult hands will overcome many of their bidding errors.

A pair of these bubbles stuck their necks out in this deal:

NORTH
♠K 10 4 2
♥J 3
♦A 9 8 2
♣A Q 5

WEST	EAST
♠Q 9 8 7	♠6
♥10 8 3	♥Q 7 5 4 2
♦7	♦Q 10 5 4 3
♣7 10 9 7 6	♣6 2

SOUTH
♠A J 5
♥A K 9
♦K 7 6
♣K 8 4 3

The least you can say about it is that they did not let any kind of cowardice effect them. Because by the time both of them made up their minds to quit, south became the declarer at six no-trump.

The opening lead from west was the natural jack of clubs. Take a look at the combination north and south hands. You will find there so many holes like whole thing looks like a sieve.

North took the first trick with club queen. The south spade ace cashed a trick. A small south spade was ruffed back. When west did not go with the queen, north successfully finessed the ten.

North then cashed another club trick with the ace and south was home with diamond trick taken by the king. Thus did declarer wind in the first five tricks. Eight cards were now left in each hand.

At this point south led the diamond six and covered with the eightspot from dummy. East won his with the ten. This left seven cards in each of the hands all of which declarer must now take.

South has left his spade jack, original three hearts, his diamond seven, and K 8 of clubs. West has Q 9 of spades, his three hearts, 9 of clubs Dummy has 4 of spades, his two hearts, A of diamonds, and the club five. East is left with the queen and three hearts, queen and two diamonds. When east leads go to work on it.

BCI's Sensational Comeback Against East York Goliaths Fails to Click by 3 Points

By DON ROSE

Toronto—Bellerville suffered a hard loss last night at Ryerson Technical Institute to the. East York Goliaths by a three point margin 41-44. The team started as a dazed squad but staged the greatest comeback of the tournament.

The starry East Yorkers secured a quick 9-0 lead and held our locals scoreless. The Bellerville boys were clueless and the Goliaths managed easily a shutout quarter 13-0.

The Giants again proved themselves to much for our squad who seemed to be in a deep rut. Galbraith, centre and Buchanan guard both met their final foul in this quarter and were retired from the game. The game certainly seemed a sure thing for the Yorkers 25-6.

Now the Bellerville boys showed their stuff. They were out of the rut and back in real form. East York coach became uncertain and the Goliaths tightened down for the first time. The score 17 points for Bellerville and only nine for Toronto give an idea of terrific pressure put on by B.C.I. (34-23).

Sensational Comeback

The comeback continued into the final quarter and the fans went wild. Our team went wild. The whole game went wild. Bellerville went and went and checked and scored and worked the lead down to 4 points then Toronto caged four more points and Bellerville came back again to have the score set at 36-39. The comeback was similar to the one that Ottawa accomplished to beat Bellerville last night by 3 points. Still Bellerville proved completely and surprised everyone. The tension tightened and at the 2 minute 45 second mark Bellerville was behind by only 1 point. Then Toronto collected their shattered selves and jumped ahead only to have Bellerville come within 2 points again. What a comeback and what a shattered surprise bunch the Goliaths were.

A foul shot put Toronto 3 points in the lead and regardless of the two baskets which were saved only through fate shot by B.C.I.'ers the Goliaths were saved by the final whistle with a close score of 41-44. Last night game was considered a great upset in the tournament as was today's game but our Bellerville boys were good losers and truly held up any reputation set by previous teams.

Faulkner was high Bellerville with 11 while Ketcheson, Sumner, McClay and McBride had 10, 7, 6, 5, respectively.

B. Johnson 14 and Harrison and Dyson with 10 each were high scorers for Toronto.

East York—White, Harrison 10, Johnson 1, B. Johnson 14, Bentley 5, Montgomery 1, Dyson 10, Robert, Kimoff 2, Surphies 4 Coach B. Miller.

Bellerville—Donahan 2, Dolan Ewald, Faulkner 11, Galbraith, Ketcheson 10, McBride 6, McClay 5, McMillan, Massey, Summers 7, Coach H. Towsend.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 13 — (AP)—Movie bigwigs today are mulling whether all-America football end Leon Hart will catch a pass from Hollywood.

The Notre Dame athlete underwent an extensive test Monday to determine whether he could star as well in the screen as on the gridiron.

Hart couldn't wait to hear the result. Here with his bride on his Easter vacation, he had to fly back to his classes.

"If I missed a day I might not graduate," he said. "I'm just a has-been now."

Hirzel Answers

While Hart might never be Hollywood's greatest actor, he could certainly qualify as the biggest. Among most male stars, he would seem like a great Dane beside poodles.

Size (life's six-feet-five, 270 pounds, easily muscle) is not his only asset. He has a handsome face and an easy-going manner. Embarrassed

Hart seemed a trifle embarrassed about the test, and I found out why.

"They have me doing a love scene," he said. "I have to say those four famous words —'will you marry me?'"

How would he like an acting career?

"Let's put it this way," he smiled. "I understand the money involved in movies is very good indeed." He added that California "seems like a nice place to live."

But he emphasized that he wouldn't give up football for Hollywood or anything else. He is signed with the Detroit Lions professional team.

Football, he declared, "is the thing I love."

Capsule Review

"Wabash Avenue" (T.C.F.) is pure Grable from the first shimmy dance to the last production number. The plot is a rehash of 2nd old musical and doesn't matter. What does matter is Betty, and she never was in better form. Victor Mature and Phil Harris battle lustily over her. The result cannot be called something new, for is it ever dull.

TWO BEDROOMS POPULAR

Walthamstow, England—(CP) —An analysis of housing needs here showed 2,313 families wanted one-bedroom houses, 3,506 wanted two bedrooms, 1,744 three bedrooms, 170 four bedroom houses and 36 five bedrooms.

AT THE BELLE—Barbara Bates approvingly inspects the "General". The film is "The Inspector General", Warner Bros. Technicolor comedy starring Danny Kaye, now entertaining large audiences at the Belle Theatre. Bugs Bunny in a new and very funny Color Cartoon "Frigid Hare", is an added attraction.

ON HIS OWN TIME

Boxford, Suffolk, England (CP) —Frith Dawson, 89, one of England's oldest clockmakers is retiring. Dawson estimates he has mended more than 50,000 clocks and watches.

SWEDEN'S TONNAGE UP

Stockholm — (CP) — Twenty-four vessels were added to Sweden's merchant fleet in 1949, bringing the fleet total to 2,080,009 gross tons—29 per cent more than in 1939. Motorships comprise about two-thirds of the total tonnage.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

The sky was partly dark and getting all a ways dark, and it was going to thunder, and I was out-a-hunt of my house with Puds Simkins looking up at the weather and wondering how soon our mothers would call us and make us go in, and I said, Heck it'll be coming, down cats and dogs any minute and we'll have to watch it from inside instead of being out in it having fun and getting wet.

Well hay, I got a swell idea, Puds said. Let's hurry up and take a walk as fast and far as we can, and then it won't be our fault if we get cawt in the rain, and we'll walk all a ways home in it just as slow as we feel like, and we'll get home so socking wet they'll have to ring us out like a sponge, he said, and I said, O' yes, let's get started before it's too late.

Which we did, walking so fast we almost had to run to do it, and all of a sudden, somebody honked a automobeet horn, being Puds's father stopping by his car and looking for us to stop, saying, Where the mischief are you hurrying to with a storm about to break any second.

Oh, we were just walking the other way, Puds said, and his father said, Well hop in here and ride this way.

Which we did feeling agenst it, and just then what came out but the sun, and Mr. Simkins said, Well, it's going to pass over after all. You kids can jump out again and keep going, he said.

Aw, what's the use, we mite as well keep riding back now, Puds said, and I said, Sure, we're lucky we didn't have to walk all a ways back too, all for nuthing.

Whatever you're talking about, it looks like you win, or lose, or something, I give up, Mr. Simkins said.

And he kept on driving us back without asking for any more explinations and without getting any.

Toronto Marlies Take First One From Sherbrooke

Sherbrooke, Que. April 13 — (CP)— Residents of this Eastern Townships centre Wednesday night saw their first and last Allan Cup playoff—unless they travel to Toronto or Montreal.

That's the way things stand today in the eastern Canada cup finals between Sherbrooke Saints and Toronto Marlboros. All future games will be played in Toronto or Montreal as Sherbrooke's arena just hasn't got what it takes in the way of seating capacity.

The Saints, playing before a capacity crowd of 4,000 fans, saw themselves emerge on the short side of a 7-4 count Wednesday night. The next two games are slated for Toronto Friday and Monday night with the fourth and fifth, if necessary, to be played at the Montreal Forum.

It was the third period that told the tale in Wednesday night's game as Danny Lewicki fired home two counters to spark the Ontario champions to victory over the heavier, more experienced Sherbrooke quintet.

Bill (Red) Johnson also got a pair of markers for the winners, the other goals being credited to Al Buchanan, Gordie Hannigan and Bobby Hassard.

McAtee Scores Pair

Buchanan and Hannigan gave the visitors a two-goal edge in the opening session before McAtee tallied for Sherbrooke at 15:33. Johnson brought the count to 3-1 early in the second period while Sherbrooke had two goals called back.

That held up the game for several minutes while the ice was cleaned of programs and paper showered down by riled fans.

Heindl put Sherbrooke back in the game midway through the second period and McAtee knotted the count at 3-3 near the 15-minute mark to round out scoring for that session.

Toronto went one up again on

Port Colborne Two Games Up In Final Series

Port Colborne, April 13 (CP)— Port Colborne Merchants took a two game lump over Gananoque Legionnaires and Tillsonburg Chevwoods in their OHA Intermediate A round robin championship series when they topped Tillsonburg 7-3 Wednesday night after trailing in the first period.

It was the Ports' second straight victory in the series.

The rough contest saw the winners rally from behind a 3-2 first period deficit for four unanswered goals.

Roughness started early in the game and was aggravated by disputes over goals, in the first and second periods, that barely made the net corners.

But half way through the game there was no mistaking who the masters were as merchants laid on the power play belting Tillsonburg in the end zones.

Spectators traded blows during the game with at least two fights in the galleries.

The Merchants, who are Canadian Intermediate A defending champions, would assure themselves of being one of the two finalists of the round robin to meet the title if they defeat Gananoque Legionnaires again Thursday night. They whipped Gananoque 6-3 at Kingston Monday to open the series.

Playing coach Killer Kilpatrick together with George Clarke, Bruce Benner and Jack Cochrane led the Port attack Wednesday night. Jack Gee, Tillsonburg centre who scored two of his team's three goals was outstanding for the visitors along with Remy Laroque and linemate Earle Rose.

Sherbrooke outshot Marlboros 41-36.

HANGS HIGH

The highest suspension bridge in the world, 1,053 feet above the river bed, spans the canyon of the Arkansas River in Colorado.

Brantford Ties Series With Legion With 7-4 Win

Peterborough, April 13 (CP)— Brantford Nationals roared through from behind in the third period here Wednesday night to win the second game from Peterborough Legion 7-4. Their win evened their OHA Senior B semi-final series at one game apiece.

With the Pete's leading 4-2 midway through the third period a penalty to Dootch Viterelli paved the way for two goals that tied up the game. They then went on to score two more and finally in the last minute of play pushed in their seventh goal. The Legion had a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period, and went into the third period leading 3-2.

The third game of the best-of-seven series will be played here on Friday.

Stampeders Win Series Against Kamloop Elks

Edmonton, April 13 — (CP)— Calgary's unpredictable Stampeders Wednesday night crashed fire long enough in the third period to whip the never-say-die Kamloops Elks 6-3 and advance to the Western Canada Allan Cup finals. They will meet Fort Francis Canadians.

The cowboys, who now have won their last two best-of-seven playoff series by coming from behind to win four straight games, were trailing by one goal when they pumped in four counters within four minutes and 45 seconds.

TO THE RATEPAYERS OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SIDNEY

I as Trustee of the Township School Area Board feel it is my duty to warn the Ratepayers of the difficulties they will encounter by going back to Individual School Sections, like we had in 1947.

It means, first, to give back to each School Section the same amount of money as they had in 1947 and that is not enough. It means that this is not enough for each section. It means higher taxes.

It is a very difficult task for us as Trustees to keep the Rural Schools as schools as individuals, each with a Trustee Board. Large sums of money will be deducted, teachers and caretakers reduced, buses and heating, school supplies and running expenses will increase tremendously since 1947.

PLEASE STOP AND THINK BEFORE IT WILL COST YOU TWO INDIVIDUAL SCHOOLS AND STILL HAVE TEACHERS FOR A COMPLETE SCHOOL YEAR.

Yours truly
JOHN ROY HARRY
Trustee of Rural Area Board
Township of Sidney.

BILLION-DOLLAR CHRYSLER STRIKE IN 80TH DAY

Detroit, April 14—(AP)— The billion-dollar Chrysler strike moved into its 80th day today after an extraordinary attempt at settlement.

Weary negotiators adjourned at 4 a.m. EST without comment. They agreed to meet again at 1 p.m. today.

Although neither management nor the striking United Automobile Workers Union (C.I.O.), had a word to say, there was some reason to believe an agreement might be in the offing.

One official source, however, said the situation looked "hopeful."

With $100 monthly pensions financing as the major issue, the strike has made idle 140,000 auto workers. Authoritative industry sources have placed the strike's cost at $1,000,000,000 in wages, production and sales.

Walter Reuther, U.A.W. president, accused management of "shielding and clouding and chiseling."

Chrysler, as it did once before, raised a question whether the union was Keeping the strike going in order to strengthen its bargaining position elsewhere — an apparent reference to General Motors.

Runs Out May 29th

The U.A.W. and G.M., largest of the auto producers, are currently bargaining over a union demand for a 31-cent-an-hour package, including $125 monthly pensions, a wage increase and other benefits. The U.A.W.-G.M. contract runs out May 29.

Reuther at an outdoor rally of strikers, charged Chrysler was "shiseling" on union demands for a 10-cent-an-hour package in pensions and health and hospital benefits. He had left negotiations to address the meeting.

Herman L. Weckler, Chrysler vice-president and general manager, said union leaders' attendance at striker rallies instead of bargaining sessions was "another indication that they do not want to settle the strike."

Weckler also mentioned the U.A.W.'s 81 weekly strike assessment on its nearly 1,000,000 working membership.

"Can it be," he said, "that the union wants to develop a huge slush fund for some other purpose?"

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 14 (CP)—Synopsis: That record - breaking cold air still covers Ontario, Quebec, and the eastern United States. However, with a promise of sunny skies in most regions, moderating temperatures can be looked for today and Saturday. This moderating trend should continue through the weekend as the cold air gives way to milder Pacific air now situated over the prairies.

Free Peoples Determined To Stay Free are Entitled, Says Jessop, to Military Aid

Washington, April 14 (CP) — The United States is putting together a $15,000,000 arms aid package for Communist-threatened Indo-China.

The aid is expected to be made up largely of cargo planes, trucks and medical supplies. Diplomatic authorities reported that these items top the lists of supplies urgently needed by the French-led forces fighting the Communist guerrilla of Ho Chi Minh.

With the French being pressed to give the three new states of Indo-China some voice in the disposition of U.S. military and economic assistance, officials hope for at least a gesture underscoring the American policy of helping Asiatic peoples toward independence.

Ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup stressed this policy in a broadcast report Thursday night on his recent fact-finding tour to the Far East.

"The United States," he said "believes that every people has the right to be independent, to govern itself, and to work out its problems in its own way."

Free peoples who are determined to maintain their independence, he added, "are entitled to military aid which will help them remain free."

South Grimsby Votes 'No' on Beverage Room But Vote Very Close

Smithville, April 14, (CP)— South Grimsby said "No" in the election on the beverage room issue held Wednesday, but the vote was close.

On the question of women's beverage rooms, the vote was 357 for and 380 against.

The ballot for men's rooms resulted in 367 in favor, and 368 negative.

About 60 per cent of the electorate turned out.

Hope There May be Diamonds Found 2,000 Acres Staked in Quebec

Val D'Or, Que., April 14 (CP) — Twenty-eight claims covering 2,000 acres have been staked in Vasan township, 15 miles north of here, in the hope that there may be diamonds there.

The staking has been done by James Bay Diamond Syndicate, headed by Norman Vincent, Toronto mining promoter.

It follows the experience of Oaks and Peter Allard in drilling on the farm of Alvida Duval in March, 1948. They report that diamond-bearing rocks were stopped at 60 feet and that the drill diamonds, when examined, were polished smooth.

This led to the conjecture that the drills may have hit other diamonds. An assay of the sludge showed grains of diamonds, which skeptics say might have been from the drills themselves.

Some geologists have in the past expressed the opinion that it is reasonable that diamonds should occur in the solid rock somewhere north of the great lakes. This is based on the discovery of emigrant diamonds within the glacial drift of Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. Some writers have placed James Bay area of Northern Ontario as the likely source.

WINDSOR'S POLICE FORCE CLEARED OF ALLEGATIONS

No Corruption Found By Police Commission

Windsor, April 14 (CP)--Windsor's city police force has been cleared of "allegations of corruption" before a police commission inquiry.

A final hour-long sitting Thursday closed the inquiry after Commission Counsel J. A. Douglas Bell, Crown Attorney of Chatham, said that "if the purpose of this hearing is to uncover evidence of corruption in the police department, it is a failure." Mr. Bell said "no person has come forward to make any specific charges. No one could offer a little of evidence to support such a charge."

But the commission counsel suggested the police commission should consider additions to the force, establishment of some sort of training course and revision of better police facilities.

He said it was up to the citizens to control their own attitude towards crime and to assume the responsibility for better law enforcement. He blamed the proximity to Detroit, just across the river, for what he called a casual attitude by residents toward breaches of the law.

The commission's chairman, Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan said the commission would prepare a report on its findings to be published later. Other members are Mayor Arthur Reaume and County Judge Albert Gordon.

Hinted at Laxity

The inquiry followed a statement by Magistrate J. A. Hanrahan, who in a judgment convicting Joseph Lucier of forgery, hinted at "laxity" in the police force. The Windsor Star and Detroit newspapers then published a series of articles alleging that gambling establishments in Windsor were "rampant" in the city.

Mr. Bell said in his summing up that he had the greatest respect for Magistrate Hanrahan, but felt the Magistrate's statements were "grossly exaggerated."

However, Mr. Bell described Magistrate Hanrahan as "the best magistrate in Canada."

Some 30 witnesses were heard in the 10 days of the inquiry. The commission sat last month. Another 13 were heard when the inquiry concluded Thursday.

Sgt. George Browne, head of the detective bureau since 1946 to 1947, said he had never heard of a policeman taking a "pay-off" from a gambling or vice interest, and he himself had never been ordered to lay off any particular spot. The others, also members of the morality squad, gave similar evidence.

Sought Information

Mr. Bell said he had sought information from Detroit police about conditions in Windsor, but he didn't see a scrap of paper in Detroit police files there to support the allegations. He was told that Detroit police had no evidence, even of a rumor nature, that would indicate corruption in the Windsor Police Department.

Mr. Bell said the Windsor police force one policeman for every 1,000 of population, was "not adequate" for a border city and he warned against police officers associating with known gamblers or vice operators.

The public and the press were apt to assume that because the police know of illegally-operated places they are "protecting" or "protecting the operators and are corrupt," said Mr. Bell.

Thief's Note Claims He Shot 21 Sheriffs

Chatham, April 14 — (CP)—A thief who signed himself "Billy the Kid" stole $500 from the Ruby Judah grocery here Thursday night.

Mr. Judah found a note reading "Billy the Kid here stealing. Shot 21 sheriffs." He said he discovered the break-in after a 90-minute absence from the store.

Witness's Head On Fire in Court

Penzance, Cornwall, England, April 14 — (AP) — The judge frowned at the witness in court Thursday, sniffed, then demanded:

"Are you smoking?"

"No, sir," said the man.

"Then your head must be on fire," said the judge, judiciously.

It was.

Smoke was pouring from the top of the witness' head.

A splinter of red-hot glass had fallen from a lighted gas bracket above him and set fire to his hair.

The witness patted out the fire and the trial went ahead.

GOVERNMENT SETS STANDARD SIZE FOR COUPLINGS

Ottawa, April 14 (CP)— The defence Department and the Canadian Standards Association today announced establishment of a National Standard for a 2 1-2 ton Military Coupling and upheld it as an historic step of great potential importance for Canada in any new war.

The possibility of enemy air raids on cities and industrial targets hovered in the background of what was described as a standard of "an objective of nearly 50 years' standing" by W. W. McCaffrey, general manager of the Standards Association.

The Standard is not compulsory but both Mr. McCaffrey and Maj. Gen. F. F. Worthington, coordinator of civil defence, called on cities and industrial firms to adopt it "in the interest of national economy and security."

It was recommended by a committee representative of five provincial authorities "on an extremely broad geographic basis."

Its establishment is a move to relieve a situation in which fire departments may have many different types of hose couplings that necessarily frequently find cooperation between neighboring cities "complicated and often impossible." A fully accepted and would allow interchangeability, possibly extending well beyond neighboring cities in emergency.

Twin Boys Born Two Miles And 45 Min. Apart

London, April 14 (Reuters)— Twin boys were born in Britain Thursday two miles and 45 minutes apart, causing a general excitement the father shared.

Ambulance driver Tony Divers, answering an emergency call to take Mrs. Phyllis Ann Jill Wyman to a maternity home, arrived in time to deliver a three-pound, six-ounce boy.

He found Mrs. Wyman semiconscious, and her husband, who had fainted, on the floor beside her.

After delivering the baby, he returned Mrs. Wyman to the nursing home two miles away, where she gave birth to the twin's four - pound, 12-once brother.

Youth Leaves Note He's Going to Kill, Police Grab Him

Dallas, Tex., April 14— (AP) — A youth who left a note in his hotel room saying "I'm going to kill" was captured in a running gun battle Thursday after police seriously wounding three persons.

Detective Captain Will Fritz said the man told him he was Arthur V. Gittings of Bethlehem, Pa.

Police said the note, written on a picture frame, declared: — "Tonight, I'm going to kill. Who? Don't know. Don't care. Associated with my superior as a decreased individual. I can't help myself."

FOUR ARE FACING 30 RENT COUNTS, $150,000 FINES

Charge They Received 'Bonuses' for Rental

Toronto, April 14 (CP)— Two Toronto couples have been charged with a total of 60 infractions of federal rent control law.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lipton and Mr. and Mrs. Manny Lipman were summonsed today to appear in Magistrate's court April 19. They face a maximum total penalty of $150,000 in fines plus jail terms.

The Liptons and Mrs. Lipman are charged jointly on 25 counts of receiving "bonuses" of $600 to $5,000 for rental of 11 apartments during the period 1946 to 1948, lessening service in another 11 apartments without reducing rents, and not applying for rent fixation after signing leases on other apartments.

Lipman is charged with receiving "bonuses" amounting to $1,400 for rental of suites in another apartment building during 1947 and 1948.

Crown Attorney Joseph Singer said today a special court may be set up with 19 because of the complexity of the case against the two couples.

Burglars Take $9,200 in Jewels From Miss Oakes

Los Angeles, April 14 (CP) — Police early today said burglars took $9,200 in jewels from Nancy Oakes, the heiress who figured in the sensational 1943 Bahamas murder trial of her father, Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire.

Police said the gems were taken from the Donald M. Nelson home in Coldwater Canyon where the former wife of Count Alfred De Marigny is house guest. Nelson is the former war production board chairman.

The Los Angeles home of glass near the front door and then unlocked the door, Mr. Nelson and Miss Oakes were not home at the time.

A diamond clip valued at $5,000 was among the loot taken from Miss Oakes' room.

She is heiress to the $14,000,000 gold mine fortune of her father, Sir Harry Oakes, murdered to death while he slept in his Nassau bedroom in July, 1943. And then the bed clothing was set afire. Sir Harry's son-in-law charged with the slaying but was acquitted after a sensational trial. He later was deported from the Bahamas.

Miss Oakes, now 27, won an annulment of her marriage to De Marigny in October, 1949. He never lived in Canada where his up until recently he ran a "loneliest" matrimonial agency.

De Marigny lived in Montreal for some time after he was deported from the Bahamas.

TV Network for Canada Would Cost Up to $50 Million Says Engineer

Ottawa, April 14 (CP)— Alphonse Ouimet, chief engineer for the CBC, today told the Royal Commission on Arts and Sciences that it would cost between $35,000,000 and $50,000,000 to establish a television network in Canada.

He made the statement when CBC officials were recalled to expand on some of the testimony given Thursday.

Mr. Ouimet said it would be impossible to estimate the cost of establishing a TV network would be about $10,000 a mile, if the network was stretched from coast-to-coast it would cost about $25,000,000. If spur lines were added to the network the cost likely would be about $50,000,000.

But he said, the network was something that did not have to be established immediately. Stations could be built in various cities and served through film and recordings made in main broadcasting centres in Montreal and Toronto.

Mr. Ouimet said that the capital cost of the CBC television stations now being constructed in Montreal and Toronto will be about $4,000,000. To reach more than half of the population, the CBC would have to spend something like $15,000,000.

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors, said he did not know what method would be used to finance television. The CBC estimated that it would cost about $10 a year per television home for at least a number of years.

He believed there was a lot of logic in the idea that those with television sets pay for the cost of television. It would be years before the people in all parts of the country would benefit.

16-Year-Old Girl Nicked on Leg By Police Bullet

Youth and Girl Holed Up In Lonely Cabin for 12 Hours

Quesnel, B.C., April 14 — (CP) — A defiant pair of lovers — a 19-year-old youth and his 16-year-old girl friend — stood off a police posse more than 12 hours before capture today on a high plateau in the northern British Columbia wilderness.

Police smoked the couple out of a lonely trapper's cabin with tear gas bombs but the two fled to the bush. The posse finally tracked them to a stony ridge, where a police bullet felled the girl as she prepared to open up a fusillade on police. The girl was only nicked in the leg.

On Wild Rampage

The couple—Bert Lagace was the only one identified by police —holed up in the cabin 18 miles west of here after fleeing their Quesnel homes Tuesday night on a wild rampage of breaking and entering.

Police had a warrant charging Lagace with abduction. They added, however, the high school girl had fled with Lagace of her own will, defying her parents' orders to stay away from the youth.

The posse waited till dawn before moving to rout the pair from the cabin. Then they moved in with tear gas bombs.

The girl shouted from the cabin to her father as he pleaded with her to come out: "I'll see you in hell first."

The boy yelled to police: "If you want me, you'd better bring a coffin."

Another tear gas bombs were hurled through the tiny windows of the ramshackle log cabin. One came back and hit a game warden on the head.

As police moved in under cover of rocks and trees, the couple ran from the rear of the cabin and into the bush.

Police Fan Out

Police fanned out in the area — some 400 miles north of Vancouver — combing through deep snow. There was no snow on some ridges and police were able to follow the pair by footprints.

Then the bark of the girl's pet collie, which had stood by her through the night, gave the couple away.

Police spotted the two on a high ridge. The girl was holding the dog.

As the posse approached, Lagace shouted to police: "Shoot me, but spoil them! Let them have it."

The posse fired first, just nicking the girl below the left knee. She fell, dropping the rifle she carried. The posse rushed in.

"Lagace put up a desperate struggle before we pinned him on the ground," said Staff Sgt. Andy Mills.

Sgt. Fairbairn, in charge of the posse, said: "More serious charges will be laid against both."

WORST FLOODS IN RECENT HISTORY EXPERTS PREDICT

Winnipeg, April 14. (CP)—Icy water from south of the border threatens the Red River Valley. Experts predict the worst floods in recent history.

Loss of life is not expected. There will be plenty of warning before the Red spreads from its narrow, low-banked bed across adjacent flat lands.

But hundreds of families may have to be evacuated. Even some homes in suburban Winnipeg may stand in feet of water. Damage could run into the millions.

Crest of the flood today is between Fargo and Grand Forks, North Dakota. It is expected to arrive at Grand Forks Saturday. A. F. Hulteng, Grand Forks city engineer, said the dikes there may be 14 feet above flood stage.

Next Thursday or Friday it should be at Emerson, Man., at the international border. By the end of the month the crest should reach Winnipeg.

Right now the level of the Red at Winnipeg is about nine feet below flood stage.

Precautions Taken

All along the river precautions are being taken. In Winnipeg a co-ordinating board has been set up to handle distribution of all equipment and men for flood control.

Water from 100,000 square miles of North Dakota, Minnesota and Southern Manitoba drains into the river through tributaries.

It is the water from across the border which causes the trouble.

The Red's whole course is thawing, country heavily iced-bound in winter. If the whole valley were to thaw simultaneously, the ice would clear from the whole length on the same day, experts say.

But on the Red the break-up is progressive. As the water level reaches each successive section of the river system before it is ready to receive it.

Multi-million dollar flood-control projects have been drafted for the river valley. More than $1,-500,000 already has been provided by United States, without much result.

WOMAN INJURED WHEN HIT BY CAR CROSSING STREET

Knocked to the pavement when struck by a truck as she was crossing Meagher Street this morning, Mrs. Gerrard, age 68, Albert Street, suffered abrasions to the face and both knees as well as injury to her left hip. She was taken to the office of Dr. Blakelee, where her injuries were attended.

Mrs. Gerrard was walking North-bound on Front Street when she was struck by a truck driven by Lawrence Dent, R.R. 6, which turned onto McAnnany Street, Dent, driver for the Finkle Electric Co., stated he did not see the woman until he was almost on top of her and had no chance to stop.

DOG OWNERS FAIL TO PROCURE TAGS

Despite warnings that prosecutions would soon be in order for failure of dog owners to procure their 1950 licences, the sale of dog tags still lags far behind the actual number of dogs in the city.

City pound-keeper Thomas Thorp today stated that only about 800 dog tags had thus far been purchased of the city hall. The actual number of dogs registered in the city last year was 1000.

Mr. Thorp today, however, stated that there would be no more warning to dog owners who had not yet purchased their dog tags. He said prosecutions would be in order from today on.

POLICE COURT

Arraigned on charges of breaking and entering and with the theft of musical instruments valued at $27.30, the Salmonville district brothers, Jack and Garnet Hill, were remanded in custody for one week with bail set at $500.00 each. The two men were sent back to jles on the charge.

Police Inspector Clair Hayes and Detective Lorne Wood in the home of Mrs. Harry Yanover, Bridge Street, Stirling, on South John Street. There, he said, one of the brothers had engaged Mrs. Yanover in conversation while the other had taken the rat skins.

Jack Hill also faces an additional charge of having illegal possession of liquor. He was remanded on this count.

Gordon Trenton, was remanded until Tuesday on a charge of having liquor not purchased on the premises. Constable Moon was apprehended by police last night in company with Kenneth Mitton, also of Trenton, who pleaded guilty to a drunk charge and also to driving a motor vehicle without a driver's licence. Mitton was in possession of a beginner's permit but did not understand he must be accompanied by a licensed driver. He was assessed $5 and costs on the latter charge.

Panhandler Told to Leave City

A panhandler arrested last night on a vagrancy charge was given his liberty with strict orders from the magistrate to get out of the city.

A total of 51 cases were listed for the morning court docket, including 17 charges against radio owners for failure to procure their 1949 radio licences. All the radio licence fines were settled out of court, delinquents paying $5 each.

The majority of the remaining cases were for infractions of the local traffic by-laws, chiefly speeding, improper turns, parking and failure to stop at "stop" signs.

SEEKS COURT REVERSAL

Paris, April 14—(AP)—Aging Marshal Philippe Petain, serving out a life sentence for treason, told D'Yeu as a tribute to France will seek a court reversal of his condemnation, his lawyer said today. The 94-year-old Marshal surrendered France to the Germans in 1940 and headed the puppet Vichy government.

Tourist Booklets, Exhibits From City and County Sent Cleveland Sportsmen's Show

Equipment and exhibits from Belleville and Hastings county have been forwarded to Cleveland, preliminary for setting up a local booth in connection with the Cleveland Sportsmen's Show, it was stated today by Freeman Burrows, manager of the local Chamber of Commerce.

The city of Belleville and County of Hastings in conjunction with the local Chamber of Commerce and the local Hotelmen's Association are sponsoring a booth at the Cleveland show which will run April 20-29.

Personnel manning the booth will distribute the city-county tourist booklets to visitors at the show. Close to 5,000 of these booklets have been forwarded to Cleveland. Included in the booth's exhibit will be pictures and maps of the points of interest, and mounted fish caught in the Bay of Quinte and at nearby streams throughout the county.

Manning the booth as representatives of the city will be Alderman Claude Tice with Jack Kincaid, Reeve of Madoc village, representing the county.

The local Hotelmen's Association will be represented by Ben Yanover, J. N. Yanover, "Buster" LaBarr, George Haggis, all of Belleville, Dave Wark of Picton, Lloyd Blue of Madoc, and others.

During the sportsmen's show the Hotelmen's Association are running a competition offering a two weeks' free vacation at any hotel in the Bay of Quinte district. Draw for the free trip will be held on April 29th.

Last year the city and county operated a booth at the sportsmen's show held in Toronto, but this fell this year a booth at the Cleveland show would prove more beneficial as additional American visitors are desired to boost the tourist trade.

"Baby, It's Cold Outside"

Phooey to Legends and Superstitions Cries Our Scribe After Failure Of Predictions on Candlemas Day

Shed a tear for Ananiaz,
Reputed king of greatest liars,
His head's no longer held in air
He'll feet his crown to Brother Bear.

Phooey on your legends, traditions, and superstitions from now on.

Henceforth we're going to belabor the bejabers out of any snooty black cat that crosses our path on Friday the Thirteenth.

If we accidentally upset the salt-shaker the salt can rest undisturbed on the napery. There'll be no more tossing the stuff over the shoulder to ward off evil spirits.

We'll not only walk under a ladder, but pause to do a reasonable facsimile of a Russian ballet, or any other ballet for that matter, in the shadow of the steps.

If we break one of the family mirrors, we'll tell the pieces under the nearest rug or bathtub, thumb our nose at the traditional seven years' bad luck and whistle "You Ain't Got Dutchin' on Me."

A Sudden Exposure

The last time we saw a pin on the rug in the family living room, we remembered the legend about having good luck all day. We did. In backsliding to the carpet, we heard a strange sound. A sudden coolness seemed to permeate the immediate atmosphere. The waistline felt loose. The "better half," her face beaming with laughter ran out of the room. We had suddenly developed a southern exposure that called for an immediate repair job on the part of the tailor.

And in view of the new slant on things legendary, traditional, superstitious and whatnot, we're going to consign our dangled umbrella in the domicile.

Some of the gentry who devised these nerve-racking legends must have been brokendown newspapermen or politicians out of a job. For in view of what happens to some of the hoary predictions, we are beginning to think they're as phony as a three-dollar bill.

Take for instance, the annual hooey about the woodchuck and the bear, your choice depends on which part of the globe you are domiciled.

On February 2nd, the chuck or Brer Bear is supposed, according to the superstitious or legend-likers to emerge from hibernation, take a look at what's going on unsympathetically, and if the sun is shining and their shadows are apparent, they immediately exercise their return ticket rights, and hole up for another six weeks.

If, however, Ole Sol decides to take a day off and the ceiling is low with poor visibility, then the bear and the chuck decide to remain unsympathetically, and throw a party and wait for Spring to emerge from around the legendary corner.

Get Crossed Up

Whatever happened, this year at least, is not known. Maybe the bear and the chuck had not paid their dues in Local 6547 U.W.C.B. (United Workers of the Weather Control Bureau) for Ekal Winter, president of the union, not only crossed them up, but plenty, but gave the originator of the legend a face as crimson as that of the fur salesman who wandered into a nudist colony by mistake.

You know what happened. According to the legend, Ole Man Winter was deader than last year's vacation money. Instead, he packed more doggone actual winter in the subsequent six weeks, than he distributed over the countryside since Noah's Ark. Blizzards, sub-zero temperatures, snow-filled highways, mountain and oil bills followed one another during that period with the relentlessness of a four-decade sugar daddy on the trail of the second number in the back row of the Folies Bergere.

Not only that, but the old soand-sos, Winter, intended his Arctic-like frolic to another three or more weeks.

We don't know whether Brer Bear and Woody Woodchuck, the latter a Munchausens of the underground got back in time to escape the wrath of the union boss. If they did it's all right with us. Perhaps they've learned, lesson. If they did not, well, there are two less lines in the poem.

Legends, traditions, superstitions, Phooey. (GHC).

MARMORA

Seven Ewes Give Birth to Triplets

Marmora—Jack Wellman, who lives on No. 14 Highway, about two miles south of Marmora village, has a flock of 15 ewes which have produced a record number of lambs this season. Seven gave birth to triplets, while 35 lambs were born to the .15. This is considered a record number by those who have owned sheep for years. A never had such prolific births.

C of C Directors Urge Inner Harbor be Dredged, Cleaned

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce at their regular monthly meeting held yesterday passed a resolution requesting the Dominion government to dredge and clean Belleville harbor to make it more appealing to tourists and boaters and also for the convenience of local pleasure craft owners.

The resolution will be forwarded to city council with the request that it be passed along to the Dominion government, while the Belleville and District Planning Board, the Board of Health and the Parks Board will be asked to send supporting resolutions.

Directors of the local Chamber felt that valuable tourist trade was being lost to the city through lack of proper harbor facilities to accommodate visiting watercraft. They also feel that new additional facilities in the city are being seriously curtailed because of the condition of the harbor.

It was pointed out that public health suffered as result of the stagnant watey in the inner harbor, this fostering weed growth and insect larvae. Also the commercial development of property bordering the east side of the harbor was being retarded owing to lack of deep water.

Want Harbor Dredged

The resolution passed by the Chamber asked that the harbor be dredged to a depth of 12 feet to a point opposite St. Paul Street with the slit and weed beds in the inner harbor to be dredged out. A 12-foot channel leading from harbor to the deep water channel outside was also asked.

To improve pleasure boat facilities it was recommended that yachting slips be constructed on the east side of the harbor at 20 foot intervals, the slips to be covered with three foot catwalks. This would provide accommodation for a much greater number of pleasure craft than would make it unnecessary for craft to be anchored in the centre of the harbor.

Plans for a local program for National Tourist Week to be observed May 1-8 were discussed by the directors as also were plans for a Campaign for Clean-up Week to be observed shortly.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 14 (CP)— Industrial stocks resumed their advance into new high ground as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Pressure of profit-taking after Thursday held the list in check.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,668,000 shares.

Buying power was highly selective. Distiller's Seagram was a feature performer, adding a full point at 24 7-8 and Massey Harris gained a like amount at 25 3-4. Papers, utilities and construction showed wide lists of gains.

The remainder of the market slumped under pressure of realizing sales on recent gains. Western oils were the widest losers following five weeks of almost uninterrupted advance into new high ground. Royalite dipped 1-2 at 13 and Calgary and Edmonton lost 20 cents at $8.

Low priced golds were busy while senior and junior producers weakened from Thursday's gains.

CHASED AND CAPTURED IN OWN BACK YARD

Toronto, April '14 — (CP) — Chased over fences and through lanes early Thursday morning, Izzac, 28, was captured by police at gunpoint in his own back yard. He was charged with theft of gasoline from an automobile.

Police said they found a five-gallon can and five feet of hose one end of which was in a car owned by Thomas Dawson.

R.C.M.P. Deny Placing 'Mikes' In Union Hall

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police were today suggested as being responsible for the placing of the two microphones which, earlier in the week were said to have been discovered in a Trenton hall being used for a meeting by striking United Textile (A.F. L.) workers, from the Dowsil Cellier plant.

The suggestion that the R.C.M. P. placed the microphones was made by George Beckett, A.F.L. organizer, who was quoted as saying that he knew for a fact that R.C.M.P. officers had been in Trenton investigating.

"I wouldn't doubt for a moment that they would - - - plant microphones at a closed meeting," he said.

Not Interested in Strike

Cpl. R. W. Christy, in charge of the Belleville detachment office of the R.C.M.P., today denied that microphones had been planted by the R.C.M.P. He made no additional statement other than to say Belleville R.C.M.P. were not interested in the Trenton strike.

Earlier in the week the A.F.L. organizer had charged the microphones found planted in the union meeting hall had been placed there by Trenton police. This was denied by the Trenton Chief of Police Jack Taylor.

The union members are on strike against the Downs Coulter Manufacturing Company which re-opened its Trenton plant on Monday after it was strike-bound for 15 weeks.

Presents 60-Year Medical Bill For $15,120

Washington, April 14 (AP) — Dr. W. Sinclair Bowen finally presented his bill today for treatment he gave a woman patient for more than sixty years.

The bill came to $15,120.

Dr. Bowen presented a claim against the $185,000 estate of late Mrs. Louise M. Holmead.

For years, Dr. Bower said, he treated Mrs. Holmead practically free, because he believed she couldn't afford to pay.

When she died she left him $1,500 in her will — and the bulk of the $185,000 estate to the Church of Epiphany.

In presenting his bill, Dr. Bowen said:

"As it now stands, the whole thing is unfair to myself and to the whole medical profession."

16-YEAR-OLD GIRL

For 12 hours the pair held at bay a posse of nine, six Provincial Police officers and three civilians sworn in as special deputies.

The Odyssey began Tuesday night. When the girl failed to return home, her parents swore out a complaint charging Lagace with abduction and police took up the chase.

It was not until Thursday afternoon that two constables found the pair holed up in the cabin. A shot was fired as they approached the hut and they retreated and waited for reinforcements.

Police said the couple broke into two cabins during their flight.

The girl is undergoing treatment in hospital here. Her companion is lodged in the city lockup.

Parents of the girl—a high school student—revealed she had been "going around with" Lagace for several months. They said he had returned to Quesnel after spending some time in Vancouver.

Comes From Fine Family

"She is a fine girl," said Sgt. Fairburn. "She comes from a fine family.

"I don't know what happened to her."

Because of her age, the girl's name was withheld.

Police ringed the cabin late Thursday but fear of bloodshed prevented them from making a frontal assault.

Before the attack, Cpl. Earl Saralat said: "We don't want any bloodshed if we can help it."

Proposes Schools Open at 7 AM For Older Scholars

Kitchener, April 14. (CP) —District Chief Bunker of the Kitchener Chamber of Commerce, says taxpayers can't stand the cost of more and more schools.

At a chamber directors' meeting Thursday, he outlined a plan which he claimed would tend to curb mounting education costs here.

Dr. Dunker would like to see schools open at 7 a.m. and give concentrated attention to older students until noon, lower grades would be taken on in the afternoons, probably from 1 to 6 p.m.

If this were done, he said present school buildings would meet all needs for many years. Additional teachers would be required to carry out the two shifts but the cost wouldn't compare with new building construction and upkeep.

Mr. Dunker's plan was not discussed by the directors. He made the observation during considera-tion of a motion concerning a move to get the Kitchener Park Board to make available for building purposes certain sections of park land in the Knollwood area.

Renovation Program Gives New Look to New Queen's Hotel

A renovation job that has merited the unqualified approval of its patrons who "just can't recognize the old place" and are heartily glad of it, is the way the New Queen's Hotel is described in the March edition of "Hospitality", the hotel publication of The Carling Breweries Ltd.

The magazine features the Queen's Hotel renovation program and pays tribute to its genial owner-manager Jack Vanover who has made the well known local hotel take on a new look. The renovation program is still in progress and when completed the entire 60-room hotel will reflect the same advanced decorative scheme.

Since 1946 when the hotel was taken over by Mr. Vanover the public room bar has been done over, the panelled main lobby, the guest house, dining room and beverage room now having an appearance completely transformed from the old and reflecting the best in hotel design and comfort.

Lounge Air Conditioned

The guest lounge, for the exclusive use of house guests, is air conditioned and boasts of sectional chairs and couches arranged in conversation groups. The attractive green-walled dining room is furnished with tables and chairs of blond birch, has acoustic ceiling and is carpeted from wall to wall. The service staff at the hotel numbers 35.

"Hospitality" says that proprietor Vanover, who is also owner of Belleville's City Hotel, is active in hotel association circles. He is director of the Province of Ontario Hotel Association and is past president of the Belleville and District Hotel Association.

Bought Kingston Property

Recently Mr. Vanover formed the Fort Henry Hotel Co., Ltd., of which he is president. The new company had taken over the old Windsor Hotel on Princess Street in Kingston and a complete renovating job is being done, the opening scheduled for early summer.

Outside the hotel field Mr. Vanover's principal interest is sport and he has done much to promote baseball and hockey in Belleville. He is president of the Belleville Hockey Association and one of his ambitions is to train local talent in the bantam, midget and juvenile classifications.

Three Missing N. Ireland MP's Give Attlee Majority of Seven

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 14 (CP)— The Labor Government's theoretical majority over all other parties in the House of Commons now totals seven—thanks to three "missing" members.

Nominally the government's over-all majority stands at four, with two by-elections pending. But three Northern Ireland members have not taken the oath of allegiance in the new parliament, and until they do Labor's margin in effect is seven.

Two of the three missing members are Irish Nationalist members who refuse the election understanding that as a protest against partition of Ireland they would not go to Westminster. The third is not sitting pending "parliamentary inquiry."

One Won't Take Seat

Of the two Irish Nationalists, one already has confirmed that he will not take his seat. A conference of anti-partitionists, meeting Thursday in Enniskillen, reached this decision in the case of Cahir Healy, who was elected by a majority of 2,311 votes over an Ulster Unionist (Conservative) favoring continued union of Northern Ireland with Great Britain.

No decision has been announced by the other Irish Nationalist member, J. A. Mulvey, returned for mid-Ulster district.

Mulvey first was elected to Parliament in 1935 but did not attend because of the Nationalist policy of abstention as a protest against partition. This policy was changed in 1945 and Mulvey subsequently became a well-known figure in the lobies of the House of Commons.

The third odd man out in Westminster is Rev. J. Graham Makeaway, Ulster Unionist member for Belfast west.

Double about MacMasaway's right to sit in Parliament were raised by Geoffrey Bing, Labor member for Hornchurch. Bing argued that a clergyman of the Church of Ireland is not legally entitled to a seat in the House of Commons. He said MacMasaway would be liable to a fine of £500 every time he took his seat or voted.

Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, on December March 23 that a select committee will be appointed to consider the case.

As an Ulster Unionist, MacMasaway will be sure to vote with the Conservatives when and if he is declared eligible. In the old parliament, Mulvey generally voted with the Labor government but neither of the Irish Nationalists would be pledged to support either of the two big parties.

Admiral Discards Theory of Subs Off California

Long Beach, Calif., April 14.— (AP)—Korean Admiral W. Y. Sohn had a theory about those mysterious submarines that have been reported recently off the California coast. But he seems to have discarded it now.

They might be Russians trying to torpedo three Korean tionalist sub chasers being fitted here, the admiral told reporters Thursday.

Later, however, the modified his remarks.

"I don't know whether they any Russian submarines on coast of California. Further South Korea is not at war with Russia. It is ridiculous to say submarines would with three such small craft as we reconditioning here."

CLOSING IN ON CANCER

Time after time we have heard someone say, "If the atomic bomb could be built in a couple of years with a couple of billion dollars — why can't we buy a cure for cancer?"

A cure for cancer would be cheap at any price. Unfortunately, however, it can't be bought. It will come, in all likelihood, as a result of research. And — barring accidental discoveries — the end results of research are attainable in the patient building of fact upon fact.

To carry on research work, funds are urgently needed by the Canadian Cancer Society. In Ontario citizens are being asked to contribute $500,000 during the month of April to be used for research, educational work and service to the cancer patient. Fellowships have been established to train promising young medical minds in cancer research, and these fellowships must be continued.

Cancer is no longer regarded as incurable. Medical science can cure some types of cancer, but only if the cancer is discovered in time. The tragic gap between the curable and the cured can be laid primarily to the need for more public and professional education. The Canadian Cancer Society is carrying on a nationwide program to teach the public to heed the danger signals of cancer.

Many cancer victims are in need of help. Comforts are provided by the 25 units of the Society now operating in Ontario and part of the funds contributed during the April campaign will be used to further this great humanitarian work.

Complete cancer control is still unforeseeable. It is evident, however, that progress is being made. Lives are being saved. More lives can be saved with increased efficiency. It is hoped that they will come when cancer actually figures will have reached the vanishing point.

That day will be speeded by contributing to the April campaign of the Cancer Society in this community.

ENRICHMENT OF WILDLIFE RESOURCES

Many Canadians have been thinking of the meaning preservation of the country's wildlife and the lessons to rich these days have been devoted in Ontario.

Our forests and streams are more important because they has given thought to them and has improved conditions for the birds and animals which abound in the northern areas. There is a richer heritage for those who now sell here and for those who will follow if everyone behaves rightly forward those people who have acted with foresight for wildlife resources. Wildlife has lessons of kindliness for man, man and child who care for the creatures with which providence has blessed this country. That nation which after its wildlife is weakinier and has learned deep lessons from the heart of nature.

Everyone knows the influences which pet animals have in home court on boys and girls in their formative years. has often been said that the boy who has had a pet dog his early years will not wander far from the path of titude. To adults likewise the kindly interest shown in creatures by those who are surrounded whether it be ses, cattle or dogs or cats or other animals or birds reis itself in their lives. A people that allows its wildlife to ndle and disappear has lost a heritage and that loss is ected in their lives and outlook on life.

Wildlife means more to Canadians because Jack ter for years gave them lessons in care for wildlife. His ffices for the creatures which a kindly Providence has ded upon this country were shown in the most imsive manner at the sanctuary named after this great r of the creatures which inhabited this part of the Its hope not only Canada but the world lessons ich can never be forgotten.

More and more kindliness and consideration for wildand study of the lays of the wild in relation to nature influence the people and the kindness and consideration these sources are such as will not pass away but be ditplied more and more for oncoming generations. Our s, streams and woodlands will continue to enrich this d and its people's character.

ACORNS FOR THREEPENCE

The British Forestry Commission is buying acorns m school children at the rate of threepence a pound. me little acorns from which mighty oaks will grow are ected in government nurseries, and the seedlings are all parts of the country to make the forests of the future, e Christian Science Monitor.

So far the project has been a tremendous success, as dened by the report of one little school house where pupils already have collected nearly a tons of acorns or ugh to establish a 150-acre nursery. This indeed has all earmarks of a Herculean task. But if our experience in aying Junior's pockets after a walk in the woods is any dstick by which to judge the amount of work involved, n the British youngsters must be jingling their threece quite convinced that money does grow on trees after old-time family doctor! I am sure we need him still;

FAMILY DOCTOR

bedroom was his office
when one of us was ill.
hours were not recorded in gold letters: "two to four!"
idnight was he summoned
we'd find him at the door.

welcomed us as babies and watched us as we grew,
knew the kind of sickness he knew just what to do.

The black bag that he carried held pills of every make
And just the ones we needed he'd leave for us to take.

The old-time family doctor!
More like him there

THE TROUBLE WITH TROUBLE

There's a 250-pounder called Tony who generally parks his cab in front of my theatre, and come rain, snow or blowout, the hackie is as amiable a great mountain can be, to me and to this ungentlemanly town.

The other night, however, while driving me down to Luchow's for a platter of sauerbraten, Tony did not even comment on the weather, and when I asked him what was eating him, said, "Everything. Unless I can dig up a sad story by 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, I'm liable to lose one of my best customers."

"How's that again?" I asked. "What's a sad story got to do with business?"

"It's kind of complicated," said the big man, "perhaps I can explain it before we hit 14th Street. To begin at the beginning, a couple of months ago I was cruising around Washington Heights when an old lady hailed me. She was bigger than an umbrella saked me to drive her down to the Bell 66s. I was nursing a hangover that day and didn't feel much like chauffeuring.

"Young man" the old lady said as we were waiting for the light to change at 125th, "something is obviously bothering you. Would it help to tell me about it?"

"It would help me to drop dead," I told her.

"You mustn't talk that way," she said. "I know what it means to be unhappy and how it helps to confide in someone. Is it about a girl?"

Well, to keep her from breathing down my neck I said, "Yeah, what else? It's a girl."

"It usually is," the old lady said, "they don't you tell me about her?"

"I could see she was going to feel hurt if I didn't talk, so I told her about how I went to a dance the night before, how my girl danced with another guy, how one word led to another, and how I finally went to a bar and got loaded.

"Now you listen to me,' the old dame said when I was through. 'Tonight you tell your sweetheart you were wrong to get angry and ask her to forgive you, and be home at 7 o'clock I want you to pick me up on the same corner and I'll see everything that happened.'

"'Okay, lady,' I said. 'I promise.'

"Sure enough, the next afternoon she was waiting.

"'How did you make out?' she asked as she got into the cab.

"I did exactly like you told me,' I said, 'and it worked so good that tonight my girl is going out with the other guy.'

"'Oh, I'm sorry,' said the old lady, and I could see she really was, but I could also see that her troubles were taking her mind off her own.

"'Don't give up, son,' she said when I let her out. 'I'll see you tomorrow afternoon, same time.'

"I tell that's how it's been going for the past couple of months. Every afternoon I pick her up and tell her a hard luck story, and every afternoon she lectures me on how to get along with girls—and it's driving me nuts!"

"What's your trouble?" I asked.

"The trouble is,' said Tiny, "I ain't got no troubles. I'm a happily married guy and make a satisfactory buck, but I know how much it hang the old dame gets out of my problems, and so lately I've been making up a few hair-raising nights, figuring out new ones—and I don't like to tell you this—five yarns a week ain't easy. Right now, I've run out of plots and if you can spare a nice, sad story I would sure come in handy. Otherwise, the old lady will feel I don't need her any more and go back to thinking about her own troubles."

"What's bothering her?" I asked.

"I'm not sure," said Tiny, "but the place I take her to every afternoon is the cancer clinic at Mem. orial Hospital."

Chinese Reds Getting Set For New Drive

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

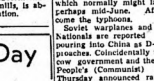
As the signs read, the Chinese Communists are rallying gigantic set for fresh military operations to clean out the last of the Nationalists strongholds and tighten the Red grip on a hard hit but increasingly troublesome nation.

Time is pressing, for this is the period of favorable weather which normally might last until perhaps mid-June. After the come the typhoons.

Soviet warplanes and Russian Nationals are reported to be pouring into China as D-Day approaches. Ostensibly the Moscow government and the China People's (Communist) Republic Thursday announced ratification of their 30-year mutual aid treaty.

Fred Hampson, AP correspondent in Hong Kong, reports some interesting information contained in a letter from a trusted Yangtze valley person in the heart of red China. The letter says in part:

"The Reds are proceeding apace with D-Day preparations — famous and long-suffering seconds, of Russian planes have arrived. — — The rumors are not entirely false. I have seen scores of fighters and bombers fly over this place lately — —



"Taxes and Victory Bond demands are terrific — — The whole Red land was set for March 31, was missed badly. The money just isn't here.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist forces, which are hanging onto a few outposts by their teeth, aren't the only ones who are worried. The Communists are up against a terrific economic problem, including famine which is hitting many millions of people.

Such as Hampton's source tated in his letter:

"The Reds admit there are 50,000 armed bandits and agent-painst them in Hunan, Kwangsi and Kwangtung provinces."

There are factors upon which Big Kai-Shek is leaning heavily.

ANOXIA AND ANGINA

Between attacks, or after the victim has ceased to care about it, there is nothing elicited by examination which shows that the individual had asthma, epilepsy or angina pectoris. Thus enough, the patient subject to angina pectoris generally presents signs of arteriosclerosis, but not every one knows, most persons with arteriosclerosis never have angina pectoris.

Among the theories conceived by physicians to account for the attack of angina pectoris probably the one at present most favored is that the distress and pain are due to anoxia, oxygen shortage in the heart muscle.

Anoxia might be easier to understand if we called it asphixia. It is in fact the serious or fatal feature of carbon monoxide gassing. A person overcome by breathing air that contains as much as three to five parts of carbon monoxide, odorless carbon monoxide in a thousand suffers not from poisoning but from asphyxia or anoxia. You see, carbon monoxide has a stronger affinity for hemoglobin than oxygen has, so it unites with the hemoglobin (the red coloring matter which carries oxygen to the cells and tissues and organs and takes back to the lungs a harmless carbon dioxide to be blown off) and thus crowding out the oxygen and producing asphyxia or anoxia.

In angina pectoris (heart pang) the anoxia or oxygen deficit in the heart muscle is relative rather than absolute. The heart muscle is generally the consequence or spasmodic contraction or constriction of the coronary arteries, the main coronary artery.

The heart muscle that is the bundle of muscle fibres making up the main part of the heart wall, receives its oxygen from the arteries, one right, one left artery, which branch directly off the great artery (aorta) just beyond the aortic valve. These arteries are called coronary or coronal because they have the appearance of a crown on the heart.

The blood of oxygen from tank have given considerable relief from the disease, and even short and such treatment has saved life inacute coronary thrombosis. Oxygen, inhalations bring the oxygen richness of the blood up to normal, but still the small amount of this oxygen delivered to the heart muscle depends upon the freedom of the blood flow through the coronary arteries or coronal branches.

Nitroglycerin (now called glyceryl trinitate), amyl nitrite (inhaled by crushing a capsule or ampule in handkerchief in the hand), sodium nitrate (a salt taken internally), slow-or and more prolonged action than the first two nitrites), and other nitrites, are remedies usually employed to relax spasmodic contraction, of constriction of the coronary arteries and so permit a freer delivery of oxygen to the heart muscle.

Other factors which tend to encourage constriction and maintain adequate oxygenation in the heart muscle are (1) coffee, (2) an optimal daily ration of calcium, of course with enough vitamin D to insure assimilation and utilization of the calcium, and (3) a reasonable amount of daily exercise. Oh, oh! Time's up!

Sixteen Planes Still Searching For Missing Craft

Stockholm, April 14 — (AP)— Equipment dropped by aerial searchers raised brief false hopes today of a clue to the fate of a United States Navy Privateer patrol plane missing with its crew of 10 since Saturday.

As 16 U.S. planes continued to comb the Baltic Sea, Swedish authorities identified a piece of wood found by fishermen as part of a smoke-flare box, dropped last Wednesday when a searching B-17 pilot observed what he thought was a life raft.

An inscription in English on the gray wooden piece, half a yard long, earlier led Swedish naval authorities at the Karlskrona base to believe it might be part of the missing plane. The inscription read: "Down or forward when handling floodlight. G MOD 2 Lot 4 - 4 LD D - 245 GHB."

The discovery came as thick fog rolling into the North Baltic hampered the search for the missing plane.

Sixteen planes are threading into south of the fog bank, which reached out toward the Latvian coast region where the Russians said they fired on the American four-engined plane Sunday.

In Copenhagen, Danish Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen answering communist criticism of Denmark's decision to allow a U.S. airfield by the American search planes, said his government had a "human obligation" to give such aid.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOVE ISN'T BLIND

One of the most widely heralded errors is that love is blind. It is no such thing. Even the blind of eye can see with love. Nothing is more keen, ageless, or strong as love.

Love sees things that the human eye, or the camera, cannot see or photograph. It sees the light in the soul. Love is warm, full of light, is patient, knitted with hope, a parent in faith, and ageless. A poet has called love the "orbit of the soul!"

Regardless of Chaucer, Shakespeare, and scores of other writers, who have called that love is blind, the facts over-rule them all. Love sees into the darkest places of life and the human heart. There are times when it is the only thing we possess that has eyes.

There are all other agencies of sight fail, love sees, explains, and understands. It's an endless light, as well. People are guided and comforted by it. It is exampled in mothers and children, in patriots, and soldiers. And little children see it, without asking its identification. Love keeps walking around. It couldn't if it were blind! It goes into hospitals. It guides the surgeon's instruments. It soothes troubled minds. It suffers with the sufferer, and is always kind.

Love hunts out catastrophies and rushes to give comfort and comfort. It isn't blind then. Its sight is universal. They who say that it is blind have never met it, or known its presence or power. Even the bird in the nest, with newly closed eyes, is aware of love the moment that its mother arrives. Later on it will see the light, from which it sprung.

Blind love! What a non-entity! Those only are blind who cannot see it at work, here, there, and everywhere. The sight of love is God's greatest gift to the human kind. Without it, faith is impossible. And courage to go on is obliterated. For love to see is the one important essential of life. Love is not blind, never has been, never will be!

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

In a hotel lobby, an elderly, well-dressed woman strolled, rather primly, over towards the settee I was partly occupying and stared intently at me. She took a long, deliberate look, examining my every detail. Then she turned slowly, walked across the lobby a second way to another settee, at which, after some deliberation, she sat down.

And there facing me, she continued to stare in a most unsatisfactory manner. She laughed. I understand? Just with an expression of interest and curiosity? Not at all. She ignored my smile. I made a face at her. She just looked at me slightly attention. Indignantly, I got up and walked over to another chair and sat out of her view.

In a few minutes, what was my astonishment to see that the same old lady come and stare down at me from the new chair. Then she proceeded to another chair facing me and bent her interested scrutiny upon me. I felt like a bug on a pin in an insect collection. I felt like a bug in a specimen bottle. I felt like a bug in a specimen bottle. I felt like a bug in a specimen bottle

Spring Garden Foods

Everyone is in the mood to talk about spring vegetables in April. They are so refreshing to look at that sometimes it revives the appetite just to see them in the shop window.

The homemaker knows all the good points of early spring vegetables but it must be remembered that they have another side to their character. They lack patience. They won't sit by your kitchen and wait patiently until you get around to cooking them. If you bring green vegetables home from market or in from your garden and leave them on the kitchen table for a few hours, they'll just wilt under the strain and grow limp, flappy and stringy. Some people like wilted lettuce and wilted dandelion greens but these are wilted in a quite different way. Greens demand immediate attention and the right environment or they'll begin to lose their best qualities. Many of the sturdy late-fall vegetables are willing to wait around all day but spring vegetables such as green onions, asparagus, cress and lettuce bruise very easily and will quickly. The only way to store them is in a cold, slightly damp place.

Keep Greens Fresh

We all know that the young, tender, crisp greens taste best. Whether they are cooked or eaten raw in salad, the fresh plants are the most delicious. So, as soon as the greens come into your kitchen look after them. You aren't going to cook or serve them at once, put them away where they'll stay fresh. First, wash them very carefully and thoroughly, being careful not to bruise them. Discard any wilted, yellow or damaged leaves of lettuce, cress or other leafy greens then shake the greens gently in a towel to remove any excess moisture and store in a covered container, in the refrigerator or other cool place. They'll keep fresh for several days this way.

Because asparagus grows so close to the ground it is necessary to wash it very thoroughly to make sure there are no particles of sand under the scales. It is usually necessary to remove the scales as particles of grit cling beneath them. Tender asparagus should not need to be scraped.

Here are several ways to serve asparagus and green onions which are also favorite spring vegetables These recipes are recommended by the home economists of the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Asparagus heads are extremely tender and therefore easily broken, so the stems should be tied in bunches and cooked with the tips up. The tall top of the double boiler makes a good asparagus cooker. Some homemakers purchase enamel coffee pot for this purpose exclusively. The water is never allowed to cover the tips, rather let the lower part of the stalks boil in the water, while the tips steam. Salt, added at the beginning of cooking, tends to toughen the asparagus so it is better to add it after the first 10 minutes of cooking.

The water from cooked asparagus is one exception to the oft-repeated rule "save the vegetable water." It is apt to be acrid in flavor.

Asparagus With Scrambled Eggs

12 stalks asparagus
2 tablespoons butter
6 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
6 slices toast

Cut asparagus in 1-inch pieces and cook in boiling, salted water for 10 minutes. Drain. Melt fat in top of double boiler, add well-beaten eggs, set over boiling water and stir gently until the eggs begin to thicken. Add asparagus, salt and pepper. Continue stirring gently until eggs are cooked but not dry. Serve on hot, buttered toast. Yields: six servings.

Creamed Green Onions and Peas

6 green onions (about 6" long)
1 cup boiling water or liquid from canned peas
1½ cups milk
⅔ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 cup drained canned peas
¼ cup grated cheese

Cut onions in 1-inch pieces and cook in boiling water 10 minutes. Heat milk. Melt fat, add flour and seasoning. Slowly add hot milk and stir until thickened. Cook 3 minutes. Stir in peas and onions with the water in which they have been cooked. Serve on toast. Sprinkle with cheese. Yield, six servings.

Club Activities

RED TRIANGLE CLUB

The Red Triangle Club held its regular monthly supper meeting in the auditorium of the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening at 6:15. In the absence of the president, the meeting was presided over by Vice-President Molly Camp. Reports were read by treasurer Vera Keegan, and minutes of last meeting by Secretary Mildred Hall. Booster prize was won by Jean Vickers.

From 7-8 the Triangle members instructed the "Pres" girls (ages 10-12) in musical games and folk dancing. The Red Triangle Indians' main project is the training of these young girls in handcrafts such as sewing, embroidery, knitting, shelfcraft, crocheting, folk dancing and many other activities. They meet each Monday from 7-8 at the Y with one week set aside each month for games and folk dancing.

The Red Triangle members then adjourned to the home of Jean Vickers for a social evening and coffee.

The Club would appreciate any enquiries from Business Girls 16 years and over who are interested in this type of program and would like more information. Address enquiries to Red Triangle Club, Y.M.C.A., 20 Campbell St., Belleville, attention Miss Muriel Jobson, Pres.

Fashion Flashes

SLOWLY BUT SURELY yellow—in its various tones, but with emphasis on the citrus shades—is growing in popularity. Golden orange tone is used for a handsome tweed topper made with sloped shoulders and cutaway neckline. Coat closes with shell buttons set on a narrow band, and the curved pockets are button-trimmed.

A CO-OP FRIEND to the restricted wardrobe is a well-cut, smartly tailored jacket of white wool or tweed. Worn with a navy, black or brown skirt, it adds up to a smart suit. For summer one designer shows similar jackets in solid or houndstooth check linen. One model, of highbone length, can be worn boxy and loose and has unmounted, below-elbow sleeves.

MAYBE Summer mink does sound a bit of fuzzy, but Spring mink, in the form of little jackets, capes and stoles, is very much in the current sartorial scene. Mink makes a little cape-bolero, securely tied at the waist and bloused above in an extended cape line.

WEDDINGS

AUGEE—EMBLETON

Marmora. — A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's parsonage, Marmora, on Saturday evening, April 8, when Rev. G. D. Young united in marriage Yvonne Jean Embleton, daughter of Mrs. Embleton and the late Mr. Embleton, to William Augee, son of Mrs. Hector Augee and the late Hector Augee.

The bride wore a dress of blue satin with matching accessories.

The attendants were Mrs. Donald Nicholson, and Mr. Douglas Stocker.

The honeymoon was spent in Toronto and Kingston and in Western Ontario. They will take up residence in Marmora.

WILKES—McFALL

Marmora.—A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, on Saturday afternoon, April 8, when Edna Patricia Viola McFall, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McFall, of Blairton, and George Earl Wilkes, younger son of George Wilkes and the late Mrs. Wilkes, of Marmora township, were united in marriage. Rev. G. D. Young, B.A., B.D. officiated.

Mrs. A. F. Fraser played the wedding music, and Mrs. L. R. Rundle sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I'll Walk Beside You".

Given in marriage by her cousin, John Taylor, of Toronto, the bride was daintily attired in a gown of white nylon and lace, with high neckline, buttoned down the back, shirred bodice, off-the-shoulder berths collar trimmed with lace. The long tight fitting sleeves ended in petal points at the wrists, while a full double panel at the back extended in a short train. Her three-quarter length veil of rayon net trimmed with matching lace, was held in place by a crown-shaped headdress trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Her sister, Mrs. Harold Nobes, was matron of honor, and was gowned in pink moire taffeta with sweetheart neckline, shaped in back with train effect. She wore matching mitten and a headdress of matching flowers, and carried a nosegay of daffodils and pink tulips.

Miss Leona Vilneff was bridesmaid, gowned in blue sheer rayon with long bishop sleeves, and waist of floral embroidery. Her shoulder length veil of embroidered net was held in place by a headdress trimmed with simulated pearls. She carried a nosegay of pink tulips and blue iris.

Miss Gladys Lucas, as bridesmaid, was gowned in mauve rayon taffeta, with tiny sleeves capped, and matching mitten and headdress of matching mittens. She wore a flower headdress and her nosegay, was of yellow tulips and iris.

Mr. Kenneth Chrysler was groomsman. The ushers were Harold Nobes, and Warden Chrysler.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Hazlid Nobes, when the bride's cousin, Mrs. John Taylor, received in a gown of powder blue crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the groom's sister, Mrs. W. Chrysler, who wore a dress of turquoise shantung, with navy accessories and corsage of red carnations.

Misses Marjorie McCoy and Zella Carman served the guests. For a trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride wore a grey gabardine suit with navy accessories.

They will reside on the groom's farm in Marmora township.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Pembroke, Belleville, Campbellford and Havelock.

Mrs. P. MacMullen Completes Four Years' Secretary Term

Rawdon.—Mrs. Percy MacMullen, "Scott Lodge", Stirling, R.R. 3, completed her four year term as Belleville Circle secretary, of Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S. and on March 30, 1950, at Trinity United Church, Belleville, a new officer was appointed to carry on that department.

In 1949 there were six Mission Circles, Bridge Street Church, and Holloway Street Church, Belleville; Cherry Valley; Plainfield; Tamworth and Wesley, Newburgh. These six Mission Circles remitted to Presbyterial treasurer, $420.83, an average of over $5 per member.

Praise Extended

One Circle, "Cherry Valley", found it impossible to carry on in 1950, due to lack of girls. The other five circles are all functioning and Wesley Circle, Tamworth, were highly praised by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, Foreign Mission branch president, and others for their splendid worship service at the evening service at Napanee.

During the four years, three rallies have been held, and in November the literature sales amounted to $18.56.

16 Years as Press Secretary

Since church union, Mrs. MacMullen has also served 11 years as press secretary of Belleville Presbyterial and five years as press secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch W.M.S., a total of 20 years.

NURSES' ALUMNAE MEET

The regular meeting of the Nurses' Alumnae Association was held at the Ritchie Memorial residence, Tuesday last at 8:00 p.m., when 15 members present.

Miss Bailey, the president, thanked all the members who helped in making the card party a success. It was decided that the Alumnae give Miss Norman and Miss Bongard each $10 to help pay their expenses to the Nurses' Convention in Vancouver in June.

A banquet in honor of the 1950 graduation class and a reunion of former graduates was planned to be held at the Kiwanis Centre next month.

A slate of officers was elected to look after notifying all the former graduates, program and decorating committees.

A short discussion took place concerning the Alumnae scholarship to be given to a girl who would like to train for a nurse, but finds she has not the means to go in training.

The meeting adjourned, after which cookies and cold drinks were enjoyed.

Maple Syrup Adds Flavor To Desserts

By KAY BEX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa. (CP)—Sap's running and the time has come to get out the maple syrup recipes.

Some economists of the consumer section, department of agriculture, say nothing can surpass fresh maple syrup served with hot biscuits, muffins or griddle-cakes.

Unless it's Maple Oat Pudding. Here are the ingredients for this easy-to-make dessert: one cup maple syrup; one-third cup shortening; one-third cup brown sugar; one egg; one-half cup rolled oats; one-half cup sifted all-purpose flour; two teaspoon baking powder; one-quarter teaspoon salt; one-half cup milk.

Bring maple syrup to boiling and pour into a greased casserole. Cream fat, add sugar, cream well together. Add beaten egg and beat well. Mix dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk to creamed mixture. Pour over hot maple syrup and bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 40 minutes. Yield: six servings.

Maple Rice Pudding

Ingredients: one-quarter cup rice; two cups milk; 2 1-2 tablespoons cornstarch; one-half cup maple syrup; two egg yolks; two egg whites; one-quarter cup maple syrup.

Boil rice in salted water until tender, then drain. Scald milk in top of double boiler. Blend cornstarch to a smooth paste with the one-half cup maple syrup and add gradually to the hot milk. Stir until mixture thickens and cook 15 minutes.

Add rice and well-beaten egg yolks. Place in greased baking-dish. Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually add the one-quarter cup maple syrup, beating until stiff. Spread over the pudding. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, until delicately browned (about 15 minutes). Yield: six servings.

With rhubarb on the market again soon many Canadian housewives may be interested at trying their hand at a little rhubarb conserve.

Ingredients: 13 cups of rhubarb (four pounds); cut in one-half inch pieces; three cups raisins; seven cups sugar; juice of two oranges; rind of two oranges (thinly sliced); one-half to one cup walnuts.

Combine rhubarb, raisins, sugar, orange rind and juice. Let stand one-half hour. Bring to a boil and boil uncovered (40 minutes), stirring frequently. Add walnuts, coarsely chopped and boil to jam stage—about five minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Cool and seal. Yield: about 12 cups.

AUTO ROLLS OVER SEVERAL TIMES

Fort Erie, April 14 — (CP)—Heavy damage was caused when an automobile operated by Douglas R. Cozzens, 29, of (108 Graham St.) Woodstock, overturned on the Queen Elizabeth way here early Thursday after the driver momentarily lost control.

The machine rolled over several times and threw clear a passenger, Douglas Emerson, 21, of 54 Bald St., Welland.

Provincial police said both Cozzens and Emerson escaped with a severe shaking up.

Women's Activities

FOXBORO W.M.S.

A splendid service of the Foxboro Presbyterian Church W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. James Chappelle on Wednesday, Mrs. Bailey, the president, was in charge. Several Easter hymns were sung followed with the meditation, taken from the 28th chapter of St. Mark, also the scripture reading by Miss Nellie Bell.

Business followed. It was decided to assist Belleville Society in helping billet the delegates attending the synodical meeting in Belleville the end of this month. Miss Juby read a letter from Miss Nesbitt, congratulating the W.M.S. on raising the allocation. It has been raised slightly more for 1950. Mrs. B. Hamilton gave the treasurer's report for the Guild.

Mrs. Chappelle gave the 2nd. Chapter from the study book, Little Sharon Chappelle took up the offering which amounted to $11.70.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed by all.

WEST HUNTINGDON W.M.S.-W.A.

The April meeting of the W.M.S. and W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. M. C. Sarles. The president called the meeting to order by reading an "Invocation of the Easter Service, "He is Risen".

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. F. Sheffield. Mrs. Wright continued reading from the pamphlet "He is Risen".

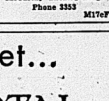
The meditation part of "He is Risen", was taken by Mrs. Wright and the prayer by Mrs. W. Fitchett.

Those taking part in the Easter worship program based on the theme "He is Risen", were Mrs. E. Foote as leader; Mrs. G. Cooke, Miss S. Wilson, Mrs. D. Cooke, Mrs. J. S. Wilson, Mrs. Fitchett, Mrs. T. Emmerson and Mr. Cooke.

The roll call was answered by 16 members and 2 visitors, each repeating a verse of Scripture.

Mrs. F. Wilson a guest, favored with a beautiful solo — "Love Divine", playing her own accompaniment on her guitar.

Mrs. F. Hammond gave an interesting report on the Presbyterial held at Napanee, recently.



During the business it was decided to start the meetings at two o'clock instead of two-thirty. The program convener for next meeting is Mrs. McCurdy.

Mrs. T. Emmerson voiced her appreciation to everyone who helped on the program. A special thank-you to Mrs. Wilson and to Mrs. Sarles for opening her home.

The hostess and her helpers served a dainty refreshments.

Easter offering for the day was $10.25 with more envelopes to come in.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about Food ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

The pickle packers association must have had a difficult time choosing a title for their new season. In calling her Miss Sweet Pickle of 1950, they selected a name, that has definite promotional value.

Undoubtedly they had to bypass such provocative names as Miss Chow Chow or Miss Sour Pickets of 1950.

Miss Sweet Pickle will reign for all her splendor during the National Pickle Week of May 18-27.

Unlike dill or sour pickles which can be used as ingredients in many hot and cold dishes, sweet pickles are best served straight, just as they come from the jar. They are usually an indispensable part of picnic baskets. New Englanders, however, long ago discovered that sweet pickles are a delicious accompaniment with sea food dishes.

In many Maine households, they wouldn't think of serving hot oyster soup or clam chowder without a jar of cold sweet pickles on the table. Have them on hand when you make a hot oyster pie with a biscuit topping.

Oyster Pie with Biscuit Topping
Serves 6.

Order 24 large or 32 medium size freshly opened oysters. Go over oysters carefully to remove any pieces of shell. Combine oyster liquor and enough milk to make 1 1-2 cups. Heat but do not boil liquid.

Cut 1 1-2 cups of celery into 1-2 inch dice and simmer in boiling water until tender. Drain. In a heavy saucepan melt 3 tablespoons fat or margarine. Remove from fire. Add 3 tablespoons flour, blending well. Add warm milk and oyster liquor, gradually, stirring well.

Return to a small flame. Simmer sauce 5 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons finely chopped scallions or chives and 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley.

Combine oysters, cooked celery and sauce in a baking dish or casserole. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Prepare a biscuit dough. Using 1 cup of flour or half the usual recipe. Or, use a prepared biscuit mix. Roll out dough to 1-2 inch thickness. Cut dough into squares. Place squares on oyster mixture. Bake in a very hot oven, 450 degrees, 12-15 minutes or until biscuits are brown.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beckman

The pleasant tipper vs the grudging one

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: :

Please answer the following question, which caused a very embarrassing situation and discussion during a trip we made recently. "A" insisted that it is not necessary to leave a tip for the room-maid, because (1) there are different ones in charge of cleaning the room on different days, and (2) that this room-cleaning service is included in the bill in a good hotel. "B" maintains that because of the courtesy and efficiency of these employees they should be "rewarded" by a guest's leaving a "Blanket Tip", which can be divided among them, the amount to be determined by the length of the guest's stay at the hotel. "A" met that suggestion by saying that if a "Blanket Tip" is left, the one who collected the tip probably would not bother to share it with the other concerned.

Reader

"B" is the pleasant person, the pleasant traveller with the kindly thoughts . . . and right about tipping the chambermaid in a hotel. If the chambermaid can be located (and she usually can be) she is given a tip of, say, twenty-five cents for a stay of one night in a small hotel. Or the tip may be left on the dresser . . . for her, or as a "Blanket Tip" to be divided with the relief chambermaid. If a quarter seems too much with the uncertainty that it may not reach the proper destination, leaving 15 cents shows a thoughtful inclination on the guest's part.

"A" is the kind of person, and so the kind of traveller, who can so readily find plenty of reasons, "excuses" really, for not tipping, or, for that matter, not making any generous gestures he isn't really forced to make. He wouldn't dare not tip the waiter who is always "on the job" . . . but "bravely" ducks out of his room while he is sure that the chamber maid is out of sight, and leaves no tip. He may feel that his glib and pompous excuses for not-tipping reveal him as a sophisticated traveller . . . perhaps that's worth a quarter to him. But I'll wager that B is the charming person with the attractive point of view that makes for popularity . . . nice to travel with, "nice to come home to".

Bride's mother in which car?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: :

My daughter is to be married next month. Please answer our question as to whether it is correct for me to drive to the church with her, or in another car.

M. J. B.

If it is a wedding of any formality, you, the bride's mother, drive in the first car. . . usually the bride's mother drives alone in the car, but she may, if she wishes and it serves convenience, take one or two of the bridesmaids in the car with her. In the car or cars directly following are the bridesmaids, and flower girls if any. The last car is the bride's car; the bride drives to the church with her father only, and this car, the last in the procession, stands where it arrives, during the ceremony.

Even in a most informal wedding, when, for instance, the bride is to have only one attendant, the bride's mother usually drives to the church in the first car, with the attendant; and in the car following, the bride and her father. However, with such informality, any transportation arrangement that is convenient, is permissible.

Baby shower for third child

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you think it would be proper to give a baby shower for a friend of ours who is expecting her third baby soon? The youngest of the two children she already has is six years old.

G. W. :

Yes . . . this would be proper. It's not only the first baby who may be given a shower. Any little newcomer may be given this welcoming-party. . . . and often this occasion has the grace of being more practical for the third-or-following than for the first arrival.

Corrective hand treatments

When your hands are rough and red, when your fingernail polish has gone slightly piebald and you haven't had an opportunity to brush on a new coat, you feel that all eyes are on them. Dreadful things can happen to hands when they are neglected. They can bear the calloused marks of golf victories. Nails can be blobby because of long hours of typing. The boss of the domestic works brings her hands in contact with strong cleaning agents, gets them reddened by doing the family laundry work, collects dark knuckle lines when duty forces her to go after dusty closet shelves or attend to the everlasting window-washing chore.

When your hands are rough and red, you feel that all eyes are upon them.

Give your hands their due. If it is necessary to keep your hands in water a part of the time, plenty of cream must be friction-ed into the flesh to compensate for the natural oil that has been removed, leaving the skin surface raw, sensitive and dry. Use your hand lotion lavishly; it is your good friend. But it does not contain a lubricant, and that is necessary for good appearance.

Special hand creams can be found at cosmetic counters, but you can use your complexion cream if it is of heavy consistency. The average cold cream won't work into the flesh as will tissue creams that offer resistance to massage.

Start the treatment at your wrist, covering the back of the hand with the cream, using an up-and-down stroke of the fingers. Rotate the thumb from the wrist upward, from the base of the fingers to the tips. Work diligently on the knuckles that are often made prominent by heavy work in the home. While the inner surfaces of the fingers are less likely to chap than the outer ones, they also need attention. Don't overlook the sides of the fingers.

When both hands have been creamed and massaged, wring them together, rubbing the back of one hand with the fingers of the other. This wringing movement should be firm, the purpose being to bring warmth to the flesh. Include the wrists. This is a good time to take a peek at your elbows. Elbows are never anything to write home about. The flesh is inclined to be coarse; often it is grey in color.

Cup the elbow in the hand and get the thumb into action, pressing into the flesh. . . While the cream remains on, give your elbows a boric-talcum friction.

A lighter cream should be used on the cuticle surrounding the nails; there are special creams compounded for this purpose. Rub it into the nail fabric as well, since friction will bring good coloring; keep the nails from becoming brittle. This is the time to use the orangewood stick to detach the cuticle.

Graceful Coat Dress

By ALICE ALDEN

THE SLIM, but easy-to-don, and to wear coat-dress is firmly entrenched by this time as a fine fashion favorite. Charles Lang uses soft-as-cashmere sheer wool for a coat-dress that closes with shiny buttons, and garnishes it with a buttoned-in collar and cuffs of cut-out embroidered pique. Deep-pleats are a detail of the graceful skirt. This model is a bright prop for the exciting spring scene.

Fashion Flashes

SPRING SUNSHINE beams down on charming flower-trimmed straw hats. Dark green pallaison is used for a softly ripples bonnet trimmed with foliage and pink clover, with a misty green veil.

FINE DETAIL and tailoring marks many of the new full-length coats. Navy gabardine makes a handsome coat that buttons to below its fitted waist, where gathers are released from curved pockets. Shoulders are softly rounded; the sleeves are flare-cuffed to match the collar.

A WIDE VARIETY of suit fashions offers the right suit for every type and taste. Youthful and charming is a suit of navy blue serge with a boxy jacket reaching to just below the waist. A wide, cape-like collar covers the shoulders. Skirt is reed-slim.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Can't get on with her divorced mother

Children of divorce are the biggest tragedies of this age.

It is bad enough when they are of an age to understand a little, at least, the adjustment is less harrowing, and when the parent with whom they remain is mature enough to handle the situation is wisely as possible.

Where the mother or father makes a child the victim of her or his bitterness and disillusionment, however, it almost certainly puts the child under a psychological handicap for the rest of his life.

Take, for example, the case of the teen-ager whose life is a welter of confusion and bewilderment because the divorced mother with whom she lives takes out on her all her own frustrations.

"My mother is constantly arguing with me over little things that are sometimes very silly," the youngster writes. "I know it is wrong to argue with my mother but she continually finds something to complain about.

"I am going steady with a fine fellow who is in service. Before I went with him, it was my father we used to argue about. Now it is my boy friend.

"In the beginning, she picked on little things, like our playing the radio, or sitting on the side of the couch where she couldn't see us from the kitchen. Now she has even gone so far as to accuse us of wrong-doing. Believe me, we have done nothing wrong. All we want is to have peace with my mother.

"My mother is now going with a fine man and is very happy when with him. But when we are alone together, it is different.

"I intend to marry this fellow when I am of age. But my mother is constantly picking on us and spoiling our happiness. What shall I do? I love my mother, but I love my boy friend too."

The girl should signs herself "Mixed Up", as well she may.

What this girl needs more than anything else is the release from tension that can only come from pouring out her confusion and heartache in a personal talk with some wise and understanding person who could guide her in dealing with this situation.

It is an extremely difficult thing, naturally, for a son or daughter to put a parent before anyone in an unfavorable light. No loving and loyal child wants to do that, and no cowed and domiciated child would have the courage to do it.

I do not believe, however, that this young girl is dominated by her mother to that extent, and I do believe that she would have the intelligence to realize that it would help in straightening out an unhappy relationship.

So I would like her to know that if she cares to write me again, and this time give me her name and address—or if she does not wish the letter to come to her home, at least an address at which a letter can reach her—I will tell her where she can go to find someone with whom she can talk freely, and who will do her best to help solve the problem.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

The Alliance of Religion, Morality

By ROY L. SMITH

The Russians are furnishing no little amusement for the rest of the world today claiming priority in the history of a long list of modern inventions. With bland disdain for all accepted historical canon they are "discovering" that Russian inventors, hitherto unknown and unhesarded were first to produce almost every modern scientific device.

There is one historic development, however, for which they have made no claim of priority thus far. They have not attempted to claim credit for having killed morality and religion. The honor for having performed this tremendous feat rests safely with the Jews.

Ancient Religion Was Unmoral

It is difficult for the modern man, accustomed as he is to associate good moral and good religion together, to think of a time when religion had no interest in morals.

Among the ancients the gods had no moral demands upon their subjects. The gods were pleased or displeased when the sacrifices were offered correctly or incorrectly, and in sufficient abundance. The question of morals or ethics did not enter into the calculation.

It is true, of course that the ancients had standards of right and wrong. But those codes did not seek, nor did they enjoy, the sanction of religion.

The Exalted Hebrew

The leadership of Moses in organizing the Hebrew people into a compact state marked the beginning of humanity's greatest effort to undergo good morals with the sanction of good religion.

The original Ten Commandments given by Moses to the children of Israel was one of the first efforts ever made to decreed the moral and ethical principles as having the endorsement of, God. This set Hebrews apart from all the races of antiquity and made of them a peculiar people.

Prophets of Justice

Among all the ancients there was no race that produced any such class as the Hebrew prophets. The thing that made them especially unique was the fact that they demanded justice in the name of religion. Micah, Amos declared that no man could hope for the endorsement of God if his activities produced or encouraged injustices.

The Sunday School Lesson for April 16: "Amos Speaks for God," Amos

Among the priests of the contemporaneous religions it was quite satisfactory if murderers, exploiters, extortioners, and the brutal appeared at the altars as well as the pious, providing they brought with them liberal offerings for the gods. Sin, they said did not consist of wrong things done but incorrect ceremonies performed.

In vivid contrast to all this the Hebrew prophets, led by Amos demanded that in the end they sought the favor of God should stand the test of justice, mercy, and goodwill.

A Cry for Justice

In all the literature of mankind, life ceremonies of the ancient Hebrew prophet stand out unique and unparalleled.

The heroic indignation by the sight of injustices and barbarities practiced by the rich and the powerful, pronounced doom upon the nation because of its defiance of moral law and social responsibility.

There are those in our day who declare that the preacher has no business mixing religion and economics, but if the Hebrew prophets had kept out of economics they would never have gotten into the Old Testament.

From the days of Moses, seven and a half centuries before Christ until our own day, religion and morality have been bound up in an indissoluble alliance. To attempt to separate them would be to emasculate religion and destroy morality.

The Book of Amos in the Old Testament is the world's first great piercing cry for justice, and it was uttered in the name of God, and under the auspice of religion.

Amos was a layman!

Whiteman Family Honors Member On Birthday

Melrose— Mr. and Mrs. Earle Whiteman entertained more than 50 members of their immediate family on Thursday evening last. The occasion being the 50th birthday of Mr. Murray Whiteman.

There were 12 children in this family and they have made it a custom to reunite and celebrate together when each one reaches the half century mark. The one most distant, to be present at this happy event, was Frank, of Fenelon Falls.

After a sumptuous repast, the evening was spent in reminiscing and a social time. A motto attempt to separate was made to emasculate religion and destroy morality.

On behalf of the family, Murney was presented with a watch and chain.

The two youngest of this highly respected family, Mr. Clarence Whiteman, of Belleville, and Mrs. Roy Sills, of Holloway, have yet to look forward to a similar gathering held in their honor.

Many happy returns of the day were extended to Murney.

Cancer Society Reports New Plan Of Giving X-rays

New York, April 14 — (AP)— The American Cancer Society Thursday reported a new method of giving X-rays which works much the same as barbecuing a roast.

The patient sits on a turntable, which slowly revolves, while a beam of x-rays plays on him. The difference between this x-ray treatment and barbecuing is that the ray strikes only in a narrow zone around the body.

This new method is used to treat cancer deep within the body. The x-ray is focussed so that its principal strength hits at about the site of the cancer.

Such rays, however, burn all the tissues through which they pass before reaching the deep cancer. Frequently the amount of x-rays which can be given the patient is limited by the amount of burning of the healthy tissue.

The burning of healthy tissue sometimes interferes so much that a patient's life cannot be saved.

Crosby on Way To British Golfing Wars

New York, April 14 — (AP)— The most amateur of American athletes, Bing Crosby, Bing Crosby, left today for the British golfing wars.

As amateur, says the dictionary is one who practices an art (or sport) for love of it.

He is now competing in the British Amateur Golf tournament at St. Andrews, May 25-27.

"I've played in the American amateur," said Bing by way of explanation.

"How far did you get?" he was asked.

"Got beat in the first round."

"How far do you expect to go in the British amateur?"

"Sam, this thing—but I want to watch the tournament."

That is not being fair to Bing. Actually he's a much better-than-average golfer in between being a movie star and a crooner.

I'm just a three handicap fan," he said. "Anyone can play in the British Amateur with a three handicap or better. It's a great tourney."

That means, he said, that he shoots three over par, by and large. Say 75 on a par-72 course.

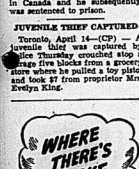
To tell the truth he had a couple of 80s last year.

"That's on business men's courses," he said. "St. Andrews is a back-breaker—the real shrine of golf."

Bing heads for Europe at something of a disadvantage. He was operated on three weeks ago for appendicitis.

"Haven't had a club in my hands since then," he said. "But the doctor says I can start swinging now."

He plans to go first to southern France, then perhaps to Rome. And would like to do Belgium and Holland before heading for Britain and the big tournament.



MRS. ROSE A CANDIDATE

Montreal, April 14 — (CP) — The Montreal Gazette in a newspage story today says that Mrs. Fred Rose, wife of a former member of parliament convicted on espionage charges, will be Labor-Progressive party candidate in the forthcoming Montreal-Cartier Federal by-election.

Rose, only member of the Labor-Progressive party ever to be elected to parliament, now is serving a six-year penitentiary term. He was elected to represent Cartier in a by-election Aug. 10, 1942. Rose was one of 20 persons named in 1947 by a Royal Commission investigating espionage in Canada and he subsequently was sentenced to prison.

Ottawa Nepean Defeats Albert By 33-13 Score

Kingston, Ont., April 14 —Albert College ran into a cropper in their quest for another "g" title in the Canadian Invitation interscholastic basketball tournament on Thursday morning when Ottawa Nepean ran off with a 33-13 victory. Albert now drops to the consolation series with Nepanee as their next opponents.

The college kept pace with the Ottawa team in the opening quarter when they each managed to post three foul shots. But then they found themselves unable to cope with the hook shooting of Lanky Norm Roberts. One of the giants of the tournament, Roberts dunked in five field goals and four foul tosses to help put his team out in front at the half by a 20-7 count.

Tight Defensive

The Ottawa crew, showing a tight defensive and fast breaking offensive only allowed the Albert team to show in flashes. Bruce Gillespie dropped in two beautifully-executed field goals near the end of the third quarter but the rest of the team never did get untracked from the close-checking defence.

Slatter showed well for Belleville in the opening half as he sank a field goal and two foul tosses while Fitzsimmons and Buchanan, well up in spots, Roberts, the individual star of the game with 14 points, Arnold and Button were the pick of the winners.

Ottawa Nepean — Easton, Halpenny, Arnold (4), Button (4), Dawson (2), Roberts (7), Armstrong (2), Fulford (2), Shea, Nelson (1).

Albert College — Mills, Slater (4), Thomas, Harris, Fitzsimmons (1), D. Palmer, R. Palmer, Gillespie (6), Buchanan (2), Ulding.

Albert College Defeats Napanee

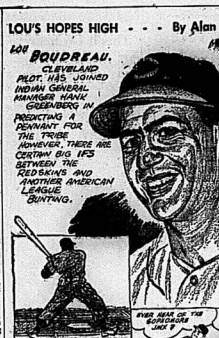
Kingston, Ont., April 14 — A successful foul shot by Keith Buchanan in the last thirty seconds of play gave Albert College a 28-24 win over Napanee in the opening play-off game for Albert's "B" section games of the Queen's Interscholastic tournament held at the Queen's gym. Albert now meets the Nepean-Brockville loser for the right to enter the consolation semi-finals tomorrow morning.

Previous to that game winning throw Napanee team had come from behind to tie the count. In their eagerness to go out front, Fitzsimmons was fouled but his effort rimmed the hoop. Napanee again grabbed the ball and Buchanan was awarded a free toss on an overguarding penalty and he made good on that second gift throw.

Even at that the college team was lucky to eliminate their rivals in the consolation series as a Napanee player gained control of the ball in the last ten seconds but overshot the basket in a lay-up shot which could have driven the Albert College team into discard.

The college led 17-14 at the half and might have been further in front but for Madden's four tosses.

Napanee: Hogarth, Tate 5, D. Elliott, A. Elliott 3, Madden 10, Healy 2, O'Donoghue, Creighton, McWilliams, Sharpe.



Albert College (28): Mills, Slater 5, Thomas 3, Harris, Fitzsimmons 5, D. Palmer 6, Gillespie, Buchanan 3, R. Palmer 1, Ulting 1.

ONTARIO BOYS ON CARD

Toronto, April 14—(CP)—Leo Primeau, coach of Toronto Marlboro Senior Hockey team, thinks the Allan Cup playoff system needs overhauling. He'd like to weed out the weaker clubs he claims are masquerading as championship contenders.

Primeau's remarks followed the shellacking Marlboros handed Cornwall Athletic Shamrocks in Eastern Canada semi-final series.

But Jack (Gordon Free Press) Park looks at the situation differently.

"In our book, the Marlboros, Sherbrooke Saints and others which Primeau considers senior clubs aren't that at all."

Park contends they are all professional teams—"and unless we are all wet, the Allan Cup is for amateur competition."

Examine the pay cheques of the Marlboro stars, advises Jack, and draw your own conclusions.

Another angle examined by Park catches the eye:

"A team came out of the Ottawa-city league 12 years ago won the Ottawa and district title and then went all the way to the Allan Cup final." The team was Cornwall. Is it fair?

When a team plays its "home" playoff games away from its own rink, should regular subscribers be entitled to seats or should management hold an open sale?

The question arose when New York Rangers advanced to the Stanley Cup finals against Detroit Red Wings and were forced to play their home games at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens because their own ice was not available.

A team that switches home ice for a Stanley Cup playoff must guarantee the opposing club as big a gate as would be taken in if the game was on the other side's home ice," says Ted (Toronto Telegram) Reeve.

Reeve explains that the Rangers, not wishing to play all the games and at the Detroit Olympia, decided to take two games at Toronto on the "gamble that there might still be enough enthusiasm to fill Maple Leaf Gardens."

SUMMONED BY KING

Brussels, April 14—(Reuters)—Belgium's Roman Catholic premier designate, pro-royalist Paul Van Zeeland, left Brussels by air for Geneva, Switzerland, Thursday morning at the urgent summons of exiled King Leopold.

Van Zeeland had been attempting to solve the four-week constitutional deadlock over forming a cabinet, key to a settlement of the "royal question" which has split the country—whether the exiled king should return to the throne.

The Socialists, second largest party in the Belgian parliament, bitterly oppose Leopold's return.

Sports Shorts From Britain

By MICHAEL O'MARA

London — (CP) — If greyhound racing ever becomes a big time sport in Canada, here's how to pick a winner.

Wait for the paddock parade. Rule out any dog that isn't pulling steadily on his leash. Then base final judgment on these seven points:

1. Eyes should be big and bright. Deep-set pig eyes bedoken the poor trier and loafer.

2. Shoulder blades should slope backwards and inwards. These limit the strike-length. If they are upright the animal can't stretch his front legs out in a full gallop.

3. Paws should be round and compact like cat's. Long feet are prone to injury during the race.

4. The chest should be deep—not wide—should be deep but not wide. A deep chest means big heart and lungs. But a wide chest throws th eforelegs apart and causes the dog to "roll" in running.

5. The back should be long, although not out of proportion with the rest of the body. To get its hindlegs ahead of its forelegs that's how a greyhound gallops—the back must be best like a spring. And the longer the back the greater the "kick" each time the spring is uncoiled.

6. The hindquarters should be wide across, and a fast dog is "well-breeched" behind the thighs. Most of the galloping power is generated in the hind leg muscles.

7. Hind legs should slope backwards with the point of the hock well rear of the body. Upright hocks are short—but the longer the legs the greater leverage in the gallop.

These points are made by veteran greyhound breeder and critic Herbert E. Clarke, in his recent book "The Modern Greyhound" (Hutchinson).

Another tip: always bring the little woman along to help you pick them. Says Clarke: "I have come to the conclusion that the feminine eye is more susceptible — to line, conformation and symmetry."

R. V. W. Robins, long a country stalwart, has come out of retirement again for one season only to accept captaincy of the Middlesex from 1938 to 1938 and again in 1946-47. He is 44.

The appointment disappointed some fans, though and hoped the county committee would finally break with tradition and make a professional the captain. The player they wanted was glamorboy Denis Compton, star of the bleachers at Lord's famous cricket ground.

None doubts Robin's ability or devotion to the game — but many feel there is a younger man for the job. But tradition dies hard at Lord's.

FRANKFORD

Hockey League Holds Banquet

Frankford —The annual banquet of the Frankford District Hockey League was held in the Queensway Hotel Wednesday evening. All sang "O Canada" before partaking of the bounteous fowl supper.

At the close of the banquet, president Oscar Farrar introduced the special guests for the evening. He called on Mr. Ross Rose Robson, M.P. Mr. Robson, who has two boys playing on the Bethel-Dion club, brought a fine address to those present, adding his congratulations to the champion Glen Ross Club. Mr. Robson stated that a new trophy would be presented for the District Hockey League another year.

Jack Devine was then called on for a few words. Jack gave an outline of what was required for Sports Broadcasting and the way in which leagues and teams could co-operate in making sporting broadcasts accurate and up to date. In turn, the managers of the various teams were called upon for a short talk, Bert Carter and Hoit Mashil then took charge and led in a sing song. At the request of those present, Doug Sprott, Ronald Mills and Ken Martin was then called on, and in his rich baritone voice led in a number of songs.

All present reported a good time, a fitting close to a good season of hockey and sportsmanship.

15 REPORTED KILLED

New Delhi, India, April 13 — (Reuters) — Fifteen persons today were reported killed and 15 seriously injured in a stampede as huge crowds of Hindu pilgrims made their way to the Sacred River Ganges for a purifying bath at Hardwar, 130 miles northeast of Delhi.

Nearly 1,000,000 pilgrims took a dip in the river today of the occasion of "Kumbh Mela" — holy bathing fair held at Hardwar once in 12 years.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Two of the biggest hunks o' men ever seen in the city parked their Hereford like a matchbox in a Front Street restaurant yesterday afternoon. The two Gollaths shovelled down a pair of steaks that would make a cowbelles' day at coffee club, topped them off with pie and other groceries and emitted sighs of satisfaction that nearly blew the front doors across the street.

One of them accomplished an entire seat by himself. A cigarette paper squeezed between his right thigh and the side of the vehicle would have died of suffocation. As a matter of fact the joint itself had a slight list to starboard when the big boys moored at the eating dock and settled down to take on cargo.

A couple of local moppets who viewed for the first time the better part of the milking end of a cow disappearing down capacious gullets, looked on amazed. Then boyish curiosity got the better of one of them. Gingerly he approached the human battlewagons and proffered a question: "Mister, how much do you weigh?"

The larger of the two Brobdingnagians looked down at the local Lilliput, and said, oh so very gently "Yes, sonny, the local Lilliput, and said, oh so very gently "Yes, sonny, what can I do for you?" The little fella stuttered a bit and mumbled something. The big fella shifted his weight while the dishes in the beanery rattled, and reached in a pocket of his leather jacket. He came up with garage. He that would hold a Model T Ford, extracted a wallet and presented it with a photograph of himself and handed it to the bashful bub.

The youngster looked at it. Then he looked at his newfound friend. A look of amazement spread over his features.

"Holly Gee", he screeched and sped for the front door. He did well to open it, reached Front Street and did a Man o' War down the main thoroughfare.

He breasted the tape in the first block in the intersection, continued his breakneck pace to the City Hall, ran into a stiff timed at a breakneck pace to the City Hall, ran into a stiff timed at a breakneck pace to the City Hall, ran into a stiff timed at a

Commercial Softball League Will Go With Six Teams

Six teams will form the 1950 edition of the Commercial Softball League, a marked decrease from the unwieldy roster of 1949, it was decided at a meeting of the executive and team representatives in Kiwanis Centre last night.

Comprising the league this year are Howe and Hagerman, McFarlane Woodenware, Stewart-Warner, Brewers Warehouse, Point Anne and Stephens-Adamson.

Newcomers to the league are Point Anne, Stephens-Adamson and Brewers Warehouse. Missing this year are last year's champions Northern Electric, the runners-up Houston Knotholers, Corby's, three of the outstanding squads of 1949, and one others.

However it was the general consensus that the six team league will result in a better calibre of the popular summer sport. Player strength will be more concentrated instead of being spread over a large bulky entry.

Open Near May 24th

The opening game of the season will be played near or on May 24th at Stewart-Warner Alemite field. The schedule will be drawn up in the immediate future, and is in favor with the low entry list the teams will play single games instead of the usual double-headers. However, this is not definite as yet.

The executive insisted that all teams must be dressed in proper uniforms at all games. Umpires In-Chief Harold Bowden will see to it that his officiating staff will also be appropriately attired. The league is expected to be the "best-dressed" in the city.

Harry Rollins, a director of the league, in a brief address stated that the executive of the City Parks Board will do all they can to assist the league in its operation. He said that the bleachers at the Alemite Field will be improved shortly with other necessary changes.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, April 14 — (AP)— Events leading up to the major league baseball season indicate this will be the year when the bonus babies had better come through — or else . . . at least two of them figure to be pitching regulars on contending teams, Chuck Stobbs of the Red Sox and Curt Simmons of the Phillies ... Stobbs was just a high-priced bench warmer at Boston until Joe McCarthy had to use him last season. He came through with 11 victories and could be just the guy the Sox need to complete a winning staff's ... Meanwhile the Yankees, who haven't looked too solid this spring, are loaded with Paul Minoka, Hugh Radcliffe and Jackie Jensen, who can't be sent out ... Simmons had a 4-10 record last year, but he looks ready to go in the big league now ... Admittedly the bonus rule delayed their development, but that cannot be said forever ... If they, and others, don't produce soon, the other clubs may give up just as emphatically as Connie Mack decided against young Earle Brucker.

Dots All, Brothers

The Phillies are to have an "official" song this year, written by baseballer Elliot Lawrence and Bix Reichner and entitled, with refreshing originality, "The Fightin' Phils." ... That title should go to the 1949 Braves.

ALGOS GET BIG LEAD

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 14 (CP)— Sault Ste. Marie Algos will carry a 44-point lead into tonight's second game of the Canadian Intermediate 'A' basketball championship series.

Thursday night, the fast-working Algos drubbed Wrodstock, N.B., Athletics 80-36 in the first game of the two-game, total-point series and unless the Senators find a successful antidote to the powerful Algo attack, the series is already over.

The Senators were almost powerless to stop the fast and tricky ball handling of the swift moving winners deadly from both the field and the foul line.

Gananoque Gans Trounced 9-2 By Port Colborne

Port Colborne, April 14 (CP)— Port Colborne Merchants made sure of a spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate 'A' finals Thursday night when they trounced Gananoque Gans 9-2.

It was the Ports third consecutive victory in their round robin championship series with Gans and Tillsonburg. To date, they have defeated Tillsonburg once and Gananoque twice, thus leaving it to the latter two to play off for the other finalist spot.

The Port Merchants took a 6-2 lead in the first period. They led 4-2 when three major penalties and a minor saw both teams playing two men short and the Ports stretched their lead by another pair shortly after.

They were also much for the plugging Gans to handle in the next two periods, scoring once more in the middle session and twice in the last period.

Ports' playing-coach Kilpatrick had two Port goals and four assists while Bruce Bennett collected four goals and one assist. "Tate" Sergeese tallied a pair.

Gans' high tricky Tommy Tisdall accounted for one Gan goal and an assist and together with Bill Hastie and Neil McCarney, presented Gananoque's most impressive efforts.

Turk Broda May Bring Softball Team to City

There is a strong possibility that "Turk" Broda, of the Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey Club and his team of National Hockey League All-Star softball players will perform in Belleville this summer as did the Community Swimming Pool, President Don Lee, of the Commercial Softball League announced here last night.

The National League stars will probably be here sometime in June, and play an all-star Belleville team under the lights in Exhibition Park, the president stated. Arrangements are now under way to have the team appear here.

The game will be sponsored by the Belleville Kinsmen Club and the proceeds given to the Swimming Pool Fund. Kinsmen Harry Rollins, speaking on the matter, said at the Commercial Softball League meeting last night, that the service club was 100 per cent behind the venture and would do all it could to make it a success.

Commercial League teams and officials will also lend their shoulders to the project, and there is little doubt that the game will attract a large gathering of fans. The appearance of the National Hockey League All-Stars will be their first appearance in this part of the province.

Regina Pats Score Overtime Victory Over Port Arthur

(By The Canadian Press)

The scrappy Regina Pats at Port Arthur stormed to an 8-5 overtime victory Thursday night to take a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven series with Port Arthur Bruins for the Western Canada Junior Hockey title.

Pats, two goals down on two occasions, poured three goals past Paul Morin in Port Arthur net during the 10-minute overtime period.

Second game of the series will be played at Port Arthur Saturday night.

National Hockey League Scouts may be on their way to the sepoy village of Lucknow any day now. Another Chinaman has hit the limelight.

Ten year old Jackie, brother of the Chinese trio that were the talk of Ontario hockey circles a few years back, came up with his fourth hat trick in four games Wednesday night as he led Jackson Pee-Wees to the WOAA championship at Goderich. His three goals a game shone out over all games of the tournament.

Lloyd Rousell, spokesman for a group trying to form a new independent hockey association in Ontario, said Thursday night at Kitchener a meeting for all club representatives will be held Sunday, April 23, and not this Sunday as had been previously announced.

A star among 200 boys in the Pee Wee hockey championship tournament at Goderich was a girl.

Audrey McCabe, 12-year-old goalie for Salford Spitfires, allowed only one goal in her team's two games.

Audrey, who has played hockey for six years, won the acclaim of the crowd with her spectacular net-minding. Salford defeated Goderich, 2-1, then played Goderich to a scoreless tie. However, Goderich continued in the 12-team tournament because some Belleville players were over the 12-year age limit.

SHERBROOKE SAINTS ARRIVE

Toronto, April 14 (CP)—Sherbrooke Saints arrived Thursday night fully confident of squaring up their best-of-seven Eastern Canada senior finals against Toronto Marlboros at one game each. The classy Quebec Senior hockeyists absorbed a 7-4 trimming in the first game at home Tuesday night.

Coach Ivan Dugre said the team's form was much improved over the opening game.

ROVERS CLIP FLYERS

Spokane, Wash., April 14 (AP) — New York Rovers clipped Spokane Flyers again Thursday night 3-1 and moved within one game of winning the semi-finals in the United States Senior Amateur Hockey playoffs.

New York now leads in the best-of-seven series, three games to one. The fifth game is scheduled here Saturday.

The Rovers scored 45 seconds after the opening whistle Val Delory taking a pass from Ray Manson. New York's Don Maglio slammed home the clincher unassisted after 6:17 of the second period.

Saints will make one change for tonight's game. Ossie Carnegie, Toronto-born Negro, is slated to be in the visitors' line-up after missing the first game because of a groin injury.

- Stainless steel nozzle controls and thoroughly atomises oil.
- Fan-scroll with draught tube is of one-piece cast iron, eliminating many parts in assembling and service.
- Dynamically and statically balanced "Multivane" Fan ensures a smooth, steady supply of air and absolutely quiet operation.
- Air volume is adjustable over the various sizes of nozzles by means of shutters located on the mounting of the fuel unit.
- Stabilizer and air-cone thoroughly mixes the air and atomizes the oil. This results in a clean, quiet flame.
- Electrodes are of high grade steel for long life.

AT THE BELLE—General hilarity is the order of the day with Danny Kaye in the title role of Warner Bros.' laugh-filled Technicolor comedy, "The Inspector General". Barbara Bates provides the color comedy. The Inspector General Cartoon "Frigid Hare", beauty and romance. Bugs Bunny in colorful Cartoon "Frigid Hare", is an added attraction on the program closing tonight at the Belle.

REMOVES SAFETY VALVE

Montreal, April 14—(CP)—For a few men, alcohol acts as a shield against brutality and the "antiabuse" treatment for alcoholism might remove their last "safety valve," Dr. J. H. Latendresse of Verdun Protestant Hospital said here Thursday night. "Antabuse," developed in Denmark, is a drug which creates nausea in a patient who has taken alcohol into his system. There has been considerable controversy as to its effectiveness and the possible dangers it creates to the health of a patient.

HAND TAKEN OFF

Malone, N. Y., April 14 (AP)—Two - year - old Michael Moutz toddled into his father's meat market Thursday and watched him grind up hamburger. Butcher Robert Moutz turned his back for a moment and Michael climbed on a chair. He jabbed his hand into the top of the meat grinder. Physicians at hospital amputated the child's right hand above the wrist.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The fork – throwin – reverse squeeze has you looking in all four directions at once. An opponent is thrown in for an endplay to your tenace for a squeeze on his partner. Getting dizzy?

South was the declarer at six no-trump and took the first five tricks. He lost the sixth trick to east with a diamond finesse. The remaining seven cards in each hand are shown here:

NORTH
♠ K 4
♥ J 6
♦ A 9
♣ 5

WEST
♠ Q 9
♥ 10 8 3
♦ None
♣ 10 9

EAST
♠ None
♥ Q 7 5 4
♦ Q 5 4
♣ None

SOUTH
♠ J
♥ A K 9
♣ K 8

East is now in the lead. What will he return? Will it be his heart queen? Or one of his small hearts? Will it be diamond queen? Or one of his small diamonds? Try each in turn.

Suppose he sends forth heart queen, South king wins. North takes a trick with heart jack. North cashes diamond ace. South enters with a club to king and then leads the final top heart from there.

Instead should east lead heart small? North wins with jack of hearts, South takes two more hearts on which north stuffs a diamond. North diamond ace wins and south club king takes a trick.

Five tricks after either heart lead from east leaves west only two cards, if they are a club and a spade, north gets two spades. If two spades are in west, south gets a club and north spade king.

The only alternative would be for east to return a diamond. It will not matter. The result, however. Either diamond from east will give north two diamond tricks that declarer takes advantage of.

On the second diamond, south stuffs the jack of spades. On these two diamonds, west must stuff. He dare not shed a club or spade. His stuff of two hearts permits east to be finessed in hearts.

This kind of playing sounds like story book stuff. Or as if it had a rehearsal. But it was done in a regular bridge game that was dealt at random when the opponent cards were not seen.

There are people like that in the world.

MISSIONARY SHOT

London, April 14 — (AP) — The China Inland Mission said it was advised Thursday that one of its missionaries was shot to death last Saturday by a Chinese in communist-held Kunming. The victim was Frank Parry, 60, a British who was financial secretary to the Mission for Yunnan province.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma sent me to the market for different things, and when I came home I was watching her sewing on her sewing machine, and I said, Hay ma, did you ever hear you can catch herds by putting salt on their tales?

Yes, and I've also heard the moon is made of green cheese, ma said, and I said, Well anyways, ma, it's not true, I mean about herds and salt.

If you had told me that about 20 years ago, the information mite of contained some element of serprize, ma said.

Meening it was old news, and I said, Well how did you find out, ma, did you prove it for yourself?

Certainly not, ma said. When people speak of putting salt on birds's tale, they simply mean hat if you could get close enough to put salt on its tale, you'd be close enough to catch it with your unaided hands, she said, and I said, That mite be true for sparrows, ma, but not for pidgins. I'll tell you how I know, ma, because I just tried it myself with actual salt. There was a whole gang of mixed sparrows and pidgins picking up grumbs in the street, and the sparrows were so quick the salt didn't go anywhere near them, but the pidgins were like a lot of old women and I deliberily saw salt go on some of their tales, but they flew away anyways, I

Are you standing there and telling me you threw away good table salt from the box you brawt home from the market, and for catch an idiotic perpose ma said, and I said, Aw G, ma. I didn't run after it. You'll see when you go down, I said.

I'll see pile away, ma said. Get

Rapid Transit Subway Project Ahead of Schedule

Toronto, April 14 (CP)—Still two months ahead of schedule, Toronto's $30,000,000 rapid transit subway project is beginning to look like a subway instead of an ugly hole in the city's main street.

The subway is expected to be completed by November, 1953, from Union Station north under Yonge Street to Eglington Ave. This would take it from near the Harbor Front to North Toronto.

You can't see the progress from the streets, but a trip underground on Thursday showed two 100-foot stretches of concrete flooring already in place, 40 feet below the street surface, and others will be poured next week.

The method is to open up various sections, of Yonge Street, Toronto's main thoroughfare, for excavation, from which the subway is tunnelled and paved north and south while the excavation is covered with heavy planking over which street car and motor traffic continues normally.

TO MAKE DRAW

Toronto, April 14 — (CP) — Capt. Chick Evans has been piloting American Airlines flagships in and out of Malton airport since 1941 but Saturday will be his first time in downtown Toronto. He'll accompany Stewardess Charlotte Kenney who will make a draw for a pair of Toronto-Washington American Airlines tickets at the Toronto Men's Press Club's Byline Ball.

PLANE SHOT DOWN

Taipei, Formosa, April 14 — (AP)—The Chinese Nationalists said Thur. a Russian-made fighter plane has been shot down along the China coast and its pilot captured. His nationality was not disclosed.

A dispatch from Chushan Island said the plane was shot down south of Shanghai Monday while strafing Nationalist Guerrilla troops operating against the Chinese communists on the mainland.

QUESTION IDENTIFICATION

Toronto, April 14—(CP)—Ross Burnett, 19, of Belleville, went on trial Thursday before an assize court jury on a charge of attempted rape. He pleaded not guilty and defence counsel questioned the Complainant's identification of Burnett. The alleged victim, a suburban East Yorkville, girl, said she was attacked and choked by a man who forced his way into her home.

REVIVE INDIAN PAPER

Tahlequah, Okla., April 14 — (AP) — The Cherokee Advocate, first newspaper in Oklahoma and for years the journalistic voice of the Cherokee nation — will be revived April 23 after 44 years of silence. The new seven-column eight - page weekly will be edited by Watie Peith, descendant of two Cherokee chiefs. It will be known as the New Cherokee Advocate.

PLENTY OF SQUABBLING

Detroit, April 14 — (AP) — Squabbling and name-calling disrupted negotiations Thursday in the 79-day Chrysler walkout.

Each side blamed the other for prolonging the strike that erupted Jan. 23 on disagreement over financing of $100 monthly pensions and union demands for benefits totalling at least 25 cents an hour a worker.

President Walter Reuther of the United Automobile Workers Union (C.I.O.) however, declared that "about half" the issues between his Union and the company have been settled.

IZ WOULD GET YOUR GOAT, TOO!

Embracing his four new pets, Vernon Mueller, three, gets acquainted with the affectionate quadruplets born to "Margie," right, in Temple City, Calif. Quads are rare enough, but multiple birth is an old story to "Margie," who has had three litters of triplets. — Central Press Canadian.

ROSSMORE

EUCHRE PARTY

Rossmore—The weekly euchre was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Empey, on Wednesday evening. A good crowd was in attendance despite the fact that many are ill and confined to their homes.

Mrs. W. Ross won the lone hand prize on a draw against Mr. L. Pollitt. The high prizes going to Mr. C. Seddick and Mrs. J. Empey. The low prizes were won by Mrs. Elsie Cowan and Mr. C. Moy.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alyea, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Anderson spent the Easter weekend in Toronto.

Mrs. L. Pollett, Mr. G. Denike and baby spent Monday in Kingston, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pollitt, of that city.

A baby girl has come to brighten the lives of Mr. and Mrs. W. Westfall (nee Joan Empey). Congratulations to the proud parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Bunnett have moved from the community to reside in Belleville.

Rossmore Young People's invite all to come to the church on Monday evening to enjoy movie films. Everyone welcome

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

Tim Donovan had left for town and Greg Laswell and Diane were sitting in the lounge taking a short rest before going fishing. Mort Taylor, Jean Radcliffe and Jake and Claire Carson had come in a few moments after Tim left and were now at their seats in the dining room. Mr. and Mrs. Enright had come down from their cottage, which was the first one on the hill, next to Taylor's, in fact between it and the lodge.

Greg and Diane watched the old couple as they came across the lawn. They both looked deeply annoyed and were talking at a great rate in low tones.

They crossed the lounge, merely nodding to the couple seated before the fire, and went into the dining room. From where Greg and Diane sat they couldn't see Grace Taylor, but just she had sat down at her table just before they left the dining room and they knew she was still there. Mrs. Enright and her husband passed on to the right and the doorway in the direction of Grace's table. Diane own went off to the left, against the wall near that of the Taylor crowd.

"Great," they heard Mrs. Enright say, "this place is getting to be like a Harlem night club. Moiie, my heavenly John and I couldn't get to sleep last night until all hours, I think it's a scandal. This is no place for people that carry on like that."

"What did you hear any noise, Bessie," Grace Thurman replied. "Where was it?"

"Where was it?" Mrs. Enright snapped. "Where else would it be but at the cottage next to ours—those wild, drunken Indians. You've got to do something about it or John and I are going to leave."

Greg and Diane saw the old couple cross the dining room then, with stormy glances at the other four guests. They saw Jean Radcliffe look up and start to say something but Mort Taylor laid his hand on her arm and she subsided.

There was no more said about the matter until the Taylor party got up and went out. That was perhaps half an hour later. Greg had wanted to go down to the boathouse, but gave in to Diane's wish to wait and hear the rest. She knew well Mrs. Enright hadn't finished her protest, and she was right. The "wild Indians" had scarcely gotten out of the dining room when the old lady was at it again.

"I tell you, Grace," she called across the room to Mrs Thurman, who still sat at her own table, "it was something terrible. Then, to top everything off, one of them had to go for a walk and fall like a ton of bricks into the underbrush out back. I was never so scandalized in all my life."

Grace Thurman passed by the doorway and then went to join the Enrights at their table. Greg and Diane could hear her apologies for a moment, but then the talk was too soft for them to hear more.

They got up and went outside' Greg to go up to the cottage for a pack of cigarettes and Diane to go down to the boathouse to wait for him. When he met her there a few minutes later he asked if she'd seen Sid anywhere around. "He forgot to bring up my wood for the fireplace," he said. "But it doesn't matter. I can see him after we get back."

Diane shrugged. "When people don't want him he's getting under theirfeet, and when they do he's nowhere to be found."

"A'let's it the truth," said Greg "And what burns me up about the poor god is the surliness of him. He talks to Grace Thurman as if she were working for him."

Greg started the motor in the boat and they headed out into the lake. Diane on the centre seat busily straightening out her fishing line and poking around in the minnow pail for a likely looking bait.

There was a narrow inlet on the opposite side of the lake from the lodge where Greg had had good luck at various times and he headed that way. It was the nearest good fishing hole and he didn't want to get too far away since they were to be back for Tim at 11. It was already almost 10. He ran up into the inlet a little way, then cut off the motor and let the boat drift. He would gradually move out into the lake again, but that was all for now.

For about 20 minutes they sat there with their lines out, but they didn't even get a strike. Finally Greg took one of the oars and gave an easy push out toward the lake, intending to get nearer the bar that separated the inlet from the main water.

They'd been concealed from view, but now they were opposite the channel and in a fairly straight line with the lodge. Diane was looking off that way and suddenly she pointed at a boat standing just off the point where the Thurman house was located. "My big unfinished end."

"Looks like Sid," Greg said.

"It is," said Diane. "But what in the world is he doing?"

The small stocky figure of the hired man could be seen standing up in the middle of the boat tugging at something around his feet. Twice they saw him straighten and look quickly to right and left and closely scan the shore in front of him. He looked in their direction once, but they knew they couldn't be seen half-hidden as they were by the brush that bordered the channel.

Then they saw him bend down again and this time the boat rocked and almost tipped over as something very big and obvious and very heavy was heaved over the side.

Then Sid looked around again, seemingly found everything very satisfactory and set himself down on the centre seat and began to row back toward the boathouse.

"What could all that be about?" Diane said curiously. She'd forgotten her line and was staring at the lone figure across the lake in complete amazement.

"Darned if I know," Greg said. He was about to say something more when his line went taut with a jerk and he realized that he had a fight on his hands.

Even Diane forgot for a moment about Sid and his mysterious errand and got ready with the net. Greg let out more line, reeled it in again, pulled gently one way, then the other, let out more line. And when he figured the fish was sufficiently tired, jiggling gently from his own exhaustion, he began to bring it in. When he got it up near the surface, he saw that it broke the water, Diane leaned over the side with the net and dexterously dipped it under the flapping bass and lifted it out of the water.

"Boy!" Greg exclaimed. "That must be four pounds easy!"

"There's nothing easy about four pounds!" Diane gasped, struggling to hold the long-handled net with its leaping burden. "Take it darling!"

Greg grabbed it just before she dropped it, and after he'd effectively removed the hook and run the cord through the fish's mouth and gills he could be dragged in the water, he held it up, admiringly.

"Did you ever see such a whopper?"

"No Greg, It really is a beauty."

Diane had dropped her own line when she reached for the net and now she was trying to extricate the hook from the cuff of her slacks. "That must be the biggest thing in the lake, outside of what Sid just threw back."

Greg laughed and dropped the fish over the side and watched it begin to swim around, carrying the tin line in wild circles. "There's wisdom in them words," he said. "We can rest assured that it wasn't a fish."

"Yeah," said Diane disdainfully "I wish I had the nerve to go over and see what it was."

Greg's laugh was a bark. "You could have all the nerve necessary and still not get anywhere near there, my dear, for while I'm running this show. When are you ever going to learn to mind your own business and let other people mind theirs?"

Diane let it go. She's gotten pretty well hardened to sermons on that subject. She had her line free now and dropped it over the side. She twisted around on the seat until she was comfortable and holding the rod under her arm, the fac end resting on the side of the boat, she cupped her chin in her other hand.

"Bruce must have been stiff last night," she said. "Did you notice he wasn't around this morning? Grace ate all by herself."

"Yes, I noticed," said Gregg. "Probably sleeping it off."

There was a long silence then, broken at last by Diane. "I wonder what it was Sid dropped into the lake."

"Taking up where the conversation was dropped a moment ago," said Greg lightly. "It ought to have been Bruce. Honestly darling, your logical processes of thought need a good overhauling. You jump from one subject to another with a thoroughly disconcerting ease."

"Don't be so silly Greg. Especially about something like that. I don't think you're being funny at all."

"I wasn't trying to be. Just pointing out your failures as a logician. You don't tie your thoughts together. You don't assimilate. You don't progress with easy sequence from one set of facts to another."

"Oh stop!" Diane shook her head in a good imitation of a kid's tantrum, then looked up laughing. "If either of us is nuts it's you, darling. And anyway if you are going to be like that, there was logic in what I said. Just listen: Bruce has not been seen this morning. Sid does not like Bruce—we know that from seeing them last year. Sid hates the way Bruce orders him around —Sid drops his big object over the side of a rowboat, showing great signs of caution and not wanting to be seen." She paused grinning at Greg. "Isn't that logic for you? It just naturally follows that Bruce is now at the bottom of the lake."

"Gosh, dear," Greg said, raising his eyebrows and scratching his head. "You're wonderful! Of course that's where Bruce is. Why didn't I think of it before? We better run in and tell Grace. She might be interested."

Diane smirked then, laughing quietly to themselves for minutes afterward. And at last Greg looked at his watch, started to pull in his line. 'It's almost 11," he said. "We'd better be getting in."

Even before they reached the boathouse they could see the little knot of people on the lawn outside the lodge and hear their seemingly excited conversation. And when they'd gotten the boat tied up they hurried up to the clearing to find out what it was all about.

Mother and Child Burned In Ottawa Home

Blaze Believed Started By Burning Cigarette Butt

Ottawa, April 15 (CP) — A mother and her three-year-old son were burned to death when an early morning fire swept through their three-storey home on Daly Avenue in Ottawa's Sandy Hill district.

Dead are Mrs. Kathleen Saunders, 38, and her three-year-old son, Timmy.

Eight other persons escaped injury in the fire, believed started by a cigaret butt kept burning in the overstuffed living room of the Saunder's apartment.

Heroine of Tragedy

Heroine of the tragedy was 24-year-old Simone Tetu who raced through the building arousing resident as soon as she discovered the blaze. She told firemen that she had been awakened by an explosion.

Damage was tentatively estimated at $20,000.

The fire started shortly after 4 a.m. EST. Firemen were at the scene shortly after and fought the blaze in the basement living room of the Saunder's apartment, to find the bodies of the two victims.

Mrs. Saunder's body was found crawled on the floor close to the door on her second-floor bedroom in a position indicating that she had perished while trying to get to her young son's room.

The child was found a short distance away in the living room, stretched lengthwise across his bed. He had apparently tried to leave his bed and run to the safety of his mother.

Mr. Saunders was away at the time of the blaze and did not arrive until shortly after firemen were on the scene.

The building which stands close to the Rideau Hall Rideau Avenue, was one of the oldest residences in the district.

FLEE TO BERLIN TO ESCAPE ARREST BY RUSS

Berlin, April 15 — (AP) — Two Christian Democratic east zone officials fled to west Berlin two days ago to escape arrest by Communist-controlled police, it was disclosed today. Political Informants identified Dr. Braedel district chairman of Werbik, on the Soviet-American border, and Herbert his deputy Opfermann. Full names were not available.

HUNGRY ESKIMOS WILL BE TAKEN TO NEW HOMES

Churchill, Man., April 15 (CP) — Fifty hungry Eskimos in the Lake Ennadai district 350 miles northwest of here probably will be flown to new homes farther south.

The prospect is the natives will be evacuated to Lake Nueltin, midway along the Manitoba - North West Territories boundary, where there is work and food. They were close to starvation earlier this week. The RCAF had to take in some emergency supplies.

The move to Nueltin Lake can be made by air in a few hours, it would be overland, by dog team. But almost every dog owned by the Eskimos at Ennadai has died — whether from starvation or disease is not known.

The problem of the hungry Eskimos is hard to understand. It seems mental as well as physical.

There are fish in Lake Ennadai and at Padlei, a short distance farther north, caribou by the thousands are reported short of food. Eskimos will fish for the white man (and the men work for it) but go to ofen a living at Lake Nueltin, but they seem to fear for themselves.

The North West Territories Eskimo is a meat-eater, and apparently is under-nourished unless he has the meat of caribou. One of the reasons for this year's privation has been an unexplained change in the caribou's migration route.

Some May Die

(Richard Harrington, a photographer who returned to Toronto recently from the Hudson Bay area, predicted some Padlei district Eskimos may die of starvation if the spring caribou migration, due to arrive in April, bypasses that area.)

Northland experts say there are two possible explanations why Eskimos won't fish for themselves.

1. There may be some primitive "taboo" against it, or something the missionaries haven't discovered.

2. The Eskimos may so exhaust themselves roaming the country in search of caribou that all initiative is gone.

Eskimos will eat fish given to them by a white man and feed it to their dogs. But hungry themselves, and with their dogs starving, they do not fish.

In any case, no fish — and no food of the white man — seems to give them the energy obtained from meat. The record indicates that most epidemics have attacked the natives when there has been a meat shortage. That is the case this year, with some 100 Eskimos so far stricken by measles.

BRITAIN ON SUMMER TIME

Sunday will see the mercury between 50 and 60 for the province's first real taste of Spring.

U.S. CORPORAL GIVEN 5 YEARS FOR BEING SPY

Will be Dishonorably Discharged From Force

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, April 15 — (AP) — A United States Air Force court martial today convicted Cpl. Clarence Mueller of St. Paul, Minn., of trying to give secret American military information to Russia.

The 19-year-old airman was sentenced to five years imprisonment and to be dishonorably discharged from the U.S. Air Force. Mueller testified in his own defence that he was only trying to get some secret documents he told them he was doing so because "I believe in Communism." They said he asked no pay.

Russia Wiring Consulate

Mueller admitted to the seven-man court that he wired the Soviet consulate in Bern, Switzerland, last December asking to get in touch with a Soviet agent.

He admitted stealing secret papers from the library of the U.S. intelligence school in nearby Oberammergau where he was a student. He confessed giving these papers to agents whom he believed to be Soviets.

But the young man said on the witness stand:

"I am not a Communist. I hate Communism. I am loyal to the United States and always shall be."

It was only trying to fool the agents all along," Mueller testified. "I wanted to find out who they struck first.

"I thought they were pretty gullible for Soviet agents, but I guess I was really the gullible one."

Wiesbaden, Germany, April 15 — (AP) — Lt. Gen. John C. Person, chief of the nited States Air Force in Europe, announced today search for seven airmen lost in plane missing for a week will be abandoned at sundown tomorrow.

The 11 plane yearch over the Baltic for the seventh day today with scant hope they still may find the plane and its crew of ten.

British Scientists Find Common Cold's Cause, Cure Cantankerous, Baffling

London, April 15 — (CP) — The common cold is in the news again, but its cause and cure still elude the scientists.

Sometimes, it seems, it's just as hard to catch a cold when you want to as it is not to when you don't.

In one experiment, only one of 19 persons caught a cold when put into close contact with a cold sufferer.

People with the sniffles, therefore, can expect little solace from tests now being carried out by Britain's medical research council on oil. The council is so confused in its investigations on the value of anti-cold drugs that it has ordered an investigation.

Experiments are being held in factories, civil service establishments and institutions.

Volunteers are asked to report when they have a cold and to take white, Benzedrex nose drops on their progress the next week.

Investigations have been carried for several years at the common cold research unit at Harvard Hospital in Salisbury, where volunteers—housewives, students even honeymoon couples — receive board, lodging and pocket money in return for the dubious privilege of submitting themselves to the cold virus.

Reports are not encouraging. Dr. W. H. Bradley, medical officer at the Ministry of Health, confesses the common cold is so cantankerous that "when we think cold is spread (or) experimental purposes, they won't."

Bradley says a man with a cold may want to as it is not to when you don't.

He can't even be certain to get a cold — not even when the volunteers are given a hot bath, made to sleep in a damp bed, engage hair an hour without drying themselves and have to wear wet stockings.

Although the scientists go on testing, the last word has been spoken on the English variety of a cold. A British journalist, arrived in London after being marooned for three months in the wilds of Labrador, commented that, "We did get colds, but not like those in England."

Which moved the Manchester Guardian to poetry:

"We did get colds, but not like those in England,"
"Respectfully the pious tribute rings;
"As well it might, for colds are caught in England
Are unsurpassed and catastrophic things.
"All other kinds are matters for pooh-poohing.
"From long experience, we can tell you this,
"There are no colds like those of England's brewing.
"We hold the copyright. And that is that."

Strike Vote Among Railway Workers Undoubtedly Will Be Called Says CCL Head

Ottawa, April 15. (CP)—A strike vote undoubtedly will be called among the 30,000 members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CCL), C.B.R.E. President A. R. Mosher said today as he blasted the majority finding of a conciliation board that investigated his union's wage-hour demands on the railways.

Mr. Mosher, also president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, called the report "almost incredible" and "almost unbelievably reactionary and unrealistic". He said it would stir up maximum resentment among employees.

The report was one of two on the railway-union dispute made public today. In the case of the C.B.R.E. and the Brotherhood of Express Employees (C.C.L.), it rejected demands for a 40-hour increase, the 40-hour week and the company check-off of union dues. It recommended a 44-hour week with some reduction in take-home pay.

Text of Mr. Mosher's statement.

The railway workers of Canada asked for bread and have been given a stone. The report of this Board is the worst I have ever seen. It is almost incredible that in any reconstruction period is one which would mean a wage cut for the lowest paid group of workers concerned at a time when the cost of living is the highest on record and still going up.

Three Demands Made

The Brotherhoods made three demands: A wage increase of 10 cents an hour, a five-day week without reduction in take-home pay, and a check-off of Brotherhood dues for members (modified Rand formula). The report rejects all three. No improvement is recommended for hotel and water transportation workers. For the rest the board simply endorses the 40,000 cent terms which, for most of them, would mean a decrease in take-home pay.

When workers in other industries are almost daily getting agreements embodying shorter work-weeks at the same or better take-home pay, such a proposal is almost unbelievably reactionary and unrealistic. It is reminiscent of a bygone, less humane, less civilized period in industrial relations which I had thought was a thing of the past. Apparently it is not.

The report adds insult to injury by a long, pontifical sermon on collective bargaining. All I need say at this is that its self-assurance is equal to its ignorance of the subject.

In spite of the length of time the report has been in preparation, it is full of evidence of haste and carelessness. Perhaps the most glaring example is in the discussion of average weekly wages in railway-shops, where the report gets its figures a whole year out.

Negative Report Claim

This report is so negative in every respect that it should be the occasion for which a board of conciliation is set up, I cannot help but feel that instead of wasting the time of the parties to the dispute, as this board has done, it would have been far better to have no board at all. This report will only lead to more strife and bad feeling which will stir be easily overcome, and may lead to serious consequences. As far as the railway industry is concerned, it might be well to amend the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act to make these boards of conciliation. Collective bargaining would then be far more practical and realistic.

Wintry Weather Over Eastern Half of U.S. on Way Out

Chicago, April 15 — (AP) — Spring weather, halted by a delayed outpouring of winter, still appears to be on the way for the middle-to-east eastern half of the United States.

The early spring cold spell already has caused millions of dollars damage to southern fruit crops and disrupted the country's sports program.

But federal weather bureau forecasters had a long-range note of cheer. The unseasonably chilly snap is nearing an end. They predicted end of the near wintry weather of 8-freezing temperatures, snow and sleet, was made as the midwest and east reported record low readings for April 15.

The cold air which extended from the Atlantic to Rocky Mountain city was caused by a series of high pressure areas moving over Canadian border. It was indicated warm southern breezes soon will give way to warmer.

The abnormal early spring cold, with freezing temperatures, was the worst they could recall in terms of duration, forecasters said.

Snow fell in many eastern areas Friday, with an eight-inch fall at North Adams, Mass.

New York City's fall measured 1.2 inches and the suburban areas were blanketed with three inches. The St. Lawrence temperature was the record low for April in the metropolis.

The unseasonably spring freezes caused $18,000,000 damage to the peach crops in northern Georgia and the Carolinas. Loses also were reported by peach growers in southern Illinois, and little or no damage to peaches and strawberries in Arkansas.

Friday's near-freezing weather caused postponement of baseball baseball games by 10 major league games.

Tariffs May be Lowered On Maple Syrup

Washington, April 15 (AP)—Producers of maple syrup and sugar probably won't feel pinched even if tariffs on the two tasty products are lowered to the legal limit, a tariff commission official said Friday.

Such commodities are on the list of 2,500 items which the United States State Department said today may be considered for tariff-reduction in the 40-country Geneva conference of trade scheduled to meet in Britain next Sept. 28.

The duty today on maple syrup is 1 1-2 cents a pound, and on maple sugar 2 cents a pound. And in 1930 the two duties were 3 1-2 and eight cents respectively.

Vermont and New York account for more than half the entire U.S. production of maple syrup and sugar. The only competition comes from Canada, but there is a considerable duty on Canadian syrup the official said is of a inferior grade. It is widely used in tobacco processing.

Nationalist Planes Raid Red Springboard Area

Taipei, Formosa, April 15 — (AP) — Nationalist China's air forces today announced new raids on the communists' South China invasion springboard — the Luichow peninsula.

The air headquarters report was issued as the two Nationalist military chiefs conferred here, presumably on how to checkmate expected red attempts to make large-scale amphibious landings on Hainan and Chushan Islands.

Nationalist planes carrier out daylong attacks Friday on rail yards and docks at the southern end of Luichow opposite Hainan, rir said. Military installations ashore were heavily damaged it claimed.

FIRE DESTROYS THE HERMITAGE ON LAKE MAZINAW

Loss of Resort Hotel Estimated at $75,000

Loss estimated at approximately $75,000 resulted Friday morning when fire completely destroyed the Hermitage well known summer resort hotel on Lake Mazinaw, 65 miles northeast of Belleville.

The frame two-storey Hermitage Hotel was built three years ago by William Maloney, retired business man of Niagara Falls, N.Y. and since that time had done a flourishing tourist business. The hotel containing 16 bedrooms and about a dozen other rooms was completely destroyed along with all the expensive furnishings. Mr. and Mrs. Maloney arrived yesterday morning from Niagara Falls to fit the hotel for the coming tourist season.

Went to Visit Neighbors

It was stated they had placed some of their bags in the hotel then lit a fire in the basement furnace before going to visit some neighbors. A motorist passing on Highway 41 saw the fire and sounded the alarm but nothing could be done to save the hotel or contents. Mr. Maloney lost $440 cash in the fire.

It is believed that the fire started in the basement presumably from the furnace. Mr. and Mrs. Maloney were staying at a nearby cabin which escaped the flames.

Provincial Constable A. G. Stout of Northbrook investigated the blaze. It was believed that Mr. Maloney would rebuild the hotel but he had not definitely announced his intentions.

Time to Prepare For Next Election Says Morrison

London, April 15. (AP)—Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister, said in the strongest terms that it is time for the Labor Party to prepare for the next general election.

He did not speculate on the date when it may be held, but said there is urgent party work to be done in the marginal constituencies.

Speaking to a London Labor Party conference, Morrison said:

"On Feb. 23 (the last general election) we won seven points. Our task next time is to win a decisive victory."

EARNED $2,000,000, SLEEPS IN $3,110

New York, April 15 — (AP)— Bill "Bojangles" Robinson, who earned approximately $2,000,000 during his tap-dancing career, left an estate of $3,110, it was disclosed Friday. He died last Nov. 23 at 71.

Findings Would Give Shorter Work Week, Less Pay

Non-Operating Employees Would Get 6.8 Cents Boost

Ottawa, April 15 — (CP) — Railway union demands for higher pay and shorter hours are sliced to a fraction in federal conciliation board finding made public today.

Rejecting the 17 unions' claims for outright pay increases, the majority reports of two boards recommended a formula that would give about 178,000 employees a shorter work week, higher hourly rates and, generally, less in the weekly pay envelope.

The non-operating employees — those who do not run the trains — would get on the average an additional 6.8 cents on their general hourly rate of $1.03.

A reduction in the work week from 48 to 40 hours with a five-day week and no loss in take-home pay, plus wage increases above that of from seven to 10 cents an hour.

The boards estimated this would be the equal of a general increase of 29 cents an hour.

After turning down the straight 40-hour week, the two-board majority went into effect—and the boards' findings are not binding on the unions or the railways —it would mean the bulk of the employees would take a weekly wage cut to get the shorter hours, though not as large a cut as the reduction in work time.

20,000 Get Lift

The only major group that would get a wage increase would be some 20,000 "black sheep" employees now on a 44-hour week. They would continue working the same hours with a higher hourly wage.

The board's majority recommendations expected railway hourly rates would be raised to transport workers from its findings.

One of the boards, dealing with the check-off of union dues asked that one of the two groups of non-operative unions rejected this proposal.

The reports, received by Labor Minister Mitchell this week, were placed today before the disputants in the deadlocked wage-hour negotiations in the hope that they will form a basis for the basis of renewed discussions.

It was anticipated that the railways would be more favorably disposed than the unions to majority representative on the three-man board, along with the chairman, Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia.

Minority reports by the labor representatives in each case referred sharply from those of the majority.

'Feed Your Pastures' Expert Tells Farmers

North Bay, April 15 (CP) — Pastures are the greatest need in farming today, N.J. Thomas told 100 farmers attending a seed fair in North Bay Thursday.

Mr. Thomas was guest speaker at the ninth annual seed fair conducted by the Nipissing district branch of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association.

"Feed your pastures," he said. "It's remarkable you can double and treble your production by a bag of feed will replace good quality hay."

Mr. Thomas is a Guelph dairy farmer attached to the Ontario Agricultural College, department of soils.

Admiralty Prefers 'Big Hole' Method to Sink Enemy Ships

London, April 15—(CP)—The Admiralty has decided to remain old-fashioned—at least when it comes to sinking ships.

They said today that they still cling to the theory that the best way to sink a ship is to punch a hole—a big one—in it, under the waterline.

And, added the Admiralty, they do not — with emphasis on the word — anticipate any will do the job!

Lord Fraser, Britain's First Sea Lord, recently told a press conference in Ottawa about a scientist who came up with the idea of aerating water to sink a ship. The idea was tried out on a model and "the damn thing sank."

But as for the possibility of soda-pop now becoming a dangerous weapon of naval warfare, well, the Admiralty said:

"Quite obviously Lord Fraser was not referring to that invention," said nautical tidbeaters, "and we do not intend to make any use of it."

The principle, apparently, was to reduce the density of water,

Muskrat Catch Only 30 Per Cent Of Last Season

As results of a multitude of factors ranging from a high water to high water to scarcity of the fur-bearing animals, the catch of muskrats this season has been only about 30 per cent of that of last year.

At least this is the claim of one local buyer of fur skins who has balanced the small catch on scarcity of rats, together with a lower price being offered this year. Fewer trappers setting traps this year accounted for some of the drop in the catch.

The muskrat season opened on March 20 and will continue until April 21st with trappers allowed until the end of the month to dispose of their pelts and raw skins. Price of the pelts is the lowest in four years, ranging from a top of from $2 to $2.25 each.

Bothered by Rich Water

Despite the lower catch many trappers feel the muskrats are about as plentiful as in other years except that high water on March 20 and 21 made trapping difficult. Other trappers, however, feel the rats are scarce because of the mild winter which killed many winter and the high water having driven the rats to high ground.

A local buyer claims that muskrats are scarce in the marshes through a shortage during years when the price of pelts was higher.

At any rate surplus stocks of muskrats remained because of the mild winter which reduced the sale of fur coats, has meant that the demand is not as keen a demand as formerly.

22 City Streets With Duplicate, Confusing Names

The Belleville and District Planning Board will be asked to look into the matter and make the duplication of street names in the city and immediate environs.

This was decided upon at a meeting of the board asking that steps be taken to change the name of streets with duplicate or confusing names.

That is the only way, they feel, that a person can find his way in the city, and possibly many of the local residents, can be sure of knowing just where they are at when it comes to finding a certain address. Especially is the address happens to be on a street which has a duplicate name in some other part of the city.

Maple Syrup Prices Remain Firm on Market

With the visible promise of spring in bright sunshine, the market Saturday morning was complete with maple syrup, red apples, vegetables of many kinds and flowers in bud, with plants, handcraft and loom weaving, flowers and bulbs, fowl and eggs.

Maple syrup was in good supply with vendors quoting it at $4 and $5 per gallon, with $1.50 for quarters; apples, consisting of Northern Spies and Baldwins were firm at flesh, 40 cents the half peck; Delicious at $2.75 the hamper; Talman Sweets at $2.50 the bushel; Mc-Intosh Reds at 35 the half peck; Ben Davis were 30 the half peck; lovely colored, 30 cents the basket, and York and Perry, at 30 cents the basket, also locally grown.

Cabbage still held firm at 10-15 the head; potatoes were firm at this; parsnips extra nice quality, were selling at 20 cents the half peck; carrots were 10 cents per bunch, or 3 bunches for .25 cents; beets 10 cents per bunch with the basket; hot-house radishes, and lettuce, 10 cents the bunch or 3 bunches for .25; leeks were selling 40 the peck, and from $1.75 to $2 per bag.

Fish was up to the fine normal standard as through the winter months; fresh muskrats ranged from 25 per pound to 30 cents, or 5 pounds, for $1.25; pickerel, 5 pounds for $1 and smelts 25 the pound or 3 pounds for $1.

Eggs, extra large, 42 per dozen; grade A medium 40, and grade A small, 38. No butter was offered.

Chickens Stay Firm

Fowl: stewing, ranging from 3 1-2 pounds to 4 pounds were 45 to 50 per pound; and frying fowl at 60 cents the pound.

Cottage cheese was becoming a little more plentiful, and selling at 5 cents the ball, cellophane wrapped.

Dill pickles, 35 the quart jar; mustard pickles, 35 the jar; corn relish, 25-30 the jar, depending on size; beet relish, also 25-30 the jar; horse radish, pickled in jar 25, and larger at 30.

Canned fruit, consisted of raspberries, and sold for 30 cents the 20 ounce can. Honey was down somewhat in price, while sold at 25 the pound, 40 for 2 pounds, and four pounds for $1.50.

Two vendors had gladioli bulbs for sale at from 25 to 30 per dozen.

Flowers including roses, perpetual blooming, were sold at 50 to $1.50 per pot; daffodils, single, 35 cents per pot; hyacinth., white pink and blue, 35 per pot; and the large pots of mixed daffodils, narcissus, and hyacinth, from 75 to $1. Cressets earli, 40 cents; golden star, 60 cents, African Violets 75 cents each.

The home cooking maintained its usual high quality, with an abundance to satisfy the most discriminating, and sold at the usual prices, and included fruit pies, cookies, cup cakes, apple sauce, doughnuts, and the large layer cakes, tarts and rolls.

The sewing department had some fine dirndl skirts priced at $1.65-$2.95, jumper dresses from $2 to $4.50; print dresses $2-$3; the dollies were also lovely of design and at the standard prices ranging from $1.50 to $2.50.

On the outside market, two vendors had some fine lots of Canada spanish puppies for sale, all pedigreed, American spaniels. Prices quoted were $20 to $25 each. These were nine weeks old.

Hatchevern mats also made their appearance again; table mats, nicely designed 81 each; rugs, $1.75 to $5.50 and shopping bags $2.75 to $3.25 each.

Woods: Elm, $15 the load stove lengths; pigs $10-$11 from 6 to 8 weeks.

Washington, April 15 (CP) — Western Germany has been granted $1,050,000 in Marshall Plan aid to purchase cotton from Canada. The Economic Commission Co-operation Administration announced today. The E.C.A. approved grants totalling $26,402,000 for 10 western European countries.

OVERDOSE FATAL

Oakland, Calif., April 15 (AP)—A jury decided Friday that Courtenay Terrell, 46, newspaper man and former war correspondent, died Wednesday of an accidental overdose of barbiturates. Terrell formerly worked for the New York Herald-Tribune, Post and World Telegram.

Four Gasoline Warehouse Offices Entered, Undetermined Amount of Cash is Taken

Smashing their way into four gasoline company wholesale warehouse offices on South Front Street, safe crackers Friday night blew open two office safes and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash, it was stated today by local police.

Two of the safes were blown open, presumably with "soup", while in one instance nothing was kept in the safe and it was not locked. In the fourth instance the safe was upset but not opened.

Safes "cracked" by the safe crackers who are believed to have been professionals from outside the city, were those of the Trinidad Leaseholds Ltd., and of the Imperial Oil Ltd. The exact amount of cash taken had not been determined, but of the Trinidad Leaseholds it was stated to be "several" hundreds of dollars.

Hammer, Bar Found

The other two offices opened were those of the McColl-Frontenac and the British American Oil. It is believed by police that the British American office was the last visited by the safe crackers as here a sledge-hammer and two lining bars had been abandoned.

All the break-ins were discovered by company workers when they began to work around seven o'clock this morning. In each case entrance to the building had been made by prying open doors.

Inspector Clair Hayes stated today he believed the men responsible for the four break-ins were the same who had been active in St. Catharines last week where warehouse companies were entered.

District Automobile Dealers Hear Informative Talk on Salesmanship

An informative talk on salesmanship was given Friday evening by Mr. Lou Rumble, manager of the General Motors Truck Branch in Toronto, at the annual dinner of the local branch of the Federation of Automobile Dealers, held at the Quinte Hotel.

"The best type of salesmanship is the kind that sells the product rather than the kind that sells for one to one's self. Success in salesmanship requires hard work, and salesmen who are meeting people in all walks of life must know what is happening throughout the country," he emphasized.

Mr. Rumble is one of the leading truck salesman in North America. During the war, he was assigned by the government to an important post in connection with the construction of the Alcan Highway. While working on that project, he was handicapped frequently by lack of equipment, supplies and other hardships.

"There," he said, "we learned when to stop talking and arrive at a conclusion."

Failures Demand Solution

Citing this experience as an illustration, he said that there are ways demanded a solution, and to drive home the need for arriving at a definite conclusion, when confronted by some problem in the automotive industry, indicating that any antagonism felt toward labour by the car industry would be wiped out by co-operation all along the line, fully trained salesmanship and complete automobile model "representation by competent men thinking of a lot of clever people."

"The factory is not always wrong," he said.

Mr. Rumble was introduced by Harry Moorman, and thanked by J. C. Cooper.

The second speaker, Mr. A. E. Kress, manager of the Automobile Association of Ontario told the audience that the words "delivery", "efficiency", "administration", and "loyalty" should keynote the type of service given by the automobile industry.

Producer Says Cheese Box Price Will be Higher

At least one cheese box maker in the Hastings county area has confirmed the report of cheese makers that the price of boxes would be higher this year if negotiations called for thicker cheese box veneer.

Kenneth Hunter, president of Hunter Veneer Tweed, manufacturers of cheese boxes, has stated that 20 per cent more veneer is required by the new ruling that cheese boxes are made of materials one fifth of an inch thick.

He says that manufacturers with good equipment realize that the thicker veneer will mean a lower yield from the logs and box assemblers will have a greater breakage loss in attempting to bend the thicker veneer in its round shape.

Also he claimed the thicker the veneer the more it will tend to warp, buckle and split during the drying and shrinking. Mr. Hunter stated they will not be able to produce boxes for less than 65 cents and says if their cheese box sales decrease they will be forced to direct operations into the manufacture of more vegetable crates and furniture products.

At their annual spring conference held in Belleville early in April, members of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association passes a resolution that if the price of boxes increase from the present 50 cents the matter be handed over to the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association. They claimed the cheese maker should not be penalized by the higher box prices when they had already hiked for the 1950 season.

Brisk Sale of Tickets Reported For Tuneful, Colorful 'Iolanthe'

A brisk sale of tickets to "Iolanthe", colorful operetta by Gilbert & Sullivan operetta, to be staged next Wednesday evening at the local Collegiate Auditorium, is being reported by members of the Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the local showing of the operetta.

"Iolanthe" is being produced in Belleville by the Eaton Operatic Society which recently staged the production at the Royal Alexandra Auditorium in Toronto, where the quality of the production astonished Queen City critics.

And the operetta staged by the Eaton Operatic Society for their Belleville showing will be equal in quality to their Toronto onto presentation. The colorful costuming and setting, plus the same stage scenery and settings will be used. The presentation will be given by a cast of 55 singers and a 20-piece concert orchestra conducted and directed by the famous Godfrey Ridout.

"Iolanthe" is produced in two acts and is the musical story in song of the Fairy Queen and her Chancellor, of the members of their courtships and love entanglements.

Considered one of the most tuneful of all the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, the setting for the first act of the play is in an Arcadian landscape where a group of fairies are bemoaning the loss of their sister "Iolanthe" who 20 years before had committed high treason by the Fairy Queen. Her offense was to marry a mortal, a crime which is punishable by death, but in this case, banishment for life on condition that she would never again speak to her husband.

Heading the pleas of the fairies the Queen agrees to pardon Iolanthe who is welcomed back to the fairy dold. The second act of the play is the setting in Westminster Palace yard. The peers and fairies begin a mass flirtation which is quickly broken up by the entrance of the Fairy Queen who reminds them that fairies have the penalty for marriage with a mortal.

The situation is cleared up by the Lord Chancellor who solves the problem by suggesting the law be changed to decree that they all must die who refuse to marry a mortal. The Queen agrees, lovers re-unite, and the fairy operetta ends with the company sets out for Fairyland.

Tickets for "Iolanthe" for its one night stand in the city are obtainable at Bill Cook's and Fred Symons.

THREE NEGRO CHILDREN ARE BURNED TO DEATH

Memphis, Tenn., N. J., April 15 (AP)— Three negro children were burned to death when fire destroyed the dilapidated home of grandmother's home in the pine barrens near here.

First Banquet Of Christ Church Choir Success

Christ Church choir held its first banquet last night at the Parish Hall. About sixty people sat down to turkey, ham and all the trimmings. The tables were tastefully adorned with fruits and flowers, and the meal was served in candlelight.

Rev. Grant Sparling held the party in high spirits with anecdotes concerning awkward situations of choir members at various situations during the lives. The president of the choir, Bill Gardner, welcomed the guests of honor, and gave the younger element some advice, and said the banquet was the fruits of victory, and he hoped that the group would continue to give all their attention to the splendid opportunities that lay before them.

Choirmaster Art Simpson was presented with a wallet as a token of the appreciation of the choir. He said he was immensely proud of the choir and rightly so as their performance over the last year was sensational, and good as they were, they could be better and he looked forward with high hopes to the future.

The ladies were thanked by Harold Amos, who said the empty plates and contented smiles bore ample testimony to the excellence of the fare served.

George Mayhee came down from Kingston and took the group through the "Men's Lodge and Daughters", and complimented Art Simpson on the voices in the party.

Films were shown by M. Bushard, and Lionel Blaker gave small gifts to each choirboy which brought a successful evening to a happy close.

Need of Saving Emphasized By Guest Speaker

The need for systematic saving as a habit of life was emphasized in an address by Henry N. Becker when he spoke on the "Men's Hour" on the subject of banking. He indicated that there was a stability about the Canadian banking system in which the public was safeguarded by the Bank Act which should be considered one of our proud possessions. Every person is interested in giving to customers the best financial advice and many of our reasons have saved clients much grief by their restrictive measures.

The speaker was introduced by V's Man Gordon Tell and thanks were expressed by V's Man Roy West. E. Fullford thanked the V's Men a most interesting and informative account of his trip to Bermuda which was illustrated by his own colored moving pictures.

To take him home with Him to rest.

Sadly missed by sister Mrs. Lillian Murray, husband and Linda. A15

BELLIS — In loving memory of Alfred Bellis (Pete) who passed away April 15th, 1949.

Oh, what would I give to clasp your hand

Your dear kind face to see

To hear your voice, to smile, and welcome home

That would be so much to me.

No one knows the heartache, Only those who have such can tell Of the pain that lingers silence For the one we loved so well.

Sadly missed by mother, father and family. A15

Life on Mars? Survey Of an Old Question

(By Dr. Hector Macpherson, FRSE, in the Edinburgh Scotsman.)

During the present season, those who cast a look upwards on a clear night will hardly fail to notice a red "star" of particular brightness, shining with a steady light. That "star" is, in truth, no star at all, but our neighbor world, the planet Mars, now in our near vicinity.

Well over 50 million miles will separate us from Mars when it makes its nearest approach. But 50 million miles is cosmically speaking, a trifling distance.

Of all the so-called "heavenly bodies" of reasonable size, Mars approaches us more closely from time to time than any other except the moon and Venus. The moon is the earth's satellite — "our detached continent," as it has been aptly called — only 238,000 miles distant; while Venus, at its nearest, comes to within 26 million miles.

Mars is a considerably smaller planet than the one on which we dwell. The diameter of Mars is 4,260 miles, compared with the earth's 7,900; its volume is one-seventh of that of the earth, and its mass one-tenth. Because of its smaller mass, bodies on its surface weigh less than half of what they weigh here. Mars rotates on its axis in 24 hours 37 minutes 22 seconds, so its day is only about 40 minutes longer than ours. Its years is much longer, however. Its distance from the sun, is greater and so it has a greater mileage to cover and it travels more slowly.

Mars experiences the same succession of seasons as our world, although each season is nearly twice as long as its terrestrial counterpart.

The fiery red light of Mars is due to the nature of its surface. Seen through even a small telescope Mars appears as a ruddy disc with dusky markings on it. The latter, however, extend over only three fifths of the planet's surface and so the light from the ruddy regions predominates. Besides the "reddish-ochre" and blue-green areas, there are at the two poles white spots which have been observed and studied for well over 200 years and are known as the polar caps.

It used to be thought that the reddish-ochre regions represented land and the blue-green areas water.

The first surmise was certainly correct, for the so-called continents are now acknowledged by all to be such. The late Percival Lowell, one of the most eminent observers of the planet, called them, "land waves and shoals —that is to say, deserts; for they behave just as deserts should behave, that is, by not behaving at all." They present the same appearance as our desert regions on earth would present to an observer miles and miles away.

The blue-green areas were at one time believed to be seas, but they are now known to be fertile land. the blue-green color being due to some kind of vegetation.

Here, then, we have a striking dissimilarity between Mars and the earth. There are no seas or oceans or any permanent bodies of water on the surface of our neighbor.

This does not mean that there is no water on Mars; it does mean that water is very scarce, but that water does exist is proved by the existence and behavior of the polar caps. These increase and decrease in accordance with the Martian seasons.

Thus the Northern cap attains its maximum area just after mid-winter; with the coming of Spring it begins to contract, reaching its minimum size just after midsummer and then beginning to increase until mid-winter comes. The same process takes place in the Southern hemisphere.

Quite obviously the polar caps represent the Arctic and Antarctic snowfields of Mars. The melting of the caps result in the formation of temporary "seas" of marshes—the only "seas" on the planet's surface.

Thus, although Mars is probably "the most earthlike of the planets", it is yet very different. Not only are there no oceans but there are no mountains of appreciable height. Mountain ranges like those on the earth are conspicuous by their absence.

Indirectly the Martian atmosphere tells us quite a lot about the surface. By means of the spectroscope it is possible to ascertain the chief constituents in the atmosphere of the planets, but there is so little water-vapor and free oxygen that the evidence for these is inconclusive.

There must, of course, be water-vapor; otherwise there would be no snowfields. There must also be oxygen in minute quantities, within the last few years it has been discovered that carbon dioxide is present in considerable amount.

The atmosphere itself is much thinner than ours, though it is quite appreciable. Clouds, fogs and mists have been observed from time to time, but on the whole, Mars is much less cloud-laden than the earth. It is a world of blue skies and bright sunshine and of relatively settled weather.

But are there intelligent beings at all on Mars? We do not know. We do know that there is vegetable life. We know also that the main annual temperature is high enough to support animal life of a kind adapted to the environment.

Astronomers have measured the surface temperatures at various parts of the disc at different hours of the Martian day, in the equatorial latitudes, at noon the temperature rises to 86 degrees Fahrenheit; it drops below freezing-point at sunset, and the night temperatures near the poles must be very low indeed. Nevertheless hardy vegetation not only survives but thrives there.

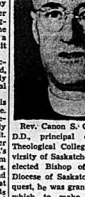
So, doubtless, intelligent animal life may well exist on Mars also.

Is there evidence of such life? According to the famous hypothesis of the late Professor Lowell, there is. The deserts are not altogether barren. They are crossed by large numbers of relatively straight lines, discovered more than 70 years ago by the famous Italian astronomer Schiaparelli and kept under constant observation ever since; and at their junctions are even round dark spots.

Those "canals and oases" are described as strips and areas of fertile land, and according to Lowell and his followers, they indicate the existence of intelligent beings on our neighbor world, "in advance of, not behind us in the journey of life."

Mars has been called "the planet of spent life." On this theory the inhabitants of a dying world to ward off the inevitable fate of extinction by thirst, have constructed a vast irrigation system designed to conduct the water from the melting snowfields to the parched equatorial regions.

Alternative theories have been proposed ege to the effect that the strips of vegetation are caused by the artificial location of fogs—a theory which also postulates intelligence among another race in the canals represent old river-beds or depressions in the surface where vegetation can thrive.



No theory has won general acceptance. The verdict on all must be—"Not Proven."

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

THE MELODIOUS HERMIT

From golden sunset until dark, and again at the first streak of dawn and broad daylight, a mysterious, yet glorious voice will soon ring through our Canadian forests. Only dwellers in the most northerly states, ever have our opportunity of hearing the spring song of a Hermit Thrush, because it seldom stops in migration. Some world-wide authorities on bird music tell us the English Nightingale must take second place.

No musical instrument is able to give an adequate rendering of the Hermit's song. The tone is comparable with that of a flute, but the lower notes are mellow like those of an oboe. A low, long liquid note is followed by an ascending scale, repeated several times, each time it start a little higher than the time before, until at length the voice climbs beyond the reach of some human ears. At close range, we may hear the introductory "chuck", and many ornamental flourishes besides the main melody, but the bird is a ventriloquist too, so that we know not where to look. If our presence is guessed, the song ceases abruptly. A strong desire to elude observation has given the Hermit its name.

The least attractive Canadians are often the best singers, so we are not surprised that the Thrushes, noted for their vocal beauty, are modestly dressed. The Hermit, smaller than a Robin yet larger than a House Sparrow, is soft brown above, whitish with dark spots underneath. Its long slender bill is suitable for catching insects and may be used to gather berries when these are not available. We might be fortunate enough to see the singer alight on a low branch, with a "chuck" or a "whew" and give a characteristic flip to its red-brown tail—the Hermit's distinguishing mark.

Many Canadians are able to visit the Hermit's breeding grounds as they live within easy reach, and stretch across the Dominion—forests of popular and birch with a sprinkling of evergreens. But few glimpse the nest of moss, coarse grass and leaves, lined with rootlets and pine needles. This is made on the ground and eggs look exactly like those of a near relative, the Robin.

The Hermit is the First Thrush (not counting the Robin) to arrive in spring, to pipe up after a storm, and to start singing at dawn; it is the last to quiet down at night, and to leave in the autumn.

OVERCOME BY GAS. REVIVED

Toronto, April 15 (CP) — Two persons were overcome by escaping illuminating gas today in a rooming house. Another tenant, awaking early, smelled the fumes and found Mr. and Mrs. William Carswell unconscious. Firemen revived the two with inhalators.

THE HOME FRUIT GARDEN

If the size of property permits, an owner is well advised in growing fruit in his garden. They cost no more than shrubs, trees or vines which are planted for ornament. All fruit trees are attractive in blossom and foliage and a family can take much pleasure and advantage in having fruit from his own garden. Consult nursery catalogues and select varieties that you like. Follow planting directions carefully.

The above plan indicates a plot 50 feet square which will supply an abundance of fruit in variety. At the left are shown dwarf trees which are espaliered. These can be trained to fences or against walls. It is well to prepare the ground carefully supplying manure and fertilizers which are suitable for garden use. Clean cultivation is recommended, also heavy mulching to conserve moisture. A study of leaflets on pest control will indicate how easy it is to combat insects. On the average property it is well to place fruit trees near the borders of the property.

BACKWARD APRIL

April is swiftly passing and at the same time bearing the evidences of the penalty nature exacts when the winter has been unduly mild. After such a season the first month spring takes on the evidences of belated weather which seems to have remained somewhere behind and only in April has been able to make its way through.

Spring is going to be late in the Pacific Provinces and future may send weather which may cause floods if the melting spell is too warm.

A look at the thermometer record of a day or two ago convinces one that nature does seem to have been upset a little. At Dawson in Yukon, temperatures have been as cold as or milder than down in far southern parts of the Dominion.

But on one point the season keeps up to the record it early last fall. There has been much more moisture and it rivers much deep.

The drought spell has ended and there need be no anxiety of water shortage for the development of electric power. When the power shortage was at its worst the people were informed that several years before had been years which the precipitation was below normal. Now with the passage of several years the pendulum of nature has swung again so that the vast reservoirs of electric development systems are filled and the word has gone forth that there need be no fear of shortages and cutoffs such as were necessary not so long ago.

FAMOUS BIRTHPLACE

The bedroom in which Mr. Winston Churchill was born was seen by the public of Britain recently for the first time. It was shown to visitors at Blenheim Palace, now open to the public. Although access to its famous gardens has been permitted for some time, never before have its magnificent apartments been on view.

This unique palace, set in beautiful countryside near Oxford, is the home of the Duke of Marlborough. It is recognized as one of the most ambitious and architectural schemes ever carried in Britain and is most unrivalled among the many homes built for British aristocracy through the ..... uries.

Blenheim Palace was built for the Duke of Marlborough, Mr. Churchill's ancestor, during the reign of Queen Anne. The British Parliament voted half a million pounds for its construction and it was presented to the Duke by the victorious nation for his great military stories on the Continent of Europe in the Seven Years' War.

To this age the service of Mr. Churchill as British leader in the Second World War against Hitlerism makes everything associated with him bear unusual significance.

THE FARM HORSE

Once an indispensable figure in the agricultural scene, the farm horse seems to be undergoing a losing contest with the tractor and the general trend toward mechanization of farm work. The horse has virtually disappeared from the cities and its numbers are steadily decreasing in the rural areas.

Breeders of horses intended for the heavier work of pulling have expressed doubt that the tractor will totally replace the horse on farms. They hold that there are certain tasks which only a team of horses can perform and that these jobs can be done with less effort than by mechanical means.

Farmers, in turn, are not disposed to agree wholly with this viewpoint, although it is admitted that the use of the horse is a handy helper to have available, if needed. When heavy snowfalls occur, for instance, a horse or a team can often prove motorized equipment sometimes loses much of its manoeuvrability. They point out, however, that mechanization has reached a stage of efficient versatility where it seldom fails, whatever the job that has to be done. In the lumbering districts of Northern Ontario the horse still considered to be an essential and its hauling woods trails is not the bush, although here again the tractor has proved its superiority because of its greater power and its ability to haul much heavier loads. — Hamilton Spectator.

Canada's six sugar beet factories produced in 1949 about 221,000,000 pounds of beet sugar for the domestic market.

The oil fields of southwestern Ontario, among the province's oldest, were first developed during the 1850's.

The rivers in the greater part of Canada drain into Hudson Bay and the Arctic Ocean.

QUATRAINS

THE MISER

My searched the miser's cheerless shack
From end to end,
And laughed to see what he left had he
For them to spend.

DANDELIONS

Because with every spring I see
So many of them,
I like
The dandelions prove to me
The Lord must love them.

GOLF TONTURE

If there were not woes
Enough in life to suffer,
The golf course must be filled with rough
To plague the duffer.

FATE

When death with grim disaster rides
With two nearby,
I wonder just how fate decides
Who'll live; who'll die?

THE PACKSACK

OI' GREGORY CLARK

We all have to feed one another.
We feed the cows and the chickens, and they feed us, in nature, with the grass and lake. Of course, the vegetarians feel a little superior to the rest of us—which is possibly why they are vegetarians. We have all got to feel superior to somebody, even if only in humility. But the vegetarians would soon starve if the farmers did not feed the soil. And you know what they feed the soil with — May-be there are vegetarians who restrict their food strictly to uncultivated vegetable matter, such as wild rice, but there would be the real Covenanters.

But the balance of nature is like the balance of the seas, and all the water of the earth that runs at last down to it. A rabbit eats nothing but vegetable matter and therefore must be looked upon as one that preys on no creature. But if there were no foxes or owls to eat the rabbits, the rabbits would in due time multiply in such immense numbers that they would eat down all the vegetation and perish in a cataclysmic famine. In which case, the whole balance of life would cease purposes, and by a roundabout means, have eaten each other. Cannibals. It is the fox and the owl and many other animal besides man that preserves the rabbit from monferous fate.

The young rabbits are already born. So are the young owls They will be eating as all three are born, but the rabbits will be hopping about just in time for the owlets to find as they venture from the nests. By the time the young foxes are set to hunting for themselves for their first supper away from home, the rabbits will be full grown and the young grosbeaks and warblers. Nature, strange to everything very comfortable for all of us, and does her best to keep us by our place. It is only man who has got a little out of hand.

MODERNIZATION URGED

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 14 (CP) — Leo Dolan, head of the Canadian Travel Bureau, Thursday night urged delegates to the second annual convention of the Algoma Tourist Operators Association to modernize their camps, stress courtesy and service, strive for constant highways improvements and to "boost" until about Canada."

He said that "United States tourists are "shopping around" for suitable holiday sites, and pointed out that satisfied customers are the best advertising Canada can have.

A total of 45,000 inquiries were received by the bureau last year, during March, said Mr. Dolan. "The outlook for the coming season is bright."

MAY ADOPT 5-DAY WEEK

Hamilton, April 14—(CP)—If a two-month summer trial period proves favourable, board of control intends adopting a five-day work week for municipal employees, a request for a 54-hour week, plus increase without a reduction in the number of hours worked was turned down.

POSTPONE DECISION

Toronto, April 14—(CP)—Toronto and suburban Separate School Board trustees Thursday postponed decision on a city request to use several schools as polling places in the May 4 municipal elections. Trustees said the board would suffer a large loss in provincial grants, based on average attendance, if schools were closed for a day.

Just in Case You Want an Ostrich Farm

By Weldon James in "Pageant"

Thanks to the feathers that you see on many of milady's hats these days 300 farmers in a remote little corner of South Africa are digging for gold. Its feathered gold plucked from that crown prince of curious birds, the ostrich.

These farmers, living in the Oudtshoorn district of Cape Province account for 99.99 percent of all the ostrich feathers sold in the world. The semidesert land about 300 miles long, 100 miles wide and hemmed in by desolate mountains, has what the ostrich thrives best on: a well-watered, ten-inch annual rainfall, plenty of hot sunshine and plenty of space for roaming.

Millionaire some of the ostrich farmers is Max Rose, a modest little man of 74 who has been breeding birds since before he and his migrated from Lithuania in 1890. He dislikes them more by the year. About the only nice thing he can say about them is that in 8,000 years of trial they have beautiful feathers. The ostrich should be cut off to size, where at 40 miles an hour and 7 feet per stride he seeks. Or, if they're mating or guarding their young, they charge and kick savagely and rip his chest of stomach open. They strike forward and down with their feet, which are built for strength of a mule, too. They bite up to 2 inches deep.

They charge with their eyes shut, though, I learned; so all you have to do is step aside. They're bullfighters.

The ostrich will eat anything he can swallow, Rose told me, from bones to bottles. Canadian Mounted Police Inspector H.N.F. Deacon, the retired secretary was highly commended for the excellent manner in which he filled the office for several years.

Mr. Rose's throw of Lake Louise station the Pipestone River mingles its clear waters with those of the Athabasca. This fine highland burn bears one of the most attractive and most significant early names in Alberta. From a primary quarry source in the nearby Stoney Indians obtained soft, yellowish soapstone from which native craftsmen fashioned bowls for pipes.

This stone, which did duty as mere'schaum or briar was smoke-colored, but somewhat like the body plumage of the ostrich, and thus, to the first pipe smokers of the Red River, the river area formerly provided everywhere with quarries, to people who were permanent dwellers in tents.

Wintering Hills

With a bountiful supply of pure water, good pasturage with abundance of wood fuel and with fish, flesh and fowl available as food—truly the Wintering Hills area must have possessed a wonderful of heart's desire to primitive but fortunate inhabitants of this part of Western Canada.

In the review of early place names there is a Wintering Hill between Blindman River where a bay horse is being ridden by a stricken by snow blindness; Pon-ok-chas from the Blackfoot word Pon-ka-wee-ta-sin-is-ta-chas, Hind Hills, where a Blackfoot chief with a wife and child was killed by enemy Crees; and Wetaskiwin the place where two warring nations buried the hatchet and smoked the Pipe of Peace.

To conclude: There is a rural area northeast of Edmonton which bears the name of a former prominent Indian chief native to that part of the country. He was known to the whites all as Paskwa, which according to my Cree dictionary, means "The Nut."

Alberta's Past Told in Names

Geography, like charity, should rightly begin at home, and while most persons are familiar with the origin of such place names as Medicine Hat, Bow River and Calgary, comparatively few are sound to whom the meaning of names, scattered over the province's maps and landmarkes in his province. remains a mystery. Dan McCoubrey writes in the Calgary Herald.

In scanning the map of Alberta and making a list of unusual place names it becomes at once evident that these belong in the main to two periods. The earliest includes first to the days when Buffalo roamed the plains in countless herds their heels and the other to more modern times and to a more prosaic period.

Jumping Pound

One of the most striking place names in Southern Alberta is that of Jumping Pound. This name refers to a foothills' farming district southwest of Calgary. Rising from a small tributary of Elbow River and not far from the town of Cochrane, a precipitous cliff and grassy slope is broken by an abrupt gully and an outcrop of sandstone which is characteristic of the area.

Legend days when native Indian people of this particular region felt urgent need of a supply of buffalo meat or of bolling beef, the hunters sallied forth to the neighborhood of Jumping Pound, having gently and quietly urged the herds of buffalo on to the summit of the sunny knoll above the winding creek. Then, having gently and quietly urged the animals were allowed to graze downhill to tumble headlong over the rocky bluff and go to their deaths. Corral Used

In most parts of Western Canada, where trees were available, the wild cattle of the plains were sometimes driven into a corral of or pound an the slaughtered. A circular fence was constructed, and with less labor involved by having the shaggy creatures take off from top of the enclosure and make crash landings at the bottom—hence the name Jumping Pound.

A little to the north of Stettler lies a lake which appears, on early maps of the Northwest as Buli Lake. A considerable population of numerous bison in summer, it was formerly a much larger body of water than it is today, and as its shape then resembled that of the hide of one of these animals

THE GENERAL PRACTITIONER AND THE SPECIALIST

It has been said that a specialist is a man who knows a great deal about very little, and one who goes on he gets to know more and more of less and less until ultimately he winds up knowing everything about nothing.

And a general practitioner is a man who knows very little about everything and finally winds up knowing nothing about everything.

85 per cent of all ailments of man-kind — medical, surgical and obstetrical are handled very competently by general practioners.

In large cities particularly there seems to be a growing tendency, for people to seek specialists rather than general practitioners to treat self-diagnosed illnesses. There is a great deficiency in his back may assume he has "weak kidneys" or "kidney disease," and therefore decides to look up a specialist in that line in order to get what he considers is the best care available.

In some sections it is especially unfortunate for a young mother to have to admit that her baby is under the care of the family physician. The hoity-toity members of that set of whom take their children to a specialist because she suspects, inclined to regard the family physician as incompetent as one who is not too bright and possibly not able to afford the care a specialist offers.

A specialist is indispensable in the present day scheme of medicine. When all or nearly all of his practice is confined to one line of practice to a limited field of medicine, it stands to reason that he will have a more thorough grasp of the more complicated or unusual diseases falling within his specialty than a specialty than a general practitioner might have, but there is no reason to suppose that his competence is any greater in the 85 per cent of cases that the general practitioner handles competently, than in the general practitioner.

The general practitioner receives an average income not comparable to that of the doctor who specializes only in surgery or in gynecology. And a general practitioner may feel that his specialized colleagues are under the assumption of the responsibility and will suggest the services of the specialist only in cases that be.

The general practitioner delivers the vast majority of babies with skill and competence equal to the specialist's. He may decide at times, in view of a threatening complication, that the skilled services of a specialist will further insure the welfare of his patient, and this is as it should be.

Ideally, a specialist should come into action as the result of the family doctor's and patient's request. The referring doctor is in a position to know the extent of the competence of the specialist — something that "specialist-seeker" would have no way of knowing—and a patient thus directed has every reason to proceed with confidence. In this arrangement, the reputation of the referring doctor is just as much at stake as the specialist's.

There is no reason—moral or ethical—why a doctor should not limit his practice to what he likes and to what he feels he is most competent in. And there is no reason why he should not develop a practice based almost entirely upon a physician-recommendation rather than physician-recommendation. But either way he chooses he should do his best advertisement is his work—and not the sign in front of it.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Leg Cramps at Night

Please send me literature on nocturnal leg cramps. Where can one obtain tetany? (K.L.D.)

Answer — I have no literature. On written request I'll send a booklet entitled Writer's Cramp and Acuit Tetany if you provide stamped self-addressed envelope.

The Menopause

Once you recommended a good booklet on the menopause for women but I have mislaid the name of it. Please give it to me again while I'd like to get a copy. I am approaching the critical age. (Miss M.C.)

Answer — You're lucky. I mean lucky that you haven't had the name of the doctor book. Your education was neglected — else you would have no mental record of the so-called "critical age"—forty or fifty is a period to be passed as ten or twenty. Quit listening to old wives' tales. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet The Menopause.

Indigestion, Eh?

Had I the information in your possession when I was a very young-er I might have avoided much suffering. My physician in the Toronto Hospital sent me home and assured me I could do no more. Will you follow your advice about the acidity — - he is right noted — (R.L.)

Answer —Any reader may send twenty-five cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for the booklet So You Have Indigestion? (Copyright 1950 by John F. Dills Co.)

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GROWING PAINS

We ought not to become too easily discouraged in this life. Nothing worth while is attained often come not singly, but in droves! They may be, however, no greater than we can bear, and we have come to us thus to test our courage, our endurance, and our faith.

Even unbaptized men in some farm or other, may be no more than growing pains getting in their work. It is well for us to be remembered that these pains are the basis of any particular period in life, but endured and through the years.

How often a man is suddenly given a responsible task, for which he may think he is ill endowed, but who arises to the occasion, demonstrating that growing pains have come through a long period, without which he could not succeed.

During long periods of discouragement these growing pains are experienced. They really are the promise of happier days. So we should remember to "hang on," when things seem darkest, for here are rare changes forever a day but what the sun actually breaks through the clouds.

It is heartening to know that these growing pains come to all of us, even those who are the most educated to the very elect. They put all to the severest tests and proves we all ought to be at all times anyway. Universal sympathy and understanding would make the world! Perhaps this old earth of ours is now in the throes of its growing pains! If it is, then let us hope and pray that universal peace and brotherhood will come through the years.

The greater the shadow the more pronounced the sunshine behind. So it is with our lives when we get lowest in spirit those growing pains may be nearer us a noble triumph than ever before. Let us not be discouraged at such a time. The dawn may be but a few hours away. When you feel most like giving up—don't! Let those growing pains do their best. It is then that we are nearest a darkest just before dawn.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SOMETHING TO LIVE BY

Some people are there to whom life is overwhelmed by a great sorrow, they begin, if they are courageous, to think of the things they have to live for. Perhaps they have children to live for, or parents, or a spouse. They live on day by day with courage and resolution.

This is fine, but there is something even finer; it is magnificent to see a person who, when he has been thoroughly beaten by life's circumstances decides nevertheless to live on courageously.

But how much easier it is for him to bow his head and die in addition to the determination to live on and be courageous. Then for some great end or for some person who needs him, this person has in his life something that is worth living. Courage is never enough. We are not meant to secure unless there are great spiritual experiences that we can cast the anchor of our hopes.

In the Bible there always is a God in heaven and that He is just and loving! Do you believe that? Are you established through His Son, who is ever near the needy to bring them strength? Do you believe in the potency of prayer? Do you believe that all these things are possible? If you believe them you have God! Here are the spiritual realities to which to cast your anchor.

If you will ponder on these you be sure that you have something in your life to live for.

MARMORA

Mrs. Percy Gray New President Women's Inst.

Marmora—The annual meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held in the home of Mesdames C. Skinner and R. E. Neal, on Wednesday evening, was marked with the gratifying attendance of 30 members and two visitors. Mrs. E. Brady occupied the chair.

Interesting and varied responses were given to the roll call "Your favorite bird and where found?" The correspondence period was featured with the reading of two impressive letters: One was from the director of the "Maids of Dimes" appealing for aid. This matter will receive consideration at the May meeting. The other letter asked for a goodly attendance of members by the Branch the meeting to be held in Hollow Tree, United Church, Belleville on May 9th, which is to be addressed by Mrs. B. Sayre, International president and Lady Cynthia Brooke, wife of the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland.

The financial statement given by Mrs. W. J. Carter, disclosed the raising of well over $900 in the past year, and a balance of $21 on hand after the year's many obligations had been met. The branch was congratulated by the district president, Mrs. Claude Clancy for its most successful year.

Mrs. C. Connor and Mrs. I. B. Nichol then received the presentation of a life membership pin and certificate at the hands of the president, Mrs. Wesley Grant and Mrs. Robert Phillips, to whom the same honor has been accorded were unable to be present to receive theirs.

The general business it was decided to hold a bake-sale on April 22nd. Plans to put on a play in the early fall received consideration. Reports were then given by the convenors of the standing committees.

New Officers

The slate of new officers was read by Mrs. F. Sweet. Mrs. Clancy was called upon to conduct the election, which resulted as follows—

President, Mrs. P. Gray; 1st vice president, Mrs. H. P. Nayler; 2nd vice president, Mrs. F Grant; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. Brady; pianist, Mrs. E. Belanger; directors, Mesdames F. Grant, R. E. Neal and G. Sabine; District director, Mrs E. Brady; auditors, Mrs. H. Vanstone and Mrs. J. Thompson.

Convenors of Standing Committees

Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. Chas. Sopha; Citizenship and Education, Mrs. R. E. Neal; Community Activities and Public Relations, Mrs. F. G. Prentice; Historical Research and Current Events, Miss Grace Warren; Home Economics and Health, Mrs. H. P. Nayler; Publicity, Mrs. H. W. Sabine.

Mrs. Clancy then gave a splendid paper on "Important Canadian Women", who was followed by a reading on the motto, "I like to see a smiling face. It acts like a tonic" by Mrs. W. D. Lavender. Mrs. L. B. Rundle sang "Sunshine Girl of Mine", to her own accompaniment.

Votes of thanks to the district president and to the retiring president were given. After the meeting closed refreshments were served. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Brady.

WEDDINGS

CONLEY—LINKIE

The parsonage of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the scene of a pretty spring wedding on Saturday, April 8th, when Rev. Donald C. Amos united in marriage Miss Margaret Linkie, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Linkie, Maynooth, and Wilmot John Conley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Conley, Wellington.

The bride looked very charming in a beige gabardine suit with blue accessories. Her corsage was red Pierson roses and fern.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Morley Conley.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl and ruby matching earrings; to the bridesmaid, a jewel box; and brooches; to the best man a wallet.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple motored to Ivy Lea for New York City on their honeymoon. They will reside at the groom's farm, near Wellington.

On the evening of Monday, April 10, on the occasion of their wedding trip which included a visit to Toronto, Niagara Falls and New York City, Mr. Wilmot Conley and bride (nee Miss Hazel Linkie of Maynooth), were tendered a pleasant reception at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Conley, Wellington. The guests numbered some fifty relatives.

The rooms, tastefully decorated in pink and white were very invitingly. A delicious and sumptuous supper was served at small tables, the bridal table was decorated with pink and white, centered with a large wedding cake.

The couple received many beautiful gifts. The guests departed wishing them much happiness in the future.

MAY—MILLER

A quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated on Monday, April 10th, at 10.30 a.m. in Trinity Anglican Church, Bethesda, Ontario, when Margaret Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, R.R. No. 4, Blenheim, Ontario, became the bride of Orval Harold May, Belleville, R.R. No. 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles May, The Reverend John Henderson, of Blenheim officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming gown of yellow printed silk a street length fitted jacket, short sleeves and elbow length gloves She wore a white hat, and corsage of yellow pansies.

Mrs. Guy Tole, of Blenheim attended the bride, and wore a green and brown taffeta gown with matching accessories, while Mr. John Miller, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom.

Following the reception at the bride's home, the young couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wearing her bridal dress, topped by a grey coat.

Upon their return, they will reside on the bridegroom's farm.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

We know of two shack bars near here called the Pig and Whistle. Such a title is a common one for pubs in England and familiar to Canadian servicemen who served overseas . . . But however would they link a pig and whistle into a name for a bar in the first place? Well, it seems these two words in the original Anglo Saxon were "pagan wassail." Hung over a doorway, they implied that there one could obtain the "peasant ale" of the day.

When Piers Plowman set to writing about that Col. Kennedy was one of the first members of the CWAC's and one of its first officers. Women in Canada's Armed Services contributed much to the nation's war effort. It is good to see that they are continuing to band together voluntarily.

E. P. Taylor, chairman of Canadian Breweries Ltd., says "Useless brewing industry enjoys a tax reduction, it may be faced with the necessity of making another price increase."

Nothing like wind storms to make people realize how helpless we would be if enemy bombs or saboteurs were to strike at our electric power lines. Most houses are so electrified today that when the hydro is off, a person can't keep warm, cook anything, or see. In fact, in some houses where there are electric water pumps you can neither drink, nor use the bathroom.

Uncle Frontenac says he wishes some people would stop annoying him by insisting that oil is just as cheap as coal to heat with.

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about Food . . . What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

The sand in your spinach may be running out.

If you've ever gritted your teeth before and after cooking spinach, you'll welcome the announcement of a new spinach plant developed at Belle Grade, Florida.

Although it is still in the experimental stage, and not yet on the market, the new tropical leaf plant roughly stands 18 to 24 inches above the ground and sand. The large leaf can be harvested all year round, instead of hand. This means cheaper spinach.

The flavor is a little sharper than that of regular leaf spinach, but the sharpness is not unpleasant and gives a lively taste to Popeye's favorite. Spinach and potato soup has the kind of refreshing flavor that people look for in springtime menus. It should be slightly thickened with flour, but not gooey.

If you want to avoid the use of flour altogether, you can pour the hot thin soup over one or two slightly beaten eggs and serve the soup immediately or keep it hot in a double boiler until needed.

Spinach and Potato Soup Serves 6

Melt 2 tablespoons fat in a soup pot. Add 1-4 cup onions chopped fine, 1 clove of garlic chopped fine and 1-4 teaspoon powdered thyme... Simmer slowly until onion turns yellow. Remove from flame.

Add 2 tablespoons flour, mixing well.

Remove root ends and thick part of stems from 1 pound fresh spinach. Wash in 6 rinsings of cold water, stirring vigorously each time to remove sand.

Place spinach with 1-2 inch of water in a saucepan fitted with tight lid. Sprinkle with 1-2 teaspoon salt. Cook over a low flame until spinach is tender about 10 minutes. Drain spinach. Save liquid. Chop spinach fine.

Add spinach and juice to onions in soup pot. Add 2 cups chicken stock or hot water mixed with 3 bouillon cubes. Return pot to flame.

Add 1 cup of potatoes cut into small cubes and 1 cup of celery cut into 1-4 inch squares. Simmer slowly until vegetables are tender 20-30 minutes. Skim off excess fat.

In a separate saucepan bring 1-2 cup milk and 1-2 cup light cream or evaporated milk to a boil. Add to soup. Remove from flame. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Keep each portion of soup with a tablespoon of sour cream before serving.

Do you want a particular recipe, or have you a cooking problem? Write Mario, care this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, envelope for his reply. —Ed.

MUST HAVE HAD A GOOD BUDGET

Mrs. Elizabeth Spear, 50-year-old Atlanta, Ga., woman who said she "scrimped and saved" all her life tearfully counts part of the $65,000 she kept in a flour sack after learning that the U.S. government wants to take more than $500,000. Mrs. Spear took the sack of coins and currency to police headquarters when she was arrested on charges of selling liquor illegally. When Mrs. Spear was released on bond, a federal writ directed Police Chief Lamar Jenkins to hold $50,587.94 of her money until further notice.—Central Press Canadian.

Girl Guide Activities

Guiders, Guides, Brownies and members of the Girl Guide Local Association are very well pleased with the results of Cookie Day, and wish to thank the public for the splendid co-operation in this effort, It is to become a early event in the lives of Guides and Brownies so next year we will be around to see you again.

5th Belleville Brownies. Last meeting eight more Tweenies were enrolled, the girls being Rose Marie Harrop, Carolyn Fox, Jacqueline Tanner, Bernadette Ross, Maureen O'Sullivan, Sharron Ross, Catherine Patterson, and Mary Jane Brown. Owl Leach of the 4th Belleville Brownies took the enrollment and did splendid job, as she pinned the Brownie Recruit Pin on the tie of the new Brownie, she told them it represented the spirit of Brownies, and each time they looked at it to remember the promise they had just made. In Powwow ring Brownie Revels were planned to be pack the important of our uniform, which is worn a uniform and also how it should be worn. It was again very encouraging to see the numbers of the new Brownies in attendance. Their presence means so much to the Brownies, especially at enrollment.

Before closing the pack had a game "Sandy Girl" then Brownie Taps and on leaving made a Good-Bye Tunnel. A big thanks to Brown Owl Leach for her part at this meeting in making it one long to be remembered Brownies. Is it the weekend who now look forward to the time when they will earn their Golden Bars.

BEAUTY Armored With Pearl Glamor

By HELEN JAMIESON

Short girls who would be taller

When the pint-sized girl becomes the fact that nature short changed her in inches, don't feel sorry for her. She knows that she's cute, wouldn't be other than she is. It is the way of the sisters to lament about so-called good looks grievances which, oftener than not, exist only in the imagination.

The tabloid girl, if neatly formed, is an object of admiration. Notice—perhaps you have—how many huge bulks of handsome husbands are walking humbly in the glory of pretty, wee wives. Men seem to like them small. When young guys are talking about girls, how often one will say, 'She's pretty and she's cute."

But, for the sake of the lassies who would be taller, we offer this advice. When nature gets through with the growing process, there is no change of increasing stature. In the early teens something can be done to promote growth. Little One should spend as much time out of doors as possible. She should breathe fresh air to keep the circulation brisk, receive the vitalizing effects of sunlight. The mineral elements of the bones come from the sun, the air and the earth. So, if you are a borer or and would be taller, take to outdoor sports in a big way. Swim, play tennis, walk and bicycle in the summer-time; skate when the snow is falling.

As for diet, one quart of rich, creamy milk a day is a requirement, not only because of the bone-forming calcium content, but because milk contains many the elements necessary for nourishment and well-being. The intake of protein—meat, cheese and eggs—should be increased. She who would grow into a big girl should have a balanced diet so that the vitamins will be included. She needs meat, fish, eggs, cereals, fruit and fruit juices, vegetables and plenty of water.

Undernourishment or lack of sufficient sleep, may stunt the growth. Of course, there is the matter of inheritance to be considered. If a girl had wanted to be "tall and slender as the lily" she should have selected tall parents. If hers are shorties, what can she expect?

In matters of dress the full-grown child has every advantage. She can meander into the misses department of a shop, select a feminine model, wear it and get away with it, whereas the young lady who has expanded to size sixteen must, naturally, wear more dignified clothes. She must not, of course, dress to age, but to size, while the small girl need never think of age at all; even when she gets to be middle-aged she can trot around in cunning, tricky attire.

The small girl takes satisfaction in her tiny hands and feet that make an appeal to the masculine contingent.

CHOKED TO DEATH

Montreal, April 14 — (CP)—Andre Robert, eight-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gatian Robert, choked to death Thursday night when a pill stuck in his throat. Police said the baby was undergoing treatment and the pill was the third administered him. On Wednesday, little Andre swallowed two pills without apparent difficulty.

ANTALGINE

By PRUNELLA WOOD

NOW AND again an old friend puts on such a pretty new face that our compliments are embarrassing . . . make her think she must look like a doll's mother, we go on so about her new looks.

Not so, as an argument, we all know; take pearls. Nothing can match the popularity of the pearl bead choker. But isn't this design capable of pearl beads crocheted into shape with loose gilt metal loops, something to stop as the fad parade? Wear it thus as a hood; as a peplum.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

His fiancee thinks all women are her rivals

A young man, who writes me that the girl in whom he is interested "looks upon all other girls as her rivals," is baffled as to how to handle her extreme jealousy.

Apparently, the girl's sense of proportion is so completely out of balance that she even tries to censor the young man's reading matter lest he might enjoy the picture of a pretty girl in some magazine. Conventional polliteness on his part toward casual female acquaintances becomes to her distorted and hysterical way of thinking, inordinate interest transferred from herself to them.

Now it goes without saying, of course, that any girl so emotionally off-key had better stay single, both for her own sake and the sake of any possible husband. If she is so possessed by jealousy before marriage, she will be even worse afterward. There is no more certain fact than this.

Obviously, a girl who feels that all women are her rivals is a girl who lives in constant fear that one of them will get her man away from her. The root of such a fear, it goes without saying, lies in a very deep-seated feeling of insecurity and a complete lack of self-confidence. She has actually faith in her young man that she lacks, but faith in her own ability to hold him. If she were sure of herself, she would feel in no danger from other women.

A person whose wholelife is colored by such a fear that is born of such feelings can only be straightened out by a psychiatrist. If she can be made to see that the true source of her jealousy lies within herself, and that by gaining insight into her own feelings and motives she can build up self-confidence that will dissipate the jealousy, she can eventually, no doubt, make some man a good wife. But until her personality does undergo such a change, no outside circumstances, however favorable, will enable her to do so.

The first step for anyone so afflicted is to realize the vital necessity of a new outlook on life. The second step is to determine to seek expert help and advice in achieving that outlook, and furthermore, to resolve to follow the suggested advice.

Unless and until this girl is willing to take those two steps, her attitude should, and almost certainly will, act as a red flag of warning to any man who comes courting.

Fashion Flashes

IF IT ISN'T A CAPE, chances are that it's a cape collar or cape sleeves on the smartest coats about town just now. Gray flannel for a slender coat in which to enjoy the April sunshine. Rounded collar that finish at a wide cape sleeves.

INFORMAL COSTUMES for the bride, for her first or second wedding, are really handsome. Designed for an afternoon wedding is a dress of navy silk crepe with ten inserted panels of navy lace. Diagonal seaming marks the torso. Fullness begins at a low hipline, and there is a stiffened double lace collar in a trumpet silhouette.

A BOON to the hard-of-hearing is a new series of lovely hats that completely conceal receiver and transmitter cord. Typical of the group is a black milan hat with a shower of white lilacs

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

A paper shower . . . practical, decorative, inexpensive gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a bride-to-be has been given several impromptu showers ...such as a linen shower, a china shower, electric accessories, and a personal shower . . . or when as certainly is the case, she is the case, the friends who are to attend the shower have very limited budgets, what can you suggest as a nice shower to give, something very inexpensive but still practical and useful! Many of our friends are asking just this question too!

Josephine B.

I suggest a Paper Shower. The gifts for this shower can be most decorative and charming, very inexpensive, practical and most welcome incidental equipment for the new home. Here are suggestions: shelf-papers and per decorative edgings for shelves; lace-paper doilies (particularly beautiful today), in various sizes and various designs; paper napkins, in lovely designs, wide range of color and quality; and/or (think, is best taste); place mats, tray doilies; large and small serviets; white place cards, with plain edges or silver or gilt edges; paper or parchment lamp shades; scrap books; neat of boxes for bureau or dresser drawers; decorative wrapping papers for special occasions (birthday, Christmas, Easter, Valentine's day) and/or for general gift-wrappings; pictures; decorative paper boxes; waste baskets; box of book plates for "their" books; rolls of paper towels with fancy or plain borders; boxes of guest towels or fingertip towels (unusually decoractive designs in these); group of "Remember" cards or telephone-message pads; and stationery or notepaper, with boxes, for each.

Then one could add a guest book for a wedding reception, should the formal or informal name be written? That is, should I sign "Mrs. John Smith" or "Mary Smith"? I'm always perplexed about this, and now that I've been invited to several spring weddings, I'd like to be positive about the form.

Frances L.

You should sign your informal name. . . Frances Lane, for example. It would, if you figure it out, be inconsistent and inappropriate for a wedding guest to sign her formal name in such a personal record-of-guests. If you sign for your husband too, write John and Frances Lane. If he signs for both, he should write, Frances and John Lane.

Popular Gray Suit

Cost and suit ensemble

By VERA WINSTON

DESPITE all the talk about navy and the various beige tones, gray still stands as a popular color. It is such a good background color, so nice with different shades and so neat and fresh looking that it is a perennial best-seller. Light weight yarn-dyed worsted is used for this suit in medium gray created with nice detail, such as the lapped over pockets at the hips. There are square black gores buttons at the front closing and the pockets. The while pique collar is removable. The straight skirt has a front slit. With the suit is worn a twin fabric top coat with a hairline plaid pattern etched throughout.

GRIM WEATHER

New York, April 14 — (AP) — New York City's weather, defying the seasons for the second day in a row, today served up nose-diving temperatures and snow at breakfast time. The mercury hit a low for the date of 25.2 degrees at 6:45 a.m. EST, while snow swirled over Manhattan for the second successive morning. The previous April 14 low mark was 28.3 degrees in 1940.

A HONEY of a color for Spring is just that —honey. It is especially beautiful with the new sheers, the organzas and satin-striped taffetas favored for important summer wear. Honey silk organza makes a strapless evening frock, the bodice heavily embroidered with tiny gold sequins. The matching stole is heavily all-over embroidered.

THIS SUMMER will see the nylon negligee well launched. Ankle-length nylon in wide net is used for a practical, wrapped robe with V-neck and flaring cap sleeves that reach to the elbow. Done in pastels with deep tones of nylon velvet ribbon at the waist. A good traveller!

NOVELTIES abound in the new collections, and the variety of innovations are really useful. For instance, printed chiffon and taffeta, both in the identical colora and print, combine for a beautiful dress. The chiffon is used for the big, billowy, pleated sleeves, and for the skirt, while the silk crepe is for the opaque bodice.

Miss M. Hawthorne Gives Talk on Ireland At Kiwanis Club

Madoc — Kiwanis Club members, their wives and guests enjoyed a fine chicken dinner at Blue's dining room when they met for their regular weekly meeting on Friday night.

Miss Phyllis Beatty, accompanied by Stanley Hawthorne at the piano, rendered several vocal numbers which were much appreciated.

The guest speaker, Miss Marie Hawthorne, a niece of Mr. and hrs. W. Hawthorne, was introduced by her cousin, Stanley Hawthorne. Miss Hawthorne, whose home is in Belfast, Ireland, is one of ninety exchange teachers in the United States.

She gave a fine talk on her native land and also on the exchange program and its purpose which was to receive first hand information about the States by living in American homes and teaching as nearly as possible in the way the Americans do, at the same time telling the Americans as much as possible about her own country. She said that this information had given her a new view of Americans and their customs and felt that the exchange system might be carried out in other walks of life such industry and farm labor.

Compares Ireland and U. S.

In speaking of her own country Ireland, she stated that while they have poor land and poor people, they also have fine farmlands and beautiful homes. The Irish take great pride in the lawns and gardens which to them is really an art.

As to climate, Ireland has longer growing seasons, and mild winters. Distances and speed U.S.A. impressed Miss Hawthorne. In Ireland a trip to the sea shore of approximately 60 miles would be quite an event, and took all day. In this country 75 or 100 miles is considered nothing and easily accomplished in an evening.

The speaker was thanked for her talk by Charles Johnson.

ONDA PERFORMS DESPITE SUICIDE OF HIS WIFE

Beacon, N.Y., April 15. (AP)—Henry Fonda went back to Broadway Friday night after his wife's husband-wife funeral and played "Mr. Roberts" to an audience that wavered the first news of her suicide from seat to Thirteen hours before—shortly after dawn Friday—the actor's heartbroken wife had cut her throat from ear to ear with razor blade.

She was in a private sanatorium here, 40 miles north of New York City, and was believed to be recovering from a nervous breakdown that followed her conviction a divorce.

Fonda disclosed plans for a divorce last December, but this is the sorts of a romance with Miss Bushand.

Until then, his marriage had been considered for years as one of the smoothest in Hollywood and Broadway.

No legal action for divorce had been started.

In the 26 months of the hit, "Mr. Roberts," Fonda never missed one of the 882 performances. But his understudy, Marshall Jamison ,was rehearsing the part when Fonda, pale with fatigue, strode into the Alvin Theatre an hour before curtain time and shortly after a simple, private funeral service in Beacon.

"Are you going to go on?" asked his press agent, Leo Friedman.

"I don't know," said the tall, lanky, boyish-looking actor. "It's awfully hard to say how I feel." Then he hurried

Then Leland Hayward, the show's producer, told him that only a fraction of the audience would know of Mrs. Fonda's death, and that he would bar the press from the theatre.

"It could do a performance," Fonda finally agreed.

As "Mr. Roberts" he is the first male to act emotionally tense wartime sea drama, relieved by interludes of rowdy comedy.

"He was even sharper than usual," one follower of the play said afterwards.

Mrs. Fonda was the former Frances Seymour. When Fonda married her in 1936, she was the young and wealthy widow of the late millionaire George Tuttle Brokaw.

She was the mother of the actor's two children, Jane, 12, and Peter, 9. By her marriage she had a grown daughter, Frances, who married last year.

Whooping Crane Does Pooly In Captivity

Washington, April 15— (AP)— A helicopter-captured whooping crane, is doing so poorly he has scientists worried.

Nick-named Mac, he's worth his weight in diamonds in the eyes of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service because there are only 36 other whooping cranes in the world, as far as any one knows. And they're all in one flock.

Apparently the 36 cranes gangued up on Mac, shortly after his recent arrival at the Aransas National wildlife refuge, in Texas, and then took off toward the north pole. Like people, they were choosy.

Arkansas attendants who found Mac, badly bruised and bleeding, patched him up but still can't get him to eat much, said Richard E. Griffith, the refuge chief of the F. and W. service here.

Currently they're force-feeding him. If the bird's appetite — and interest in life — don't revive soon, the world before long may be down to its last whooping cranes.

Wildlife experts captured Mac near Gueydan, La., a month ago by "herding" him to a lake with two helicopters and then forcing him on to the water by the downdraft of the rotors. One "copter landed on the lake and took the bird prisoner.

The whooping crane is the continent's tallest bird. More than six feet tall when it stands on tip-toe, it has wings almost seven feet long.

INQUEST ADJOURNED

Toronto, April 15 — (CP) — Coroner Sheldon Lewans, adjourned his inquest into the fatal injuries of Morris Baliasky, 72, struck by car March 31, 72 hours after he left police to look for a taxicab driver who drove the injured man to hospital.

FINDINGS WOULD

In the case of the biggest group of unions—the International Brotherhood representing 80,000 members—the labor members wrote an opinion declaring inflation should not be given to their demand for the 40-hour week, with no loss in pay, a seven-cents-an-hour increase. He was Alfred J. Wickens, K.C., of Calgary.

Went Part of Way

The labor member on the board dealing with the requests of the all-Canadian unions with 34,000 members — James A. Coote of Montreal — turned down the union demand for a general pay increase but went part of the way with the unions on the shorter week.

He recommended the 44-hour week without reduction in takehome pay. Mr. Coote also approved the principle of the railways checking off union dues as sought by the all-Canadian unions.

The all-Canadian unions involved are the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, with about 30,000 members, and the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, with about 4,000 members, both affiliates of the Canadian Congress of Labor. The 13 international unions, all affiliated with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and some with the American Federation of Labor, have 90,000 members.

While their combined membership is 130,000, the boards calculated that—on the assumption that the 40-hour week would mean a reduction of 10 per cent in working hours—the railways would be obliged to grant wage concessions to other employees— These would involve about 130,000 workers.

Throw Wages Out of Line

For the union employees alone, they suggested, the proposed shortened work week would involve around $19,000,000 a year, though the unions had contended it would be much less. This stacked up against railway estimates of $84,000,000 as the cost of the whole wage-increase, short-hour project put up by the unions.

The majority reports suggested that a wage increase of such scope would throw rail wages out of line with those in other Canadian industries.

They declared railway workers had had increases since 1939 of $68.57 a month, noting that the 17-cents-an-hour wage increase they got in the summer of 1946 had averaged out to $33.36 a month.

No Strike Was Anticipated

In the present case, the workers have not yet got to the point of taking a strike vote. One was taken in 1946, and all parties were ready for the strike when the federal Department stepped in.

At that time, the majority finding of a conciliation board was for a general increase of seven cents an hour — against the 35 cents originally asked.

The judgment of the court board boils down to about the same thing. The affected employees would get an increase of 6.8 cents an hour and less pay for the shorter week.

The 6,000-word majority report on the International Unions' dispute — which is substantially similar to that of the other board — said existing the union demands would -boost rail wages above those of any industry in the country except "hazardous" coal mining, and nothing had been put before the board to show that railwaymen were entitled to such an advantage over other workers.

Called Unreasonable

The shorter-hour, wage-increase proposals were described in the majority report as "not reasonable," and "revolutionary".

The two board members, Mr. Justice Wilson and Isaac Pitblado of Winnipeg, railway nominee, described the scheme as a "radical social experiment" which would be "novel and costly." They warned against imposing such costs on the railways as might result in their pricing themselves out of the market for traffic.

The majority suggested that a hefty boost in rail wages might have an effect on Canada's export trade, apparently on the theory that a freight-rate increase— which might follow a big wage increase — would have to be taken into account in the cost of shipping goods overseas.

Would Receive Loss

The majority said the granting of "unduly high" wages to rail labor would mean that producers of export commodities would receive less for their output.

The argument must not be utilized to unduly and unfairly depress the wages of railway workers," the finding said. "It is merely an additional reason for the exercise of care . . . to ensure that railway workers shall not unfairly benefit at the expense of the general public."

Hospital Bd. Asks Council For $125,000 to Complete Construction of Building

Trenton (Special) — A special meeting of the town council was held Thursday night to deal with a request from the hospital board for $125,000 to complete the Trenton and District Memorial Hospital.

Wm. Ireland, chairman of the hospital board, said that this amount would finish the construction of the hospital.

"This is greatly needed institution," said Mr. Ireland "and it is a model hospital, taking into consideration the size and cost. We have tried every possible means to raise the required amount but now as a last resort we are appealing to the council. The federal government has allowed us $4,800 and we expect $1,000 from the Red Cross. The hospital will be $500,000 when completed, and, according to the architect's fee will be $18,000."

$13,800 Upkeep

The budget of the hospital in its present condition including oil for heating, wages, fire insurance etc., amounts to $13,800 per year, it was revealed by Mr. Ireland.

The question of a nurse's training school was answered by Mr. Ireland as he pointed out that a hospital employing under one hundred nurses and Trenton would do, are allowed to hire graduate nurses but any hospital over one hundred nurses are required to have a training school.

Councillor Vic Ross said that if $125,000 would finish the job, he would certainly be in favor of granting the debenture. Councillor Clarence Sager also stated that in his opinion their were various people in Trenton who could well afford to contribute the entire amount without passing it on to the ratepayers.

Mayor Ken Couch said that the hospital board had made a mistake when, at the first of the campaign, they had accepted only those donations of $30 or over. "If smaller amounts had been accepted," said Mayor Couch, the people might have contributed more often."

Suggests Plebiscite

Councillor Ross Burtt said that the only way was to have the people vote on the debenture at a plebiscite. "It is the ratepayers' who will have to pay the extra two or three mills so it is up to them whether the debenture will be granted or not."

be granted or not." he commented.

It was decided to take the matter up at a further council meeting. If council decides to hold a plebiscite, it will take place during the last week in May.

Motorcyclist Injured

Walter Fox, R.R. No. 1, Trenton, sustained severe injuries while riding his motorcycle, a witness to the accident, Herb Doyle, 467 Front St., stated that Fox was apparently close and he make a turn and that when he struck the curb, it threw him for a distance of about 25 feet. His motorcycle was found with a broken frame and smashed headlight lying across the nearby railway tracks.

Fox was attended by Dr. J. V. Byrne, who ordered him removed to the Belleville General Hospital.

Pennywell, Sunderland, England (CP)— Workers are moving in this town found skulls, bones and cannonballs. It is said that the site was the scene of a civil war battle in 1649.

Union Asks For Meeting With Council

Trenton—(Special)— A delegation of about twenty-five Domtex Coulter strikers led by George Beckett, A.F.L. organizer, presented themselves quite unexpected before the council Thursday night to request an audience with the mayor and council at the earliest possible date.

After conferring with the members of the council Mayor Kenneth Couch told Beckett that a meeting could be arranged for next Monday night in the municipal offices.

Although the actual reason for the meeting was not disclosed, Mr. Beckett said it would involve a direct blast at the recent alleged finding of hidden microphones in a room adjacent to the police station, which was being used of a union meeting.

Kaiser-Frazer Lost Over Thirty Millions in 1949

Detroit, April 15. (AP)—Kaiser-Frazer Corporation lost $30,329,351 last year.

This was disclosed in the automobile corporation's annual financial statement, issued today. It compares with a net profit of $10,382,098 after all taxes, in 1948.

Kaiser-Frazer's experience ran contrary to that of the industry in general in 1949.

Earnings were at a new high with a record production of 8,208,000 cars and trucks.

Big General Motors earned $656,434,233, after $132,170,096.

But K-F is optimistic about the future. It has three new models in production or soon to reach the assembly lines, and Edgar F. Kaiser, president, believes most of its losses "are behind us".

The financial statement listed last year's total sales at $104,474,189. In 1948 they totalled $341,352,441.

Livestock Auction Prices Strong

For the second week in succession strong pricing were obtained at the auction held at the Belleville Livestock Sales immediately north of the city. After a record opening day attendance a week ago buyers and district farmers again this week crowded the large sales pavilion.

Calf prices this week were: top, 30 cts; medium, 24-28; light 20-22 and young calves from $12 to $30 each.

Top bull prices were $21.25; light bologna, $16.50; best, good to choice $20-21.25; medium cows $18-20; canners and cutters $15-18 Heavy feeder steers and springers ranged from $160 to $215.

Lambs ranged from $10 to $12 each with feeders ranging from 50 to 100 pounds at 23 and 24 cents.

Outlines Method Of Forecasting Business Activity

BY FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

A yardstick for measuring what is going to happen in business is offered by an American commentator.

He is Frank D. Newbury, retired director, vice-president and economist of Westinghouse Electric Corporation, and he says that business men who would be forecasters should learn as much as they can about the investment plans of business firms and government agencies.

There are, says Mr. Newbury, six types of investment spending to watch: Private construction; producers' durable equipment; changes in business inventories; excess of goods and services exported over corresponding imports; federal government purchases from business, either for construction or other items; state (provincial) and local government purchases from business.

If the total of these can be expected to increase "it is logical to expect an increasing trend in general business activity." Mr. Newbury cautions against opinions based on one kind of investment alone. It is the total of all six that is significant."

Here and There

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. of Canada, Ltd., shipped $4,000,000 worth of fertilizer to world markets from its Trail, B.C., chemical plants in March, an all-time record. It would require a single train 15 miles long to carry it.

The Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy convention in Toronto April 17-19 will devote a full day to the oil resources of Western Canada. Another day will be taken up with uranium.

A study of Newfoundland's Newfoundland Pulp and Paper Mills, Ltd., by British Secretary, Hall, Toronto, says the company, an $85,000,000 enterprise, employs nearly 6,000 people and adds $24,000,000 United States dollars yearly to the credit side of Canada's foreign-trade account.

United States Department of Commerce experts, as quoted by Wall Street Journal, estimate that between 300,000 and 343,000 Americans will visit Europe this year and spend $200,000,000 here, topping the 1949 post-war record.

In an effort to bring Canadian manufacturers and buyer touch with United States customs problems and distribution factors, the Export Study Club of Toronto is arranging a trip to Detroit April 20-21.

NO EXPLOSION

Cleveland, April 15 (AP)— A Cleveland transit system trackless trolley carrying 4 passengers collided with a truck hauling 28,000 pounds of nitroglycerine here Friday night but there was no explosion and no injury.

Workers Swelter In 65 Below Zero As Dam Built

Big River, Sask., April 15—(CP) —Rugged men, Water Westerners Or so it would seem in taking a glance at the feet of 30 Regina men. Working in their shirt sleeves, in temperatures that descended to 65 below zero, they built a concrete dam. But there is an explanation for this seemingly rugged feat of human endurance.

In order that the concrete wouldn't set too quickly, a wooden, canvas-covered, insulated housing was built where the water runs from the northwest end of Cowan Lake, 100 miles northwest of Prince Albert.

Steam poured through wide-open valves to keep the inside warm and humid. From September, through one of the north's coldest winters, the building went on man-made summer.

The dam is rated an important engineering triumph over nature.

Adjoining is the old wooden dam, turned last summer by a forest fire. Deep frost prevented workmen from removing its burned pilings, but they will be taken out when the dam is finished.

The concrete dam holds back a 16 to 20 foot waterhead. It has eight gates to control the flow of the lake, which drains toward the Arctic Ocean. Across the top is a four-foot catwalk.

Last week Ivery Howelin, the dam keeper, manned his post. As he went in, the construction crew was moving its equipment, living, offices and bunkhouses, down the narrow, winding trail to the River, at the other end of Cowan Lake.

With the new dam built and an ultra-modern lumber mill almost completed, this frontier town is getting ready for big times. Up the lake, 2,500,000 feet of logs are waiting to be floated south.

Old-timers say that not since 1921, when the mill was burned, has Big River seen such lumbering activity.

GRADS GO TO TRENTON

Sumnerside, April 15 — (CP) — Seventeen members of a class of navigation at the Sumnerside Air Navigation School received their wings at a ceremony Friday.

The global-centred winds were presented by Air Commodore H. C. Gordon, Group Commander of Maritime Group Headquarters, Halifax. The class was the third post-war class of basic navigators.

The graduates now will go to Trenton to continue their training.

STRIKE VOTE

Boards of conciliation are presumably set up to promote the peaceful settlement of disputes. This board has done the exact opposite. Its recommendations will produce the maximum of resentment in the employees with the minimum of benefit to anyone else.

I cannot, of course, say now what the decision of our members will be. A meeting of their duly elected representatives will be held shortly, and a strike vote will undoubtedly be the next move. I find it hard to believe that the railway workers of Canada will tamely accept a report which blatantly rejects all their legitimate demands and virtually recommends reprisal for having made them.

SEALER IN HEAVY ICE

St. John's, Nfld., April 15 — (CP)—The sealer Algerine was caught in heavy ice off Newfoundland Friday night and another sealer, the Terranova, was punching a passage through to the disabled ship. The Algerine reported she was not leaking. But she probably will have to return to St. John's and abandon her seal hunting trip. The Algerine carries a crew of about 70.

Albert College Knocked Out By Brockville

Kingston April 15—Albert College of Belleville dropped its second game of the Queen's intermediate basketball tournament at the hands of a strong Brockville club squad and thus bowed out of the tournament. The final score was 31-13.

The college boys were far from disgraced in defeat for they tangled with a team which won the 'B' section two years ago and came within a point of capturing the 'A' section title last year with almost the same team.

Brockville went ahead 12-8 at the half only to have that lead threatened by Bruce Gilespie's field goal early in the third period. However led by Bob Murray, one of the better players in the tourney the Brockville team put on the Albert spark with their quick passing to end the quarter mark and added another three hoops in the final frame with Kyle and Murray on the firing line.

Bill Slater was a tower of strength on the Albert defence and was one of the standouts in the gruelling game. Jack Thomas, Bruce Gillespie and Alex Fitzsimmons were tops in sports but none of their speedy forwards could penetrate the tight Brockville defence for their favourite overhand hoops.

Brockville (31) Murray (8), Carberry (2), Bracken, Running (6), Smith Foss, Kyle (8), Perrin (2), Miller (5), Harrison.

O.B.A. Exective Opposes Change In Age Limit

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 15—(CP) — The opening session of the annual meeting of the Ontario Baseball Association this afternoon was confined to lower diamond classifications.

Presided over by S. H. Armstrong, Toronto, chairman of the Ontario Minor Baseball Association, the meeting referred to tomorrow's general sessions and the contentious question of 'packing' of teams for the O. B. A. playoffs.

A proposed change in the classification of leagues and clubs was recommended for discussion by the O. B. A. executive. W. J. Snyder, secretary-treasurer of the O. B. A., said there was room for some C classifications in Ontario but "too many breakdowns in each age group would only harm the game."

The meeting went on record as opposing the changing of the junior age limit from under 21 to under 19 years of age.

Rouyn Flashes Protest Game Won by Thurso

Ottawa, April 15 — (CP) — Rouyn Flashes, eliminated from the Eastern Canada Intermediate hockey playdowns by Thurso Lumber Kings Thursday, Friday lodged a protest with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association over use by Thurso of right winger Maurice Gougeon.

F. N. Charlebois, manager of the Rouyn sextet, claimed that Gougeon was ineligible to play because he had not been released by Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League until after the Dec. 15 transfer date. He was released Jan. 24.

The protest was lodged before Flashes returned to Rouyn tonight. Thurso is scheduled to leave for Fort Alfred, Que., tomorrow to meet Bagotville Aliens in the opening game of a best-of-seven Eastern Canada semi-final series.

Lt. Gaston Clermont of Thurso said Gougeon had been played against Rouyn "in good faith." He said he had an approved playing card from the Ottawa District Hockey Association.

Cecil Duncan of Ottawa, O. D. H. K. secretary, was out-of-town and could not be reached for comment.

Algos Capture Intermediate 'A' Basketball Crown

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 15 — Sault Ste. Marie Algos captured the Canadian Intermediate A Basketball crown Friday night, rolling to an impressive 73-48 victory over Woodstock, N.B., Senators in the second game of a two-game, total-point series.

Algos won the first game 80-50 in Saturday night's contest.

Friday night's game marked the final year of intermediate competition for the Algos. Next year they turn in the senior rank of the winning the intermediate title twice in three years to play.

Lou Pearson, Canadian Minister of External Affairs, presented the E. Bickell trophy to captain Louis Lukenda immediately following the final whistle amidst the roar of 1,000 fans.

Woodstock — Guillon, Vougle, Stewart (11), A. Tomy (5), B. McMahon (7), Hay (4), Grant, Brockington, F. McMahon (14), R. Tomy (7).

Sault Ste. Marie — Roberts on (9), Lukenda (19), Harris (4), Fisher (4), Lapointe (11), Gilbert (13), Godfrey (6), Nichols (7).

William Phillips Receives 'President's Purse' on Retiring

Madoc — Mr. William Phillips, of Madoc, who has reached the retirement age of 65 was presented by the staff and crew members of the Building Products with a spring and fall overcoat, scarf and gloves, and a cheque for $100, by the president, L. S. Odell, who was represented by the local superintendent.

The president's purse (as it will be known), will be presented in the future to each member of the Building Products pension plan on reaching the retirement age.

Mr. Phillips was born in England, and came to Canada at an early age, and, with his parents, settled on a farm near Remington. He joined the Building Products plant in 1942. Best wishes are extended to Mr. Phillips for many years of health to enjoy the more leisurely type of life.

STUDENTS LEAVING SCHOOLS

Toronto, April 15 (CP) —Jobs seeking begins in earnest next month when 14,000 students of the University of Toronto finish examinations.

Of the total, 4,000 are graduates with an eye to permanent employment, and 10,000 undergraduates are listed as potential summer employment seekers. However, placement officers are confident all students who want jobs will get them.

"There aren't as many jobs as last year, but there is no shortage," said Elizabeth Carroll, University Women's placement officer of the National Employment Service.

Charges Peru's 'Lenin' Set up Cocaine Ring

Montreal, April 15 —(CP)—A Peruvian police officer Thursday described how the "Lenin" of South America" seized control of his country's cocaine production and set up an international dope ring aimed at financing a Communist revolution.

In an interview here, Detective Capt. Algonso Mier Y Teran said that Peru's Department in Investigation, the United States Federal Bureau of Investigation and the New York Police Department recently all combined to smash the ring.

Teran said the dope traffic centred around Victor Paul Haya de la Torre, head of the now outlawed Peruvian Aprista party who from 1923 to 1930 was exiled and lived in Moscow.

When de la Torre returned to Peru, Teran said, he started organizing a communist revolution —and began by cornering the cocaine market. A Peruvian sailor managed to conceal large quantities of the drug in shipments of bananas bound for New York.

Teran said he was sent to New York where police closed in and broke the ring. Meanwhile, de la Torre escaped to Columbia and now is a political refugee.

Teran is on a tour of various Canadian and U.S. cities to study police methods.

Cattle Should be Judged on Rail Not on Hoof

Toronto, April 15 (CP)— Judging of cattle should be done "on the rail" rather than on the hoof" Prof. J. C. Steckley said Friday at the annual meeting of the Ontario Beef Cattle Producers' Association.

Prof. Steckley, director of the Ridgetown Experimental Farm, said that although the showing of dressed carcasses might "detract from the glamor of the show it is common sense" and would provide a "record of performance by beef sires."

Ontario Agriculture Minister Kennedy told the gathering that a field man is being appointed to work exclusively on beef cattle and that the provincial grant to the association will likely be doubled.

Resolutions passed by the organization asked that steps be taken toward the summer grading of beef and that the buying public be educated in this regard.

Newspaper Week Opens in Toronto

Toronto, April 15 (CP)—Newspaper Week opens in Toronto Monday with publishers and executives of Canada's daily newspapers in session. They will attend annual meetings of the Canadian Press, the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, and Press News Limited.

CP directors meet Monday and Tuesday and the annual meeting of members of the National News Co-operative is set for Wednesday.

Meetings of the C.D.N.A. board are scheduled for Thursday and Saturday, with the annual meeting Thursday and Friday and committee meetings Tuesday.

Press News, CP affiliate which gathers news to send to members, starts its annual and directors' meeting Monday; both are continued Wednesday.

The Canadian section, Empire Press news, holds its annual meeting Wednesday night. The Canadian section is host this year to the seventh imperial press conference.

REFEREE HALTS FIGHT

Hollywood, April 15 (AP) — Sal Flores, Los Angeles, scored a fifth-round technical knockout over Billy Zaduk, Guelph, at the American Legion Stadium Friday night. Flores weighed 159 3-4, Zaduk 152 1-2.

Landing crushing rights to the head, Flores had Zaduk bleeding from a deep cut on his left eyelid at the end of the fourth round. The referee, seeing no serious at the end of the fifth of the scheduled eight-rounder that the referee halted the fight.

Overcomes Handicap Of Total Blindness

Toronto, April 15 — (CP) — Brooklyn-born James Hunter, blinded by a bomb blast while fighting with the Canadian Army in Holland six years ago, now has his Bachelor of Arts degree and is working on his Master's degree in Social Psychology despite the handicap of blindness, he had to surmount these obstacles.

Having left school at 11, he couldn't read or write.

He talked "Brooklynese" and needed to learn good english before he could make progress with his education.

He told about his achievements at a farmer-and-son luncheon of The Canadian Progress Club Thursday. He said he has married a Canadian girl and applied for Canadian citizenship.

Two Liberal Peers to Join Conservatives

London, April 15 (Reuters) — Two Liberal peers of the House of Lords have resigned from the party—the smallest major political group represented in Parliament—to join the Conservatives.

With only nine members in the House of Commons and only a handful in the Upper House, the Liberal party has no effective voting power, though it put up more than 400 candidates at the last election.

Lord Reading, 61, and Lord Rennell, 54-year-old banker, announcing their resignations Friday night, said:

"We are profoundly convinced that the Labor party's policy of Socialism is a grave menace to the re-establishment of national prosperity and the preservation of individual freedom.

"The fact is that, putting forward all their strength, the Liberals could again secure not more than 10 percent of the total poll and it seems unlikely to us that such a change in the electoral system they will in future obtain appreciably more."

Eight-Team Senior Lacrosse Loop in Prospect

Toronto, April 15 — (CP) — With good prospects for a seven or eight-team senior league and a greatly improved junior setup, Ontario Lacrosse Association officials are looking forward to an even more successful 1950 campaign than last year's banner season.

All of last year's seven senior clubs are preparing for action and the league may be rounded out with a Toronto entry. Acceptance of the Toronto entry rests with the O. L. A. executive. The executive holds its annual meeting here today.

Secretary - Treasurer Charles Rowan of Mimico reports that five additional teams have asked to play in the junior league. Only three competed last season. Besides teams from Brampton, St. Catharines and Mimico Mr. Rowan said such centres as Peterborough, Weston, Owen Sound, Brampton and Port Dover have expressed interest in the junior loop.

It is considered likely the senior clubs will vote for a 30-game schedule this season instead of nine, which will mean a stiffer playoff grind. Competing in the senior league are: St. Catharines, Hamilton, Mimico, Weston, Owen Sound, Brampton and Peterborough.

The Mann Cup final for the Dominion championship will be decided in Toronto. The series will be a best-of-seven affair.

Peterborough Wins 2nd Game From Brantford

Peterborough, April 15 (CP)— Peterborough Legionnaires nosed out Brantford Nationals 1-0 Friday night to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior B finals. The next game will be played Monday night in Brantford.

Dutch Vitarelli got the lone marker of the game early in the middle session when he combined with Bill Crowley.

About 2,200 fans saw Brantford battle furiously the rest of the game trying to deadlock the score but good work inside their own blueline and stiff forechecking up front kept Peterborough on the safe side.

Only six penalties were handed out in the hard-bumping but clean game.

Lineups:

Brantford: Goal, McGrattan; defence, Smith, Simpell; centre, Stephen; wings, Hnatiuk, Watson. Subs, Leconte, Campbell, Linn, Pigeon, Hoiota, Stemmler, Jamieson, Messmer.

Peterborough: Goal Nicholls; defence, Godfrey, Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli, Crowley. Subs: Purnell, F. McGraw, Greenley, Hill, Coombs, Stewart, D. Mortimer, Montgomery.

Referees: J. Crombie, Bowmanville; Andey Bellemer, Kitchener.

Driving Force Behind Wing's Bid for Stanley Cup

Harry Lumley, who has arrived as a big league goalkeeper, rates a place alongside Bobby Orr, Doraria and the rest of the great netminders. The apple-cheeked warrior, supposedly the weak link in the great Detroit Red Wing hockey machine, has been the heart of that club in its drive toward the Stanley Cup. In his last three games, one of which was the seventh and climactic play-off spot for Wings, Lumley has allowed only one goal, for a better than one-third-of-a-goal-a-game average. Those three standout efforts were in clutch games and Lumley rose to the heights to hold firm when his mates appeared ready to crack. Here Lumley is seen displaying the form which has sent him to the top. — Central Press Canadian.

Gans Lose Third Straight in Round Robin Series

Tillsonburg, April 15 — (CP) Tillsonburg Chev Woods Friday night defeated Gananoque 4-3 in an Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A final round-robin game. The visitors now face elimination, with three straight losses and one game to play.

Port Colborne is the third team in the series.

Wolfer opened the scoring at 3:40 in the first period to put Tillsonburg in front. The visitors put on the pressure in the second period and notched two goals but Chevy Woods matched them to lead 3-2 at end of second period. At 5:38 in the final period McCarney evened the score on a fine unassisted play.

At 14:40 on a great piece of combination Cooper scored the winning goal on passes from Pearce and Gee.

Chev Woods are now in second place in the series and meet Port Colborne Merchants here today.

Gannonque — goal, Patrish; defence, Keyes, Jackson; centre, Anderson; wings, Flar, Hastie. Subs: Tindal, Harper, McCarney, Wood, Small, Earl, Brennan, Brown, Boyle (sub goalie).

Referees — Udvari and Lilscombe.

Summary

Sports Roundup

New York, April 15 — (AP)— John Marshall, the Australian swimmer who set four world records in the recent A. A. U. championships, rooms with two Texans at Yale . . . It is with some bewilderment that John says: "My first few weeks at Yale I thought that Texas constituted three-fourths of America." . . . Lot of guys who have lived here all their lives have had the same experience, but they don't tell Texans that it's as little as three-fourths, especially during the football season — Tommy Quinn, who started running for Michigan Normal, is the new assistant track coach at the New York Athletic Club.

Nothing to Spear

Tommy Reeves, Duke's talented track star who scored 111 points last season in the sprints, broad jump and hurdles, is six feet one inch tall and weighs 135 pounds . . . Early Season Dry-Fly Fishing

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted sportsman author and creator of Solunar Tables)

Only the other day I chanced to speak to an old acquaintance about trout fishing. He is an old timer in these parts and has been fishing for trout since he was able to walk. He regarded my enthusiasm for early-season fishing with a raised eyebrow.

"I can't understand," he said, "why you get so excited about April fishing. Too cold for me. Anyway, I don't like bait fishing. I'll wait until fly season (that's what he said) comes in around Decoration Day. That's when I get my fishing.

I agreed with him and went my way. No use arguing with a fellow like that. But I couldn't help feeling sorry for him. Just think of the fine fishing he misses.

Back around 1900, before dry flies were in use in this country trout fishermen actually did believe that flies weren't much good before the middle of May. To be sure, now and then the trout would "jump" in cold water but they accepted way to take trout in April was with bait.

A Surface Feeder

It must be remembered that most of the trout in the streams in those days were the speckled brook trout, salvelinus fontinalis. Brown trout and rainbow had not been generally introduced at that time.

All of us should be grateful to the brown trout for what he has done for our fishing. He is essentially a surface feeder and thus is directly responsible for the rapid development of dry-fly fishing.

Regardless of water temperature, if there is a liberal hatch of insects drifting on the surface he usually will take to them. If you are on hand with your dry flies, you can have a rousing field day, regardless of the weather.

Throughout each season the insect hatches on our trout streams follow a definite cycle of color as the weeks pass. To be sure, there are exceptions, but the principal hatches do follow the cycle.

First on the water come the blue-gray hatches—Blue Quill, Quill Gordon, Gray Quill, Hendrickson, and such. All of these hatches have artificial counterparts well established and easy to secure at the tie for yourself at your work table.

Joi Down Observations

If you watch your local streams closely this year you will see how soon learn the schedule of their appearance. Jot down these emergence dates in your book for future reference, as the hatches appear on the same dates, with little variation from one year to the next.

Strangely enough these early-season hatches arrive on schedule pretty much regardless of the weather. Our Quill Gordons, for instance, are due about April 20. I have had wonderful sport fishing the Quill Gordon hatch during a snow squall, with my line freezing in the guides on my rod.

The same is true of the Blue Quill and the little No. 14 Gray Quill. Many times I have seen these hatches emerge and the trout feed actively be them when the water was well down in the mid-in thirties, with all temperatures much lower.

Early season trout fishing has several advantages over the later fishing when the weather is warm. For one thing, the good fishing generally comes during the middle of the day. The light is good then. You can see your fly with no trouble. Moreover, you can remain on speaking terms with the lady of your choice as there is no need to be on the stream either early or late.

Not So Shy As Later

In the early season the streams are full and there are no low-water problems. The trout move about freely when there is plenty of water to cover them and they are not nearly as shy as they are later on.

Another important item is that the hatches in the early season are usually liberal in number but they are easy to recognize and to imitate. This is definitely not the case later in the year. For a June evening there may be as many kinds of insects on hand. You may be able to match nine of these but chances are that the fish will be feeding on the ninth, for which you have no counterpart.

Last but not least, there are not the biting and stinging insects to plague you when the weather is cold. Punkies or no-see-ums, black flies and mosquitoes are notable by their absence—at least they are in these parts. Not until late May is it necessary to carry a bottle of insect repellent in your fishing jacket.

Solunar Periods Helpful

And here's nother important item. While the early-season hatches tend to emerge the middle of the day, you will find a heavy hatch drifting more often than not, with the trout responding in great shape, and you will have fishing that you won't get a hurry.

In the early season—or in any other phase for that matter —it will pay you to keep track of the daily Solunar Periods.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By BOB McALEER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

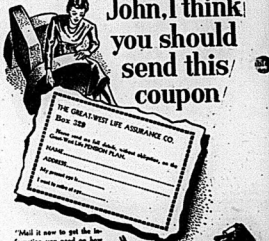
Toronto, April 15 — (CP) — Professional baseball and hockey have often been compared on the basis of their alleged restrictive contracts but a look at some of the existing "sport empires" might make a better comparison.

Some years ago the National League Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals pioneered in what has since been described as "chain store" or "bargain basement" baseball. Other clubs took up the system when the Brooklyn and St. Louis farm teams started grinding out major leaguers on almost assembly line basis.

Is the same system consolidated in professional hockey?

Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League are the biggest hockey combine according to Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan.

The league champions, now engaged in the Stanley Cup finals with New York Rangers, are the "envy of all their big - time rivals," says Doug.



The Wings used three former Windsor stars in their semi-final series with Toronto Maple Leafs, "only three of the fine young players who have been started up the ladder of the far - flung Detroit farm system by the Spitfires in the last three years," continues Vaughan.

Big League

Baseball has lots of followers in Ontario but the less-publicized softball is away out in front in number of participants, states Don (Sudbury Star) Mackintosh.

"In Ontario alone," he says, "there are almost 2,000 teams playing under the banner of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association — players affiliated with the O. A. S. A. number slightly more than 30,000."

More than half the communities of 1,500 population or over, in the province, have representation in the O.A.S.A., says Mackintosh.

Danny Lewicki Fires Two Goals to Give Marlboros 2nd Straight Win Over Saints

Toronto, April 15 — (CP) — Sherbrooke Saints have at least one hockey problem today: How to stop Danny Lewicki from scoring payoff goals.

The problem cropped up Friday night for the second time when the 19-year-old lefthinger swiped two goals that paced Toronto Marlboros to a 3-1 victory over the Saints and gave them a 2-0 lead in their Eastern Canada Senior Hockey finals.

Third game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled at Toronto Monday. The winner of the series will meet either Fort Frances, Canadiens or Calgary Stampeders for the Allan Cup and Canadian Senior title.

Toronto won the first game 7-4. Lewicki tallied two goals in that game.

The Fort William, Ont., product took all the steam out of Sherbrooke's drive in the second period Friday night. He hit the scoresheet just before the 10-minute mark to tie the count at 1-1 and then drove back minutes later with his second.

The Saints were holding their own up until then.

In the free-skating first period, defenceman Eddie Bush gave the Quebec and Maritime Hockey champions a 1-0 lead when Marlie goaltender Ed Chadwick fanned a shot from just inside the blue-line.

Carried The Punch

In the second period Lewicki got his first goal on passes from George Armstrong who also came came up from the mid-ice area to send the second-stanza count to the 10:30 mark when he pulled a loose puck around the Saints and shovelled it through a mass of players into the cage.

The Armstrong-Lewicki-Hassard combination carried all the scoring punch for the winners. Armstrong, a 19-year-old hustler who works well with Lewicki, banged the clincher with two minutes remaining in the middle period. Lewicki and Frank Sullivan assisted.

The heavier Saints found the Dukes had too much speed and the margin of play in the second and third period was largely Toronto's.

Lineups:

Sherbrooke — goal, Leclerc; defence, Bush, Heindl; centre, Barry; wings Fillion, Prefontaine. Subs: Goupille, Cote, Labrie, Vezina, McAtee, Carnegie, Sirclair, Gladu.

Toronto — Goal, Boehmer; defence, Hollett, Sullivan; centre, Johnson; wings, Mair, Buchanan; Subs: Armstrong, Hassard, Bolton, Hannigan, McLellan, Blair, Rope, Lewicki.

Referee — Stan Pratt, Hap Shouldice.

Dudley Defends Financial Set-up Of the C.A.H.A.

Toronto, April 15—(CP)—Complaints about the financial set-up of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association tonight brought from George S. Dudley of Midland, secretary of the C.A.H.A., the reply that the C.A.H.A. has always treated its leagues and teams fairly, and that its books are always open for inspection.

Forest Keene, manager of Sherbrooke Saints, here for the second game of the Eastern Canada series that split Toronto Marlboros, had said the Saints have lost $18,000 so far this season. He asserted the C.A.H.A. has "too much money in the bank," and predicted "you're going to see a sports commission at Ottawa unless the C.A.H.A. makes it possible for a team to operate without a loss in the playdowns."

In reply Dudley told the Canadian Press: "We here this sort of thing sporadically. The clubs are pretty well taken care of. They get $150 a day on the play-down trips, plus travelling expenses. Last year the C.A.H.A. gave a banquet after the first game of the play-downs."

Dudley said the association and the C.A.H.A. for donating $20,000 made up of $5,000 for music and other necessities, $5,000 for the British Empire Games Association and $10,000 for the Bisley Shoot in England.

Books Always Open

Dudley said the grant to the B.E.G. Games Association was $5,000 not $10,000. "Our books are open for inspection at any time," he added. "We are in the black every one fairly." In the long run the money all comes from the public, he said, and the C.A.H.A. has had no complaints from them.

Keene, referring to the amounts he said had been donated to other leagues, replied, "But "That $20,000 they got from fellows like me who sponsor hockey teams. I save my business around the first of October and am with them all summer. I draw my salary. There are hundreds of fellows like myself.

"It will cut whoever wins this series between Montreal and ourselves $15,000 to move team west for the Allan Cup series and I'll bet you a well above $500 for each of the games out there.

"The C.A.H.A. has $150,000 in the bank. Someday somebody is going to put that in the back of a rowboat and go down the river with it. I've seen that happen before."

Wings Call up Five Reserves From Indianapolis to Play Against Rangers in 3rd Game

Toronto, April 15 (CP)— The Stanley Cup final between Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers today unexpectedly assumed the aspects of a grim struggle. The best-of-seven series is tied 1-1 and tonight's third game is the last of two games played in Toronto, temporary home for the Rangers while Madison Square Garden is occupied by a circus.

Detroit handily captured the National Hockey League championship, but the Wings barely made the cup playoffs. Then Detroit was extended to an overtime goal in the seventh game to beat Toronto Maple Leafs in their semi-final, while New York polished off Montreal Canadiens by four games to one in their semi-final.

The first game of the cup final was a 4-1 victory for Detroit, but the second game here Thursday was a 3-1 victory for New York. And that result has the Wings worried.

Four regular Detroit players will be benched tonight, the Wings' farm club, Indianapolis Caps, who beat Cleveland Barons in the American Hockey League finals.

Sitting it out on the Detroit bench tonight will be Pete Babando, Steve Black, Marcel Pronovost and Larry Wilson.

Five Called Up

Called up from Indianapolis are goalie Terry Sawchuk, defencemen Clare Raglan and Al Dewsbury, and forwards Gord Haidy and Doug McKay. Replacing the benched player tonight will be Dewsbury, Haidy, McKay and Doug Peters. Detroit regular who suffered a knee injury in the third game of the Detroit-Toronto semi-final.

The drastic shake-up in the Detroit line-up wasn't explained by Adams, but it was reported that he had asked some of his veteran players Friday to name the men with whom they preferred to "sink or swim."

At the same time Detroit coach Tommy Ivan said what his team needed was rest. "The fellows are tired. But they aren't so tired that they can't snap back with a little rest," he said. "We will be all right tonight." Wings, staying at Hamilton had no workout.

Rangers, who are staying in Toronto, also took a rest cure. Coach Lynn Patrick held a practice Friday for fellows who saw little action in Thursday night's game, and for those who sat it out. But the regulars were excused.

Hill Prince Only Beaten Once In His Career

New York, April 15 (AP) — Whether or not Hill Prince deserves the role of Kentucky Derby favorite should be known late this afternoon.

C. T. Chenery's big Virginia-bred colt ran 10 other three-year-olds who entered the $25,000 added, 1 1-16-mile experimental handicap No. 2 at Jamaica and his many admirers could expect odds of 1 to 2 or less.

Hill Prince, beaten once in his career when he reared and stumbled at the start of last year's Sapling Stakes but finished second, made his 1950 bow on April 5 and won the experimental No. 1, at six furlongs.

Today's added distance figures to give the Prince an even bigger advantage, for he is the stretch running type. In fact, the brilliant sophomore would become another Stymie, Display or Whirlaway—stars noted for their garrison finishes. The Chenery charger won his final 1949 outing at 1-2 furlongs—his longest test to date.

Conacher Likely To Quit Coaching Job With Hawks

Chicago, April 15—(AP)—Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League today were reported due to announce the resignation of manager Charles Conacher.

Unconfirmed reports were that Conacher, manager since December, 1947, when he succeeded Johnny Gottselig, was to resign to devote more full time to oil interests. His resignation was hinted a week ago but president Bill Tobin at the time said that time said the club has asked Conacher to remain as manager.

Top candidates to succeed Conacher if he resigns, were reported to be Ebbie Goodfellow of the Detroit Red Wings and Frank (King) Clancy of Cincinnati Mohawks.

Three Cities Have Applied For B.E. Games

By The Canadian Press

Three cities — Vancouver, Toronto and Hamilton—applied for the 1954 British Empire games before the April 8 deadline, but there is a possibility Montreal still may make a bid.

Ken Yost of Winnipeg, National secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, said Friday night he is waiting to hear from Professor Robert Osborne of Vancouver, Union president, as to whether Montreal was given two weeks extension of the deadline date.

Approximately 20 A.A.U. of C. officials across Canada will vote to choose the site of the games, Yost said.

Decision is expected to be announced "around May 1."

The Vancouver Daily Province said Friday in a newspage story that Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight boxing champion in the 20s, will join boxing's "Hall of Fame" Saturday.

The story said the Vancouver boxer, now residing in California, "joins 13 ring immortals when he receives his scroll at the birthday party of James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight champion."

The presentation will be made in Burbank, Calif., the Province says. Other fighters in the Hall of Fame include such greats as Jack Dempsey, Benny Leonard and Mickey Walker.

Jeffries, who once sold papers here, won the welterweight crown in March, 1933, at Los Angeles when he knocked out Corbett.

Frank Shea, rookie pitching sensation with New York Yankees in 1947, has been sold outright to Kansas City Blues of the American Association, a Yankee farm property, it was announced at New York Friday.

Shea, pestered by arm and weight trouble, the last two years limited his start up to the promise shown in 1947, when he won 14 games while losing five. He spent part of the 1949 season with Newark in the International League.

Jockey Johnny Longden left Sydney, Australia for home Friday night, after receiving a letter absolving him from any suggested complicity in his victory at Randwick Wednesday. Longden won aboard The Groom, Jr.

The next day an Australian sports writer hinted that rival jockeys might have permitted the veteran western Canada rooster to win. It was his first triumph in 12 starts here.

Ray Post, Pittsburg Pirate pitcher who starred with Sherbrooke Orioles of the International League Friday for unidentified fame. Post, a 23-year-old right hander, was obtained from New York Giants last season, along with infielder Bobby Rhawn, for Pitcher Kirby Higbe.

Sports Shorts From Britain

By MICHAEL G'HARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 14 — (CP) — Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight boxing champion, has sold his car—and won't buy another until he's met Lee Savold here June 6.

Bruce, the highway hard-luck kid, is taking no chances this time.

The Doncaster, Yorkshire, lad has had four road accidents in the last three years—and each affected his ring chances.

In October, 1948, he injured his head when, braking suddenly to avoid a child darting into a Doncaster street. In March, 1949 he was severely shaken up in a crash at Johnnesburg where he was training for his bout with Johnny Ralph. Last spring he was involved in a collision in Ireland while training for his fight with Freddie Mills.

Bruce says each slowed him down in a forthcoming fight. But the worst was to come.

He was in the hospital with concussion after a truck he was driving skidded off the highway and piled into a tree. The injury postponed the Savold bout, cost promoter Jack Solomon a hatful of shekels and had Bruce talking despondently for a time of "quitting the ring."

But the former railway worker is back in light training, his weight down to 184, and manager Tom Burns sincerely predicts that "no human being" can stay in the same ring, judging by the form he showed in training, smelling the punch-bag.

Woodcock spends four days a week in the gym and on the road and fills in spare time training with fellow-boxers Jones and team, When the football workouts end, he pulls the heavy roller around the field.

And this time, his road work is all on foot.

Does Gordon Richards, for years the best jockey in Britain plans to retire soon? Rumors keep recurring, but Gordon keeps denying them.

Richards startled one such rumor himself, in an off-the-record chat in the Marlborough Bowling Club, but hastened to kill it next day.

"I mean five or 10 years from now," he told reporters. "It was in fun that I told them I was getting on, and anyone in similar circumstances might have made a remark like it.

The riding master is 46.

Red hot tip for the Wimbledon Tennis championships: Here's a baby boy has just arrived—to racketeer C.H.D. Lister and his wife, the former Thelma Jarvis. Lister was the last Englishman eliminated from the all-England tournament last summer. Mrs. Lister is a former Irish champion.

The lad already handles his rattle with considerable dexterity—both forehand and backhand and the whole Lister-Jarvis clan figures he'll be unbeatable by 1970.

James Jeffries To be Honored On Birthday

Burbank, Calif., April 15 (AP) —It's diamond jubilee time today in the life of the last of the big-time heavyweight champions, James J. Jefferies.

He'll big Jim's 75th birthday, and No. 75 finds him still a strapping bear of a man, alert and friendly but a little on the ailing side.

There have been many large birthday parties for the onetime king of the ring, but this one has taken on the aspects of an official holiday—city and state.

Burbank's official city family has proclaimed it "Jim Jefferies day," and Governor Earl Warren has extended official greetings to boilermaker Jim.

And the sports crowd, with the boxing delegation in the forefront, was invited en masse to Jefferies' sprawling cottage for a birthday party this afternoon.

Jefferies was born April 15, 1875, in the little town of Carroll, O. The family moved to Los Angeles when Jim was a youngster, and it was there that he grew and developed into what many an old timer insists was the greatest heavyweight of all time.

Deeply etched in the annals of boxing, of course, are the highlights of the Jefferies fighting career—his 11th round knockout over Bob Fitzsimmons for the championship in 1899, his two knockouts over "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, his roaring battles with Sailor Tom Sharkey, and yes, his ignominious defeat at the attempt against Jack Johnson in 1910, five years after he had retired undefeated in 22 major bouts.

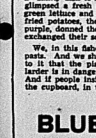
"AND WHEN SHE GOT THERE"



"Four-and-twenty blackbirds baked in a pie" may have been a "dainty dish to set before a King" but if you were to be glimpsed a fresh pickerel or trout sizzling in a nest of fresh green lettuce and flanked by mounds of golden-brown French fried potatoes, they would have more than a dainty dish—purple, donned the hip-boots and other garb of the angler and exchanged their sceptres for fishing rods.

We, in this fisherman's paradise of Hastings enjoy such repasts. And we shall continue to enjoy them as long as we see to it that the piscatorial larder is well stocked. Today the larder is in danger of becoming a Mother Hubbard's cupboard. And if people insist on taking spawn-laden fish out of season, the cupboard, in the not too distant future, will be as "bare" as the fabled one.

Let's use common sense. A spawning pickerel destroyed today means the loss of 1200 edible offspring in four years. Think it over.—G.H.C.

AT THE BELLE—Betsy Drake gets an enthusiastic welcome from Adolphe Menjou while her boy friend, Mark Stevens, approves in this scene from "Dancing in the Dark", refreshing and delightful Technicolor musical romance, blending music and dancing, too. The film featuring William Powell is continuing at the Belle until Tuesday.

AT THE CAPITOL—One of the most ruthless gangsters of all time, John Dillinger, starts his amazing career of bank robberies, killings with a $7,20 theft. A scene from Monogram's sensational melodrama, "Dillinger", coming to the Capitol Theatre on Monday, with Lawrence Tierney in the title role. On the same program, "When Strangers Marry" starring Robert Mitchum, Kim Hunter and Dean Jagger, Academy Award winner of 1949 as best supporting actor.

Canadians Prove Capabilities On Broadway in Past Season

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, April 15 — (CP) — Canada's contribution to the realm of acting has been ably proved on the Broadway stage during this now-waning season of 1949-50.

Several top-flight Canadian-born actors appeared in leading roles. One of them, Gene Lockhart, is still going strong as the genial character in "Death of a Salesman."

Lockhart, a versatile stage and screen performer who was born in London, Ont., took over last autumn the part of Willy Loman, the baffled and unhappy salesman who turns to suicide when personal problems overwhelm him. He succeeded Lee J. Cobb, who created the role.

A glance at the records show some of the others who were in the spotlight — some briefly, some at length.

Raymond Massey, originally from Toronto, figured in a double capacity in a revival of Shirley Berg's "The Father." He directed the production and played the title part — that of a man driven to insanity by a malevolent wife in a battle for control over their only daughter.

Ballet Triumph

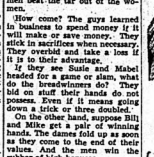
In the field of ballet, too, there was acclaim for a Canadian. Toronto-born Melissa Hayden was warmly saluted by New York critics for her work as one of the leading dancers at the New York City ballet.

Alexander Knox, whose birthplace is Strathroy, Ont., played the leading role in a melodrama of which he also was the author. The play, "The Closing Door," had its chilling moments in unfolding the experiences of a mentally deranged man, but failed to catch on with the public and closed after a brief run.

The sprightly revue, "Touch and Go," served as a vehicle for the talents of Toronto-born George Hall. Hall was one of the featured performers in a cast of young and enthusiastic players.

Allyn McLorie, a graceful young dancer and a native of Grand'mere, Que., has just left New York scene after being around since last summer in the musical, "Miss Liberty." The popular production closed its Manhattan run last Saturday after 308 performances.

Goodbye to "Sleep"



"Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep" closed last Saturday after a run of 44 performances at the Broadhurst Theatre. The comedy-drama starred Nina Croxyn, was a victim of falling receipts. Adapted from the book by Ludwig Bemelans and co-starring Fredric March and his wife, Florence Eldridge, "Sleep" had its premiere Jan. 31 in London, Ont., Croxyn's birthplace.

GROUCHO SEEKS DIVORCE

Los Angeles, April 15 — (AP) —Groucho Marx, dead serious for a change, filed suit today for divorce from his wife, hair his age.

Marx, 59, and the former Kay Gorcey, 30, wed in 1945, have a daughter, Melinda, now almost 4. Groucho also has two children by his first marriage. His wife of 22 years, Ruth, divorced him in 1942.

The present Mrs. Marx formerly was wed to Leo Gorcey, onetime Dead End Kid.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

It happens where married couples play bridge. The wives took lessons and play partners against the husbands who never saw the inside of a book. And the men beat the tar out of the women.

How come? The guys learned in business to spend money it it will make save money. They stick in sacrifices when necessary. They overbid and take a loss if it is to their advantage.

If they see Susie and Mabel headed for a game or slam, what do the breadwinners do? They make stuff their hands do not possess. Even if it means going down a trick or three doubled.

On the other hand, when Bill and Mike get a pair of winning hands. The dames fold up as soon as they come to the end of their values. And the men win the rubber of the evening.

Thus, the good hands held by the wives are ruined, the best hands held by the husbands run into bad losers. And the net result is in favor of the wives when the final tote is made.

Nothing is intended to imply that these men are better bridgers. Actually they are not. Most of the time their bids are bad they smell to the high heavens and beyond.

But they have a knack of taking a lolt in one place in order to get in some better licks on opponents. This they apply to bridge. They weigh their losses against their possible gains.

Wilj Bill as his partner, Mike held the south hand in the deal shown here:

	NORTH

	♥ 8 7 3
	♦ 5 3 2
	♣ J 9 7
WEST		EAST

He opened with an uncontrollable-urge bid of four hearts. Mabel in west feared to say five clubs or five diamonds as a starting bid. So, she doubled as an alternative.

Mike's opening was not sound general policy. But his side lost only 500 points whereas west and east could have made over 1000.

Men do not call vices their wise sacrifices.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

Sam and Glasses Magee and Bill Judge walked out to the park on account of it being such a swell Saturday, and we saw some man sitting under a tree painting a picture of some other trees.

Being a man with a pointy nose and a floppy tie to prove he was a real artist, and us fellows stood in back of him watching, and after a while I said, which is the hardest to paint, a little picture or a big one?

A big one, the man said, and I said, Why?

Because I always paint the big ones with my eyes closed, he said.

Being sourcastic and pritty fear the same thing as telling us to mind our own bizzness, and we walked away as if we didn't give a darn which was the hardest to paint, and we stopped a little ways away and Glasses said, He must of thawt he was kidding us. Let's go back and me and Shorty will ask him questions. We'll prove we can ask questions just as crazy as he can answer them, he said.

And we went and stood in back of him again, and Glasses said, is it hard to paint berds while they're flying upside down?

Yes it is, the man said, and Glasses said, Why?

Because the paint keeps dropping off their backs, he said. And while www're delving into the secrets of art, I'll tell ou why I find trees easier to paint than people. It's because a tree very seldom complains that I didn't get a good resemblants, he said. Proving he could ask his own questions and anser them crazy as the result being we walked away again diskusted with the

HEAVY "DEW" MARRED SUNRISE SERVICE

Easter sunrise service at the Hollywood Bowl was attended by raincoats, umbrella and galoshes. The weather chief feature of which was a California "dew," did not stop the service, but it did cut down on the number of persons in attendance. — Central Press Canadian.

Car Sales Long Ago Hazardous

Many are the tall tales about the Alberta and its pioneers. But the ones we are going to tell are true ones, told us by prominent citizens still living. G. K. Schlerholtz writes in the Calgary Herald.

About 40 years ago when Bassano was a lusty infant, bursting at the seams, a young English banker and the local barber were buddies. In those days there was little past to discuss and the present was too close at hand, so they discussed the future of the town and the province, the wonderful new method of transportation, the automobile that was just coming into its own; the great herds of cattle on the hills; the way business was booming.

Share in Car

One day the barber came into the bank and asked his friend if he would like to buy a half interest in a motor car. The banker was horrified, and explained that he certainly could not afford a half interest in a car not even the front wheel of one.

The barber told him that he already had a half interest in a second hand car, which he had bought that day for the two of them. When the banker cooled down he asked the price.

"Seven dollars."

Well, seven dollars. That wasn't too bad, even though seven dollars bought a lot more then than it does today. So he paid over his $3.50 and the two men went out to inspect the joint possession.

After looking at it, the banker concluded that perhaps seven dollars was all it was worth, but it would go, what odds? The two men spent the summer over their new toy, and it did run.

Sold to Cattle Buyer

One day the barber went into the bank to announce that he had sold the machine to a cattle buyer from Medicine Hat, for the noble sum of $75. The banker was overjoyed, pocketed his half and went on with the day's work.

In the meantime, the new owner started off for Medicine Hat. About eight miles north of Bassano, on a rugged stretch of prairie trail, the car stalled, and nothing he could do would induce the engine to turn over. He labored for several hours, then realized that in all probability the engine would never come to life, so he kicked the machine off the road, and walked back to Bassano, growing angrier by the step.

In town, he hurried to the barber shop where he beat the poor barber unmercifully. Finishing that task, he asked where the "f?!-!-2" banker was. But friends of the banker, seeing the row in the barber shop had rushed over to warn him.

Fled For Safety

He realized that a 120-pound Englishman was no match for a 200 pound infuriated Scotsman who was used to wrestling steers. So he flew out the back door and, not knowing which way to turn, dashed into a confectionery where he blurted out the story to the owner, also a close friend.

There was no time to lose. The baker wanted to help his friend and he most certainly did not want a fight in his nice, clean confectionery. The shouts grew louder and the their mild's eye the two could vision a bloody, one-sided battle.

But then the baker had an inspiration. He grabbed a long banana crate and jammed it over the banker's head. "Don't move," he hissed, and piled a couple of sacks of onions on the feet that protruded from underneath the banana crate.

Sure enough, the loud noise heralded the cattle buyer. He burst into the shop, shouting for his victim. The baker waved his hands around the store, and even the angry cattle buyer could see there was no place for anyone to hide, so, muttering threats, he went out to continue his search.

For two hours the banker stayed inside that crate, unable to see or breathe freely, for the heavy paper lining shut out most of the air. When everything quieted down, he ventured to tear a very small hole in the paper, but that was as much as he dared do.

Enemy on Board

At long last, the train left for Medicine Hat and the baker announced that the enemy was on board, still breathing fire. The banker hurriedly discarded the banana crate and thanked his friend for his assistance at a time when it was direly needed.

Two or three years ago, the banker, now living in Calgary was strolling around the Pallister when he spied an elderly man who looked familiar. Finally he sat down beside him and asked "are you Mr.——— a cattle buyer from Medicine Hat?"

The other admitted that that was his name and that he had been a cattle buyer in the eastern city for many a long, hard day. The ex-banker then told him the whole story. Silence. Then the cattle buyer growled, "I've a good mind to beat up on you now."

The skelton of that old car is still by the side of the trail north of Bassano, almost covered by drifting soil and weeds, the remains of the car that was bought for a few dollars and sold for seventy-five.

SUPERINTENDS EIGHT INDIAN AGENCIES

Brantford, April 14 — (CP)— Ward L. Leroy, chief clerk at the Indian office here for the last 5 years, has been appointed superintendent of eight Indian reservations, with his headquarters at Parry Sound. He succeeds Samuel Devlin, who has retired.

Reservations under his charge will be Lower French River, Henvey Inlet, Shawanaga, Magnetawan, Parry Island, Moose-Deer Point, Gibson and Naiscoutaing. Approximately 1,300 Indians live on the reservations.

RELEASE TWO SPIES

Vienna, April 14 — (Reuters) — The Italian authorities here Thursday released two self-confessed Hungarian spies because there were "no contradictions" in their confessions, it was officially announced. Sandor Kabos, 46, and Istvan Kalman, 34, were held on suspicion of spying for Hungarian intelligence and confessed that they had been forced to work as spies.

CHILD IN FAIR CONDITION

Toronto, April 14—(CP)—Sixmonths- old Susan Toms, rushed here from Waubaushene Thursday night suffering a combination of whooping-cough and pneumonia, is reported "only in fair condition" at the Hospital for Sick Children today.

Hospital authorities said she is in an oxygen tent and has been given a blood transfusion, penicillin, streptomycin and a serum against whooping cough.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

In the centre of the group stood Grace Thurman. Supporting her with his arm through hers, was Mr. Enright. His wife stood beside him and the others in the group were Mort Taylor, Jean Radcliffe and Jake the Cairo Person.

Jean Radcliffe turned to Greg and Diane as they came up and said, "Bruce's car was smashed up doing the road always, but nobody knows where Bruce is."

"Who found the car?" Greg asked.

"The milkman," Jean said. "And they think something's happened to Bruce. Grace says he didn't come home last night."

Greg could hear the way the others were talking; all a lot of business stuff about his being all right, and for Grace not to worry. It was easy to see that Grace wasn't so easily consoled. She was shaking with tears and her face pale with fear. The only comfort she seemed to get from anyone there was leaning heavily on John Enright's arm. She'd look up at him every now and then and her red-rimmed eyes would eloquently express her thanks for his presence. Mrs. Enright looked more like she was trying to think of some answer to the problem than to consoling Bruce's mother.

Diane wanted to stay there with the others but Greg pulled her away and walked up toward their cottage.

"But Greg," she protested, as soon as they were out of earshot "we've nothing to do at the cottage. Why not stay and see what happens?"

"Nothings' going to happen," Greg said quietly. "That's the same kind of thoroughly incompetent little group that always gathers around the scene of the accident. They mumble to each other and tell the same set of facts over and over again and make a great show of doing a lot of serious thinking. And all they're doing is waiting for somebody to say something so they can say 'That's just what I was thinking.' Mob psychology. Stupid, ignorant, and gets you no place."

"Oh," said Diane. "then we're going up to the cottage so we can get some place." She started walking fast, to show her eagerness to get there.

"Don't be funny, dear," said Greg.

They went the rest of the way up the hill in silence. Greg deep in thought. When they got inside he dropped down on a chair and lit a cigarette. Diane sat across the room from him, watching him with innocently wide eyes and a great show of rapture. After a while she said, "Have you figured it all out,'darling?"

Greg snorted. "Not quite," he said ironically.

They were still sitting there half an hour later, Greg smoking and Diane reading a magazine when Tim came in. He looked tired and worried as he popped down on a chair.

"Church doesn't seem to have done you much good," Diane said looking up from her magazine.

Tim smiled half-heartedly. "I didn't get there," he said. "And I think I had a good reason for not going." He turned to Greg. "I've got a lot of questions that have to be answered, Greg," he said. "Will you take my word for it that they're important and refrain from advising me to keep my nose out of other people's business?"

"Maybe," said Greg. "Have they anything to do with Bruce Thurman?"

Tim's eyes widened and his hands gripped the arms of the chair. "What do you"—He stopped thought for a moment. "Why did you ask that, Greg?"

"Because his car was found smashed along the road a while ago."

"You're kidding."

"No I'm not. Grace is all upset. The milkman told her. They were having a counsel of consolation down on the lawn a while back."

"I saw no car along the road."

"That's strange. They didn't say just where it was."

Diane broke in. "It might have been on the shortcut, Greg. That's the way the milkman used to come because he has a stop down there at the other resort."

Greg flicked the ashes from his cigarette. "But Bruce wouldn't have been using that road."

Tim sat forward in his chair. "Why not, Greg. He'd know it was there, wouldn't he?"

"Oh sure but the main road is so much better. Stood to reason he might have used it but it would just be unusual, that's all."

Tim relaxed again and stared at the floor, shaking his head. "I stopped and saw Joe the Bartender," he said, "and got a lot of information from him. He knew the Thurman's pretty well. But I made a deal with him Greg that I can't make with you. swapped some information I had for what he could give me and I can't do that with you. I just have to ask straight out with you."

Greg nodded. "That's okay. The only information you could have had to swap with Joe would have been what you got from me and DI or what you picked up while we were with you. What do you want to know?"

"Before I start, Greg, take my word for this: It's really serious."

"You mean it's a case where you ought to be minding other people's business? You're morally obligated to, or something?"

Tim was deadly earnest. "That's exactly right, Greg, even though you're only kidding. I'll start with Grace Thurman: What do you know about her?"

Greg thought for a moment, then spoke slowly and thoughtfully. "Grace and her husband, Emery Thurman, were Chicago people and Emery made a fair pile of money in Consolidated Steel and Iron Stock. He more or less retired 12 years or so ago and they bought this property and so far as I know, made it their principal business. They lived here from about the first of May until the end of October and then they always went to Florida or back to Chicago. Emery was a smart enough man, although Grace always seemed like she could have been much smarter than he. I always figured it was kind of an act with her, making him look like the smart one of the team. But maybe I'm wrong on that. At any rate, the lodge isn't doing so well since he drowned last year."

Tim nodded as if that information was entirely satisfactory. "What about this old couple, the Enrights? Do you know anything about them?"

"A little" Greg replied, "I know that Mr. Enright—Grace calls him John—was once and may still be the biggest stockholder in Consolidated Steel and Iron. He

"Just a minute," Tim interrupted. "You say that Grace always called Mr. Enright 'John.' Do you mean anything in particular by that? Do you mean that Emery Thurman didn't call Mr. Enright by his first name?"

Greg looked at Tim with a kind of half grin. "You sure are sharp on those things my boy, as long as you lie me down to an answer, I have to say yes, meaning that I, personally, never heard Emery call Old Man Enright John. In fact, there was a distinct coolness between them and if you'd like my voluntary and completely candid opinion, I think that John Enright is and for a long time has been just a little bit sweet on Grace Thurman." He paused, then looked at Tim with narrowed eyes and a crooked grin, "But I won't be a party to any suspicion that old John Enright Strangled Emery Thurman while the two of them were having a splash party in the lake. John's two old for romance to carry him to any such lengths as that."

"Okay," Tim said "I'll scratch that off." He made a gesture of running a line through an imaginary notebook on his knee. "It does appear however, that Mr. Enright was a closer friend of Grace Thurman's than of Mr. Thurman's. Right?"

"Right."

"Well, then we'll go on to the next one. This Mort Taylor; he's a Chicago man, too?"

"Yes, I believe he's a lawyer, practicing in Chicago."

"Was he connected in any way with—"

Tim didn't finish his question because at that moment there was a ring at the door and Diane sang out, "Come in!"

The door opened and Jean Radcliffe entered.

She looked just as Greg and Diane had seen her a little while before except that her hair, normally in perfect wavy order, bobbed to just below her ears and standing up to the part in two shiny brown furls, was now a bit unkept. She brushed it back over her head with the back of one graceful while hand, smiling as she did so.

Her smile, Tim thought, was one of the most beautiful smiles he'd ever seen. Her teeth were so even and her lips so soft and red. Even her eyes pitched in on the smile and lighted up so that their blue depths were kind of red and sparkling.

"Is it terrible of me to come barging in like this?" Jean said, looking from one face to the other coming back to Diane. "All I've heard for the last hour has been Bruce, Bruce, Bruce. No body knows where he is, and everybody's asking everybody else where they think he might be. You'd think the man was an infant the way they're carrying on. I—I thought if you didn't mind I'd just come in and get acquainted."

Diane reached out and took Jean's hand and smiled at her. "I'm awfully glad you did," she said. "I know you're nerve is Jean Radcliffe. Mine is Diane, and this is my husband, Greg Laswell." Greg stood up and so did Tim, both seeming to appreciate Jean's surprise visit. "And this is Tim Donovan, Jean."

Princess Elizabeth Expecting Second Visit From Stork

Rumors of Past Few Weeks Ended by Announcement

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IS LAID AGAINST YOUTH

Cornwall, April 17 — (CP) — A manslaughter charge was laid today against Maurice Leger, 14-year-old cripple who surrendered to police Saturday after his father was fatally stabbed.

Police Chief Frank Hunter announced the charge. He said the boy will appear in juvenile court this afternoon before Juvenile Judge T. C. Bergeron.

The boy's father, Morris Leger, 37-year-old war veteran and papermill employee, collapsed and died in his home from a knife wound after a struggle with the boy. The son walked into the police station and told police: "I have just had a fight with my father and stabbed at him with a knife."

Mrs. Leger told police her husband had beaten the boy on numerous occasions for no reason and she had tried her best to protect her son.

The youth has been crippled since birth, with one leg shorter than the other, and he wears a peg leg on the shorter limb. With the attachment he is active in sports as a hockey goalie, baseball and basketball player.

Husband Drinking

Mrs. Leger said her husband had been drinking and was lying on a couch when Maurice returned home Saturday after attending a movie. "My husband started to pick on the boy and hit him," she said. "I told him to leave the boy alone, that he couldn't do this to his own family. He grabbed the boy by the throat. I tried to help Maurice but he broke away and went out."

The father then went to a neighbor's home and found Maurice.

"They returned to the house and my husband started to beat him again. I didn't see Maurice grab the knife but I knew what had happened when my husband gave a terrible groan and staggered upstairs to the bedroom. He didn't say a word but he there gasped a breath."

Another son, Roger, 10, said he saw Maurice pick up the knife. "My father went at him with a stool and Maurice stuck out the knife and then pulled it back again," he said.

Maurice was held at the police station during the weekend.

Windsors Visit Governor-General

Ottawa, April 17 — (CP) — The Duke and Duchess of Windsor arrived in Ottawa early today for a brief, informal visit with the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander. They planned to stay overnight at Government House and leave by train for Montreal tomorrow.

BOY TRAPPED IN CAN

Toronto, April 17 — (CP) — Eight-year-old Barton Hooker was one of the "hiders" in a game of hide-and-seek. He spied a garbage can and crawled inside.

Playmates gave him a push to make sure he was hidden. Then the game ended, Barton was trapped.

Firemen freed him 67 minutes later.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 17 (CP)— Synopsis: Mild temperatures, changeable skies and a few light showers are reported from across Ontario. These showers will end this morning but are expected to reappear in Northern Ontario early Tuesday. Winds will remain changeable in all regions Tuesday with afternoon temperatures expected to be in the 50's and 60's in the south and between 40 and 50 in the northern part of the province.

London, April 17. (Reuters)— Princess Elizabeth is expecting her second baby, an announcement issued tonight from Buckingham Palace indicated.

It read: "Her Royal Highness The Princess Elizabeth, Duchess of Edinburgh, will undertake no further public engagements."

This is the usual procedure for announcing an expected royal birth.

New in Malta

Princess Elizabeth, who will be 24 this Friday, now is in Malta with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, who has been serving with the Royal Navy in the Mediterranean since October, 1949.

When she arrived on the island March 28 it was stated she would stay until the end of April.

The Princess will be third in line of succession to the throne, following after Princess Elizabeth herself and Prince Charles, who is taking precedence over Elizabeth's sister, Margaret.

Rumor had persisted in London for the past few weeks that Mrs. Leger said her husband Mrs. Fifteenth-old Prince Charles would soon have a brother or sister.

People based their belief on new pictures of Elizabeth from Malta.

For the last three months Buckingham Palace has refused to comment on the rumors about another baby.

British Car Producers Gain After U.S. Market

New York, April 17 — (AP)— British automobile makers are gaining a foothold in the United import car market in the United States. Saturday they fired their biggest gun with the opening of the first all-British Automobile Show in Motorcycle Show in New York. On display are about 100 different automobiles made by 22 manufacturers, along with motorcycles, bicycles, trucks, buses, diesel engines, trailers and accessories. Prices run from $1,000 to around $15,000.

New Blood Test 98.6 P.C. Correct In Detecting Presence of Cancer

Atlantic City, N. J., April 17— (AP) — A new blood test is 98.6 per cent correct in detecting the presence of cancer, four researchers have reported.

The test is one of six new ones, all based on finding that cancer cells behave differently from normal cells.

The hope is that this test, or one of the others, will help solve one of the most serious problems in human cancer. This problem is finding the people with cancer early enough to cure them by surgery or x-rays, the two standard cures now.

The new test was described here at the annual meeting of the Association for Cancer Research by a team of scientists from the University of California at Los Angeles and the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Los Angeles. They are Dr. H. S. Penn, Dr. Geoffrey C. Hall, Dr. A. H. Dowdy and Dr. A. W. Bellamy.

The test mixes human blood serum from the patient from the livers of people who had cancer. The test indicates cancer if solid particles form and the cloudy solution becomes clear.

It was tested on 4,500 persons. It was known that 830 of them had proved cancer. The test said "yes" on 98.8 per cent of them.

In this group, nearly 1,000 persons apparently were healthy.

CRIPPS OUTLINES BUDGET SECRETS TO THE CABINET

All Present Excepting Foreign Secretary

London, April 17—(CP)—Britain's budget secrets were outlined today in a political climate turned slightly chilly for the Labor government.

Sixteen cabinet ministers called at 10 Downing St. for a preview of the two-hour budget speech which will be unveiled in the Commons tommorrow, opening a new period of strain and anxiety for the government.

All members of the cabinet except Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin attended this traditional eve-of-budget meeting presided over by Prime Minister Attlee. Bevin is recovering from a minor operation.

Ministers outside the cabinet will have to wait until tomorrow, when the speech will be read in the house by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

For the first time in 1945, the budget will be presented without the safeguard of a sufficient-revenue surplus to force the government's proposals through, unchanged by opposition. This time the two big parties are closely matched and there are signs that the Conservatives plan to make it "hot" for Labor.

Budget secrets in London are usually treated as a formality on budget day. They are considered too technical to be absorbed at one hearing—the opposition could force a leak if it wished.

Youth Rescued From Icy Waters By Missionary

Fort Erie, April 17—(CP)— Robert Spratt, 17, was rescued Saturday night from the Icy Niagara River by a missionary and a volunteer fireman as he battled helplessly clinging to a seaplane pontoon.

Spratt, had drifted out on the river after finding the pontoon on the shore.

"We could hear the boy shouting for help," Rev. Ernest Ellis, Delgial Brown, associated with the Apostolic Faith Mission, Tabernacle in Toronto. Brown had stopped his station wagon to join the firemen, Jimmy Glover, 19, in a small boat.

They shouted encouragement to him, and told his to hang on—that help would reach him in few minutes.

"The pontoon was about 500 feet out when they first started out. When we were 50 feet away the boy shouted: 'Hurry, please, I can't hold on much longer.'

"Physically we may have suffered severely from exposure but was in good condition.

Mines Minister Gemmell Favors Higher Prices for Gold And Uranium at Convention

Toronto, April 17. (CP)—Mines Minister Gemmell said today he believes gold would retain a high-er price if it were allowed to find its natural level. He also advocated a higher price for uranium.

Welcoming delegates to the three-day convention of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, the Ontario Cabinet Minister stated:

"We are living in a day when governments, whether for good or evil, have been doing quite a bit of price-setting. You in the mining industry know what the 35 dollar price ($35 an ounce U.S.) has meant, particularly in the past two years with the steady rise in the cost of operation and materials and the increase in wages.

"You know, too, what a shot in the arm the industry received when, by reason of devaluation of the Canadian dollar in September, an additional $3.50 was realized from an ounce of gold. It is my belief that gold would be selling at a considerably higher price if it were allowed to find its natural level. It is appropriate late what that would mean in the economy of Canada."

Mr. Gemmell said that "in Ontario, at least two of the more recent uranium finds are backed by our geological staff as having an immediate commercial possibilities. The same situation exists in other provinces."

He added: "All prospectin fraternity has gone about the task of turning the uranium finds with characteristic vigor and thoroughness. But the fact remains that in over two years of intense search in this province, only a single uranium mine has been brought in.

Price Too Low

"I have, on previous occasions, expressed my belief that the federal government's assured price of $2.73 a pound for uranium oxide is too low and should be increased. I am given to understand that at the present assured price it is doubtful if many of the new mines will be brought into production on a profitable basis.

"I am sure that the institute is keenly concerned as to whether Canada will be able to maintain its position as the second largest producer of uranium. As far as Ontario is concerned it appears to me that uranium is a large question mark at the moment and I feel that the province should provide something more definite as to the future.

"Certainly there has been no lack of enthusiasm on the part of the prospector, and mine developers have already displayed a willingness to go after uranium.

Mr. Gemmell gave a word of caution about the "wasting" nature of uranium finds.

"True, we have great new deposits of nickel, iron, titanium, asbestos, titanium, oil and others—but the bulk of production lies ahead. Canada has accumulated some years ago, some of them almost a century ago. We have had a record production value in 1949 of about $315,000,000 but I think we must be more emphasized by telling you that the 1949 production value last year of $85,000,000, over $40,000,000 was from gold mines which came into production prior to 1931."

Flies Back With 2 Daughters Taken to England by Wife

Selma, Ala., April 17 — (AP)— An American ex-serviceman flew back from London Sunday night with his two small daughters, who he said were taken to England by his estranged wife.

The former Atlantic tug of war developed when the war-born romance of Sergeant Arthur Vaughan, 36, a Selma accountant, and his English bride went on the rocks.

A court order granting legal separation was granted recently, and Mrs. Vaughan returned to England with the little girls.

Vaughan flew in to London Friday.

"The London Daily Mail said that Mrs. Vaughan had taken children from the street in front of his wife's home in a London suburb," Vaughan said. "They lied to him.

The paper quoted Vaughan as having said:

"I went and fetched my own children, whose custody a court has awarded me after a divorce."

At Selma, all Vaughan would say today was: "I'll say legal custody of the children."

Sometimes it is Hard to Figure Out Who is Ruling Whom in Japan

Tokyo, April 17 — (AP)—The machinery of occupation fits awkwardly these days on a Japan increasingly hopeful of independence.

In recent months the Japanese have been given wider responsibility that it sometimes seems the Americans here are losing the grip on persons responsible under occupation control.

Major policies, naturally, are still decided in Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, highest authority. These generally concerned with Japan's economics, international relations and major basic changes in the occupation blueprint for the country's future.

In this category, headquarters recently ordered coal miners to work all of a prospective seven-day week because American officials believe it would hurt Japan's economy.

On the lower operating levels, administration is mainly Japanese, partly American and partly confusion.

Entering a Problem

Take the problem of entering Japan. A tourist in the easy way—through the Japanese—formerly required a U.S. commercial representative had to use another method. Now, a British official, difficult, procedure for someone who wants a family attached to the consulate-general.

In the last case, the occupation seems to delay the naturalization reason for the visit, even though the critical point—housing—has been settled.

Under the occupation there also are three strictly-separated "levels of civilization."

There is the ordinary Japanese who nowdays pays little attention to the occupation except to note places it keeps him from frequenting, such as American service installations.

There are two classes of American.

The commercial entrants live half under Japanese control and half under the occupation. They have taken free items at their own stores—and pay top prices. They have denied many of the military privileges, including housing, but they must have occupation permission to buy or rent a Japanese house.

Cheaper Yet Hectic

Members of the armed forces and a small number of civilians are stitched to the occupation remain largely segregated. Housing, though little changed from the immediate post-war months. The Japanese have denied me office space on such matters as traffic and economic. Many restrictions are relaxed and a rule book covers their housing. It is cheaper, but more hectic this way.

The basic aim is to make Japan into a functioning nation in advance of a formal peace treaty. Yet Japanese politicians frequently talk at cross purposes with the occupation's aim.

Sometimes it is hard to figure out who is ruling whom.

DOOR SEEMS OPEN FOR SETTLEMENT OF COSTLY STRIKE

Chrysler Men Reject Company's Last Offer

Detroit, April 17 — (AP) — The door seemed open today for an early settlement of the costly, 10-day Chrysler strike.

Optimism prevailed although the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) rejected Sunday what Chrysler Corporation termed its "final" offer in the pension dispute.

As negotiations resumed today, observers said it seemed probable Chrysler would be willing to revise parts of its proposal to get a settlement.

One thing appeared certain — that in principle the two sides are farther than at any time since 89,000 Chrysler workers walked off their jobs April 7.

Walter P. Reuther, U. A. W. president, underlined that point when he said after Sunday's offer:

"We are glad that at this date Chrysler has finally agreed to provide pensions for their workers guaranteed by a sound pension trust fund."

The means of financing $100-a-month pensions for workers who are 65 years of age and have 30 years' service is the crux of the dispute.

Chrysler described its proposal, which gives the U. A. W. choice of three pension systems, as "the best pension package we offer that any large company in the automotive industry has ever offered the union."

Would Pay $100 Monthly

In any of the three plans, Chrysler would pay pensions of $100 a month, including social security.

The UAW rejection brought charges from Chrysler vice-president Herman L. Weckler that Union purposes "may have nothing to do with the declared issues involved" have prolonged the strike.

Chrysler said one of the choices presented in the union's "final" offer is to do one the AW accepted earlier from Ford Motor Company. Another was establishment of a new pension-trust fund backed by a $30,000,000 cash deposit and a funding method used in the Bethlehem Steel Company pension plan.

The third, Chrysler comment spokesman said, would follow a system worked out with the United States Steel Company, by which the corporation would pay into a fund monthly a sum determined by payroll by each employee and future pensioner. Then the fund-trustee works towards earning pensions.

Reasons for Rejection

Chrysler said the reasons the auto union listed for finding the offer inadequate were:

1. Employees would lose all claim to pension benefits if they were laid off more than five years.

2. Workers would have to retire at 68 and could not build future benefits after they were 65.

3. Benefits for workers retiring before they are 65 and with less than 25 years' service are inadequate.

4. No credit is given for vacation pay, leave of absence sickness, union business and injuries covered by workmen's compensation.

Visitors' Peeping Interrupts Romance Of Whooping Cranes, Public Barred

Austwell, Tex., April 17 (AP) —If it has the cranes worried, there's enough to worry about, there's now the matter of Crip and Josephine.

Crip and Josephine are supposed to be romancing. Put what with curious public, the romance is getting shaky.

Crip is a Josephine—and Mac too, thought he may sometimes wonder — are whooping cranes. If the fish and wildlife service count is right, there are 34 other whoopers left in the world.

A helicopter picked up Mac from a lonely marsh some time ago and set down in a game refuge here—to join the 36 other whoopers which spend the winter at the government preserve.

Mac tried to horn in on a mating dance. The other cranes —they stand six feet high and have a wallop—promptly beat Mac up, Now Mac wanders about alone, roundly snubbed.

Crip and Josephine are public service arranged a romance between Crip and Josephine in hopes they'd do something about the world's whooper population. So they isolated them on a remote bog edgy. Today Jullan A. Howard, manager of the game refuge, clamped down. No more visitors —and a lot more privacy — to the couple.

Crip is crippled. Josephine is hold captive. That's why they—and lonely Mac—will soon be the only whoopers left in the world, first and second door prize. Admission: Free. Everybody welcome.

Communists Gain Precarious Toehold On Hainan Island

Most of Invaders Killed But Fighting Still Continues

Taipei, Formosa, April 17 — (AP)—A Communist invasion force today gained a precarious toehold on the north coast of Hainan Island after suffering heavy losses at sea, official Chinese Nationalist dispatches reported tonight.

Most of the invaders were killed, but up to a late hour tonight fighting was still in progress west of the island capital of Hoihow, the dispatches stated.

The army was said to be under heavy attack by Nationalist warplanes and ground forces.

The Reds attempted the 10-mile overwater crossing from the mainland Sunday night in more than 200 junks, the account said.

More than half of these were declared to have been sunk during the night by Nationalist warships, but some succeeded in landing on Hainan that morning.

The Communists have made a hard-won pre-invasion small advance in the broader Hainan, but have failed each year, and all reports indicate they are now preparing for a major effort. Meanwhile, Nationalist generals that they can't be licked.

A high Nationalist source said it such a pact had been promulgated, it would include the Polish government had laid down a "way of death." for the church there. This source, who holds the title of Canonical Consultant of the Sacred Congregation of the Holy See, questioned whether Catholic Bishops would sign such a pact.

The Polish government announcement said it had Bishops had signed an accord in which religious freedom in Poland was promised in return for a church pledge to fight enemies of the Polish state.

Says Pact Signed

The controlled Polish News Agency said the agreement was signed by the Primate, Bishop of Warsaw, Zygmunt C. Oromansky, the members of the Council of Bishops, and two other Bishops.

The Vatican source said a statement on the agreement was made by the Communist-led regime in Hungary about a year ago, but that it was later learned that the Hungarian Catholic prelate had not put their signatures to the accord.

Mons Stefano Cardinal Saphicha, Archbishop of Krakow, now is in Rome on a Holy Year visit. Vatican sources said it was doubtful that the accord could legally have been signed without approval of the episcopate and the Pope.

VATICAN DENIES R.C. HIERARCHY HAS SIGNED PACT

By FRANK BRUTTO

Vatican City, April 17—(AP)— The Vatican Press office denied today that the Roman Catholic Hierarchy of Poland has signed an agreement with the Polish Communist government. Warsaw announced such a pact Saturday.

A Vatican Press office statement said, "nothing is known here of any such agreement. The circumstances and contents of the accord in question (as reported in Warsaw dispatches) preclude any foundation to the news."

Vatican sources pointed out that the accord was reported signed after Poland's leading Catholic prelate, Stefan Stefan Cardinal Saphicha, had left the country. The Cardinal, now in Rome, declined comment on the report of a Polish church-state accord.

A high Vatican source said it such a pact had been promulgated, it would include the Polish government had laid down a "way of death." for the church there. MUSKRAT APPEARS ON FRONT STREET

Maybe the housing shortage has affected the muskrat population. Or maybe this particular part of a fur coat was just plain curious as to what his friend, the human enemy does when he's not trapping muskrats.

In any event, according to Police Constable William Evans, Brother Rat's curiosity led him to the bright lights of Front Street on Sunday, and he narrowly escaped capture.

After a brief chase, Brother Rat decided the darkness an ally, offered a safe retreat and he accordingly disappeared in the friendly gloom.

Eaton Operatic Society far Above Amateur Class

The Eaton Operatic Society originally formed as the Eaton Choral Society in 1919, gave concerts annually. In 1931 they became known as The Eaton Operatic Society. Opera "Nolanthe". Since that time they have not missed producing a show annually. After "Nolanthe" many other Gilbert and Sullivan operettas have been presented.

The quality of their musical efforts and showmanship according to critics, have earned for the Society the reputation of being the leading operatic class and their interpretation of Gilbert and Sullivan Operettas are among the finest on the continent.

The Society is one of the many opportunities for recreation that the T. Eaton Co. provide for its employees in the interests of strictly voluntary and amateur.

The citizens of Belleville are indeed fortunate to have the opportunity to seeing this famous Society perform Iolanthe, one of the most popular of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic films. The play is being sponsored by the Belleville Kiwanis Club at the Collegiate auditorium with all proceeds going to the club's welfare work This is the first time the group has ever performed in the city.

$2,400 in Cash Taken From Safe During Weekend

London, Ont., April 17 — (CP) —Ripped open with crow bar, taken from the store's stock, the safe of Crown Hardware Limited yielded more than $2,400 in cash in thieves' spring cleaning here. Checks worth $500 were left behind.

The smashed safe, surrounded by the contents of filing cabinets and desk drawers was discovered today.

Police said they believed the safecrackers gained entry by forcing the top off the store's elevator shaft, and climbing down a ladder to the stair case leading to the office.

H. A. St Stainton, secretary-treasurer of the firm, theorized that the robbers might have hidden in the store before closing at six p.m. Saturday.

Top Hatters Lead Bowling Playoffs

Frankford — The Frankford Bowling League tangled in the first round of the playoffs Thursday night in Trenton. Top Hatters took two games from the Aristocrats by a single pin high in hand to date. Happy Gang took two games from the Uniques, but are far down on the high total. Merry Mars took two games and high total from the Skylitters, while the Head Pins and the Greenhorns each took two with the third still undecided on a technicality.

The first round will be completed next Thursday night, as the same teams tangle.

Permanent Hostility of Peasants Weakens Russ Agricultural System

Washington, April 17—(AP)— A former Russian food expert says the Russian agricultural system is a failure.

Naum Jasny, author of a new book, "Socialized Agriculture of the U.S.S.R." says that the Russians have built an agricultural system on an agricultural foundation not large enough to take care of it.

As long as this situation lasts it will be a threat to Russian expansion, he says. He sees no signs that the Russians are attempting to remedy the fault and says an attempted reorganization might prove "an extremely painful and protracted process."

For one thing, he says, the peasants were forced into the present Russian system of collectivized and state farming. The Russians took away the property of almost 100,000,000 peasants and placed it in a great, and here were draw their earnings after the state has appropriated its share.

"This obviously means permanent hostility; indeed, it means a state of permanent civil war that may be concealed," Jasny said in an interview here. "This hostility is unlikely to come into the open before a substantial weakening of the Soviet power, but it is going to play a big role when and if the weakening comes."

He said no state except one with a tremendous police and military power could enforce such an agricultural scheme as Russia has.

"Even a weakening of the political power would inevitably disturb the balance, if not lead to the collapse of the collective farm system," Jasny writes.

He also contends that Russia cannot go back to free types of farming, with peasants owning or operating many individual small farms, because too many horses have been destroyed or otherwise eliminated, and the fault and blame has been taken by machinery.

Machinery is suitable for large-scale effective farming but not peasant farming. Peasant farming won't support more than half of the present Russian city population, even if the Russian economy going back to this type of agriculture.

He believes the Soviet Union will have to find some new form of agriculture, based on the collective use of farm machinery on a large scale, but with a better balance between agricultural and industrial output.

The analysis of Russian agriculture is based on Russian and other statistics available in the United States, principally at the United Sates Department of Agriculture where Jasny has been employed.

South Hastings YPU Holds Drama Festival

South Hastings District Young People held their annual drama festival at Thomasburg on Tuesday evening. Douglas Rose, president of South Hastings YPU capably acted as chairman.

The adjudicators were Mrs. Morley Clarke, Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Wm. Bombough.

Vocal numbers were given by Miss Marilyn Eggleton and Miss Betty Ann Rosebelle. Everyone was a mock campfire scene presented by Moira Young People accompanied by Rev. Morley Clarke with guitar.

The Carmel Foxboro Union won the trophy with their play "Utter Relaxation." Witness Testimonial played by Harvey Redman is forced to remain in bed due to a cold. The play, which was played by Reta Christie, His day of utter relaxation is ru'ed by the arrival of his wife's girl friend, Emma (Dorothy Read). A little romance develops between Jon, (Jim Gay); his boss, Mr. Clement (Doug Rose) and the singing maid, Ella (Helen Bartlett).

Reta Christie, culture convener for the Foxboro group was in charge of the drama festival, presented the trophy to Rev. F. Gilbert, district rep. Mrs. Gilbert accepted it on behalf of the Carmel-Foxboro Union.

The competing play, "Mama's Little Helper" was presented by Moira Young People's Union under the direction of Mr. Wesley Redman. Mama (Mrs. Lorna Emerson) is a widow and her 14 year old daughter, Candy (Louise Bingham) is a girl who loves her's little helper. Candy gets into an awful predicament when she brings back her mother's old beau Preston Savage (Lorne Mumby) and his wife, Mrs. Savage (Iva Thompson); and when she tries to do business with a rich lady, Miss Birdie Caldwell (Marie Cooney), Her plans include her boy friend, Jimmie Knox (Gordon McInroy) and village spinster, Miss Zelda Dawson (Evelyn Emerson) who manages to force a proposal from Omar Ludlow (Lloyd Thompson) a bashful business man.

Rotary Ladies' Night Says World Needs Progressive Moral Program to Win Peace

Members of the local Rotary Club held their annual ladies' night in the dining room at Albert College on Friday evening, the program taking the form of a banquet with bridge and dancing.

Guest speaker for the evening was Herbert A. Mowat, member of the National Executive of the United Nations Association in Canada and chairman of the speakers' panel for the Toronto branch of the same association. Topic of Mr. Mowat's address was "The Moral Implications of World Peace."

Warning that peace cannot be won by matching of armaments Mr. Mowat stated that the world needs a progressive moral program; a world council table to settle by international co-operation instead of competition. A law-making organization on the basis of the four freedoms was needed, he said.

Great Forces at Work

The speaker said there were forces at work which had a personal and tragic influence on each of the world's people in this day of life. The atom or "cold war." Consequences of losing the peace were incredible.

Forces existing at Geneva were influencing life and welfare "in this country, and Ottawa was being influenced by them just as much as by forces inside Canada. Because of this Ottawa could in no way guarantee the Canadian way of life. The same applied to Washington and to Moscow.

Mr. Mowat went on to say that the people of the USSR are more afraid of a third world war than are Canadians.

Russia feared a third World acting as accompanist.

Regiment Holds Opening Formal Dance in Newly-Decorated Mess

The outstanding social event of the season was the opening of the redecorated officers' mess of the 9th Anti Tank RCA (Argyll Light Infantry) Friday night when Lieut. Col. G. W. McGregor commanding officer and his officers entertained at the opening formal dance of the regiment.

Over 200 guests and forty couples including several out-of-town officers were formally received at the doors of the mess at 9.30 by Lieut Col. McGregor and Mrs. McGregor and Major and Mrs. Walsh of Kingston.

The formal black and white and uniforms of the gentlemen offered a distinct contrast to the pretty gowns of the ladies, with the whole backgrounded by the colorful background of the mess's new decorative motifs.

Dancing took place in lecture room adjoining the mess proper with rhythm supplied by Bandsmen Eric James and his orchestra from Kingston. Refreshments were served on the balcony at midnight.

The new mess "garb" was admired by the large crowd. The uniforms of the officers are dark hastings with grey and blue feather mount and mess blinds. The rug is of green broadloom with chesterfields and chesterfield and Mrs. A. B. Hunt and Major chairs of maroon. The grey and and Mrs. W. J. Allin.

POLICE BLOTTER

Panhandlers were busy in the Victoria Ave. district over the weekend, it was reported to police by a resident of that district. A check in the area by officers, however, failed to reveal any strangers in the area.

Early Saturday morning a Pine Street resident reported that the key of her side door had been pushed in apparently in an attempt by some party to open the door.

The same thing occurred at a residence on Bleecker Ave., where the key was pushed out of the lock and the door opened. When the lights in the house were turned on the party disappeared.

A Watertown, N. Y., resident reported that a camera had been stolen from his car while it was parked on Front Street, while a Cedar Street resident stated his car had been broken into with a flat tire and cushion being taken.

IN MEMORIAM

BUSH — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Ethel Bush, (Nance) Bush, who passed away April 17th, 1947.

Sadly we think of you today,
We miss you more than words can say.
Your memory is our treasure now we go,
We see his vacant place.
God alone knows how we miss him,
Or what we've lost in him.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the place where he is laid.
Lovingly remembered by Mom and Dad, Sisters and Brothers. A17

BELLIS — In loving memory of our dear brother, Alfred Thomas (Pete) Bellis, who died April 16, 1945.

He bid no one a last farewell,
He said good-by to none.
The heavenly gates were open wide,
A loving voice said "come."
We often sit and think of you,
The things in life we say and do,
We wonder why you had to die,
Without a chance to say good-by.
Always remembered by sister Mary, brother-in-law Jim and family. A17

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 17 — (CP) — Industrials rolled steadily higher into new high ground as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Trends pointed downwards on the big board at the opening but support appeared quickly and early declines were replaced by gains ranging from fractions to a full point. Volume for the first 3 hours was 1,345,000 shares.

Market leaders paced the industrial advance as the average price level again rose to a new high. Papers, led by Abitibi, gained strongly and utilities, construction and liquors also featured.

Western oils pulled onto firmer ground following considerable realizing last week on a five-week advance into new high ground. A few key issues showed penny advances.

Base metals were in a two-way market. East Sullivan traded actively on the downgrade while Eurka and Ascot churned upwards.

Low-priced golds continued active performers. Kerr-Addison was strong in seniors following news of an increased dividend.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, April 17 — (CP) — Cattle trade was active at steady prices this morning at the Ontario stockyards. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: cattle, 3,700; calves, 700; hogs, 650; sheep and lambs, 30.

Medium to good weights steers sold at $24-$28 with choice up to $27. Good to choice light steers brought $24-$25.50 a cwt. while good heifers were $23.50-$24. Medium cows sold at $18.50-$20 with tops at $21. Canners and cutters were mostly $14.50-$16. Good bulls sold at $20.50-$22 and good to choice fed yearlings were $24-$28.50. Stock calves sold up to $24.

Good to choice veal calves were steady at $27-$29 while other grades were $1 lower at from $17-$25.

Hog prices were unestablished today.

Medium to good sheep were steady at $11-$14.

Score of Deer Starve to Death On Navy Island

Toronto, April 17—(CP)—More than a score of deer have starved to death on Navy Island in the Niagara River, it was reported today.

Officials of the Ontario Lands Department and the Ontario Research Foundation visited the island and found 18 carcasses and many starving animals.

Main reason for the condition of the deer was the fact that the island was over-populated. The investigators estimated that the island's only can support 25 to 30 animals.

It was hoped that survivors would swim to the mainland. If not, the herd would have to be thinned out before next winter to prevent further starvation.

Unemployment Insurance Book Leads to Arrest

Thorold, April 17 — (CP) — An Unemployment Insurance book left in a suit of clothes abandoned at the scene of a robbery was responsible for a charge of breaking and entering with theft being laid against Burton O'Brien of Hamilton in connection with a robbery at the Crust Bakery Saturday night.

Two overcoats, two suits of clothes and a sum of $400 was stolen from G. Rybalko a bakery driver who lives in the building. One of the thieves changed into one of the stolen suits and left his own clothes behind, in one pocket was his unemployment insurance book.

O'Brien was arrested in nearby St. Catharines as a vagrant about midnight, following the robbery. He was recognized as the man wanted in Thorold.

Board Recommends Immediate Building of More Accommodation For Public, Separate, High Schools

Trenton, (Special.) —A delegation from the Trenton School Board, headed by their chairman, Mr. R. F. McInnes, placed the following proposal before council last Thursday night:

1. That the North Trenton ton school be supplemented by two extra classrooms to be ready for use by September.

2. That the construction of a six-hundred pupil High School commenced immediately.

3. That an eight-room public school be erected on the east side of the river.

Commenting on the proposals, Mr. McInnes said that this would greatly relieve the pressure brought about by the crowded classrooms of Trenton.

"Our schools in Trenton are bursting at the seams," he said, "and the only possible solution is to build new schools and add rooms to our present ones.

Study Made in Winter

At a meeting of the school board, held last November, a committee was formed to study the educational needs and problems in Trenton. The members of the committee are: M. W. Anderson, E. F. McInnes, Grant Rathbun, J. W. Wyngaarden, E. LaMorre, J. H. Armstrong, C. W. Saylor, V. R. Ryan. This committee found the present enrolment in Trenton schools from grades one to eight to be 1,811 pupils. High School the enrolment is 382, making a total of 1,800 pupils enrolled in the public, Separate and High Schools of Trenton. The average number of pupils per classroom is 38. According to the committee, the Dept. of Education contends that classrooms should be built to hold 35 pupils but restricted to only 30 except in exceptional cases.

Future Increase

The committee also made an intensive study of birthrate statistics. By striking a percentage of births registered back as far as 1940 and covering the intervening years it developed that in 1955 Trenton would have a school population of grades one to eight of 2,259 pupils including repeaters. In Trenton High School it is estimated that the enrolment in 1955 will be 675, this includes grades nine and ten and Collegiate and Technical.

The committee stated that it was quite obvious from the facts emerging from their studies that the curriculum in Trenton schools were not adequate nor in line with modern practice. They also urged the introduction of Kindergarten-Primary claiming the need was obvious considering the number of repeaters in grade one which was set at 27 1-2 per cent.

On the matter of Junior Home Economics and Shop for grades seven and eight, a letter received from Mr. R. H. Macklem, the Public School Inspector for South Hastings, said in part, "It should be borne in mind the teaching of these manipulative skills would make school life much more interesting to all pupils. Their practical and useful character makes them valuable throughout life. In many cases the inclusion of these subjects in grades seven and eight would keep the pupils in school longer. Pupils who could otherwise be leaving school would be good in these subjects and thus would not experience a sense of complete failure and frustration."

Complete Recommendations

The complete recommendations submitted by the committee were:

1. The immediate construction of a 600 pupil High School with home economics, shop, laboratory, gymnasium and assembly.

2. The immediate construction of 10 Public School rooms with necessary accommodations.

3. The adaptation of the present High School to needs of grades seven and eight with shop and home economics facilities, as soon as the building is available.

4. Introduction of Kindergarten-Primary as soon as possible for Public and Separate Schools.

5. Immediate construction by the Separate School Board of six rooms with ancillary accommodations and the introduction of shop and home economics for grades 7, 8, 9, and 10, as soon as possible.

The committee believes the costs will be approximately:

New High School	$ 750,000.00
10 Rooms Public	340,000.00
Adaptation of H.S.	10,000.00
6 Rooms Sep. School	180,000.00
	$1,180,000.00

Increase in Mills

Translated into mills, the committee estimates this would be 8.08 mills for public school supporters. The cost for Separate School supporters would be approximately the same.

The committee added however that the approximate capital cost would be reduced in so far as Trenton taxpayers are concerned by grants from the Provincial Department of Education. Council decided to submit the proposals to the Municipal Board for their consideration and approval before taking further action.

BURGLARS BREAK — GET HOME-MADE WALL

Kitchener, April 17. (CP)— Burglars broke through a 14-inch wall of the Snider Flour Milling Co., vault at St. Jacobs early Sunday but were unable to open the safe. They obtained only a flashlight and some batteries and a time clock for their efforts. St. Jacobs is six miles north of Waterloo.

Pair of Young Boys Arrested For Burglary

Trenton—(Special) — Ignoring approximately $55 worth of bills in large denominations, a pair of young Trenton boys walked off with $70 in one dollar bills and quarters from the cash register in Wickens' garage, 542 Front St., in Trenton.

The teen-agers gained entrance by breaking down the door at the north end of the garage and kicking in the office window.

Mr. Wickens owner of the garage stated that the robbery occurred between 10.10 and 10.30 Thursday night. Wickens notified Trenton police who in turn called in the Provincials, due to the fact that the garage is beyond the town limits.

The pair were apprehended Friday noon at their homes.

GIRL HIT BY TRUCK

Carol Scarlett, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. Wm. Scarlett, 176 Sydney St., received extreme shock and possible concussion when she was struck by a delivery truck Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Scarlett stated that he saw his daughter crossing the street in front of the truck and called for her to come back. He stated that the driver of the truck, Eric G. Rowe, of 98 Murphy St., was not driving fast.

The young girl was attended by Dr. D. L. Gordon who ordered her removed to Belleville General Hospital immediately.

Whitness to the accident said that the girl was thrown several feet.

Personal

Friends of Mrs. E. A. McCormack will be pleased to know that Mr. McCormack is progressing at Belleville General Hospital following a serious operation. Mrs. McCormack has lived in Colborne since she moved there in September, prior to which she resided at 30 North Murray St., in Trenton.

Rock Crushing Quarry Opened Near Sulphide

Tweed—The H. McFarland Construction Company is engaged in crushing rock at the quarry north east of Tweed on the Sulphide Road. A considerable number of workmen will be employed in the operation, for the next few weeks. Rock will be crushed on a contract basis for the county, the township of Hungerford, and the village of Tweed. The road to Sulphide has already been covered as well as a number of miles of township roads. Several streets in the village are badly in need of a layer of rock and this job will be completed later.

Vincent Duquette of Johnson's Corners, while working for Weldon Wood, in the bush, cut his right foot badly. He suffered from loss of blood and shock. Seven stitches were necessary to close the wound.

Thought Car Had Exploded

Owen Sound, April 17 (CP) — Farmer George Seaman strung several strands of barbed wire across his lane the other day to keep the horses from wandering to the highway. But he forgot about it—until Sunday.

He headed for the highway himself, in his tiny, jeep-type automobile. The wires hit the windshield. The windshield hit Seaman, crashing his nose and cutting his head and face.

"I thought the car had exploded," said Seaman when he came to.

Two Infants Die After Emergency Trip To S.C. Hospital

Toronto, April 17—(CP)— Two infants died in the Hospital for Sick Children Sunday after emergency trips had brought them from their homes at Belleville and Guelph respectively.

The three-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Mac Donald, Belleville, died following an operation to provide the child with a normal esophagus. She was born with the lower end of the throat separated from her stomach.

Maureen Patricia Bennett, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bennett of Guelph, died from a severe heart condition, which had caused her to be rushed to local institution.

ACCIDENT-PRONE DRIVERS

A British doctor writing in the Lancet as a result of his observations gives it as his opinion that there are definitely common types of accident-prone drivers, first, the thruster, who is generally a male and an example of male aggressiveness and whose pride is hurt by being overtaken; the hurrier, usually with nothing to hurry for and associated with restlessness and, acquisitiveness, who overtakes right times in a 50-mile run to gain half-a-smile, the down-trodden-at-home fellow behind eight horsepower; the dreamer, who cannot see mental pictures and real ones at the same time; the boss merchant, who is speed for speed's sake and generally immature, speed being the biggest single factor in fatal accidents; and the exhibitionist, who "speaks for himself."

That thought is one of the most unpleasant to realize and yet as the Ottawa Citizen says "this remains one of the unsolved problems of civilization. More than 2,000 persons in Canada will lose their lives as a result of traffic accidents before the end of the year unless a great improvement takes place, and in the United States the figure will be around 33,000 and in Britain around 5,000. A hit-and-run case in Toronto, causing the death of two girls, has aroused public opinion. This might be a case, when it is solved, which will teach a lesson of accident prevention. Was the driver a person who should never have been allowed to operate a motor vehicle?"

The Citizen in fairness to the motorist says that "it might be argued that similar types are found among pedestrians, particularly the exhibitionists, the dreamers and the hurriers. The walker who is wrecked at home may express his personality by courting the perils of traffic, causing nervous breakdowns among motorists. He may stand on his rights in the face of the oncoming automobile and not live long to enjoy them."

One of the outstanding facts is that road accidents appear to surprisingly small number of drivers. In proof of this it is pointed out that an investigation in Ontario disclosed that 50 per cent of the accidents involved only seven per cent of the registered drivers. Stiffer driving tests seem to be the answer, comments the Citizen. "The experts, after all, might be the first to flunk a really difficult driving test."

RECORDING THIS AGE

It may surprise many to learn that there are celebrities of days long past, records of whose voices are preserved by the British Broadcasting Company. The earliest records are from 1890, these include the voice of William Ewart Gladstone, a former Prime Minister of Britain, Florence Nightingale and Lord Tennyson but these oldest records are reproduced from old phonograph records. Other famed folk whose voices are recorded are Lloyd George, Bernhardt, and Bernard Shaw, Max Beerbohm and those noted actors, Sir Frank Benson and Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson. Among the early records are also speeches of Winston Churchill, Lloyd George and Mr. Asquith.

This recording is one of the wonders of the age. Such is of course available almost anywhere in the world by the present invention but it will be unheard of to read our history in the recorded programs of today. To the people of the distant future such available recordings will be of great importance. This will at the same time bring a profound sense of regret that there are no recordings of people of far distant ages. Their voices were stilled when they passed, and then few of their age had the opportunity of hearing noted figures in the life. What would the English-speaking world give for a record of Alfred the Great's voice or of William the Conqueror's or of Henry Fifth? Going abroad what would not the world give for a record of the voice of that great figure of the Renaissance, the Maid of Orleans, who remains to this day one of the marvels and wonders of history.

Today's inventions of course have one drawback, they can record too much, so much that hardly an iota of it can be edited and used for any time goes on making records our after hour all requiring editing and condensing. And of all the riches that these recorded programs give today make us but feel more keenly the loss and sounds of the long distant past, for the voices of the great figures of history and leaders of humanity who had no recording device except the pen of the historian to jot down their words or needs.

Free will is not the liberty to do whatever one likes, but the power of doing whatever one sees ought to be done, even in the very face of allurement and overwhelming impulse. There lies freedom, indeed. — George MacDonald.

FIVE

Goodness gracious! Sakes alive!
Can you mean it? You are five!
It is true that never,
Then to say that you are four!

Will the year to friends I've told:
Little Jane is four years old,
Is it possible that I've
Now be change that "four" to "five"?

You seem very proud and glad
One year unto four to add,
But a change so soon I find
Difficult to keep in mind.

Your forgetful grandpa makes
Many serious mistakes,
But in time I may be may-
To remember you are five.

PASSION OR POT ROAST

Some weeks ago when the newspapers front-paged the story of the leopard which strolled back into its cage after being AWOL for three days, a lot of people wondered whether it returned because it was hungry or because it was lonely for a certain lady keeper of the secret of obscure.

It so happened that around the same time, by a strange doubletake of destiny, my Uncle Charlie also went on the prowl, and his return a few days later raised the identical question on the lower East Side—was it lunch or was it love?

It all began when my Aunt Frieda got the social bee in her bonnaha, joined the Delancey Street chapter of the Daughters of Deborah, and was left to do little City for its annual convention. Knowing Charlie for what he was—a man with one foot in the clouds and his head on the ground—Frieda began to worry that he'd get promaine from eating a tainted blintz in restaurant, and so she telephoned aboarded a bus and made a quick trip to New York to see if everything was all right.

When she entered their flat, Charlie was in the bathtub pudding his favorite song, "A Glass Tea For Two."

"How do you feel?" asked Frieda.

"How should I feel?"

"How's business at the shop?"

"Pish!"

"You miss me, Charlie?"

"Why should I miss you?—you're here. What gives in Atlantic City?"

"The Atlantic City is giving speeches," said my aunt. "Tomorrow we are deciding about the hydrogen bomb, yes or no."

"In such a case, you better go right back," said Charlie. "Bye-bye, and don't take no wooden kickers."

On the street, Frieda met gossipy neighbor who said: "When I saw you go out, I was giving the mice —and they ain't playing Pinochle."

"You are implicating my Charlie is a rat!"

"A schmatt! Ask the whole Greenhouse."

A bit shaken, Frieda posted herself inside the candy store across the street, and when Charlie, wearing a carnation, came out she followed him—and sure enough, he high-stepped down the block to the home of Mrs. Greenhouse.

Now, if this were a movie, our heroine would hold her tongue for six reels of misunderstanding and suspense—but Frieda was never one for slow emotion. She waited a jittery five minutes, rang the widow's bell and barged right in when she saw Charlie sitting in the nude, regally, on a charged liver big enough to feed the four Marx Brothers.

"This is an unexpected surprise," said Mrs. Greenhouse.

"Likewise," said Frieda. Then, turning to Charlie, she said, "I missed the bus but I figured I would have a bite supper with my lord and mister."

"Pull up a chair," said the widow, "I got a pot roast you could cut it with a fingernail."

Frieda sniffed. "To me, it smells like a boiled beef what he was—a man with one foot in the clouds and his head on the ground—Frieda began to worry that he'd get promaine from eating a tainted blintz in restaurant, and so she telephoned aboarded a bus and made a quick trip to New York to see if everything was all right.

Rumours of Coup

There were reports of such a Conservative coup during the weekend, but they were generally discounted.

In any event, the government has issued a three-line whip to guard against possible Tory "shock tactics" tomorrow.

Two weekend events added to the worries of a Labor government which goes into budget day only five seats up on the opposition.

1. The resignation by Stanley Evans, parliamentary secretary to the food ministry, who discomfited his chiefs by saying that no other country feather-beds its agriculture as Britain does. Many political writers contended that Evans' only crime was putting bluntly what some ministers probably intend to say when the time is ripe—That high subsidies on farm products will have to come eventually.

2. The announcement that two Liberal members of the House of Lords, the Marquess of Reading and Lord Rennell, have decided to join the Conservatives.

The Peers said they feel that in another election the Liberals would be unlikely to get much more than 10 per cent of the total vote, even with a change in the electoral system.

Will Harm Liberals

Their decision will harm the Liberals, but it will be equally as damaging to Labor, which has been vying with the Tories for the Liberal vote at the next election. Recent Liberal statements show a tone distinctly cooler to Labor than to the Tories, and there is thus a renewed hope at the Conservative party office that some form of Tory-Liberal coalition may be finally arranged.

When the next election will come still is a guess, but the Conservatives appear to be in an increasingly challenging mood. In a by-election last week, Conservative leader Winston Churchill said "no good can come from prolonging the impotent and precarious life of this discredited government."

FATAL SEIZURE IN BATH TUB

Toronto, April 17. (CP)—John Pierce, 22, was found dead in his bath today. The coroner's office said death was due to drowning.

Coroner J. D. Lavering said he believes Pierce suffered an epileptic fit and fell, striking his chin and falling into the bath.

Aerial Search Over Baltic Sea Is Abandoned

Copenhagen, Denmark, April 17 — (AP) —The big aerial search for the United States navy patrol bomber which disappeared mysteriously over the Baltic Sea with 10 men aboard was abandoned today.

The only possible clue to the fate of the plane, last heard from a week ago last Saturday at the same time the Russians said their fighters exchanged shots with an American bomber over Latvia, was a Fellow life raft found Sunday floating in the sea.

The life raft, its food containers empty, was found by the little British freighter Beechland about 45 miles east of Stockholm, Sweden. The spot is 200 miles north of the Latvian city of Lepaya (Libau) where the Soviets say their fighters chased off a U.S. bomber.

The Beechland continued on its scheduled course to the Finnish port of Kotka where it is expected to arrive this afternoon.

The derelict raft will be flown back to Copenhagen where U.S. air force officials will examine it.

Russian Lack of "Restraint"

Washington, April 17 — (AP)— The United States today chided Russia for lack of "calmness and restraint" in dealing with the alleged clash of American and Soviet planes.

The criticism was in a formal announcement that the U.S. will delay its reply to Moscow's note until all possible information about the incident can be collected and "the true facts determined by calm and thorough appraisal."

The statement said:

"This government believes that this careful approach is the only proper one in an important and delicate matter of international relations and regrets that the Soviet government has failed to show equal calmness and restraint."

Russia protested last Tuesday that April 8 an American plane of the B-29 type flew over Soviet Latvia. It said the plane fired on a Russian plane and that the Soviet aircraft returned the fire.

The American investigation has indicated that the only possible United States plane which could have been over Latvia was a navy patrol plane, missing since April 8 on a training flight. That plane was unarmed and had instructions to stay clear of Soviet territory.

Formal search for the missing naval plane has been abandoned.

Miss Helen Reesor Gives Challenge At T.B.C. Alumnae

The Quinte Alumnae branch of Toronto Bible College was held at the home of Miss Olga Bastgat, Brighton, Ont., on Saturday night.

Those present from Belleville, included Mrs. Albert Embury, Mrs. Arch Embury, Mrs. E. E. Hawley, and Mrs. Kenneth Dixon.

Miss Helen Reesor, former public nurse of Belleville General Hospital, and returned missionary from Nigeria, Africa, was guest speaker, and gave a graphic and interesting account of her experiences in the foreign field, and extended a stirring challenge to Christian women, to take up the torch, and go forth to the fields which are now ripe unto harvest.

Among out-of-town guests present at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Donald, of Mountain View.

Arctic Sun-Bathing Thrill To Girls Living in Aklavik

Two young Montreal women today live 200 miles within the Arctic Circle and while they find temperatures of 65 degrees below zero "trying" for walking, they enjoy the sunbathing pleasure of "rutting" (trapping muskrats) and the un-Arctic pleasure of sunbathing when the July shines writes Harriet Hill in the Montreal Gazette.

They are sisters, daughters of George W. S. Shipman. Eleanor, the elder, teaches in Aklavik for the Church of England All Saints School, and Marguerite supervises the girls at the same school.

Educated in boarding-schools, they had to take a long look at their geographies before they started out two years ago for Aklavik. They then knew about as much about the frozen north as a first day bowling of the day readily admit today that "it was not quarantined."

Now they have first-hand acquaintance with the natives and no children for All Saints School takes care of more than 100 of them.

Howling Dogs Present

The young women have grown accustomed to being without telephones, or streetcars or busses. At first the howling of the dogs at night bothered them, but as Eleanor writes in a letter home, "Now we don't notice it."

When they arrived in the Arctic they expected to see igloos mushrooming over the landscape. They have not been any—except in ones the children make when they play in the school backyard.

"Although some of the natives come from the Arctic coast they are a couple of generations removed from their igloo-dwelling ancestors," they write. "These natives live in tents or cabins but at least they live up to the storybooks in one regard— they eat blubber."

But while the Eskimos have grown sufficiently sophisticated to live in cabins, they remain nomads. "Extending the number of natives in Aklavik is difficult," the girls say, "because many move out to their trap lines as soon as it is cold enough and they are always out hunting caribou or fishing."

The girls find it "odd" to be living in Canada and not hearing a newscast or reading a newspaper.

Radio Station Local

"The Friendly Voice of the Arctic"—the local radio station housed in one room, broadcasts local news and sends messages for the district. But it does provide a testing-ground for local newscasters and some indifferent and some frankly bad.

When the cold really settles in—and it can drop to 68 degrees below zero—the girls have an answer—sensible clothes.

They say: "The latest fashion news from the far north is that pants are worn long and baggy with a native tapsy holding you in at the middle and an elaborate design worked in colored braid at the bottom.

Eleanor adds: "A native woman did the funny work on mine but I did the rest. It is my favorite red in Grenfell cloth and lined with an old fur coat I had donated for this purpose. The fur is next to me so I am as snug as a bug in a rug."

"Christmas in Aklavik this year was not quite what the girls had expected due to the invasion of measles with the whole town placed under quarantine.

Since then things have been looking up. Temperatures have climbed.

July Brings Swimming

The girls describe attending a tea with the ladies "attired in afternoon dresses and nylons, although most wore a parka over their ensemble."

When temperatures reached zero, the girls celebrated by venturing forth in bathing slacks or overstockings.

They know from personal experience that by mid-June they will be walking down the town's main street "without even a jacket, sometimes," and by July they will don sun suits and "sunbathe" and swim. When the ice goes, picnics come—with moose liver a prize delicacy.

The girls are two of the 150 white people who live in Aklavik. Most of them are professional people or officials, but in addition there is a large staff of officers and constables which makes the town its headquarters. The men go out from there to travel many thousands of miles by dog-team in the Arctic winter. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police are the administrators.

But perhaps best of all things in the Arctic, the girls like the midnight sun. (For more than six months in the year the sun is obscured and part of the rest of the year daylight is present most of the 24 hours of the day.)

Eleanor says: "The midnight sun is a never-ending source of fascination to us. And it is odd to go to a dance and return at three in the moring in broad daylight."

Edna Jaques To Address Comrade Club

Mrs. Edna Jaques, one of Canada's outstanding poets and who is claimed to be loved all over the Dominion, will be the guest speaker at the Comrade Club meeting in Tabernacle United Church on Thursday evening.

The well-known Ottawa poet and author has written several volumes of verse which have been given a splendid reception by the critics.

A gifted speaker who intersperses her talk with delightful humor, the Canadian poet has addressed women's and other clubs in a number of coast-to-coast tours. She has spoken to gatherings on the "Alaska Highway", and has received splendid receptions wherever she has appeared.

Small, poised and with a great friendliness of manner, Edna Jaques brings a heart-warming delight to her audience, with as the saying is, "grit and homespun and the rough weave of common folks."

She has a charming personality and platform manner which she succeeds in transmitting to her listeners in her portrayals of the common incidents of life. It is said that she is a poet that possesses "a simple dignity of true greatness".

She has a keen understanding of life, deep love for people and true generosity herself, "a by-product of a homestead."

Women's Activities

ALBERT COLLEGE W.G.

The regular meeting of the Albert College Women's Guild was held in the ladies' parlor of Bridge Street Church, on Friday. The president, Mrs. Northcott, presided.

The devotional period was in charge of Miss Hamilton. Mrs. M. Duff read the scripture lesson and Miss Sulman read an inspiring Easter story.

Mrs. R. Harron, accompanied by Mrs. G. R. Guthridge, at the piano, sang a solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple," which was much enjoyed.

Mrs. H. W. Ackerman gave a short, but interesting talk on her recent visit to Florida. She spoke of the splendid work which was being done by the churchmen there. This is an aspect of the life in Florida, which is not generally known to the public. Christian ambassadors, who are missionaries par excellent, visit the different resorts and put before the people the claims of the various communities in which they have been serving. The response is always very generous.

Dr. Clarence Salisbury

Mrs. Ackerman mentioned, especially, an outstanding man among the missionaries, Dr. Clarence Salisbury, a medical missionary, who held degrees in medicine from American colleges and who was originally from Canada, having been born in Moira, near Belleville. He belonged to the Methodist Church and had served in West Africa, and also in China as a medical missionary.

Miss Janet Hillis, accompanied by Mrs. Duff, sang beautifully two solos, "Lift Up Your Heads, man", and "May Day Carol".

Miss R. Mcintyre pleased the audience with two readings, "Spring Charm," by T. A. Daly, and "Packing," by Edgar Guest.

Mrs. Potter, accompanied by Mrs. Houston sang two solos, "Shepherd Lullaby" and "Homeland", both solos were much enjoyed.

Tea was then served by Mrs. Hibbard, Mrs. McMillan and Mrs. Fetterley.

Claims Plane Frightened Mink, 203 Killed Each Other

Halifax, April 17 — (CP) — A Shiguoddish fisherman took two claims a low-flying aircraft frightened its mink so badly that 202 of them killed each other.

It is suing Trans-Canada Air Lines for $2,000 and the case is to be heard before a jury at the Nova Scotia Supreme Court civil sittings opening tomorrow.

Nova Mink, Ltd., claims the noise, caused by the aircraft's disturbance caused by the operation of the said aircraft frightened, disturbed and panicked" the mink so much that "they became frenzied and aroused and killed their young and each other and greatly deteriorated the value of such mink as survived."

T.C.A. denied its aircraft had anything to do with the death of the mink.

MARIO ... What's Cooking?

By the author of "THE FACE IN THE ASPIC"

in his distinctive feature about Food...

Orange rind was used for cleaning floors in the West Indies two centuries ago.

If this seems an injustice to both fruit and fruit, it can be explained on grounds of inexperience. They hadn't learned how to make orange sponge cakes or orange chiffon pie.

There weren't enough oranges in those days to be used for the beginning, middle and end of the meal. As late as 1870 the total crop of California navel oranges was one box.

Oranges are now regularly used as fruit appetizers, as garnishes for meat, poultry or fish, in salads, desserts and beverages.

The old practice of calling the orange rind the zest of the fruit explains perfectly the use of the skin in cooking. A few teaspoons of rind will give a zestful flavor to sauces, cake batters, pie fillings or puddings.

Orange Sponge Cake

Set oven at 350 degrees.

Measure 1 1-4 cups sifted cake flour. Combine flour with 1 1-4 teaspoons double action baking powder and 1-4 teaspoon salt. Sift together three times.

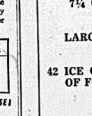
Have water simmering in the bottom part of a double boiler. In upper part of double boiler remove from heat beat 3 eggs slightly. Gradually add 1 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Place upper part of double boiler over simmering water and continue to beat constantly with rotary egg beater until batter feels slightly warm—not hot.

Turn mixture out at once from double boiler into mixing bowl. Beat with rotary egg beater until cool.

Add 1-3 cup orange juice, beating well.

Fold in flour mixture, that is, bring mixing spoon down to bottom of bowl, over to sides and up. Continue folding motion until all dry ingredients are well blended.

Turn batter into a 9-inch tube pan, greased on bottom only. Bake at 350 degrees 50 to 60 minutes or until done. Invert pan over cake rack for 1 hour. Remove cake from pan.



To make orange frosting: Cream 1-4 cup butter until soft, and gradually add 2 cups sifted confectioner's sugar and 1-8 teaspoon salt. Add frosting becomes too firm to handle, add orange juice to make of spreading consistency. About 4 to 5 tablespoons juice will be needed. Add 2 teaspoons grated orange and 1-2 teaspoon grated lemon rind to frosting. Spread frosting on cooled cupcions.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

Jean looked at Tim longer than absolutely necessary. "I'm awfully glad to know you—all of you!" she said.

Tim wondered if they all heard his heart's dang into his ribs when she looked at him like that, and almost forgot to mention the others.

"We were just talking about Bruce too," Diane said, after they were all seated again, Jean in a ponderous armchair that dwarfed her small figure.

"Oh, you were?"

"Jean's dark blue eyes widened as she turned quickly from Diane to Greg and back again. A little touch of a blush rose in her temples and she added, rather uncomfortably, "—I guess everyone is kind of curious."

Tim Donovan was worried for fear Diane would reveal their more than casual interest in the affair, So he said, "It doesn't take much to get people all worked up, when they're way off by themselves in the country like this." He smiled and Jean smiled back at him, a little uncertainly but Tim felt a thrill run through him. He took a moment lighting a cigarette. Then he said "I was in town and just got back. Diane and Greg were just telling me all about it—at least, all they knew.

He glanced at Diane and held her eyes until she nodded, almost imperceptibly. She wouldn't say anything about his special interest in the case, nor about the questions he'd just been asking. Tim knew that Greg would keep a close mouth.

Diane glanced at her wrist watch and exclaimed, "Why my gosh, it's nearly 12! Oh, but that's right this is Sunday. We won't be eating for quite a while, will we?"

We probably won't eat at all!" Jean Radcliffe put in ruefully. "Grace Thurman is such an uproar about that no-good son of hers, she probably'll forget all about dinner!"

Tim knew that Diane was looking at him covertly, wondering if he heard Jean's description of Bruce Thurman. He'd heard it all right, but he didn't return Diane's glance for fear Jean would notice.

"How long have you been up here, Jean?" he asked conversationally.

"Just this week. Came on the Monday morning train. I wish now that I'd gone back with Lee when she left the other day. I'd have missed all this nonsense anyway." Jean laughed lightly as she reached for a cigarette.

"Lee Taylor is your cousin, isn't she, Jean?" Diane said.

Tim was fumbling with a match for Jean cigarette and when he finally got it lighted Jean said "Thanks Tim— Yes, Lee's my cousin. She's a swell gal, but awfully quick on the trigger. I suppose you all heard the row, or at least the reverberations between her and Mort?" When Diane shook her head, Jean went on, her tone very light and amused. "It wasn't anything, really. They're nuts about each other and it only takes one wrong word —sometimes just an emphasis on the wrong syllable—and they're at each other's throats. Lee just packed up and cleared out, and Mort's been trying to act like he doesn't care ever since."

Skillfully then Greg switched the conversation to fishing, bragged a bit about a couple of big ones he'd caught the previous summer, and with a great show of fisherman's zeal discussed the various good fishing holes in Lake Pokema.

Jean listened politely for a while as did Diane and Tim, all of them did a poor job concealing their lack of interest, however, and the first time Greg slowed down, Jean said "what in the world do you suppose got into old Mrs. Enright's bonnet this morning? Did you hear the row she kicked up in the dining room about our little party last night?"

Diane laughed and turned to Tim. "You weren't there, Tim, when Mrs. Enright came in, were you?"

"Yes," said Tim, "What happened?" He was grinning, because Jean didn't seem at all disturbed about the affair.

"Greg and I were in the lounge and missed most of it," Diane said. "But we just saw her and her husband coming across the lawn muttering to themselves and then they barged into the dining room and started protesting to Mrs. Thurman about their sleep being disturbed."

"It was all so silly," Jean said, addressing herself mostly to Tim. "We sat up kind of late and were playing bridge and having a few drinks. Once in a while someone would say something funny and there'd be a lot of laughing, but after all this isn't a sanitarium or anything. From the way she talked you'd think we'd been throwing bottles through the windows and climbing the walls."

"I got that impression from her remarks," Greg said dryly.

"And that ghastly crack about someone going out in the middle of the night and falling in the bushes!" Jean exclaimed, laughing. "That's what got me. Honestly, I think the old lady is getting a bit daffy in her old age."

Tim tried hard to appear unruffled, but he knew his laugh sounded very hollow. "How was that?" he managed to say at last, straining to make it very casual.

"Well, the way she put it," Jean replied "we carried on a wild brawl until the very small hours and then she and Mr. Enright were just about to get asleep when someone staggered outside and fell in the bushes by all things! I guess what really happened was Mrs. Enright fell asleep earlier than the rest, and dreamed about horrible spectacle in the bushes."

Greg and Diane laughed, but Tim, although he tried hard, couldn't manage it. The weird "horrible spectacle" were much too accurate to convey anything funny to him. He couldn't help seeing again the body of Bruce Thurman lying dead in the ravine.

"Tim here said something about hearing a noise outside last night, too. Didn't you Tim?"

That was Greg, sounding very serious and a good deal more curious than he had at any time before. Tim wished to heaven he'd told Greg and Diane about Bruce—about finding him in the ravine. If he had, there wouldn't be so much danger in the present situation.

"Yeah," he said slowly, "I did think I'd heard something, but I figured it was wrong later and dropped back to sleep."

Jean was looking at him intently. She seemed to think he was concealing something. "That is odd," she said. "Did the noise sound like someone collapsing in the shrubbery to you, too?"

"I—I don't really recall," he said awkwardly. Then he laughed and reached for a cigarette. "It's no difficult you know, to describe the sounds that you hear when you're half asleep."

"Yes," Jean was thoughtful. "Yes, that's true."

A few minutes later, after an awkward silence that was at last overcome by Diane's dropping her burning cigarette in the scattered pages of a newspaper and nearly starting a dangerous conflagration, Jean declared that she'd better be getting back to the cottage.

When she'd gone Tim returned to his chair. He was frowning and Diane said, "What's the trouble, Tim? Don't you think you know, I didn't want to tell you right off because I thought the best way to clear the thing up would be to let everyone go along perfectly naturally, and the first one who showed any tension would be the first one to suspect. Now I guess I'd better change my tactics."

"Good Lord, but you sound dripping with drama," Greg said. "Come on, spill it. You've got me on the edge of my chair."

"Yes, Tim, please break down" Diane said.

Tim was silent for a long moment, trying to decide whether to tell them about Bruce or not. If he told them he knew that there would be less chance of his being embarrassed by their innocent references to his having gotten up during the night; they wouldn't talk any more about the falling body in the brush and so forth. On the other hand if he told them they were going to have to pretend that they knew nothing about it. And their pretense, however good, it might be, would certainly not be as good as the real thing. And when the time came for him to free his entire crowd at the lodge and make his statement, tell them that he'd found Bruce's body, then it might be harder to tell whose reaction was most incriminating. There'd be three people besides himself who knew about Bruce; the one who killed him, who put the body there— and Diane and Greg. There'd only be a few left who were sincerely ignorant of the affair.

Then there was another thing. When he'd come up the hill from the garage a while ago he'd noticed that the spot where Bruce lay was now hidden beneath a pile of fresh cut scrub and brush. Someone had found the body and thrown a camouflage over it. He couldn't figure why that had been done or who had done it. He had half an idea that Sid, the hired man, knew about the body, and it was possible that he'd covered it with brush. Why, he didn't know, but that could be established later. He'd keep an eye on Sid as much as he could.

WILL BE INVESTED AS DOMESTIC PRELATE

Lindsay, April 17—(CP)—Very Rev. J. C. McAuley, parish priest of St. John the Roman Catholic Church and Dean of Peterborough and Victoria counties, will be invested Tuesday as a domestic prelate by Most Rev. G. J. Berry, Bishop of Peterborough. Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario, Mayor Charles Smith, members of the council and an estimated 100 clergymen will attend.

TITO ACCUSED

London, April 17 (AP)— Bulgaria has accused Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia of conducting "big, new crimes, conspiracies and acts of gross interference" in Bulgarian internal affairs. A note today accused the Yugoslav embassy in Sofia of plotting the forcible overthrow of Bulgaria's communist rule by murder and assassination of its leaders and "to disunite Bulgaria, the USSR and the countries of the People's Democracy."

A Nation of Limpers and Lurchers Survey Shows There are 75 Ways Your Feet Can Go to the Dogs

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New York, April 17 — (AP)— There are 75 ways your feet can go to the dogs.

Dr. Joseph Lelyveld, chairman of the National Foot Health Council, Rockland, Mass., says feet are subject to 75 different ailments.

There are corns (five varieties), calluses, warts, ingrown toe nails, inflammations, bursitis, frostbite, ulcers (five kinds), bunions, varicose veins, hammer toes, athlete's foot, flat feet, sprains and fractures, shortened calf muscles, fissures . . . and that just begins the list.

One survey showed 82 per cent of industrial workers, and 88 per cent of department store workers, complaining of foot and leg pains.

Defective Feet Start Early

Seventy-six per cent of a group of high school children had minor foot defects. Most children are born with the makings of perfect feet, but at the age of 10 half of them have the beginnings of defective feet, Dr. Lelyveld says.

Sore feet cost American industry $500,000,000 in 1949 in workers' lost time, lost motion, errors, accidents and lowered efficiency.

Sore feet are one reason why store clerks snarl at customers.

"One in every four workers gets afternoon fatigue, because of foot troubles. Tight shoes, or the wrong type of shoes, are the main reason."

Dr. Benjamin Kauth, director of the American Foot Care Institute, New York, says carelessness about children's shoes and feet can turn the country "into a nation of limpers and lurchers."

He warns against hand-me-down shoes that may warp young feet out of shape, against prolonged wearing of tennis or sports shoes, and failure to keep up with the growth of feet.

Ninety per cent of foot trouble in women is in the forepart of the foot, or the region of the big toe, says Dr. Harry Budin, New York. High heels, pitching body weight forward, are a major factor.

Bad Occupational Habits

Foot and leg troubles may come from occupational habits.

Secretaries, wearing high heels and pulling the lower leg back while sitting at the desk, may suffer from weakening and shortening of the calf muscles.

Dentists, barbers, and others who stand all day may develop neuralgia of the feet and legs. delivery-truck drivers, jumping out onto hard pavements, may get painful enlargement of the first ball joint.

The Foot Health Council lists 10 rules for feet. These include daily bathing of the feet, not wearing the same shoes two days in a row, cutting toenails straight across, wearing shoes that fit and are suited for the occasion, exercising the feet and toes, keeping the feet dry, cultivating good posture, and not neglecting foot ailments and aches.

It's Never too Soon to Plan for Retirement

Time flies! Happiness and comfort in retirement depend largely on financial security. The most practical way to ensure this is by insuring your life while retirement seems far off.

If you live to retirement age, nothing will then give you greater cause for thankfulness than the guaranteed monthly income your Life Insurance will provide. Should you not live to retire, that same Life Insurance will provide a guaranteed monthly income for your widow.

Because it provides financial security for both husband and wife, nothing brings greater peace of mind about the future than Life Insurance.

Leafs' Manager Predicts Team Will Finish in First Four During Present Season

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 17 — (CP) — Toronto's five-year drought of first-division International Baseball League teams will end this season "for sure." That's the way freshman manager Jack Sanford feels about it and he could be dead right.

"We'll be up there in the first four. There's no doubt in my mind about that," he predicted shortly before the club started its swing north, for opening of the season at Syracuse April 20.

There probably will be many old faces around but the Leafs, with help from the parent Philadelphia Phillies of the National league — particularly the pitching corps — should be a good blend of veterans and rookies who won't run out of gas in the stretch of the 154-game schedule.

Leafs haven't hit the first four in the season's-end team standing since 1945, and Sanford, up from Williamsport of the Inter-State Class B League, has piloted eight first-division clubs in his nine years as a manager.

Final weeding-out process has not started yet, but 1949'ers likely to be around to start the season are: first-baseman Bill Glynn; second — baseman Al Roberge; short-stop Alex Garbowski; 3rd-baseman Vic Barnhart and outfielder Johnny Wasi.

One, or even two, of these infielders may lose out to Ralph (Frenchy) Lapointe, bought from Rochester Red Wings in a straight — cash spring — training season deal who can play second, short or third, and Joe Bustos who has shown well at second in exhibition games.

Outer-garden Uncertain

The outer-garden and catching spots still are uncertain. Fighting it out for the two catching jobs are Vince Plumbo, a former Leaf who was with Sacramento last year; Harry (Bud) Heslet, who hit .329 in 140 games for Newark last year; and Eddie Oswald, a class-B team catcher in 1949.

Wasi may be joined by two other Leaf outfielders — Eddie Sandick and Johnny Blatnik — who went to the Philly spring-training camp. It is doubtful if either will catch on with the major-league club.

Other outfield candidates are fleet-footed Johnny Mayo in centre where hitting has been weak, and Chuck Hood, a class-B league player with Portland in the New England circuit, in right field.

Poseshi Veteran

Veterans of the pitching staff are Lou Possehl with a wobbly 4-10 won-lost record last year, and Nick Strincevich with an 11-15 record. Max Peterson, starting his sophomore season, had a 6-4 1949 record.

Newcomers, and likely to catch places, are Buzz Bowers, 20-year-old right-hander starting his first year in organized ball; Paul Stuffel, another right - handed thrower, had 288 strike-outs with Terre Haute in the Three - Eye League in 1949; Jack Britlin, a 21-7 hurler with Wilmington, and Bill Fogg, who wrapped a 7-1 record with Wilmington before injuring his arm.

Sanford's type of play is strictly offensive, which should win many close ball games.

OPENING GOAL

Danny Lewicki, star forward of Marlboros Seniors, pushes the puck past goalie Paul Leclerc, of Sherbrooke Saints to open the scoring in the second game of the Eastern Canada Allan Cup finals in Toronto Friday night. He also scored the second goal and assisted in the third. Marlboros won the game 3-1 to take a two-game lead in the best-of-seven series. — (CP Photo.)

PATS TAKE LEAD

Mickey Lynch (8) of Port Arthur misses a close one in the opening game of the Western Canada Memorial Cup finals between Port Arthur and Regina Caps in Port Arthur Thursday night. The Pats won 8-5 in overtime. Also in the photo are Regina goalie Bob Tyler, Jim McGowan of Regina (5), Leo Boivin (3) of Bruins and, lying on the ice, Morley McNeill of Regina. — (CP Photo.)

Guelph Biltmores Making a Habit Of Upsetting Chart

Toronto, April 17 — (CP) — Guelph Biltmores are making a habit of upsetting the form chart. The hot-and-cold Bilts were running hot Saturday afternoon and when the smoke cleared they owned a lopsided 7-2 win over the highly-rated Montreal Junior Canadiens.

Losers in the first two games, 5-3 and 4-1, the Guelph players outskated, outbumped and generally outplayed the lighter Montreal team to take their first win in the best-of-seven eastern Canadian Junior hockey final.

In winning, the Ontario Hockey Association champs returned to the form that has given them a six-game upset over Windsor Spitfires in the O.H.A. final. Strictly mediocre in the all-Ontario finals against Porcupine Combines, Guelph is now an even-bet to advance to the-Memorial Cup finals against either Regina Pats or Forth Arthur Bruins.

Canadiens were at their best only for a brief spell in the third period after Jaques Nadon scored the team's second goal.

The rally was short-lived, however. Penalties to Ernie Rocke and Keven Conway put them in a hole and they never recovered. Conway's penalty was the signal for an outburst from Montreal coach Sam Pollock. The coach was so disturbed over the sentence he threw a puck at referee Bill Morrison, of Oshawa. Morrison ejected him from the game.

Built up Long Lead

The Bilts built up a 2-1 lead in the first period and at the start of the finals frames had increased it to 4-1. After Nadon's final Montreal goal, the Biltmores went to work and scored three more.

Andy Bathgate paced Guelph with a three-goal effort while Eddie Kulik clicked for two. Frank Bathgate, Andy's brother and John Ashley were the other snipers. Dave Mcready and Nadon were the Canadiens marksmen.

Guelph might go into the fourth game—slated here Tuesday night—with a chip on its shoulder following the game Saturday. Frank Dillo, registrar of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, registered a protest with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that Guelph was using three ineligible players. They are alternate goalie Cliff Hicks, last year with Ottawa St Pats; Berry Theberge, formerly with Victoriaville, Que., and three-goal Bathgate, who lined up with a Winnipeg juvenile team in 1948-49.

PLANS TO HATCH 7,000 PHEASANTS

Brampton, April 17—(CP)— Plans to hatch 7,000 pheasants this year on the farm of the Peel County Game and Fish Protective Association were announced Sunday. The province bought $1,500 worth of young birds last year for release in the county.

MILLION DOLLARS DAMAGE

Addis, La., April 17 (AP)— A heavily-laden freight left the tracks here Sunday, telescoped 25 cars and burst into flames, killing one boy and causing $1,000,000 damage. The railroad station, loading shed, and 19 cars were destroyed by the fire. A few hours later the body of Roy Washington, 4, was recovered from the debris.

Montreal Woman Will be Charged With Murder

Montreal, April 17 — (CP) — Police said early today that Mrs. Joseph Lacas, 51, likely will be charged with murder in the drowning of one of her two grandsons last Jan. 17.

Detective Capt. William Fitzpatrick, head of the Montreal homicide squad, said that the body of one of the two boys had been recovered from the St. Lawrence River near Sorel, Que., Sunday.

Mrs. Lacas last January told police she had drowned the two boys to keep their unmarried mother, Madeleine Lacas, 25, from placing the youngsters in a foster home.

The recovered body was positively identified through clothing by Miss Lacas as Pierre, 18 months.

Pierre and his three-year-old brother Jean, had been missing from their tiny shack-home here since Jan. 17 when their grandmother took them out for a walk.

That same day, Mrs. Lacas walked to the police station, saying she had drowned the babies. She said she had pushed their baby carriage into the St. Lawrence River.

Police sent divers to probe the floor of the river here for trace of them nor their carriage could be found. The search was abandoned because of the cold water.

Miss Lacas said she believed the children had been taken to the home of friends and were being kept there.

Police arrested the grandmother and charged her with abduction. While in jail, she allegedly tried to take her own life and was subsequently charged with attempted suicide. She has been in jail since, awaiting trial.

Police today said Mrs. Lacas would appear as a material witness at a coroner's inquest slated for later today or tomorrow.

Windsors May Live at Ranch Part of Year

Medicine Hat, Alta., April 17—(CP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor said Saturday they are considering making their ranch in Alberta their permanent home for at least two or three months of each year.

The Windsors were greeted by more than 150 citizens when they made a 40-minute stop here while en route by rail to Ottawa.

Later, at Winnipeg, the Duke said he hopes to have his memoirs out in book form this fall.

"I am working on the memoirs now," he said. It's hard work. . ."

Rats Undermine Reservoir Banks Which Collapse

Toyko, April 17—(AP)—Rats! Said the people of Isogawa village.

The banks of the village reservoir did collapsed. So had two houses and a bridge. And water filled 30 houses.

Villagers discovered rats had dug two nasty holes in the reservoir banks. Five hundred engineers are studying the problem.

'STICKS' WERE DYNAMITE

Hamilton, April 17 — (CP) — Four-year-old Paul Tabot found some innocent looking "sticks" in a sewer pipe near his home Saturday. He banged them against the side of his wagon, breaking them. Horrified, his father rushed to take them from him. The 'sticks' were dynamite, left by workmen.

Rookie Cop Learns Fast, Gets His Man

Detroit, April 17—(AP)—Rookie Policeman Jerry Tankersley learns fast, Sgt. Norman Werner said tonight of the incident Sunday.

Werner, a nine-year cop, was showing young Tankersley how to patrol a midtown 24-hour restaurant for two men lifting a safe into a car. One fired at the officers and all four fled.

Werner took out after one man but lost him. Tankersley ran after another and came back with him in tow.

"Is that the way to do it?" he asked his red-faced superior.

HOUSE ROBBED

Bell Ewart, Apr. 17 (CP) — More than $1,500 in bonds, cash and valuables were stolen from the home of Harold A. Shepherd Saturday night. The loss included $1,200 in registered bonds, $200 in cash, a valuable camera and a gold watch.

'Mule Train' Sounds From Juke Box, Starts Runaway

Newark, Ark., April 17—(AP) —A team of mules ran away with a wagon the other day.

Their owner, Farrell Conner, said they were frightened by the tasty strains of "Mule Train" coming from a juke box.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

Niagara Falls, Ont., Saturday Afternoon — The big blonde English walrus who exuded an atmosphere of cockles and mussels alive, alive-o from Southend-on-Sea, was late with the bottles. We were on the tenth floor of the General Brock Hotel where all the visiting brass guzzle their cocktails and pheasant. The walrus is sheer class and between sips of soup you can see mighty Niagara with its misty beauty, and resonant roar. It's the greatest guest speaker Keenan can boast. Up first the Ontario Baseball Association tophats were in close cloudcave. Down front were the visiting baseball firemen from all part of Ontario. Let's clapping ears truly, Jack Devine and "Tip" Eadley of the Central Ontario Baseball League (the forgotten people) and Joe (mortician) Killeran, of Napanee who, apart from reaching snooker balls does a spot of baseball master-minding for the Intermediate "A" provincial runners-up baseball team from his home village.

Thanks to Mr. Devine ably supported by Mr. Killeran the Central Ontario Baseball League delegation met with little opposition from their baseball brothers in other parts of Ontario on the question of players being waived out of senior ball clubs east of Port Hope, the COBL argument that such players in that district be able to play for any senior team without being waived by the nearest club passed unanimously.

Signal honor was paid to three former Belleville basketball greats during the convention. "Percy" Mills, Harry Mills and Jack Williams were selected on the 1918-1950 all-Ontario all-star senior baseball team. Belleville was given the honour of having the most players selected and the choices were unanimous. Other members of the mythical three - deep all-star team are Wilf Keenan, Galt pitcher; Clare Hoffman, pitcher; Pat Sullivan, Hamilton, 1 base; Alex. Scott, Bell Telephones, Toronto, 3 base; Joe Keenan, one of Montreal's smart steps; Steve Wada, left field; Del Cherry, Kingston, centre field; Babe Dye, right field; Ivan Miller, Hamilton and Red McWhirter, coach.

Lumley Earns Second Shutout Over N.Y. Rangers to Put Team in Front for Stanley Cup

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 17 — (CP) — If Harry Lumley spent the weekend in rosy dreams of the Stanley Cup and the bundle of cash that goes to players who win it, he had the best of reasons.

The apple-cheeked goalies from Owen Sound staked a claim to another large chunk of hockey's top trophy Saturday night when Detroit Red Wings blated New York Rangers 4-0 and took 2-1 grip on the best-of-seven series for the cup and the world hockey championship.

Lumley, at 23 a veteran of six National Hockey League campaigns, was a key figure in the victory. He blocked 24 New York shots to achieve his third shutout in this year's playoffs, the first two coming in the fourth and seventh games of the semi-final round against Toronto Maple Leafs.

He and his team mates have by no means reached the rainbow's end. But their chances are bright. They play host to the Rangers on Detroit ice where the Rangers were able to win only one and tie one of seven scheduled N.H.L. games this season. The fourth game is Tuesday night and the fifth Thursday.

With Lumley's faultless goaltending to back them up, the Red Wings had a comparatively easy time fashioning their triumph before 13,781 fans, most of whom were pulling for the Rangers to win. The Wings struck for two first-period goals when the Rangers were shorthanded through penalties and then added but another goal in the second and one in the third to make it certain. The penalty pictures: Rangers had seven to the Ranger's six—given an idea of their defensive strength.

First Scoring Break

The first scoring break came on the fifth penalty of the game—the third by the Rangers. Allan Stanley went off for crashing Joe Carveth into the boards. Gerry Couture made the payoff man for the Red Wings.

Centre George Gee and defenceman Al Dewsbury, the latter called up from the Wings' Indianapolis farm club, teamed up on the second goal. New York's Gus Kyle was in the penalty box for the second of his three trips in the game when Gee tipped in Dewsbury's bouncing shot.

Sid Abel, veteran centre and captain, broke the Ranger's hearts in the last minute of the second period. He let go a blazing 40-footer from outside the New York defence and Rayner couldn't get in front of it. Marty Pavelich, who labled the scoring, by blasting home a pass from Kelly on a breakaway play with only one New Yorker to beat.

Coach Lynn Patrick of the Rangers still has hopes that his team may win the cup for the first time in 24 years. Their last victory was in 1940 when he was a player. "We played badly," he said, but "I still think we have a chance."

Prexy Predicts Record Season For Ont. Lacrosse

Toronto, April 17, (CP)— James C. McLeod of Owen Sound was re-elected president of the Ontario Lacrosse Association at its annual meeting on Saturday. Mr. McLeod predicted a record year and Ontario Lacrosse in 1950.

Acceptance of a Toronto entry in the senior bracket of the O.L.A., was deferred to a hearing by the 1950 executive. Toronto district teams opposed acceptance of Toronto Ravinas, an intermediate team last year, on the grounds they have not enough top-flight players to support another entry from this area.

Secretary Charles Rowan told the meeting that lacrosse is "flourishing," despite critics of the box game who say rugged tactics have all but eliminated the sport. Mr. Rowan stated that senior and intermediate playoff assessments added $6,000 to the association treasury in 1950.

Delegates voted unanimously to perpetuate the memory of the late Charlie Queenie, noted lacrosse player and Toronto sportsman, by continuing the annual presentation of the Queenie medal to the senior loop's most outstanding player. Jimmy Murphy Memorial trophy was coupled with this award.

Delegates to the Juvenile B competition was presented by W. J. Beatty of Fergus. The trophy is commemoration of his deceased brother, N. J. Beatty.

Other executive members returning to office included: G. Hipkin, Brampton, 1st vice president; A. E. Brown, St. Catharines, 2nd vice president; J. Worthy, Hamilton, 3rd vice president; C. W. Rowan, Mimico, secretary-treasurer; and W. McDermott, Toronto, assistant secretary-treasurer. The executive includes: A. Irvine, Fergus; A. Cheeseborough, Peterborough; W. Cattel, Dundas; V. Gilkinson, Weston, and J. Holden, Toronto.

Saints Must Win From Marlboros In Senior Tussle

Toronto, April 17 — (CP) — Sherbrooke Saints will be trying to regain the form that won them the Quebec Senior League title when they meet here against Toronto Marlboros tonight in the third game of the Eastern Canada hockey final.

Rated the team to win before the series started, Sherbrooke was treated to a rude awakening in the first two games. The youthful Marlboros sped to a 7-4 win in the opener and followed it up with a 3-1 triumph in the second game.

Joe Primeau said Sunday night he intends to go with the same line-up that brought his club the first two wins. That same line-up caused one Sherbrooke player to describe the red-hot Dukes as "jet-propelled."

What strategy the visiting masterminds intend to use is still a deep and dark mystery. In the second Marlboro win, the burly Saints tried to soften the onslaught with a barrage of heavy bumps which proved useless against the shifty Marlboros.

One problem the Saints will have to solve is how to stop Leo and Danny Lewicki, the shifty junior recruit. Danny slapped in two goals in each game. Other Toronto juniors who have caused the Saints no end of trouble are George Armstrong, most valuable player in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" loop and linemate Jack McKenzie.

Fred H. Young Elected Prexy Of the O.B.A.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 17, (CP)—Fred H. Young of Chippewa was elected president of the Ontario Baseball Association at the election session of the group's 33rd annual meeting Saturday.

Other officers elected Saturday was elected vice president and secretary-treasurer. W. J. Snyder was returned for the ninth consecutive year, his 23rd as secretary. Elected as vice presidents were: Garrett Frankland, Windsor; L. Gregg, Windsor; Otto Manake, Waterloo; and A. E. Stirling, Chatham.

The Intermediate Baseball League won in their defence of the title packed all-star team idea. The O.B.A. rule stating that "a winning team and not a selection from all leagues in any league shall represent the league in championship" was abeted from the association's constitution.

The Association also changed the deadline date for players to qualify under the residence rule. Formerly May 7 for all players, the general rule was changed to June 1 while students have until May 15 to qualify.

The Association ruled that the zone system of playoffs will remain in force with the executive empowered to add more zones next season if it was deemed needed that no player be able to reserve himself after playing in a higher series.

UNDER POLICE GUARD

Cornwall, April 17 — (CP) — Ronald Forbes and William Marland, both of Toronto, are in hospital under police guard following an accident involving a stolen automobile.

Police said they would question the two men in connection with the theft of an auto owned by James Y. Humphries, Ontario government agricultural representative at Alexandria. The vehicle was found wrecked on highway 34 about 10 miles north of here Sunday.

Horse in Chase Started Saturday Fmished Sunday

Baltimore, April 17—(AP) — Gold Midas' time in the My Lady's Manor Steeplechase Saturday wasn't too good. He finished Sunday.

The nine-year-old gelding threw his rider at the 15th jump and galloped off cross the countryside.

When his mount didn't cross the finish line with the others, Tracey Hedsworth began canvassing the district. But he had to give up when darkness fell.

He began looking again early Sunday. At 1 p.m. he spotted Gold in a meadow about two miles from Midas standing cold, stiff and sore the jump that put him out of the race.

Shotton, Dyer Predicts Teams Will Win Flags

New York, April 17—(AP) — Burt Shotton of Brooklyn Dodgers and Eddie Dyer of St. Louis Cardinals are not bashful men—each predicts his team will win the National League pennant.

Casey Stengel is not saying flatly his New York Yankees will repeat as world champions but he figures they'll be among the first

When the men who should know three in the American League, the business best—the managers—the Boston Red Sox and the Yankees in the American League and Brooklyn in the National are favorites in the Major League Baseball races opening tomorrow.

Joe McCarthy of the Red Sox says "all we need to get rolling is a flying start."

Gans May Protest Port Colborne Goalie Rafferty

Tillsonburg, April 17—(CP)— Tillsonburg Lakewoods battled Port Colborne Merchants to a 7-7 overtime draw Monday night to reach the finals of the Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A section.

Tillsonburg travels to Kingston today to meet Gananoque in the round-robin semi-finals but the game has no bearing on standing. Gananoque has yet to win a game in the series and tonight's contest winds it up.

There may be a hitch, however, in plans for the finals. It was reported that Gananoque was ready to protest the Port's use of goalie Rafferty. It is claimed he does not have proper release from Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League with whom he was signed until last Jan. 15. Port Colborne officials did not comment on the charge.

Port Colborne took an early lead in Saturday night's game. They were ahead 1-0 at the end of the first period and had a 2-0 lead before the locals socked home their first goal in the second. Then as penalties began to mount the tilt became a free-scoringfest four goss in the next eight affair with the Ports up 4-1 at theminutes to take a 5-4 ead. The 6:20 mark. But their lead wasPorts came back to register a 5-5 short-lived and Tillsonburg pot-ie at the end of the frame.

Strange Opening in Majors With Newhouser, Feller and Sewell Off the Firing Line

By JACK HAND

New York, April 17—(AP)—Big league baseball returns tomorrow with all 16 "contenders" poised for the openers after healthy silent turnovers.

Now we'll get first hand proof on who outlicked whom in the New York Giants-Boston Braves deal. We'll see if it "stacks as good as it looks. If the "experts" were right in predicting a Brooklyn Dodger-Boston Red Sox world series.

It will be a strange opening day. No Hal Newhouser pitching for Detroit. No Bobby Feller for Cleveland. No Rip Sewell for Pittsburgh.

Newhouser is out with arm trouble. Feller has been by-passed for Bob Lemon. Sewell, winner of 10 straight openers, is managing the minors.

Joe Dimaggio, usually a hospital patient at this stage of the game, will be in centre field for the New York Yankees. The Yankee Clipper missed nine of 14 previous openers.

Sid Gordon, Willard Marshall and Buddy Kerr—three boys who never played for any big league club except the Giants—come to the Polo Grounds as enemy Boston Braves. Alvin Dark, boosted from a college campus by the Braves, will be playing on the other side for the Giants.

Connie Mack still talks "one more pennant" as he starts his 50th year as Philadelphia A's manager at the age of 87.

Old Friends Back

Two old friends are back as managers. Bucky Harris at Washington and Leby Campbell at Cincinnati. Both are consigned to last place or thereabouts.

Here's how they'll line up tomorrow with the probable attendance:

American League

New York at Boston 32,000
Detroit at Cleveland 60,000
Philadelphia at Washington 26,000
St. Louis at Chicago 18,000.

National League

Brooklyn at Philadelphia 32,000
Boston at New York 30,000
Chicago at Cincinnati 25,000
Pittsburgh at St. Louis (night) 30,000.

Many Night Games

You'll note the "night" after Pittsburgh at St. Louis. That's something new. Never before has a major league club opened the season under the lights.

That is only the first of many, many night games listed. The Cards will play practically all their weekday games after dark. So will the St. Louis Browns and Washington. In all, 400 night games have been scheduled, a new high.

Advance ticket sales indicate continued high attendance. Last year the majors drew a total of 20,218,368, only three per cent behind the 1948 high.

In the long run, the attendance depends on the races. The way things have been going, if the pennants are decided before the last day, the fans will be demanding their money back.

The only club that could possibly make a runaway of the American are the Boston Red Sox. They missed twice after slow starts and have pretty much the same club with Ted ($125,000) Williams as the key. This year Joe McCarthy has his Sox home in Fenway Park for 22 of his first 30 games. They were practically unbeatsen at home last year once they started to roll.

Houtteman Likely

Last year the Red Sox-Yankee final series decided the pennant. They were no lineup jetting back together opening day.

Detroit, 4 to 1 in the winter book, starts right off wrestling with its old rivals from Cleveland. With Newhouser still a question mark, Red Rolfe probably will send Art Houtteman to the hill for his Tigers.

The A's open at Washington with President Harry Truman throwing out the first ball. Connie Mack, optimistic in the south, has cooled off due to the arm trouble of pitchers Joe Coleman and Dick Fowler.

Bucky Harris is thin in pitching behind Rae Scarborough, his ace. He may have a prize rookie in centre fielder Irv Noren, who cost $70,000.

The Brownies peddled Bob Dillinger to the A's and Priddy to the Tigers during the winter for much-needed cash. Newcomers mah the infield posts, except Frank Gustine at third. But then they did all right with rookie Roy Sievers last year.

Arm miseries by Don Newcombe and Ralph Branca could upset the Dodger pennant plans in the National. But are should be good enough to win with a little to spare. It's a stand pat club, built around Jackie Robinson, 1949 batting champion, Pee Wee Reese, Roy Campanella and Gil Hodges.

Waitkus Back at First

The Brooks open against Eddie Sawyer's fighting Phils in Philadelphia. Sawyer has added second baseman Mike Goliat, a Toronto graduate, and has shifted Dick Sisler from first to the outfield to make room for Eddie Waitkus at the initial sack.

The Braves' visit to the Polo Grounds will be watched with interest because of the big winter deal between the clubs. The Braves added home run power and the Giants gave up the long ball for the double play skill of Dark and Eddie Stanky.

Chicago's Kiddie Corps bows at Cincinnati. Most folks expect these clubs to be fighting for last place.

With Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter still in there swinging and a strong seven-deep starting-pitcher staff, St. Louis Cards still must rank as the Dodgers' prime contention.

The Pirates will help the Cards stage the first night opener. Ralph Kiner is back in the Pittsburgh lineup.

Jimmy Demaret Wins Another Golf Tourney

Atlanta, Ga., April 17. (AP)—Jimmy Demaret headed today for another skirmish in his battle to overtake Sam Snead as the top golf money winner of the year.

Laughing-boy Jimmy finished a minor-size grand slam in Georgia Sunday with a victory in the North Fulton open.

He shot four rounds in 270 strokes—14 under par. His winning final round of 66 followed by just eight days his great victory at the Masters tournament in Augusta, Ga.

Tied for second in the Fulton were Snead and Jim Ferrier with 274.

Demaret got $2,000 top money. Snead and G. Ferrier earned $1,200 each.

Prize winnings for the winter circuit now stand at $15,128 for Snead and $13,216 for Demaret.

Winnipeg Takes One-Game Lead Over Windsor

(By The Canadian Press)

Winnipeg Stellars Saturday night at home defeated Windsor A.K.O.S. 47-41 to take a one-game lead in their best-of-five series for the Canadian junior men's basketball championship.

Second game will be played today.

A crowd of 1,400 watched the Stellars come from behind a six-point deficit at three-quarter time and turn on the heat in the last quarter to win.

Frank Wansborough's speedy Windsor crew highlighted the game with their speedy passing and forged ahead 12-7 at the first quarter, only to see Martin Terry's mission boys tie it 20-20 at half time.

Jockey Johnny Longden arrived at Los Angeles by air from a six-point deficit at three-quarter time and turn on the heat in the last quarter to win.

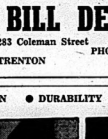
Bleacher accommodation at Kitchener's Victoria Baseball Park will be raised to 4,500 this season by addition of now seats parks officials said Saturday. Some 600 seats will be added in time for the opening of the International baseball season May 6.

At Columbus, O., Bob Duncan of Toronto landed in second place in the singles event Sunday at the American Bowling Congress 47th annual tournament. Johnny Strobel of Milwaukee, Wis., blasted his way to first place in the doubles, singles and all-events in the second day of bowling. His singles score was 697.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.



New York, April 17 —(AP)— All baseball fans know that before the season starts, sports writers have to pick the pennant winners—willingly or otherwise. . . .

They also know that pride goeth before a fall and a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. . . . So, we give you the Red Sox and Dodgers for 1950. . . (We were lucky enough to hit the winners last year) . . . The Sox couldn't come much closer than they have the past two seasons. And this time we figure the Yanks have reached the stage where a Branch Rickey would be selling off stars before they obviously lose value. . . . Tommy Henrich's recent aches and pains are evidence. . . Maybe Boston is at the same stage, but we figure Joe McCarthy's lads will have one last shot and will succeed. . . The bums should be better than last year; the Cards are due to fade with increasing age and the rebuilt Braves haven't entirely escaped from last season's troubles . . . So who else can you pick but Brooklyn?

All Was Con-fuchs-ion

Jim Fuchs, Yale's world-record shot putter, was visiting Pelham, N.Y., the other day when he noticed a couple of kids practising his favorite event on the high school field. . . Jim quietly strolled over and began to roll the iron ball back to them after each toss. Then, unable to resist, Fuchs asked the coach if he could have a try. "You'd better be careful," one of the high-schoolers put in. "You can hurt your arm this way." Jim just picked up the 12-pound shot and heaved it about 65 feet, then strolled away while the coach and the kids almost fainted.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

It is possible to get a hand with all 13 cards of one suit. But not likely. And I have never seen one or heard of one that proved to be honestly dealt from a shuffled pack that was truly cut.

Each year I get at least one letter claiming that 13 cards of one suit had been dealt to one person. Upon investigation it turns out to have been under circumstances that were open to suspicion.

At the time at least one of the players was not at the table. Or it was just when a different deck was put into play. Or when some prankster had been fiddling with the cards.

Never has anyone said they got it by hearts, or diamonds or clubs. Always the claim of getting all 13 cards of one suit is in spades, the highest ranking suit, in point of finality.

The same goes for getting a hand with no card higher than five. Never have I seen one legitimately dealt. Nor is it likely that you will get one during your lifetime. It is highly improbable.

Once I held a hand with no card higher than a seven. But I never a hand with no card higher than a six. However, my partner did. It was in February duplicate bridge week in Portland, Oregon.

Here are the cards he held:

♠ 6 4 2
♥ 6 5 3 2
♦ 6 5 4 3 2
♣ 6 5 4 2

That's what I like about duplicate. In the same match each player in the same position got each table holds the same hands. South always holds what the dealer would; and West holds held the same hands; and so on."

But you are lucky if you note from holding better or worse cards than others in your seat in the same deal. Luck may come from what others do in leads, bids, discards and plays.

We must have had some luck in the northwest championship title contest, it was won by the quartet of which I was a member. Every so often, it seems, the old blind sow picks up an acorn.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 17—(AP)—How does the King feel about being called King?

I put the question Clark Gable, long the head man of Hollywood's hierarchy. About the "King" business, he replied: "That's a lot of baloney."

But he added with a grin: "I don't care what the heck they call me as long as I keep getting paid."

The King is back at work on his first picture since his surprise wedding. The new film, "To Please A Lady," is probably close to what is known as a "Cable picture" than any of his post-war efforts.

Gusty Story

Producer-director Clarence Brown, who also directed many of the star's pre-war films, described the current film as "a good, gusty story about basic characters with plenty of action; there's nothing subtle in it."

The vehicle seems to please Gable as well as the lady (Barbara Stanwyck). It's a story of auto racers. Dressed in the white uniform of a Grand Prix driver, the actor seemed more at ease than in the army uniforms and tailored suits he has worn in his other post-war films. He loves speed and promptly displayed his latest foreign car (capable of 132 m.p.h.).

I asked Gable about reports he was going to produce his own pictures. He is reported to have won the chance to do one movie a year outside his M.G.M. contract.

"The deal hasn't gone through yet, but that's what I'm after," he said, "I'd like to get on that gravy train."

He said he would be able to make more money and keep more by forming in a production deal (he always been on a straight salary at M.G.M.). But what about the idea that a star can't be a producer?

"Oh no," he smiled. "You won't see me worrying. I'd have someone else do that."

Gable currently is marking his 20th year in the movie business. It was in 1930 that a dark, slick-haired young man made his debut in "The Painted Desert," which Gable reports now is playing on television.

Olive Carey, dynamic little widow of Harry Carey, is again pursuing her film career after a 36-year layoff.

Ollie, as her many friends in the movie world call her, is a real pioneer of the film business. She started back in 1912, when actors were just beginning to savort among the orange groves of Hollywood.

"I was always the gal who had an illegitimate baby in the picture," she reminisced. It was a trifle embarrassing to a girl of 16, but she took whatever part came along.

As Olive Golden, she had her first starring role in "Sorrows of Shore" in 1913. Her leading man was a handsome young Broadway actor named Harry Carey.

"But we didn't fall in love then," she laughed. "He had a wife in New York and he went back there right after the picture."

After the first Mrs. Carey died, the actor returned to Hollywood and again co-starred with Ollie in "Just Jim." A romance began and they were married.

"We made about six pictures together after we got married," she recalls. "Then I decided just to take care of the ranch and Harry, I didn't miss acting because I was too busy."

Her retirement from acting was broken only twice. She played a small role as a missionary in "Trader Horn," for which the Careys travelled 35,000 miles over Africa. And she played in a few Westerns with Harry in 1935.

The actor died in 1947 — about the same time the film career of Harry Carey, junior, was getting started. Now Ollie has decided to carry on the family tradition, too. A longtime friend, Ward Bond, suggested her for the role of his wife in "Mald With Much Heart."

MARMORA

C of C Receives Many Requests For Restocking Nearby Lakes

Marmora—The monthly dinner meeting of the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce was held in the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening with a fair attendance of members presided over by A. F. Fraser.

Following the welcome of guests, minutes of the March meeting were approved. Secretary treasurer R. E. Neal mentioned that the application for fish for restocking local waters was being sent in at this time.

The subject of the regatta which is being held on July 29th was briefly discussed. For the program committee Rev. C. D. Young staged two quit contests in which honors went to Carl Heath and C. H. Buskard.

Solicit Financial Aid

A letter was received from the Canadian Foundation for polio soliciting financial assistance. It was decided to deal with the matter at the forthcoming meeting of directors. Another letter from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce drew attention to the district conference to be held in Oshawa on May 17 and asked for a representation from the local chamber.

Samples of clean up posters as received from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce were displayed. Copies will be applied for and made use of. The final letter from the government at Ottawa drew attention to National Tourist Week which is being observed May 1-6.

Wesley Downs, 2nd vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture who was to have been the guest speaker marking agriculture night was prevented from fulfilling his appointment. In his place Frank Tummon, field man of the Federation for Hastings County gave a helpful talk. With him was Philip Flagler of the staff of the Belleville Radio Station who presented a tape recording of two sections of a speech recently given by V. T. Milburn, secretary manager of the Federation.

Must Find Markets

The first section of Mr. Milburn's speech drew attention to the fact that the first problem of agriculturists was to find adequate markets. The other section stressed the challenge before agriculturists to demonstrate to other callings and to other countries that we have a democracy and that we can make it work. Mr. Tummon was introduced by vice president Irwin McCoy and thanked by President Fraser. The meeting closed with a short discussion of matters pertaining to the general welfare of the community.

One Man Killed, Pilot Injured In Plane Crash

Winnipeg, April 17. (CP)—A pilot who tried desperately to bring his crippled plane down without damage in a residential area in Winnipeg crashed today.

One man was killed when FO. Vic Barber, power salesman and R.C.A.F. Reserve flyer, crashlanded his Air Force Jet fighter in the back yards of two houses in suburban St. Vincent Anolber man was slightly injured.

FO. Barber lost his right foot just above the ankle.

Conscious when he was dug out of the mud where he hurtled from the plane, his repeated question was:

"Did I kill anyone?"

Mrs. Verna LaRoche, registered nurse who heard the plane whistling out of a clear sky and hurried to the crash scene, did not know of the death of Lorimer Fairhall, 41-year-old carpenter killed as he worked in his garage.

She told the pilot that no one was killed, wrecked his scratched and mud-covered face.

Snipped a Tree

Fairhall was bent over his automobile when the plane, flying low at nearly 500 miles per hour, snipped a tree and sent its wing through his garage roof. A fallen beam struck him.

The plane slued around in mid-air, missed one house and crashed into the lean-to on another. One wing crushed the lean-to and the other ripped the garage wall.

Air Force officers on the flight said Barber had reported motor trouble only about a quarter-mile from Stevenson Airport. Rather than raise his nose to extend his glide, and take the chance of crashing into houses farther along the street, they said they thought he tried to stall his craft and pancake it in a small park space behind the two houses.

The other injured man, Gilbert Hughes, suffered slight head injuries when the impact of the plane's wing knocked a cradle and phone from its receiver and it fell on him.

Crowds Flock to Scene

Crowds of Sunday drivers and neighbors flocked to the scene.

Angus Meisted, 14, said he saw the plane coming in low, heading toward Stevenson airfield about a quarter-mile away. He and other witnesses agreed that the motor appeared to be dead. It was almost soundless except for a whistling sound made by the air friction.

Mrs. Laroche said that after she reached the pilot he asked me about his right leg, which was severed just above the ankle.

"I told him it was broken. He said his back was sore, adding: 'I hope it isn't broken.'"

"His eyes, nose and mouth were so filled with mud it was almost impossible to see his features. His face was badly cut . . . they had to cut his parachute away. Then my could get him in the ambulance."

TELEVISION BARRED

Chicago, April 17 — (AP) — The powerful Big Ten, whose athletic policies usually keynote the trend for the other major college conferences in the United States, has barred television of all its 1950 football games.

In the first concerted move to prohibit on-the-spot videio, the Big Ten concluded that the entire future of intercollegiate athletics is endangered by TV.

The new policy allows complete films of games to be televised the following day. Movies of Saturday's contests could not be released before 6 P. M. Sundays.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

It was sewing in her room and I decided to talk to her from the hallway outside her door, saying, Hay me, me and Puds and Leroy and Glasses just had an intelsting debate. Me and Puds argued on one side of it and Glasses and Leroy argued on the other side, I said.

That sounds nice and intelligent, come in and tell me all about it, ma said, and I said, I'll tell ou from here. We debated about H bombs. It was as exciting as anything, I said.

Goodness, I should think so, switch a subject, I sincerely hope It will never get further than the debating stage, ma said, and I said, Me and Puds claimed the H bombs will blow up everybody in the world, so there wont be anything left alive except some ants and snakes and things, and Glasses and Leroy claimed we were crazy to worry no matter what kind of bombs inventors invent, there will always be enough people left to go on trying to blow each other up.

Mercey, how greatly, ma said, and I said, And then me and Puds claimed if we were crazy Glasses and Leroy were even crazier, and from then on the debate got more and more exciting.

I dont doubt it, but for land sakes dont stand out there shouting, ma said. If you want to tell me about it, come in here, she said.

Which I did, saying, Here I am ma, and now you can see how the debate ended.

Meaning ing general fite, and ma screetched when she saw my face and made me go rite in the bathroom and wash it to prove how much was scratches and how mutch was dart.

Four Fatalities Reported in Ont. During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

A fire, stabbing and a drowning today was listed as the reasons for the four deaths reported in Ontario during the weekend.

In Saskatchewan as a whole there were a total of eight deaths the addition to those in Ontario being three in Quebec and one in Nova Scotia.

The deaths in Quebec and Nova Scotia were caused by traffic accidents and a strangling.

At Cornwall, Morri, Leger died of a knife wound following a family quarrel. Leger's son Maurice, 14, gave himself up to police following the fatal mishap.

At Ottawa, Kathleen Saunders, 38 and her son Timmy, 3, burned to death in a house fire. A cigaret butt was blamed for the blaze that swept through their three-storey home.

David Kaiser, 23 months, drowned in Lake Ontario at Bronte, 25 miles west of Toronto. It is believed the young child wandered to the lake-front.

George Zakem, 51, died after being struck by an automobile in Montreal while at Yamachiche, Que., J. Armand Cadotte, 29, and his sister Leda, died after an automobile collision.

The Halifax medical examiner said a baby girl, found strangled in a wooded park had been murdered. A piece of blanket was twisted tightly around the infant's neck when it was found by two youths.

Members Ignore Advice Given By President

Galt, April 17—(CP)—Ignoring the advice of Ontario Young Liberal President Vernon Signer of Toronto, the Western Ontario Young Liberal Association Saturday went on record in favor of urging the federal government to decrease the waiting time for payment of unemployment insurance payments.

Bruce McCullough of Kitchener, retiring president of the W.O.Y.L.A. urged the resolution be adopted after it was proposed by Ken McColeman of Brantford.

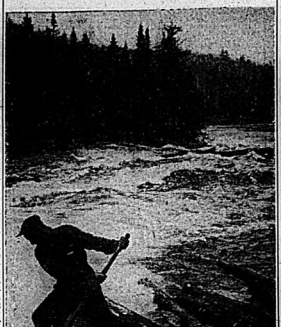
At the same time, the association, in its third and annual session, decided against urging the federal government to increase unemployment insurance benefits.

During the session, speakers divided on the question of immigration. One speaker blamed George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, for contributing to Ontario's unemployment by the "airlift" immigration program instituted while he was Premier of Ontario. But another added that immigration creates jobs rather than unemployment.

Ray Turvey of Brantford, was elected president, with Jack MacDonald of Brantford and Duncan McGowan—of Strathroy as vice-presidents, Mrs. Elmeda Weber of Kitchener, secretary-treasurer and the following directors: Doug McNee, London; D. M. Shaver, Galt; Ken McColman, Brantford; Ron McLean, Middlesex West; H. Seewald, Windsor and M. Ball, Strathroy.

The name of this world-famous aperient, Mrs. Withers, is KRUSCHEN. And the word aperient is a medical term for the mildly laxative action of Kruschen. In Kruschen you get a unique blend of saline minerals similar to those found in medicinal waters or springs. Kruschen offers you these four advantages:

EASY TO TAKE—Dissolves quickly in water, or your morning coffee, tea or fruit juice. Most folks find the small morning dose is best.



WORKS FAST—Usually within the hour. Does not spoil your day.

GENTLE ACTION—The formula is balanced to act gently, without discomfort.

TIME-TESTED—Over 300,000,000 packages sold throughout the world.

Next time your system needs help, due to common constipation, sluggishness or the effects of over-indulgence—try Kruschen for prompt, gentle relief. Take it regularly—get that grand "Kruschen feeling". 25c and 75c at all drug stores.

SPRING SWEEPER

Leo Desjardins of Maniwaki, Que., is a "sweeper" on one of the logging industry's 385,000 workers, who are busy now that the spring run is opening lakes and streams. The photo by Malak of Ottawa shows Leo at his job, keeping logs from snagging on rocks along the Tamaline River, 150 miles north of Ottawa. The industry will turn the logs into $800,000,000 worth of pulp and paper this year. —(CP Photo.)

CALL OF THE CLAN

Robin Gives up Fight With Reflection As Lady Robin Comes

Ponca City, Okla., April 17—(AP) — Wilbur the waky robin has given up his three-day fight with his own reflection — he found a lady robin more interesting.

The bird-brained battler Thursday started attacking his own image a shiny bubcap on Earl Wright's car.

From morning to dusk, he attacked the strange thing he thought was invading his wormhunting territory.

Wilbur turned out early Saturday to continue the fight. His feathers were bedraggled, his wingtips hung to the ground and his beak was blood-stained. The lady robin came along. She chirped "Cheer-ree, cheer-ree."

Wilbur looked up. He liked what he saw better than his own beaten-up image.

Immediately he started the courtship.

$800 Damage In Rossmore Garage Fire

Damage amounting to approximately $800 resulted from a fire early of the Regent gasoline station at Rossmore Sunday midnight when fire swept through the room containing office equipment and stock.

An overheated electric motor on an oil furnace situated in the corner of the service station office is believed to have been responsible for the blaze which started shortly after eleven o'clock. The blaze fortunately was seen in its early stages the alarm being turned in from Tobe's County Gardens.

When Belleville firemen arrived on the scene the flames had spread over the floor and were reaching up to the ceiling but quick work by firemen confined the fire to the one room, the stockroom and the service part of the building remaining untouched by the blaze.

Oil from the furnace is believed to have spread over the floor and become ignited by the furnace motor.

Two pumpers were ordered to the blaze by Fire Chief Gerald Vance when it was learned the fire was at a gasoline station but fortunately the blaze was quickly extinguished.

Salvage Tug Arrives in Time

Halifax, April 17 (CP)— An Atlantic salvage race in which three ocean-going tugs took part ended at midnight Sunday night when the tug Foundation Vera arrived alongside the disabled freighter Federal Trader 40 miles northwest of Sable Island.

The freighter sent out a call for assistance early Sunday when her engine failed and she drifted toward the island, known, to mariners as the "Graveyard of the Atlantic."

The Vera was to put a line aboard the Federal Trader at dawn today, taking over from the RCMP cutter MacBrien, which reached the 2,585 ton freighter's side a few hours ahead of the tug.

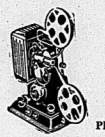
New Varieties Potatoes Resist Late Blight

Ottawa, April 15— Two new potato varieties, numbered F431 and F391, having proven highly resistant to late blight, are to be made available this spring to a selected list of certified seed growers— for multiplication and distribution — from the Experimental Farm at Fredericton, N.B.

Both these varieties, in addition to their blight resistant qualities, are equalling the variety 'Green Mountain' for starch content, and, in yield test over a three ear period, F431, has equalled or outyielded Green Mountain.



Among the varieties already in the trade, Sequoia, Kennebec and Green Mountain gave the highest yields of marketable potatoes in a four-year test at the Fredericton Farm. In the order above the yields per acre were 415, 360 and 341 bushels.

The following varieties were in fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh place — Mohawk, Teton, Pontiac and Earlaine 2111.

The Katahdin, so widely grown in New Brunswick was a long way down the list as to yield—271 bushels. These latter tests were not conducte in the potato growing areas of the province and the results might have been very different.

HURLED 28 FEET TO DITCH

Listowel, April 17 — (CP) — Struck by an automobile and tossed 28 feet into a ditch Sunday night, Gerry Lambert, 8, still was unconscious in hospital today with head injuries and a broken leg. Police said the car was driven by W. Harvey of Waterloo.

Cripps Presents 'As You Were' Budget

British Workers Granted Relief In Diet of Austerity

Pound Devaluation Turns Out Better Than Expected

BY DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 18 — (CP) — Sir Stafford Cripps today tossed British taxpayers some crumbs or income tax relief but otherwise promised them a continued diet of austerity in the coming year.

Bringing down his annual budget in the House of Commons, the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced a minor income tax cut in the lower categories and promised beer drinkers stronger but not cheaper beer.

The tax reduction appeared to be the Chancellor's answer to trade unionists' demands for relaxation of the government's wage-freezing policy. More than 5,000,000 trade unionists at present are classed as wage-earners.

The car-owning public was given a doubled gasoline ration, though for 180 miles monthly, but at the same time Cripps boosted the price of gasoline by one-third.

The modest income tax cut will benefit all taxpayers but the largest proportionate relief will go to workers earning less than £600 ($1,860) annually.

Wages and Profits Held Down

The single man earning £6 weekly will find 2s. less tax deducted from his weekly earnings. On £8 the reduction will amount to about 3s 6d.

Instead of paying 3s. (45 cents) in the pound for the first £50 ($155) of taxable income and 6s in the pound for the following £200, the rate will be 2s 6d. and 5s. respectively.

But Cripps clung firmly to his policy of holding down wages and profits.

"It is vital that the policy of wages, salary and profit restraint should not be broken down," he said.

Last Autumn's drastic devaluation of the pound sterling has turned out better than expected.

Since devaluation—which took place exactly seven months ago today—Britain has "made a miracle" factory beginning to the recovery of our gold and dollar reserves," the Chancellor of the Exchequer said.

"Since September our exports at the height of the blaze many have been at a higher level. Since devaluation we have increased our share of world trade."

Cripps said the increase in exports was due to the fact that British industry had responded to the challenge of devaluation.

Other items in the vicinity of the fire were saved. In addition to the regular firemen from Pembroke and district many townspeople turned out to assist in quelling the blaze.

Bulldozers and dynamite came into play early in the fire. The dynamite was used to make a fire-break between the blazing lumber and that still untouched by fire. The bulldozers pushed untouched lumber piles out of the way of those burning.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, April 18 (CP)—Synopsis: Temperatures were well above their seasonal normals Monday in Southern Ontario with a high reading at Windsor of 70 degrees, while in the remainder of the province afternoon temperatures of 45 and 50 prevailed. A disturbance now centered Northwest of Lake Superior eased moving eastward. Rain was spread across northern forecast regions this afternoon and evening, and will be followed by snowflurries tonight and Wednesday. Showers will entre southern regions tonight.

Behind this disturbance cold air from northwestern Canada will sweep rapidly southward bringing lower temperatures on Wednesday.

HUNDRED HOMES THREATENED IN $60,000 BLAZE

Pembroke, April 18. (CP)—Fire raged for almost five hours on Monday in the lumber yard of Pembroke Shook Mills Limited, destroying an estimated $60,000 worth of lumber and a two-storey frame house.

Breaking out about 2:30 p.m. the fire raced through piled lumber, spread to an adjacent home and threatened the entire Bronx Street section of the town. The lumber was mainly pine used for constructing boxes.

No one was injured in the blaze, the origin of which is unknown. A number of buildings in the area were set afire by wind-blown sparks.

Pembroke Fire Department fought the blaze, aided at times by volunteers from Petawawa military camp and equipment from the neighboring township of Westmeath.

Exploded from one pile of lumber to another, the wind-whipped flames ignited a nearby house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Belaire and Mr. and Mrs. John Henry. The house was saved but the occupants made their escape, saving most of their household belongings.

Citizens Turn Out

Other items in the vicinity of the fire were saved. In addition to the regular firemen from Pembroke and district many townspeople turned out to assist in quelling the blaze.

Bulldozers and dynamite came into play early in the fire. The dynamite was used to make a fire-break between the blazing lumber and that still untouched by fire. The bulldozers pushed untouched lumber piles out of the way of those burning.

MALTON-N.Y. FLIGHT IN 63 MIN. BY AVRO JETLINER

365-Mile Journey Sets New Record

New York, April 18. —(CP)— A silver-colored Canadian-built Avro Jetliner landed at New York's Idlewild airport at 10:33 a.m., E.S.T., today after flying from Toronto's Malton airport in one hour and three minutes.

The four-engined jet-propelled aircraft took off from Malton at 9:30 a.m. for the 365-mile flight and was over Idlewild exactly one hour later.

It circled the airport three minutes before coming in for a landing.

Normal flying time by commercial air liners between Toronto and New York is one hour and 50 minutes.

The plane is powered by two jet engines on each wing and bears the word "Jetliner" lettered in red on its side.

The plane, capable of carrying 60 passengers, was built by A. V. Roe Canada, Limited. It carried first mail ever flown by Jet.

Postmaster Arthur Ellis dispatched on the plane an invitation to Mayor William O'Dwyer to attend the Canadian International Trade Fair at Toronto May 29-June 9.

Deloro Workers Turned Down In Wage Demands

Deloro, Ont., April 18 (CP) — A strike vote is to be taken among employees of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, following failure of negotiations between the company and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers to arrive at a contract, the union announced Monday.

The union asks a wage increase, claiming that workers in other refineries earn from 10 to 40 cents an hour more than Deloro employees. The company claims it is operating at a loss and has rejected the wage demands.

Deloro has 26 miles northwest of Belleville.

Route of Highway Remains Secret Until Ottawa Meet

Toronto, April 18. (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett said today that the location of the new trans-Canada highway will remain secret until a conference of Natural Resources Minister Winters and provincial representatives in Ottawa April 26. It is expected that formal agreements providing for federal-provincial participation in the building of the highway will be signed at the Ottawa meeting.

Doctors May Soon be Able to Put Plastic Valves into Human Hearts

Atlantic City, N' J., April 18—(AP)— Plastic valves for bad hearts were described today by four Albany, N. Y., Medical College physiologists.

The animal dogs are living with the artificial valves in their hearts now, Drs. Rehmi Denton, Leonard Brown, Bernhard Mastrioanni and Harold Wiggers told the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Within two years it may be possible to put the plastic valves into human hearts, substituting them for living valves damaged by heart diseases, they said.

The valves are tiny, one-piece affair, with no moving parts. They are circular, and funnel-shaped on one end. Each is about half an inch wide at the funnel end, and a little more than half an inch long.

They are sewed into the heart. The man's muscle, or his movement, opens or closes the valve. On contraction, it pushes up against the plastic valve so that no blood can get through it. Resting, the heart muscle relaxes, coming out of contact with the valve to let the heart chamber fill with blood.

The valves can be designed to imitate the faulty valves of living hearts damaged in any of several ways by disease, or by malformation before birth. This kind of knowledge may itself save human lives.

Two Cultural Organizations Express Fear World on Brink Of 'Undreamed of Devastation'

Ottawa, April 18 — (CP)—Two national cultural organizations today expressed fear that the world, moving into the atomic and hydrogen age, stands on the brink of undreamed-of devastation.

The Canadian Institute of International Affairs, emphasizing the need for better informed Canadians on the march of international events, said the world stands in "deadly fear of another holocaust."

The Toronto Pontifical Institute of Mediaevel Studies, urging federal financial aid for its undertakings, said that man now was the master of a power "of a possible destructiveness of the cosmic undreamed-of dimensions."

"What is not so easily seen," said the Institute's statement, "is what must be seen by the western nations is that the hydrogen age brings man face to face with himself."

A spiritual realization of his own meaning and the Christian civilization in which he lived was the only thing that stood between man and his self-destruction, the Institute added.

Appears Before Commission

The two organizations were among nine appearing before the Massey Commission on Arts as the Canadian culture investigating body drove ahead in its efforts to clear up the various stings this week.

Others appearing included the Ontario Teachers' Federation, the London Public Library Board, Victorian College of Education, the Metal Arts Guild of Toronto.

The Institute of International Affairs said work of dissemination of international political information in Canada is a major service in the national interest. It asked for no funds, but merely the continued co-operation of the government.

The Ontario Teachers' Association touched on a wide range of cultural needs, from federal aid to education to construction of a national library.

Wants Greater Aid

It recommended that greater financial aid be given by the federal government to the provinces to enable educational opportunities throughout the country.

It urged that the CBC employ permanent educational directors to help prepare its programs and to establish a national transcription service to be sold at cost or loaned to school radio programs.

The teachers believed the National Film Board should produce educational films and more films that would translate Canada to Canadians. It urged that a national gallery be established and a national library constructed.

The Association recommended that steps be immediately taken to provide a national system of scholarships so that teachers' in the arts, letters and sciences may study in other countries, and that the Federal government help universities or other organizations interested in research in the field of vocational guidance.

Budgets Not Sufficient

London's Public Library and Art Museum suggested that the budgets of all National Cultural Organizations be made sufficient to permit them to expand and that the same consideration be given to strengthening the historical regional institutions.

Carleton College of Ottawa urged the creation of a National Research centre in Ottawa and that adequate facilities as a meeting place for all scholars.

Say Father Sought to Destroy Family on Plane With Bomb For Love of Airline Hostess

Los Angeles, April 18—(CP)— A man's plot to destroy his heavily insured wife on a plane loaded with passengers including his two small children, was blamed today by police on John Henry Grant's passion for a pretty redhead whom he wished to marry.

The plot, strangely reminiscent of an air tragedy in Quebec last summer, was foiled by premature explosion of the 10-stick dynamite bomb as it was being loaded on an airliner and by Grant's simultaneous confession.

Police Lieut. C. E. Beam said that Miss Betty Simonson told him that she was in love with the 32-year-old Grant, and that he said he was placing the bomb on a United Air Lines twin-engine DC-3 carrying his parents to Los Angeles. She thought he was appearing in regard to get a divorce from his wife.

The air trip was to have been a birthday treat for Grant's five-year-old son, Bobby.

The near-disaster and its motives had a strange parallel to the three-month fining of a Canadian Pacific Airliner 40 miles from Quebec Sept. 9. J. Albert Guay, 32, a jeweler, was sentenced in Quebec March 14 to be hanged June 23 for murdering his wife and 22 others aboard the plane.

Police were questioning convinced him the stewardess was in no way implicated in the plot.

Lost His Nerve

Just as the plane was about to leave Los Angeles International Airport for San Diego Monday, Grant ran to the ticket counter and screamed:

"Don't let that plane take off! I just put a bag on it full of gasoline!"

At the same moment a baggage handler loading the plane out on the field dropped a heavy suitcase. It exploded and flames leaped skyward, the man's eyebrows and hair.

Flames Extinguished

The baggageman, Harold Mayer, quickly extinguished the flames and tossed the suitcase out on the ground. He opened it and found a alarm clock rigged to ignite a box of matches, which in turn would have exploded eight pounds of gasoline contained in seven cans in the luggage. Only a small portion of the gasoline was ignited, however, and no one else was injured.

Detective Ned G. Logdson, who arrested Grant, said the aviation engineer told him he was $6,000 in debt. He quoted Grant as saying he planned to collect double the insurance taken out at the airport by his wife and two children.

Held for Investigation

Grant is held on investigation of attempted murder.

Grant's wife wrote he's been very nice to me," police quoted Miss Simonson as saying. "He said he told me to buy a new dress. I wonder what he will be doing at nice. I guess this must be the answer."

Grant's parents were married eight years ago. Their daughter, Marie, is six and their son, Robert, is five.

Capt. Ray Pierce, head of the Los Angeles police crime laboratory, said the bomb was cleverly constructed.

"There's clock inside it," he said, "It's connected with matches and a high-resistance bridge. At a set time the clock would have turned on the current and an ordinary book of paper matches would have been ignited. The bag in which the mechanism was contained was crammed with inner tube sections filled with high octane gasoline. The matches and clock would have done the trick — set fire flaming in the rear cargo hold."

FILIBUSTERS ON PIPE LINES OVER FOR TIME BEING

Likely Will Resume When Bills Come Back

Ottawa, April 18 — (CP)—The Commons Chamber is free of its pipe-lines filibusters for the first time in two sessions— but—only for the time being. And the rudely face of George Cruickshank (Lib-Fraser Valley) is redder than usual.

Mr. Cruickshank voted the wrong way once and a Progressive Conservative member tried to adjourn the House for lack of a quorum—only 18 of 258 members were present—but the two private bills that have caused hours of debate finally were sent to committee Monday.

They now are technically before the committee on railways, canals and shipping. It took four recorded votes to get them there after they had been given back to the House for third and final reading. The debate could flare up again then.

The bills would incorporate the Alaska Railroad Company, Yukon and Prairie Transmission Lines, Limited, both private companies to build a gas pipe line from Alberta to British Columbia. Members opposing them want a guarantee that the lines will be built through Canada rather than the United States.

Receive Report

The House also received from the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation a 300-page report on Canada's activities in the United Nations in 1949. It stressed the limitations brought down on U.N. by Russian action but said Canada will continue to make the "fullest contribution within her power."

Trade Minister Howe announced extension of the government guaranteed price for asbestos fibres from March 31, 1955, to March 31, 1958, and said a formula for establishing prices in 1958 and for certain ores will probably be announced today. He said the government, while not dissatisfied with the present uranium production, would like more.

Voted Down Four Times

Four times during the day Progressive Conservative and CCF members united to oppose motions involving the pipe-line bills before they were taken by Liberal and Social Credit members. The votes were, in each case, that the Speaker should leave the chair, an approval in principle be put to the House and then that second reading be given.

Mr. Cruickshank voted against the government on the first three motions but mistakenly switched to vote with it when on the end of the vote-taking he blurt "Mr. Speaker, I made a mistake." But he was too late.

The first two votes came at the late afternoon session, and were 100 to 28 and 101 to 29. The third votes were 100 to 27 and 106 to 26.

Asked to Punish Those Responsible And Pay Indemnity

Note Demands Air Force Prevent Any New Incidents

Washington, April 18 — (AP) — The United States charged today that Russian fighters shot down the missing American navy patrol bomber over open waters of the Baltic Sea.

It demanded that Russia punish those responsible and pay appropriate indemnity for the lives of the 10 men lost in the plane.

The charge and the demand were made in a formal reply to Russia's protest of April 11 that an American plane had flown over Latvia and exchanged gunfire with Soviet aircraft April 8.

The American note, delivered in Moscow by Ambassador Alan G. Kirk, demanded also that "the most strict and categorical instructions" be issued to the Soviet air force to prevent any new incident "so clearly calculated to magnify the difficulties of maintaining peaceful and correct international relationship."

Flat Rejection of Russian Claim

The note flatly rejected Russia's claim that the American plane flew over Russian territory in violation of International Law.

It charged the Soviets with a "violation of International Law and of the Soviet Government's note of peaceful conduct between nations."

The 600-word counterprotest said the American investigation determined that the U.S. plane involved was the Navy four-engine patrol bomber which has been missing in the Baltic area since April 9.

It said investigation convinced the U.S. government that the Navy plane did not fly over "any Soviet or Soviet-occupied territory or territorial waters adjacent thereto."

In view of the findings, the note said "it must be concluded that Soviet military aircraft fired upon an unarmed American plane over the open sea following which the plane's airplane was lost."

When the text of the communication was released here, a state department spokesman, press officer Michael J. McDermott, also made a formal statement which rebuked Russia for failing to show the "slightest evidence of any concern" over the fate of the 10 missing American airmen.

He praised the non-communist Scandinavian countries for their search efforts in the Baltic area.

More sharply worded than the note itself, the supplementary statement also said Russia "ostentatiously" decorated the Soviet airman "in a manner calculated to give the impression that are have actually shot down and shooting down an American airplane."

Soviet's Attitude.

It declared the Soviet government's attitude all through the incident "has been clearly the insincerity of its oft-proclaimed desire for peaceful relations with the United States and the entire Soviet world in general."

In Moscow Ambassador Kirk had an appointment with Russian deputy foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, at 4 p.m. to deliver the note.

The State Department made the note public here later following Moscow's procedure in publishing the initial protest April 11th.

In their original protest, the Russians described the plane as of the B-29 type.

Two Freighters in Neck-and-Neck Race to Reach Montreal Port First

Quebec, April 18 — (CP) — Three ocean freighters today were locked in a neck-and-neck race up the St. Lawrence River for the honour of opening commercial navigation to the port of Montreal.

Leading was the 1,643 ton Erland. The Beavercove was close behind in second place and the Manchester Port was trailing in third position.

The traditional gold - headed cane, awarded annually to the skipper of the first overseas ship of the season to reach Montreal, awaits the winner.

The little Swedish freighter Erland got out ahead in the 150-mile dash from Quebec up the narrow, twisting channel to Montreal today by slipping away from here under cover of darkness at 4 a. m.

The fast Canadian Pacific cargo ship Beavercove slipped its moorings here at 5:45 a.m. to 4 a.m. Five minutes later the British freighter Manchester Port left.

While the channel was reported officially open for navigation, Transport Department officials said some drift ice was still present in the St. Lawrence and a ship such as the Erland, with its strong hull, was able to stand heavier going than the others.

Several other overseas freighters, tied up in Quebec since the weekend, were on the point of leaving for Montreal but now stand little chance of winning the traditional honour.

Fog was reported along the Quebec-Montreal stretch but likely along the route now was described as good.

SOVIET DEATHS MAY BE BEGINNING OF NEW PURGE

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

New York, April 18 — (AP)— Moscow has announced, in the last half year, the deaths of 15 Russian generals and admirals, some of them rather young.

The appearance of such obituaries so frequently in the Soviet press naturally arouses speculation in the west over the possibility of a new purge in the Soviet Union. However, there has been no hint in the advices which came through Moscow censorship that a purge actually is under way.

The Russians also have reported the deaths of a considerable number of civilians, as well as military, officials. The latest obituary of this type published by the Soviet press was that of N.V. Egorov, 46-year-old official of the Council of Ministers, whose death was announced today.

Other high-ranking Soviet functionaries also have passed away recently. They include Peter Aranov, a counsellor first class in the Soviet Foreign Ministry and Anatoli Kopytov, Minister of Shipbuilding, who died March 10. He was only 43.

Baptists Hold First Evening Church Service

Fairway Ave. Baptist Sunday School in the Parkwood Heights district held its first evening service on Sunday when F. H. Chester was the speaker.

The Fairway Ave. Sunday school has been in operation since early last year but in the past has operated only as a Sunday School. On Sunday last the first evening church service was held and the Sunday evening service will be held weekly with a student pastor from McMaster University in charge during the summer months as university classes are completed for the summer.

The building used by the Sunday school is the former Belleville Golf Club clubhouse which has been completely renovated for use as a Sunday School. Members of the Sunday School congregation rolled up their sleeves and did the greater part of the renovation and repairs to the building. Some 40 to 50 persons regularly attend the Sunday School.

The Fairway Ave. Sunday School will still continue to be affiliated with Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, although with the arrival of this church building it will be operating separately both as a Sunday School and for evening church services.

Council, B. of E. Meet to Discuss School Contract

Members of city council will meet with the local Board of Education this evening at the board rooms in Queen Alexandra School to discuss matters relating to the letting of the contract for the construction of the proposed new public school in East Belleville.

Late in February the board of education awarded the contract to the St. Lawrence Contracting Co. at this city for the construction of the school, the second lowest tender being accepted. However council refused to ratify the issuing of debentures to cover the cost of construction, claiming the lowest tender should have been accepted.

POLICE COURT

Traffic cases predominated in the local police court this morning with no less than 35 cases, being listed, 16 of which were for violation of local parking regulations.

Six of the cases were charges against motorists for failure to stop at "stop" streets, two were for speeding, and two others were for going against a red light. All of the traffic cases were settled out of court.

Omer Blondin, Hull, Que., appeared on a charge of dangerous driving laid by Provincial Police. He pleaded guilty, paid a fine and costs and was given a year's suspended sentence. Blondin appeared in police court last Friday and pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding and was assessed five dollars and costs.

Senior, Junior Playgrounds Will be Operated This Year Under Supervision of 'Y'

Nineteen city organizations placed their stamp of approval on a new city association at a special meeting of the Civic Committee on Monday night. The latest body will be known as the Belleville Recreation Commission.

At a previous meeting held on March 31st attended by Messrs Enos David and Fred Symons, Board of Education; Henry Becker, City Parks Board; Dr. R. T. Potter, City Council and Al. J. Davis, and A. B. Hunt, YMCA, Mr. David was authorized to proceed immediately to secure leadership for the new commission.

The Y.M.C.A. at this meeting indicated its willingness to supervise playgrounds for seven junior playgrounds and three senior playgrounds for the period July 4 to August 18 daily except Saturday at a cost of $4,500.

At the meeting last night ways and means of raising the sum of $4,500 to assist in financing the activities of the Commission were discussed. It was stated that approximately 50% of the required amount is already available while city service clubs and other organizations will be approached with regard to donations. The remainder of the amount will be raised through the medium of a campaign. Funds raised will go to pay all costs necessary to staff and equip the city playgrounds and will be utilized for the operation of skating rinks next winter.

Under 'I' Supervision

Three senior and junior playgrounds will be operated at the East and West Hill and King George School with junior playgrounds at Charles Street, Bond Street, Church and St. Paul Streets and the Belleville Collegiate Institute grounds. All parks will be under the supervision of YMCA superintendents.

It was stated that if the City Council officially appoints a representative financial aid can be secured by the Commission from the Ontario Department of Education.

It was also decided to operate the Victoria Park Outdoor Swimming Pool this season, and if the Belleville Recreation Commission takes this project over it will appoint a supervisor. However, it was stated there is a probability of a city service club taking over the pool.

Enos David was the acting chairman at the meeting. Mr. Becker was appointed chairman of the Finance Committee with power to act while Messrs. Bill Stovin, Richard Cowan, Stewart Robb, and Mrs. F. B. Harrison were named as a Publicity and Campaign Committee. Mr. A. B. Hunt was named Interview city manufacturers with regard to financial assistance.

Organizations and representatives present included: University Women's Club, Mrs. H. E. Laren; Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E., Mrs. H. Miller; Y.M.C.A. Men's and School Club, Mrs. F. R. Harback; King George H. and S. Club and Parent Association, H. and S. Clubs, Mrs. T. Gander; Chamber of Commerce, Fraternal Boosy Rotary Club, Harold Mott, R. B. Nine in Bay of Quinte District Pass Dairy School Exams

Nine young cheese makers and butter makers from the Bay of Quinte district attended a course in their dairy school examinations held at the Kemptville Agricultural School, according to final results.

Scoring first class honors with a standing of 75 percent or over were W. A. Allen of Campbellford; W. A. Consaul, Stirling; R. W. Adams, Picton; C. L. Rivers, Madoc; R. Irwin, Campbellford, and D. Davis of Rollins.

Second class honors with marks between 60 and 74 percent were W. G. Fluke of Marmora; I. M. Badgley, Corbyville; C. R. Blair, Crookston and O. J. Ray of Foxboro, R. Mumby of Moira scored a pass.

Cash prizes of $10 each offered by the Provincial Dairy Products Trades Association were won by E. W. Adams and Harold Rogers' marks in cheese making; by W. A. Consaul of Stirling for highest in buttermaking and by W. A. Allen of Campbellford for highest in cheese testing.

The Kemptville Creameries Ltd. cash prize of $30 for highest in quality and technique for butter making, together with highest honor standing in all other subjects was won by W. A. Consaul of Stirling.

U.S. Army Spends 12 Millions Year in Study of Biological, Radiological, Chemical War

Detroit, April 18—(AP)—The United States army is spending more than $12,000,000 a year on research in biological, radiological and chemical warfare. Also, it is studying new means of defense.

Maj.-Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, chief of the chemical corps, disclosed this Monday night in address to the 117th annual meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Of the "nerve gases" he gave no particulars.

McAuliffe introduced the subject by saying it was a "well known fact" that German scientific experts on toxic chemicals before the war were "exploited" by Russia.

"It must be assumed, therefore," he said, "that we are not the sole possessors of the effective and defensive secrets of the new nerve gases."

Our research in this field is directed towards keeping us ahead of the latest enemy threat. We are seeking to perfect all methods and techniques for their detection, decontamination, and the protection of personnel and animals from these new gases."

City Key Club Member Given High Honor

Headed by President Don Rose, five members of the Belleville Key Club, leave the city tomorrow for Columbus, Ohio, where they will attend the International Convention of Key Clubs of the United States and Canada on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Included in the party besides the president are Tom Allisec, Jack Hagerman, Barry Burdett and John Hagerman.

Sterling tribute has been paid to President Rose in that he has been selected to deliver the opening address, and the first Canadian to do so, at the convention. President Rose is one of the two Canadian International Trustees and also a councillor on the Vocational Guidance Committee. Upwards of 2,500 delegates will attend the convention, which will hear addresses by high-ranking Key Club officials and members of the United States government. President Rose has received a letter from Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, enclosing greetings to the convention from the Government of Canada, which the youthful president will read to the assembled delegates and guests.

MRS. ALTHA JANE DOWN (Wooler District)

Frankford, April 18 (Special)—Mrs. Altha Jane Down, widow of Samuel Down, died Tuesday morning at the home of her nephew, Elgin McMaster, 5th concession of Murray township, near Wooler. She was in failing health for some years.

Born in Brighton township the late Mrs. Down was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McMaster and she had reached an advanced age, being in her 89th year. For many years she lived at Brighton and for the past eight years she made her home with her nephew in Murray township. She was a member of the United Church at Brighton and was a life member of the Women's Missionary Society. She was the last of her family.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

LATE HERBERT R. PITCHER

The funeral of Herbert Randolph Pitcher, late resident, 153 Bridge Street west, was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, Monday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. to the chapel and at Belleville Cemetery where interment took place. Rev. H. Harback, minister of the Tabernacle Baptist Church.

The honorary bearers were Cecil Pitcher, Leonard Pitcher, Clifford Pitcher and John Pitcherington.

The pall bearers were Athol Dudgeon, John Dudgeon, Ralph Dudgeon, Alfred McCoy, Fred McCoy and Clarence McCoy.

The late Mr. Pitcher was member of Quinte Lodge No. 323 A.F. & A.M. and the last rites of this fraternity were conducted in the chapel at the funeral home on Sunday evening by Wor. Master Bro. Lloyd Leighton, Wor. Bro. R. E. Houston and A. L. Burke, Wor. Bros. Ernest Myers, Master, E. C. Wood, R. L. Orr and Bro. A. L. Twiddy.

Mart Kenney Will Appear at Club Commodore

It's doubtful that the new music known as "be-bop" will ever merge with opera into a form known as "opera-bopera", but it's true that popular dance music is becoming ever more classical in form.

The point is proven by Mart Kenney, whose orchestra plays at Club Commodore, Wednesday, April 19th. Kenney is lodging at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto to include in his dance-band bass section that popular device. Thanks to broadcast Borden's Canadian Melodiers and Ford Trans-Canada network, he augmented his orchestra by four violins, a cello and sometimes even a harp.

Anybody who says a single orchestra doesn't prove the rule should be shown that the Kenney Orchestra has played almost 1,000 nights of dance-music in the Royal York, largest hotel in the British Empire, and that rising listenership survey ratings on Canadian Cavalcade top Canadian nighttime broadcasting shows Mr. Kenney joined it in September 1947.

As Mart Kenney explains it himself: "There are two sides to Tin Pan Alley—swing and sweet. We're chiefly concerned with trying to avoid either extreme; to serve out old songs or new in a way that will have equal appeal for all members of the average family."

Kenney measures his orchestra in two yardsticks—applause and requests. Comedian Dr. Lawrence Mason, music critic of the Toronto Globe and Mail, likes to hear only a little band in his life and that was Mart Kenney's. In his pontifical style, Dr. Mason said: "It seems to aim a smoothness of blend and balance, with perfect homogenous tone throughout. . . . With continual shifting of the instrumentation, seemingly less than half a dozen bars are played without changing some of the inflections to secure new color values, but without losing a sense of moving a phrase." Most reviews are more enthusiastic but Dr. Mason's is the one that Mart keeps and treasures.

Pickerel, Smelt Season Approach Excites Curiosity in Humans

They search him here, they search him there,
They search for him most everywhere,
Be he in heaven or be he in
No Can See
From the editorial serive, two storeys above the gently flowing waters of the stream, the official telescope has failed thus far to reveal any pickerel, poppas or mammas en route to the production grounds where they will await the arrival of some 80,000 youngsters.

Nor have the binoculars brought close-up views of the silver mites that annually flock upstream to produce their own youngsters and surreptitiously dine off pickerel spawn should they encounter it.

But what happens after nightfall is another story.

It has been reported that guard and fishery overseers have been on the alert and have caught a few of the nocturnal spear-toting gentry in action.

In any event the smelt and pickerel patrol combine in their ceaseless adagio marching up and down the banks of the river.

What do they see? They keep such information to themselves. Knowing the Moira River perhaps it is well that they do.

But so far no large pickerel, but a few joint consignments of smelts have made efforts to crap out of the river and into the warm comfort of a frying pan. That we must see.

Not being the proud owners and operators of a submarine, we do not know what is happening or has happened in the murky depths of the Moira.

No Can See

From the editorial serive, two storeys above the gently flowing waters of the stream, the official telescope has failed thus far to reveal any pickerel, poppas or mammas en route to the production grounds where they will await the arrival of some 80,000 youngsters.

Nor have the binoculars brought close-up views of the silver mites that annually flock upstream to produce their own youngsters and surreptitiously dine off pickerel spawn should they encounter it.

But what happens after nightfall is another story.

It has been reported that guard and fishery overseers have been on the alert and have caught a few of the nocturnal spear-toting gentry in action.

In any event the smelt and pickerel patrol combine in their ceaseless adagio marching up and down the banks of the river.

What do they see? They keep such information to themselves. Knowing the Moira River perhaps it is well that they do.

But so far no large pickerel, but a few joint consignments of smelts have made efforts to crap out of the river and into the warm comfort of a frying pan. That we must see.

Capt. C.R. Dyon Given New Hat By Harbor Master

Just one day later than last year, navigation in the Bay of Quinte was officially opened today with the arrival of the Imperial Oil Company's "Collingwood" with a cargo of gasoline from Sarnia. Harbor Master Expert Mayor George Hume of the boat arrived last year on the 17th of April.

In honor of his being the first boat into Belleville harbor this year, the master of the "Collingwood" Capt. C. R. Dyon, received a hat, presented by Harbor Master Tice on behalf of the harbor commission.

The Imperial Oil "Collingwood" is the largest of the Imperial Oil tankers on the Great Lakes. Docking at approximately nine o'clock this morning the big lake boat proceeded immediately to unload her gasoline cargo of 600,000 gallons. The boat loaded at the company's huge refinery at Sarnia, coming down through Lake Erie and the Welland Canal.

Attempt to Stamp Out Poultry Disease

New Westminster, B.C., April 18—(CP)—An outbreak of fowl of poultry have been slaughtered in an attempt to stamp out Newcastle Disease which threatens the $15,000,000 poultry industry in the Fraser Valley. Nearly 50,000 birds have been killed by inspectors of the Dominion Health of Animals Branch. The Dominion Poultry Branch is paying farmers two-thirds of the loss.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 18 — (CP) Mining stocks traded briskly and prices slowly climbed as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today. Base metals showed the widest gains and golds and base metals brightened slightly in the brisk activity. Volume for the first three hours was 1,632,000 shares.

Nicholson Mines, a uranium prospect, slumped six cents at 69 cents in heavy trading following news of increase in the price for uranium oxide. Evidently the market had expected the increases. In recent weeks, Nicholson gained strongly. Senior golds were brighter and a few junior producers added pennies.

Consolidated Smelters and Hudson Bay featured base metals with fractional advances. Waite Amulet gained 35 cents at $8.85 and Sherritt Gordon and Golden Manitou were higher.

Scattered fractional advances among a few leading industrials pulled that list higher for a second successive session. Liquors, papers and steels brightened while utilities, textiles and banks eased.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, April 18 — (CP) — Produce prices quoted on the spot market here this morning.

Churning cream: No. 1, 60 cents fob, 64 cents delivered.

Creamery prints: first grade, 61 cents.

Receipts were in good volume at the Toronto egg market this morning and demand was quiet. Country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free: Grade A large, 30-39 1-2; medium, 28 1-2-27; A pullet 35; Grade B, 35; Grade C, 32. Wholesale to retail: Grade A large 42-43; A medium 41; A pullet 39; Grade B 38; Grade C 35.

Butter solids: first grade solids, 50 1-2; second grade solids (nominal) 54-55.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 18 (AP)— Cattle 200; fat cattle, type and cutters mostly 15.00 to 17.00; good dairy type heifers for slaughter 19.00-21.00; good weighty sausage bulls 20.00-21.

Calves 100; market not established.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, April 18 — (CP) — Cattle trade continued active at steady prices this morning at the Ontario Stockyards. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle, 1,000; calves, 420; hogs, 520; sheep and lambs, 20. Left from Monday were 1,250 cattle.

Medium to good weighty steers sold at $25-$26 a hundredweight with choice up to $27. Medium to good light steers brought $24-$25.50. Good heifers were $23.75-24 while medium to good cows sold at $18.50-$21. Good bulls brought $21-$22 with choice fed yearlings $24-$26. A few stockers sold at $20-$22 a hundredweight.

Calves were steady at $28-$29 for choice with common to medium ranging from $18-$26.

Hog prices were not established.

A few good sheep brought $12-$15 and a few spring lambs sold at $35 a hundredweight.

Disappearance Of Child Probed By Canterbury Police

Canterbury, England, April 18. (CP)—Police investigating the disappearance of three-year-old Pamela Polifer said today the child's mother was living in Vancouver when last heard from.

Pamela vanished three days ago from her bed in the home of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gordon.

Squads of police and 100 soldiers are combing the woods and fields within five miles of Pamela's home.

Chief Inspector P. W. Cory of the East Kent police said Pamela's mother went to Canada soon after the child was born and was reported living in Vancouver 12 months ago. Pamela's father is believed to be in Britain.

The Kent County Council said it has received no reply to a registered letter it sent some time ago to Pamela's mother regarding the proposed adoption of Pamela and her five-year-old sister, Jean, by their foster parents.

Police on Lookout For Man and Robe

City police are on the lookout for a fast-talking and convincing individual who yesterday talked himself out of an apparently rather embarrassing situation when he was discovered in the act of going through a parked car the back seat of which was filled with groceries.

A rural resident had parked his car on Pinnacle street and returned to find a stranger in the back seat of his car among the groceries. The stranger explained his presence by stating he was waiting for a friend who had parked his car in the same vicinity. It was merely a case of mistaken identity as to autos. It was explained.

The obliging motorist believed the story and allowed the man to go but a short time later a taxi driver complained of the loss of an auto robe. The same man is believed to have been responsible.

Knows of No Great Crime Syndicate In United States

Washington, April 18 (AP)— Senator Kenneth Wherry (Rep. Neb.) took issue today with a statement by Attorney-General J. Howard McGrath that the Justice Department knows of no great countrywide crime syndicate in the United States.

"The Justice Department information doesn't square with the testimony given the Senate rules and judiciary committees," Wherry told reporters. "We have received information which made a deep impression on us that a crime investigation is needed badly."

McGrath's statement was made Monday during testimony before a Senate commerce sub-committee which is considering a bill to block transmission of gambling information across state lines.

Urging passage of the measure, the Attorney-General said it would deal organized gambling "a knockout blow".

McGrath testified he could not deny there were big business operations in crime in individual cities. But he added: "I could not with honesty say that we know there is any great syndicate presided over by any great czar."

Two Men Killed In Car Crash With Concrete Rail

Montmagny, Que., April 18. — (CP)—Rene Raymond, 27-year-old Montreal taxi-driver, and Rosaire Desjardins, 24, of St. Bruno Kamouraska, were killed near here Monday when Raymond's cab skidded on the highway while travelling toward Montreal and crashed into the concrete rail on a bridge.

Desjardins died instantly. Raymond died shortly after he was taken to hospital at Levis, some 40 miles from this St. Lawrence south shore town.

An inquest was ordered.

SET FIRE TO BROTHER

Miami, Fla., April 18 — (AP) — A four-year-old boy today set fire to the clothing of his fourmonths old brother, already dazed from a blow or fall, then put the baby in a wastebasket and set fire to the paper, the sheriff's office reported. The baby, identified by Deputy Sheriff Thom Ford as Joseph Wilson, died en route to a hospital. The four-year-old brother, Rudolph, could give no explanation for his action.

BRITISH WORKERS

have recovered sharply," he said, with indications that in the first three months of this year the volume of foreign sales was 10 per cent above the same period in 1949.

Britain's reserve of gold and dollars rose by $296,000,000 in the first quarter of this year to a total of $1,984,000,000—almost to the safe minimum of $2,000,000,000.

The gain included a surplus of $40,000,000 from sterling area trade—the first time since the war that Britain and the sterling area have shown such a surplus.

Parliament's galleries were full of distinguished visitors and there was no room for man-in-the-street spectators, who began lining up in the chill rain as early as 8 a.m. for the few available seats.

Cripps said because of uncertainties in Britain's economic picture "we do not know what will happen as regards to Marshall aid" for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

"We have not seen all changes brought about by revaluation," he added.

"We are at the moment in an all balance—indeed, almost certainly in over-all surplus—on the rest of the world and have a satisfactory beginning to the recovery of our gold and dollar reserves."

Evidence of the first quarter of the year tended to show that British exports were expanding satisfactorily and that the export prices were still fully competitive over a wide range of goods.

STUDY OF BIRD MIGRATIONS

Banding or ringing of birds by placing small metal rings on their legs is widely practised in America and in Britain. Canadians have read a good many stories of birds which were found far south bearing bands which had been placed on their legs in Canada. In Britain too birds are banded as a means of guidance in their movements in migration. So important does this seem that ornithologists in most countries are in this way studying the course of birds and their habits.

In Britain recently two ornithologists spoke over the BBC. Ringing is chiefly done in the spring and autumn migrations they explained as great tides of birds swing back and forth across Britain. These birds in general, small, about one or at most two per cent. With wild ducks it is about 15 per cent, owing in some measure to the number which are shot for food and also to the fact that duck decoys are being used again to catch birds for ringing. These duck decoys which were invented in the sixteenth century for catching ducks for market in the Old Country are ponds with traps around them. These traps are narrow pipes of water.

Ducks ringed in one decoy are often caught in another. Some birds travel amazing distances and Peter Scott, one of the speakers, recently had two rings returned from the Caspian sea and the Urals in Russia more than 1,500 miles from the decoy on the Severn River where he had ringed the ducks.

James Fisher the other ornithologist had an exciting discovery when he was a small boy at Eton. He saw a cuckoo ringed in a hedgesparrow's nest. In the following autumn a man with a bow and arrow shot it in West Africa and the ring sent by the missionary who happened to notice it on the bird's leg.

One of the values of banding is the knowledge gained of the habits and life cycle of birds as well as of their migrations.

Many young people in Britain have been turning to this hobby in their spare time and go to ringing stations to help in this work.

THE LOWLY CATERPILLAR

This is probably all old stuff to the Indians and those white pioneers who relied upon Nature's signs to predict whether a winter would be mild or severe.

But in New York the weather experts have virtually convinced themselves, not without reluctance, that the woolly bear caterpillar has an uncanny way of calling the turn when it comes to foretelling what a winter will be like. For two years now these lowly prognosticators have hit it right on the nose.

In the autumn of 1948 it was observed that the woolly bears showed a wide brown band about their bodies, an infallible sign, according to legend, that the coming winter would be a mild one. These caterpillars were right; the winter was one of the mildest in history.

When the same wide band was seen on these caterpillars during a second survey at Bear Mountain in October of 1949, the weather scientists were inclined to be dubious as they did not believe that another successive winter would be as mild as the preceding one. Again they were wrong and the caterpillars were right.

Official records show that the winter of 1948-49 was 466 degrees above normal; that of 1949-50 was 473 degrees above normal. These experts, in admitting that the woolly bears appear to know more about weather forecasting than the Weather Bureau itself does, point to the almost sweltering temperature that prevailed on Christmas Day over a wide area; the shirtsleeve days of January, and the little snow that fell up to the middle of February, with skiing resorts having to use synthetic snow to attract patrons. — Hamilton Spectator.

DIMMING LIGHTS ON HIGHWAYS

There are many accidents caused by failure to dim headlights when approaching other vehicles on the highways. Most of us have had the harrowing experience of being blinded by such lights, yet failure to dim lights is against the law and renders drivers failing to do so liable to stiff fines. Here is how the law reads, in section 28 of the regulations of the Highway Traffic Act:

"Whenever on a highway artificial dusk or before dawn the driver or operator of a motor vehicle approaches an oncoming vehicle within 500 feet, he shall use the lower or passing beam."

And that law applies on all highways. — Niagara Falls Review.

WEEDS

The weeds know nothing of despair;
Both heat and cold they stand.
'Tis only blossoms that are rare
That need the helpful hand.

Against the bitterest winds that drive,
And every insect foe,
From spring to fall the weeds will thrive
And even stronger grow.

The weeds, as every gardner knows,
Unchallenged left to stray,
From every lovely thing that grows
Will steal the ground away.

So to the land we love should we
With true devotion stay,
And for the sake of liberty
Keep every weed away.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A SUGGESTION

There are always emergencies arising in life. Then it is that the occasion calls for someone to act, someone who is not always around to answer the call, so volunteers are requested. How often in battle and in this occupation some soldier steps forward and says "I'll go."

I was thinking this over one of these Spring days, quiet awakening with the sunlight streaming into my room, and what I suggest as a morning prayer came to me in three words—Lord, use me. There isn't a day but that we can offer ourselves to be used in some useful way—used in some out-of-the-way manner.

Too many of us, like the priest and the Levite in the Bible story of the Good Samaratin, "pass by on the other side." The third one —the Samaritan—thought differently. He dismounted, bent over and lifted the unfortunate one to his beast, having mercy upon him. In his heart he must have said this little prayer—Lord, use me.

Many letters have been coming to me from members of the A.A. (Alcoholics Anonymous) organization, and in every case the writer tells of the joy of association with others who understand, as though each one had undergone this silent prayer—Lord, use me. It has been inspiring, and to me humbling, to see how helpful ourselves most when we help others.

It is a habit of Easter nature to pass many a duty, or indeed a privilege, to someone else. But what is loss to us when it is done? There is spiritual satisfaction that comes to us when we do something that we are not expected to do, especially when that act involves a voluntary wish upon our part. How happy we may become merely by inwardly exclaiming, Lord, use me.

It's when we give ourselves to an enterprise, or to a friend, or to a great and noble cause, that we gain the greatest personal satisfaction. Not turning over to George, or to one of his kin, but reserving the opportunity to ourselves—that we may receive the glory that is reserved for those who only say—Lord, use me.

MacKenzie's Column:

Soviet May be 'Put on Spot' By Lie's Visit

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the United Nations is considering the idea of visiting Prime Minister Stalin in Moscow in an effort to get Russia and her satellites to resume relations with the new ban-striving peace organization.

This is a part of the secretary general's Save-the U.N. campaign, and so may be viewed in a different light than previous proposals for peace-appeals to Moscow. Most of the latter suggestions involved officials of various western governments, and immediately evoked cries of "appeasement."

However, Lie is in a unique position, as secretary general of the U.N. he is a servant of all countries. He is in effect "hired by the world" whose job is to act as moderator in the effort of bringing all countries together.

If the secretary-general goes to Moscow, it will tend to put the Soviet Union on a spot where it may have to declare itself either for or against peace. Previous approaches by western statesmen have failed because of the fact that they were westerners and that and therefore could be viewed by the Kremlin as having axes to grind.

Sails Next Saturday

The secretary-general is sailing for Europe next Saturday on what will be the first important mission he has undertaken since he became head of the U.N. Before he leaves he expects to confer with British Foreign Secretary Bevin and confer with French Minister Schuman in Paris, and then may head for Moscow.

There have of course been innumerable issues over which the two great world powers have clashed in the U.N. One of the hottest revolves about the continued membership of Nationalist China. Russia wants the Communists and their satellites have been demanding that the Nationalist be thrown out and that the Chinese Communist government be given the membership in view of its military victory over the Nationalists.

The fight has got so bitter that Russia now is boycotting 20 U.N. organizations. Lie himself has been campaigning for admission of the Chinese Communists. He maintains that the U.N. membership should go to the government that controls the majority of the people and the land mass, and wants the Red Chinese seated right away in order to bring the Russians back.

'Flying Saucer' Like Two Pie-Plates

Sudbury, April 17 —(CP) — Arthur Penny says he saw a flying saucer heading west over Sudbury about 2 p.m. Saturday.

"It looked like two pie-plates, one on top of the other," he told a reporter. "It was smooth and about the size of a small-washtub."

Flyer Did Not Lose Right Leg

Winnipeg, April 18 (CP)— RCAF officials Monday said that Flying Officer Vic Barber, whose right leg was amputated by the residential area of West Winnipeg, had not lost his right leg as earlier reported by The Canadian Press. His condition, however, still remains "serious."

Lorimer Fairhall, 41, was killed as the plane knifed through his small garage in suburban St. James as he was tuning up his car. Another man was slightly injured when the plane finally crashed to a halt against the rear of his home.

RCAF said F/O. Barber's leg badly shattered, had been saved by doctors.

The Canadian Press report was based on the comments of a registered nurse at the scene of the crash. She said the pilot's right foot had been severed above the ankle. Another eyewitness said part of the pilot's foot had been found near the plane.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

A woman who came to this country as a child of twelve from one of the hundreds could speak nothing but Gaelic when she arrived long years ago.

She was very fond of her Gaelic as the years passed; and she would amuse her children making her quaint tongue. And her sons and her daughters grew up to understand her Gaelic phrases to toss about on St. Andrew's Day. But her life, the mother spoke English with the faint accent of the isles still on her tongue. She was now Canadian to the bone, of course; and her family prospered and throve and delved deep in to the Canadian fabric.

In her early seventies, the mother took a stroke and went to hospital. When she was well enough to speak, she could not speak or understand a word of English. Not only the Gaelic. By some strange trick of the mind, affected by the stroke, she was thrown back across the years to her childhood mentality.

The sons and their daughters, when they came to see her, had to bring an interpreter with them who could speak the Gaelic. They were fortunate in length to find a nurse from the isles.

It is not the first time in medical record that a stroke has deprived persons of memory. But this case had some of the queer romance in it. The middle-aged sons and daughters gathered apart for a time from the nurse functioning as interpreter for the astonished old lady on the bed.

They told her of her life in Canada, the nurse converting their story into the mysterious and eloquent tongue unknown to them. The old mother asked unintelligible questions; and the nurse translated them to the children. Finally the old lady smiled shyly at them all around:

"She says," translated the nurse "she does not know a single word of it, but that you indeed look like her kin."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

STILL HE OWES MUCH

There are many people in the world today who insist that they can and do live just as good lives without religious faith as anyone can live with religious faith.

Of course not having tried faith, they are in no position to make the comparison. But what is vastly more to the point is that religious faith enters into the ethical life even of the unbeliever. For the person without Christian faith who nevertheless lives a clean, upright, honest life has inherited a great deal more than he is willing to admit. The standards of morality, which he is proud to live up, came from the Bible. Godly parents or grandparents probably created an environment which made it easy for this non-religious descendant to live the good life. Invariably the non-believers set up these standards to which Christians and non-Christians now adhere.

If a man wants to adjourn religion to his wife, he is well and good. This is a free country. But let him not say that he owes religion nothing. He owes religion all the honor he has in his life. His decision to be in greater extent than he realizes the result of self-control which enabled some ancestor to establish a Christian home and to pass on to his descendants a legacy of uprightness.

THE CRIMINAL WASTE OF SOAP IN YANKEELAND

In England and in many countries on the Continent soap is still hard to come by. Indeed it is hard for the chambermaid to pass by if you thoughtlessly leave your cake of soap exposed instead of locking it up when you leave the room. In the United States and Canada (anybody mind if I say America or North America?) we have no idea of the privations of the people of England or endure so bravely while we in America indulge in extravagance and waste.

Here in Yankeeland millions of men make loud and indignant complaints if they find a cake of used soap in the bathroom of a hotel. Yet they have no qualms about coming into automatic contact with the inside of a bathtub that was used last night or this morning and in a routine washing. A bath tub is better than no toilet facility at all, but from the viewpoint of convenience, comfort and good hygiene the shower should supersede the bath-tub in homes, hotels and institutions—even where people are too feeble to bathe themselves.

Ordinary laundry or toilet soap, whatever it is, is germ or find available; is itself an excellent disinfectant. For instance, if I have a pimple or a blister to open or a sliver to dig out, I first flame the point of the knife or the needle or pin into a cake of wet soap and then proceed with the operation, with as much assurance as I'd feel if the knife, needle or pin were sterilized by boiling or in the steam pressure sterilizer.

For infected wound, burn or ulcer, there is no better first aid treatment that I know of, than envelopment of the affected part in voluminous wet dressings of sterile gauze (boiled cheesecloth) and keep this constantly wet with soapy water, over night or all day.

Whole waste an enormous amount of money on glorified soap when they purchase 4a dilirious fancy packages and exquisite flavors under the name of paste, powder, or liquid for cleaning the teeth. Plain toilet or laundry soap, any kind available, clean the teeth, the mouth and the throat as well as any fancy dentifrice or oral antiseptic can. You can't improve on plain toilet or laundry soap as an all round antiseptic and disinfectant for personal and domestic use. If all the billions of dollars squandered in America were endowed with enough intelligence to realize that everything he buys for the tooth cleaning rostrums is scenery, we could save enough on this extravagance alone to keep the good people of England supplied with enough soap to square their comfort and health.

Come, now, Stupid, try using common sense, instead of all that exquisitely flavored junk.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Bread and Toast

Has toasted white bread more calories than untoasted? (Miss D.A.)

Answer — No.

Nutrition Indicie

I have been taking three or four drops of iodine. (L.A.)

Answer — Only your physician can advise whether you should take iodine or iodine in medical doses. I recommend only the latter when you consult him. Iodine is a valuable drug, but usually does not get. That's what I mean by a suitable daily ration of iodine. And stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet The Iodin Ration which tells you why and how to get yours.

Pain Below Right Shoulder

Does pain or tender spot below right shoulder indicate liver trouble? (B.F.)

Answer — Seldom. Sometimes pain is felt under right shoulder blade in inflammation of gall-sac or gall-stones. It is stupid to wonder about it. Consult a physician.

Everybody But the Doctor Knows

I think you don't know what your are talking about. You say everybody bu. you seems to know what everybody does and that I'm beginning to believe. Have your nerves ever been on edge when you thought they were going to snap? (Mrs. W. H.)

Answer — Oh, so that's what it means, No, I never thought my nerves going to snap. Nobody's nerves ever snapped. 'Nervousness' or 'nerves' means what you don't want to admit sis you—that's as good a definition as I can give. If your doctor sequences in the phony diagnosis the doctor doesn't want to admit he or she doesn't know what really ails you If you care to know how much more I know about your "nerves" or "nervous exhuration" send twenty-five cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope for the green book, Nerves and Nutrition.

50 New Towers Of Steel Augment Fire Safeguards

Toronto, April 18 (CP) —The Ontario Lands Department has shipped 50 new steel lookout towers to augment its fire detection system throughout the province.

Built at Walkerville, they will bring the total number of towers to 284. Of the 50, 35 will be 100 feet high and the remainder 80 feet.

The towers have been allocated to the following districts: Sioux Lookout, Fort Frances, Kenora, Port Arthur, Geraldton, Cochrane, Kapuskasing, Temiskaming, North Bay, Gogama, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, Parry Sound, Algonquin, Chapleau, Trent and Quinte. One will be erected at the department's Ranger-school at Dorset.

Cherokee Indian Sentenced to Die In Electric Chair

Buffalo, N.Y., April 18 (AP)—Harley G. La Marr, 19-year-old Cherokee Indian Mon. was sentenced to die in the electric chair the week of May 21 for the robbery-slaying late last January of Mrs. Marion L. Frisbee, 36-year-old Buffalo clubwoman.

La Marr, whose mother is serving 11 years for manslaughter in the stabbing of his stepfather, was convicted Friday of first-degree murder.

La Marr was accused of forcing his way into Mrs. Frisbee's automobile, directing her to drive into the country and trying to rape her before shooting her in the head. He admitted taking $6 from he purse. He claimed the gun went off accidentally as Mrs. Frisbee resisted him.

He needed money to pay for his stepfather's funeral, he said.

Effective Censorship Urged By Catholic Conference to Ban Pornographic Literature

Ottawa, April 18 (CP) — The Canadian Catholic Conference, made up of Roman Catholic Bishops and Archbishops, Monday urged before the Royal Commission on Arts and Science that there be some "effective censorship" of publications available to Canadians.

The brief said that the Catholic Church in Canada, "speaking as she does for 45 per cent of the country's population" is interested in the work of the Royal Commission.

On publications, the brief said: "Gravely alarmed at the ravages caused by pornographic papers and magazines, by licentious books and pamphlets of all kinds which emanate both from within our country and from without, we solemnly raise our voice to ask those whose duty it is to preserve good order to check by every means possible the wave of immorality that threatens to engulf our Christian people.

"We are happy to be able to felicitate the competent public authorities on the measures already taken to contain the evil, but we urge them at the same time to find and to institute some form of effective censorship that will condemn all dangerous publications. Since the state has a role to play in the promotion of public morals, it must keep a vigilant eye on all such enemies of the common good."

King of Greece Pledged to Carry Out Reforms

Athens, April 18 (AP)—King Paul pledged today that Greece's new coalition government will carry out broad financial and administrative reforms recommended by American advisers administering United States aid here.

In a speech opening the newly-elected parliament, the King repeated the American recommendations for Greek recovery which had served as a guide in forming the new cabinet of Premier Gen. Nicholas Plastiras.

The new centre-of-the-road coalition cabinet was sworn in only Sunday. It includes Liberals, Social Democrats and Plastiras' own mildly Leftist National Progressive Union. The cabinet has the backing of 136 members of parliament.

Sophocles Venizelos had formed an all-Liberal party cabinet following the March 5 parliamentary elections. But he resigned Friday after the United States expressed sharp displeasure over the fact that his government did not have the backing of the broad majority of parliament.

Gen. Plastiras, on old hand in Greek politics, was given the mandate by King Paul and promptly formed the new coalition Cabinet. Besides his premiership he also takes over the ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Plane Hits Wild Duck

Flint, Mich., April 18 (AP) — A wild duck crashed through the windshield of a Capital Airlines plane Saturday night and slightly injured the pilot, Capt. Fred Stripe of Milwaukee. Stripe, stunned by the impact and cut by flying glass, turned the controls over to his co-pilot, R. L. Peace, who brought the plane down 20 minutes later for its scheduled landing here.

Would Get Rid Of Word 'Foreign'

Fort Erie, April 18 —(CP) — The Canadian Legion hopes its program for displaced persons will "really get the word 'foreign' out of our language," a Legion meeting was told here Sunday.

T. A. M. Hulse of Toronto, first vice-president of the Legion's Ontario Command, addressing 150 delegates of District B, said:

"The Legion has adopted a program to aid in screening D.P.'s and when they arrive here to teach them citizenship and really get the word 'foreign' out of our language.

"We want to break down all racial tendencies and make newcomers part of a real melting-pot."

Mr. Hulse said 15 university scholarships will be given by Legion branches in Ontario this year.

FOUND FLOATING IN DON RIVER

Toronto, April 18 — (CP) — Missing since March 8, the body of William Cameron, 34, was found floating in the Don River Sunday.

A Scottish Immigrant, Cameron had been missing since his empty wheelbarrow was found beside the river. He had been carrying refuse from a paper plant to the river. Police unsuccessfully dragged the river after his disappearance.

HALLOWAY Easter Services Of Real Value To The Church

Halloway—This Easter season has been marked by two special services at Halloway United Church, (Foxboro charge).

On Thursday evening April 6th, before capacity audience an Easter pageant "The Uplifted Cross" was presented by members of the W.M.S.—W.A. assisted by members from each age group of the Sunday School. Much credit for the evening's success is due to the tireless efforts of Mrs. E. G. Snider, who directed the pageant and to Mrs. Don Rose who was in charge of the music.

The cast was as follows:

Spirit of the cross, Mrs. E. F. Emerson; Four women Mrs. R. Smith, Miss Lois McMullen, Miss Jean Reid, Miss Vona DeMille. Angels of darkness Mrs. L. Wellman; Light Mrs. C. Cassidy; Life Miss Marguerite Stone; Love Miss Ruth McMullen; Truth Mrs. E. Snider; Service Mrs. G. Roth; Lucius Paul Snider; Girls Donna Wellman, Joyce Townsend, Sharon Wilkinson, Edith Stone, Pauline Cassidy, Nora Wellman, Grace Stone and Harold'en Wilkinson; Boys Robert Hugh, Everett Reid, Kenneth Stone, Allen Cassidy, Douglas Townsend, Leo Westerhof, Don McMullen, Walter Westerhof, Eric Emerson, John Emerson.

Musical choruses were mostly familiar Easter selections in which the audience, provided with programs, joined heartily. Solo parts were taken by Mrs. J. Westerhof, Mrs. Don Rose and Miss Marie Stone while Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Westerhof also sang a duet accompanied by Mrs. C. Townsend.

From the opening processional "All Hail The Power of Jesus Name" until the lights were flashed on the victorious Cross of Christ and the recessional hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung, the cast and audience were under the influence of the Easter spirit.

Guests were present from West Huntingdon, Sidney Baptist, Foxboro, Marsh Hill and Eggleton appointments. The offering which was most generous will be used toward providing choir music.

On Easter Sunday too there was an excellent attendance of worshippers. The service was in charge of the pastor Rev. P. Gilbert who delivered a most sincere Easter message. Special music was provided by Mrs. D. Rose, Mrs. J. Westerhof and Mrs. C. Townsend with Pauline Cassidy Douglas Townsend and John Emerson also taking part in the service.

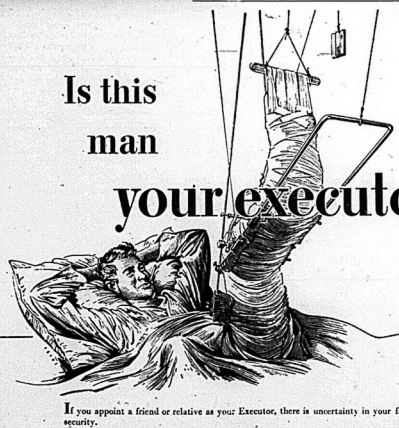
It is felt by the entire congregation that these Easter services have been of real value to the church here.

The Canadian Family owes much to . . . Norway

A Tribute from Calvert to Canadians of Norwegian Descent

CANADIAN LIFE owes much of its strength and vitality as well as its variety, interest and colour to the blending of racial and cultural heritages from many lands.

It is a matter of pride to all Canadians that so many races, without sacrificing their national characteristics, have united themselves into one great citizenship — the Canadian Family.



When Lief Ericson touched on Canada's shores in 1000 A.D. he was the first Norwegian to set foot in the New World. The years which followed have seen a steady stream of our hardy Northern cousins add their strength and culture to Canada's growth.

Norwegians, too, brought with them one of Canada's favourite sports — skiing. Their industry and thrift, their love of literature, their stamina and daring are qualities which have contributed much to Canada's progress.

Calvert DISTILLERS (Canada) Limited
AMHERSTSBURG, ONTARIO

Calvert, founder of Canada's first colony at Newfoundland in 1622, was head of the famous Calvert family. Calvert's ideals of democracy, ideals which were perpetuated by his descendants, helped set the pattern for the freedom we now enjoy.

WEDDINGS

AKEY—SNIDER

An archway of pink and white streamers, white bells and yellow daffodils formed the setting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amab Akey, Point Anne, on Saturday, April 15, for the wedding of Eileen Anna Snider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Snider, of Napanee, and Donald Gerald Akey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amab Akey, of Point Anne. The Rev. L. H. Price officiated, assisted by the Rev. H. Smith.

Given in marriage by the bride's brother, Mr. Bernard (Bill) Akey, the bride was gowned in white silk jersey, with round neckline and full skirt. A halo of brilliants held her elbow length veil of tulle, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Helen Pennell was bridesmaid, attired in a floor length blue crepe with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her floral headdress was of white carnations and she also wore a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Ronald Cummings was groomsman.

The groom's mother received the guests wearing black flowered silk jersey with a corsage of Ophelia carnations. The bride's mother assisted, wearing black crepe with pink trimming and a corsage of pink carnations.

The wedding supper was served to 35 guests, the tables being decorated with pink and white streamers, and white bells with the beautifully decorated wedding cake the centre of attraction.

The bride and groom left for Cobourg, Toronto and points west, the bride wearing a wino crepe suit with matching accessories.

Guests present were from Point Anne, Belleville, Napanee, Shannonville, and Cobourg.

Mrs. L.R. Brickman Addresses P. Edward Belleville Club

An attendance of 41 members and guests—a bright spring day, and a cordial greeting from the president, Mrs. F. Lent,—made the Prince Edward-Belleville Club March meeting at the Y.M.C.A., an interesting get-together.

In opening, a poem on "Springtime", by Helen B. Anderson, was read, with silent prayer in memory of Mrs. J. N. Boyd, whose passing was so keenly felt by all.

In loving tribute, Mrs. French recalled "The Rose di du Other Side of the Wall", while a fitting memorial message was given by Mrs. Farnsworth.

Mrs. F. Osborne presided for the program. Easter hymns were chosen with Mrs. W. Barber's reading "Memoirs of Grandmothers Patchwork Quilt", and Jackie Coleman's solo, "Silver Threads Among the Gold".

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker was Mrs. L. R. Brickman, who gave an interesting talk on her sojourn in Carolina and Washington. This was her first visit. A contest closed the meeting with Mrs. M. Horne-beck winning the prize.

Invitations were extended to the Club to attend the "At Home" celebrating the golden wedding anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Short, on April 22nd. Mrs. Harry Mrs. Wardner, who is entertaining the Club in May, at her home, Sidney Street.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to those assisting in the catering, Mrs. W. McCann, Mrs. Rose, Mesdames Thomas, Anderson, Osborne, Barber, and to those furnishing delicious refreshments, Mesdames Burley, Gordon, J. Parliament, Mrs. Parliament and H. Parliament.

NEW RATE STRUCK

Cobourg, April 18. (CP)—A tax rate of 32 mills was struck Monday night by the town council, based on the new reassessment which was made last year. On the old assessment, the rate was 56 mills. The new assessment total is roughly twice that of last year.

MOORISH NAME

The Rock of Gibralter was settled by Moors in 711 who named it Djebel Tarik after their chief, meaning 'the Mountain of Tarik.'

Good Year of Progress Shown In C.W.L. Annual Report

A large number were in attendance at the annual C.W.L. meeting held April 11, with Mrs. K. Doyle presiding, and at which nominations took place for the election of officers for the coming year. Mrs. Kathleen Doyle is the president for the next year.

An interesting report on the activities of the past year was presented by Mrs. G. Donoghue.

Since the last annual meeting nine executive and nine general meetings were held. The total membership is now 460, showing an increase of 54 members.

The finances have been increased by the holding of two successful teas, two rummage sales and a Fall bazaar.

Card Tournamente

A highlight of the year was the organization of the bridge and euchre tournaments, which introduced many new converts to the C.W.L. The final party staged for the first two groups was an enjoyable affair at which time prizes were presented.

The president, Mrs. Doyle, brought interesting reports to the sub-division from the Diocesan convention in Tweed, and from the provincial in Chatham, as well as reports from two executive meetings held in Kingston.

Education has had a prominent place in the program. Scholarships and prizes are awarded annually to St. Michael's Academy and to John Street High School. In the Academy two prizes are given annually up to Grade V. A short study club period is conducted at each meeting and educational films have been shown.

Another most successful undertaking of the year, has been the organizing of the Fifth Belleville Brownie Pack, consisting of 52 little members. The Pack is very grateful to Mrs. J. Watson, local Guide Commissioner, who assisted in the formation of this pack.

Boxes Shipped

The League is affiliated with the Benevolent Society and all needy families are supplied with clothing, food and milk. Six boxes have been packed and sent to missionaries. With the assistance of the Knights of Columbus and Benevolent, the C.W.L. sponsor the school nurse for the Academy.

Those who acted as hospital visitors have been most faithful. Papers, magazines, fruit and cigarettes are distributed and there is a C.W.L. visiting card which is left if the patient is unable to have visitors. An average of between 30 and 46 patients is contacted each month. Patients are remembered at Christmas, as well as residents of the Home for the Aged.

Miss McAvoy, the Diocesan Magazine convenor, has been responsible in bringing the honor of the presentation of the statue of the Blessed Virgin to this sub-division and for having the highest number of League subscriptions.

A new and most instructive project is the subdivision scrap book, so ably prepared by the division publicity convenor, Mrs. Upper.

Immigration has been a foremost thought of C.W.L. across Canada and many displaced persons have been contacted. The Batawa choir was entertained at a luncheon on the evening of March 26.

The treasurer's report, as read by Mrs. B. Burley, showed a satisfactory financial standing. The nine hundred and seventy-nine dollars (929.00) was given to education purposes and another $329 given to such projects as Radio League of St. Michael's, V.O.N., Red Cross, Holy Father Fund, Salvation Army, St. John Ambulance Corps, and Missionary Endeavors.

INTERFERENCE APPROVED

I don't like to interfere, but when I found that my youngest daughter-in-law didn't know that bluing is the only safe way to keep clothes white, I felt I just had to say something. "Backfisht grey cute clothes twening yellow', I told her. 'Just a couple drops in final rinse and your wash will be sparkling white.' Blue is necessary to obtain true white. At the same time she takes no chances with anything that may damage fabric.

Are you nervous? Oyspeptic? Eat garlic.

Although Italians for centuries have claimed all sorts of properties for garlic, from warding off witches to curing colds and arthritis, they lacked scientific proof for their claims.

A recent issue of the Review of Gastroenterology shows, according to X-ray studies, that garlic soothes the innards, and that a garlic concentrate helped alleviate mind-made digestive troubles.

No first-class cook needs medical evidence to be convinced of the value of garlic. In almost every case where onions are called for, garlic can also be used.

Like onions, the flavor of garlic should be always be blended so that it does not stand out as a rare individual flavor. With meats of a mild flavor, like lamb or veal, garlic is indispensable. To chop garlic, the outside skin should be peeled and then the garlic should be smashed under a heavy knife blade to release the flavoring oils.

Lamb with rice Spanish style, is a form of stew in which rice is used to absorb the gravy liquid. Before adding the raw rice to the saucepan ,taste the liquid to make sure it has body and is well seasoned. If the liquid is weak, add one or two bouillon cubes.

Lamb with Rice, Spanish Style
Serves 4-6

Order 2 pounds chuck of lamb with bone, cut into 1 1-2 inch cubes for stewing.

Chop fine 1-2 cup onions, 1-2 cup green peppers and 1 teaspoon garlic. Cook in a saucepan until onions turn yellow.

In a frying pan melt fat to a depth of 1-4 inch. Add lamb pieces and brown well on all sides. Remove lamb from frying pan and combine with onions in large saucepan.

Add 1 cup of chopped canned tomatoes or tomato juice 3 cups of hot water, 2 bouillon cubes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper and 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley.

Bring liquid to a boil. Reduce flame so that liquid barely simmers and cook until lamb is almost done from 1 1-2 to 1 3-4 hours. Skim off fat. Taste gravy. Add seasoning to taste.

Wash 1 cup rice and add to simmering liquid in pot. Stir well. Place lid on pot and continue to cook over a very low flame until rice sas become tender and has absorbed liquid, about 20 minutes.

Remove lamb from pan. Add 1-2 grated mozzarella cheese if desired. Slice rice. Stir well. Serve at once.

TWO BEACHHEADS ESTABLISHED BY RED INVADERS

Taipei, Formosa, April 18 (AP) —Chinese Nationalists claimed today their planes killed more than 2,000 Red invaders of Hainan Island on invasion craft and beaches.

Air headquarters said the toll was counted only until evening of Monday's fighting.

Nationalist defenders of the vital South China island, fighting back on the ground, sea and in the air, continued the battle today against more than 7,000 Red invaders who have established two beachheads.

Nationalist ground forces claimed they have contained the Reds who stormed ashore early Monday. Nationalists asserted the Communists screened in landing only about half of a 15,000-man force hurled in the greatest amphibious operation against the big stronghold off South China.

(A Hong Kong dispatch said the Chinese Communists have attacked and presumably occupied tiny Lintin Island five miles west of Hong Kong and only three miles outside British territorial waters.

(The Lintin action is believed to be the start of an all-out campaign against the Macao group of about 30 islands between Hong Kong and Macao, Portuguese colony. Nationalist launches and gunboats based on these islands have blockaded tightly the Pearl River approach to Canton and slowed junk trade between Hong Kong and Macao. Lintin, largest of the group, is nearest Hong Kong and was the chief National-ist blockade base.)

Can Wipe Out in 48 Hours

On Hainan, ground force commanders declared they have good chances of wiping out the beachheads within the next 48 hours if Red reinforcements can be kept from landing. The Nationalist Navy was reported to have this situation in hand, with warships deployed to cut off any communist craft attempting to put more troops ashore.

Nationalist air force planes were attacking the Reds on the beaches, reports from Hainan said.

The Red armada moved across the 10 mile strait between Hainan and the Luichow peninsula under cover of darkness Sunday night. The Nationalists say their warships attacked the junk fleet, sinking scores of the troop-laden craft and scattering others. The Nationalists claimed half of the 200 Red craft were sunk or prevented from accomplishing their mission.

But the rest of the Red force made Hainan's north coast Monday between 2 and 5 a.m.

The Reds have made a half-dozen attempts in the last seven weeks to land on Hainan, an island of 13,500 square miles that is ranked only to Formosa in importance to the Nationalists.

C.C.F. Member Takes on Commie In Back Alley

Ottawa, April 18 — (CP) — Clarie Gillis, C. C. F. member of Parliament for Cape Breton South, doesn't like communists.

He gave physical shape to his dislike when he smashed into a communist sympathizer with both fists Saturday night in the backalley of a downtown hotel.

The way Mr. Gillis recalls the chain of events that led to the tussle was when he went into the hotel tavern for a bottle of beer.

Next to him sat a young man about 28 years old who hailed an elderly patron to come and have a drink. Mr. Gillis could hear the young man selling the "old commie line" to his guest and the older man objected.

The communist called to waiters to throw him out because he was interfering with the communist's freedom.

"I quietly got up," said Mr. Gillis, who is 53, "and told the waiters they were throwing out the wrong man . . ."

The communist then began picking on Mr. Gillis and Mr. Gillis' fist shot out and connected on the nose.

"Thereafter, I held the communist that if he wanted a battle he had better come outside."

In the alley, Mr. Gillis "teased in a couple of rights to the communist's jaw."

"The communist sat down rather suddenly," said Mr. Gillis. "I guess he didn't know that I have been digging coal for 20 years and was welterweight champion of the Canadian Corps during the First World War."

Canadian Flag Issue Again Heard in House

Ottawa, April 18 (CP)— The Commons asked the Cabinet Monday night to consider establishment of a committee to report on choice of a distinctive Canadian flag. However, informed quarters indicated no such committee will be established at this session.

There were no dissenting voices in the sparsely-filled Chamber as a private member's motion by Jean Richard (L—Ottawa East) was adopted after brief debate. The only speakers were Mr. Richard and Rona Arsenault (L—Bonaventure).

Outside the Chamber government sources said it is unlikely the Cabinet will act on the resolution. They noted that Prime Minister St. Laurent recently told a labor delegation Canadian opinion still has not crystallized on the flag issue.

The debate recalled a government motion in 1945 which led to establishment of a joint Senate-Commons committee to report on a distinctive flag. The committee sat, got hundreds of suggestions but nothing tangible came of its deliberations.

As the Chamber studied private members' motions at the night sitting, it also quickly adopted one by Mr. Arsenault seeking establishment of a distinctive Canadian system of medals and decorations. His motion asked that consideration be given to the advisability of setting up a special House committee to report on such a system.

It, too, recalled something from the past—creation of the Canada medal for award to Canadians and non-Canadians for especially meritorious service to the nation. It was agreed upon some years ago but not a single one has ever been awarded.

The government sources said the the matter is under consideration.

Conservatives Say Many Vital Issues Neglected

Ottawa, April 18. (CP)—Fireworks popped at the annual meeting of the Young Progressive Conservatives here Monday when Ned Hudson of Moose Jaw, Sask., and E. R. Williamson of Ottawa, criticized the convention for neglecting vital issues.

The three-hour session saw more than 100 representatives from across Canada elect a new slate of officers and pass resolutions dealing with everything from free enterprise to a national library.

Mr. Hudson said nothing had been mentioned about agricultural problems—wheat in particular.

FORCED TO STEAL

Drug addiction costs Canada more than $75,000,000 a year and most of the loss is attributed to thefts by addicts. Thefts craving for dope, selling at $8,500 an ounce, virtually forces them to steal high-priced goods. Here is a typical trick of a pair of addicts in this posed photo. The girl holds the attention of the clerk while her partner snatches a $30 silk scarf. — (CP Photo.)

OPIUM PIPES

Various types of smoking and cooking equipment used by drug addicts are examined by two leaders in Canada's fight against the dope problem, Kenneth C. Hossick, chief of the federal health department's narcotics control division, holds a jar which contained dope while Charles Hammond, assistant director, holds a home-made opium pipe. One puff is about all a dope addict needs at any one time. — (CP Photo.)

DOPE SLAVE

The dope addict often tries to introduce his girl friend to the drug habit. He knows that she will have to depend on him for her drug supply for a while at least and will work hard for him. Scenes like this posed photo, showing dope being administered by hypodermic needle, are fairly common in Canada which has about 2,500 known criminal addicts. — (CP Photo.)

Trans-Canada Highway Route Decided Shortly

Ottawa, April 18 — (CP) — Formal agreements providing for Federal-Provincial participation in the construction of trans-Canada highway probably will be signed here next Monday, it was learned today.

The provincial governments have been invited to send representatives to a meeting April 24 with Resources Minister Winters and most of the provinces have indicated that they will come.

The signing of agreements was authorized by Federal Legislation passed last year and by Provincial Legislation passed by the Legislatures.

The Federal Government has agreed to pay half the cost of a $300,000,000 hard surfaced two-lane highway stretching from St. John's, Nfld., to Victoria and taking in Prince Edward Island.

The highway route probably will be settled prior to the signing of the agreements. The Federal government has taken the attitude that the provinces should select the route and make their findings public.

3,500 Known Drug Addicts Must Spend $5,000 Year Each To Keep Themselves Supplied

By MEL SUFRIN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 18 — (CP) — "I'll give you 10 G's if you beat it," rasped a desperate addict to two police officers accosted when bending over a package of capsules in a Toronto laneway.

The $10,000 offer was refused and the activities of one of Toronto's major distributors of illicit narcotics was terminated for at least four years.

This episode occured in September, 1947. A typical case from the files of the Federal Health Department's Narcotic Control division, it serves to show that illicit drug selling is big business in Canada.

Kenneth C. Hossick, chief of the division, estimates that drug addiction costs Canada at least $75,000,000 a year. The figure is based on knowledge that there are some 2,500 known addicts in Canada.

To obtain even minimum doses of narcotics, an addict must spend $5,000 a year. He doesn't get it from working. The thefts he must commit to keep himself supplied with drugs are astounding.

Even a $1,000 fur coat, easily disposed of on the underworld market, will seldom bring more than $200. So the addict is usually forced to steal three or four times as much in value to get the necessary money.

Losses Heavy in B.C.

In Vancouver alone it was estimated that merchants lost about $3,000,000 one year from thefts by addicts.

Heroin is the most widely-used narcotic in this country. It takes little time to enslave a person who samples it. This terrible mastery makes the drug trade one of the most absurdly over-valued underworld businesses.

In legal channels one ounce of the drug is worth $11. In the underworld it will bring $20 a grain. When it is scarce the price often reaches $32. Since there are 437 1-2 grains in one ounce, the original $11 worth of narcotic fetches no less than $9,750 in illicit channels.

In addition, drugs are normally adulterated by cunning traffickers so that actual cost to the desperate addict is nearly even higher.

Not all the cost to Canada results from thefts. Take the case of one addict with 24 convictions, including eight for narcotic offences and eight others for theft. Estimated cost to the country in dealing with this man, including legal action and penitentiary confinement, was $24,643. Multiply that by the 200 criminal addicts now in federal penitentiaries and it provides some indication of the terrific cost.

Death Not Uncommon

While economic cost can be quoted in dollars, the cost of human suffering and life cannot readily be reckoned. Death, by violence, however, is not uncommon sidelight in drug traffic.

This was illustrated in the case of two men and a girl who were suspected of having attempted during $11,000 payroll robbery in downtown Hamilton. The hotel room of one of the men and the girl was searched and a quantity of heroin was found. The couple was arrested and granted bail of $10,000 each. Soon after, the couple jumped bail.

They were located in Cincinnati Ohio and the matter brought to the attention of U.S. federal agents. They proceeded to the hideout of the couple and a gun battle ensued in which the man was killed. The girl was sent back to Canada and sentenced to two years in jail.

Maple Sugaring Well-Planned On Quebec Farm

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, April 18—(CP)—Farmer Leon Jacques of St. Joseph de Beauce has begun tapping the trees in his uniquely planned maple grove, collecting on an idea his father had 38 years ago.

Every spring—maple sugaring time in Quebec province—about 2,500 farmers tap an estimated 21,000,000 trees on their land, an operation which brings them about $7,000,000 annually. The watery sap is boiled down to rich maple syrup and sugar.

Most farmers profit by the industry because nature has placed maple trees on their farmlands.

But for the Jacques family, maple sugaring has become a well planned, long term business for they planted their own maple trees.

Joseph Jacques, Leon's father, planted about a dozen maple trees in 1912, as they grew he added more every year. Now, Jacques has a 2,500-tree grove on his farm about 45 miles south of Quebec.

Tapped 200 Trees

Jacques tapped only about 200 trees this year because it takes about 35 years for a maple tree to reach maturity and produce maple sap. However, he expects to tap about 600 next year.

Eventually Jacques is working towards the betterment of his maple-sugar operations. Like most maple sugar producers, he has bought more than 300 two-gallon aluminum pails with which to catch the sap from the trees. These aluminum receptacles replace the old tin ones formerly used.

The change has been subsidized by federal and provincial governments because the lead alloy welding of the old tin pails affected the maple syrup's flavor.

Though not harmful, foreign particles left by the alloy were an obstacle to maple syrup exports to the United States.

Racket in Reassessment Hits Smaller Centres, Warning from Dunbar

Cobourg, April 18 — If some, people had their way, reassessment would be made a racket, Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar told the meeting here Monday of District 5 of the Ontario Assessors Association. "I want to warn you against it because reassessment has come to be a racket and is spreading into the smaller centres. We will not put up with it, even if it means doing the assessment work ourselves.

"A man came into my office and asked me to recommend that the government permit deferture issues as low as $2,000 for assessment purposes so that he could say to the outlying parts that it was all right to go ahead and issue them for $2,000. No wonder it is becoming a racket," declared Mr. Dunbar.

Left Holding Bag

Noting that the assessors association was going to send a delegation to the meeting of mayors and reeves, Mr. Dunbar urged them to make sure that the delegation was backed up. When the chain store question came up, the chain stores maintained a strong lobby, but those who wanted chain stores to be confined to their wholesale status didn't bother to follow it up.

"And so Dunbar was left holding the bag," he declared.

Mr. Dunbar declared that industries were bluffing when they threatened to move out to another place because their assessment was going up. He urged them to remember that no municipality could grant a fixed assessment without "a vote of the people." They were only working a bluff that was sometimes successful, too, he said.

Will Not be Perfect

It was admitted, he said, that the government manual on assessing would not be perfect and it was not being forced upon any one. It was being compiled to assist assessors and it would be some time before it would be letter perfect. A $1,500 grant would be made to a county setting up a county assessor structure and the department was anxious to afford all the help available to municipalities with assessment problems or contemplating reassessments.

Touching on his attendance at the convention at Lima, Peru, Mr. Dunbar said that they were very conversant with municipal affairs down there, but were more concerned with devising ways and means of extracting more revenue from outside capital that was invested in the country.

In Ontario the assistance of outside capital was appreciated and encouraged rather than trying to exploit it for selfish reasons, Mr. Dunbar declared.

Desertions Are About 200 Month In British Army

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 18—(CP)—Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell wants to find out why men are deserting Britain's armed forces at the rate of about 200 a month.

There will be an official inquiry, and "I will conduct it myself," he told the House of Commons.

Shinwell said he is "very much disturbed" by the rate of desertions.

He said he does not think the problem can be solved by an amnesty for the 19,477 deserters now "nominally" at large. Such an amnesty had been granted after the First World War, but there had been no national service problem then.

This was a reference to Britain's compulsory call-up, under which those qualifying must reserve 18 months in the services. Other government replies in the House have shown that it thinks an amnesty now would tend to undermine the system of peacetime conscription.

The 19,477 men now at large comprised 1,267 from the Navy, 13,844 from the Army and 4,366 from the R.A.F. But the numbers were probably misleading.

"The nominal total is greatly inflated," Shinwell said. "More than 10,000 of these men came from the Irish Republic and most of them have probably found their way back to their former homes."

Many had deserted abroad. The total probably included some "multiple" desertions — men who had gone absent more than once.

"Taking these factors into account, there are perhaps not more than 7,000 to 8,000 deserters at large in this country at the present time. The true figure may well be smaller."

But desertions now averaged 2,400 a year or 200 a month.

PICKETS DIVIDE THEIR FORCES
New York, April 18 (AP)— A much smaller picket line was on duty Monday night outside the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where Northern Ireland's Prime Minister, Sir Basil Brooke, is stopping.
Judge Matthew Troy, leading the picket protest against the partition of Ireland, explained the reason:
His pickets had to divide forces, so some of them could picket the British automobile show at Grand Central Palace.

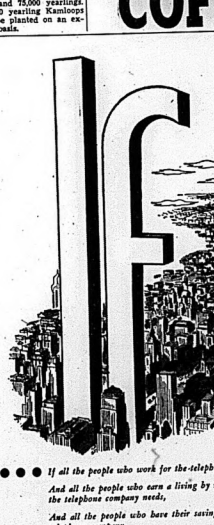
Ontario Waters To be Stocked With Game Fish

Toronto, April 18 — (CP) — Some 250,000,000 whitefish fry will be planted in commercially-fished Ontario waters during the next few weeks.



In addition, 4,000,000 herring fry and more than 6,000,000 lake trout in the fry and fingerling stage will go out from Ontario hatcheries, along with 50,000 yearling lake trout.

To improve sport fishing, speckled trout hatcheries will distribute 3,000,000 fingerlings and 2,500 adults. Brown trout production will be about 250,000 fingerlings and 75,000 yearlings. About 85,000 yearling Kamloops trout will be planted on an experimental basis.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We don't know if some Aleut or Alaskan with doctor of the old school took a big chunk out of the Alaskan Alps and breathed the fire of life into it, but suffice it to say that this Yukon Eric, who makes his ramie dazzle-rasle de-but in Memorial Arena come Friday night, is one of the biggest chunks of meat to greet the eye and grimace faithful in this city since the sport flashed over the local horizon.

* * *

This Mogul of the Muktuks, who hails from the land of the checchakoe, the Midnight Sun, and the bloke who sat on the margo of Lake LeSarge and hopped into a furnace to keep warm, was raised on whale blubber, penguin potage, and wears a chest upholstery said to be five inches in depth. He tips the scales at well over 270 pounds, and there's not a spare ounce of blubber on the whole doggoned carcase. He holds a decision over the popular "whipper" Billy Watson, and 'tis said he has ideas of a world's championship in mind, if the powers-that-be can scare up one that is running loose for the moment.

* * *

And his target for the night is none other than that old friend of the faithful Jim "Goon" Henry, an emaciated bloke who totes around at least 260 or so pounds of averdupois on a massive chassis. "The Goon" is best unknown in Belleville's fandom, albeit he generally essays the villain of the piece. So it looks like there'll be well over 500 pairs of lungs yelling, smashing beef and brawn for the main bout on Friday.

* * *

"Blimey" and look oo's 'ere on the supporting card. None other than "Lord Halbert" Mills, who tangles with Ray Villamer, Lord Knows what is unknown. In the dim past from the title we presume 'e's a product of over 'ome, all of which should cement stronger relations between Tottenham Court Road and Front Street. Is Lordship is, we presume, a newcomer to wrestling circles, he is here at least, so 'ere's 'oping he doesn't suffer the blanched mesmeric when confronted in midair, for this baby Villmer is ruff and tuff. An old favorite Al. Korman and Bobby Nelson a newcomer will open the festivities that inaugurate the 1950 wrestling season in Belleville.

ATTENTION, SOFTBALLERS

There's a movement afoot to start a new softball league in the city which will be comprised of those players who are deemed not quite good enough for the teams of the Commercial League. And there are plenty of 'em this year. Thus far three teams are in the throes of organization, prominent among them being that of Bateman Motors. The boys are doing their best to form such an organization and it should go over well. There is no limit set on the number of teams which will comprise the league, and those who have such an organization in mind should get in touch with Bill Dennis, Bateman Motors are holding a meeting in Kiwanis Centre on Thursday night of this week, and all players interested in joining the squad are requested to put in an appearance.

The Glasgow Rangers and Celtic football match is always an event to stir the emotions of the crowd, and rivalry runs very high. The Protestant vs. Catholic element is an important factor.

At one match a spectator loudly cheered when Celtic scored, and threw his cap in the air. Later, when Rangers scored, he was equally delighted. The contact puzzled a man next to him.

"Here," he asked, "which side are you supposed to be for?"

"Oh," replied the other, "I'm not supporting either side. "I'm just here to enjoy the game."

Whereupon the unenthusiastic remarked to the friend next to him, "H'h, a blinkin' athelst."

250,000 Fans Expected to Sit In on Openers

New York, April 18 (AP)—The major leagues began their "jubilee" season today with promise of ideal conditions on good weather and full crowds.

More than 250,000 fans were expected to attend openers in eight cities, marking the 75th year of operation for the National League and the 50th for the American.

The weatherman predicted there would be no postponements. He forecast spring temperatures and dry fields for every point except Chicago, where there was a "risk of showers" for the meeting of the White Sox and St. Louis Browns.

The largest crowd, 63,000, was scheduled to see Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers. two highly-regarded American League contenders, open at Cleveland.

Elsewhere crowd estimates ranged from 18,000 at Chicago to 30,000 and 32,000 for the other ball parks. The general forecast was for temperatures in the 60s and low 70s with cloudy but not leaky skies.

Main interest centred at Boston where the two top American League favorites, the defending world champions Yankees and the gold-plated Red Sox, open a dog fight that is expected to carry right down to the wire.

The National League champions and favorites to repeat, Brooklyn's Dodgers, start the campaign at Philadelphia against the young, eager-beaverish Phillies.

Washington's activities feature an ambidextrous pitcher, Harry S. Truman, the only hurler whose salary is in the Joe Dimaggio and Ted Williams $100,000-plus bracket.

President Truman tosses out the first ball in the game between the host Senators and Philadelphia Athletics. What time he'll use for the feat remains an intriguing mystery.

Edmonton, April 18 — (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union will hold spring training this year starting May 15, team manager Al Anderson announced Monday night.

Protest Lodged By Gananoque Against Goalie

Kingston, April 18 (CP)—Gananoque Gans edged Tillsonburg Cheesers 2-1 Monday night in the final game of the Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate A round-robin playoffs and although it was their first win they still had a slim chance of advancing to the finals against Port Colborne Mercuries.

The Gananoque executive has lodged a protest that Port Colborne goaltender Rafferty is ineligible for play and if it holds up in the committee room Gananoque will have four points and displace Tillsonburg as runners-up.

Monday night's contest, witnessed by 2,500 fans, opened at a fast clip and before the first period had ended, Gananoque owned a 3-1 lead.

Harper started it off with a solo effort at 1:17 and Tom Tindal made it 2-0 a little less than eight minutes later. The Chevwoods came to life and at the 14-minute mark Walsh rapped in their first marker. McCarley got it back at 16:35.

Tillsonburg pressed throughout the third period and shortly after the half-way mark Pearce combined with Gee to cut the margin to 3-2.

Only eight penalties were handed out in the hard-played game, each club drawing four of the sentences, all minors.

Gananoque: Goal, Parish; defence, Keyes, Jackson; centre, Tindal; wings, Harper, McCarney; subs, Hastie, Fair, Brown, White, Earl, Smail, Wood, Boyle, Ireland.

1st Period
1. Gananoque, Harper	1:18
2. Gananoque Tindal (McCarney)	9.06
3. Tillsonburg Walsh (Todd)	14.06
4. Gananoque McCarney (Keyes, Harper)	16.35

Penalties: Myhall, Keyes, McCarney, Jackson.

2nd Period
5. Tillsonburg Pearce (Gee)	11.30

Penalties: McCarney, Wilson, Roloson.

3rd Period

Penalties: Myhall.

Blind Veterans Given Section Of Trout Stream

State College, Pa., April 18 — (AP)— Crippled and blind veterans have found their fishing mecca—it's the "wheel chair parallel."

The "paradise" is a quiet quarter-mile stretch along the lazy Potter Run, some 17 miles east of here. The well-stocked section is open only to blind veterans or those confined to wheel chairs.

The idea was developed by the Spring Mills Fish and Game Association, in co-operation with Frank Bullock, owner of the land.

"The project is intended solely for unfortunate men who cannot knock around the streams like their more fortunate neighbors," said George Slack, Association President.

Stone walks along the stream are planned so that wheel-chair veterans can get to the bank easier.

Canadians Tie Calgary Series With 3-2 Win

Edmonton, April 18—(CP)—Fort Frances Canadians came up off the floor to pound out a 3-2 victory over Calgary Stampeders Monday night. The win deadlocks their best-of-seven Western Allan Cup final at a game apiece.

Beaten 11-2 in the series opener, Fort Frances looked like a different team. They opened up a 2-1 lead in the first period, increased the margin to 3-1 in the second and held Stamps to a singleton in the third.

Their victory virtually squelched any suggestion that the series be reduced to best-of-five after a subject that came up after Calgary's one-sided triumph. The third game will be played Wednesday in Calgary.

Mike Hpchuk, with two goals and Vern O'Donnell were Fort Frances marksmen. Rookies Hugh Coffin and Ross Tyrell netted Calgary counters.

Toronto Marlies Swamp Saints In Third Game

Toronto, April 18—(CP)—A pair of junior puck stars continue to dominate the goal-getting—and game-winning—activities of Toronto Marlboros who today appear to have all but stacked away the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey title.

Marlboros handed Sherbrooke Saints a stinging 11-3 set-back to take the third game of their Eastern Canada Allan Cup final. The Dukes now lead the best-of-seven series 2-1 with the fourth game slated for Montreal Saturday night.

As had been the case in other games played by the Dukes to this point, juniors George Armstrong and 18-year-old Danny Lewicki were the star posts to another Marlboro victory. Armstrong, just 19 and from Skead, Ont., potted four goals and assisted on two others while Lewicki, from Fort William, picked up four assist. The pair moved into senior company towards the end of the regular season after playing with the junior Dukes.

Turned Into Shooting Gallery

The crowd of 9,784 fans watched the game turn into a shooting gallery in the final session as the Sherbrooke defence and forechecking fell apart. Marlboros had a 3-1 lead going into the final 20 minutes of play but by the 5:07 mark they held a 7-2 margin.

Armstrong banged in two goals to open the scoring in the first period while Chuck Blair netted the other to give the Marlies a 3-0 lead.

Sherbrooke, holding their own for forty-minutes of play, netted their first goal just past the half way mark in the second frame when Paul Gladu scored from Bernie Vinet and Adjutor Cote.

At the 56-second mark of the third, the Marlboros went on a scoring spree.

From the face-off of the next play, Reg Sinclair beat Boehmer in the Dukes net for Marlboros second of the night.Marlboros' Armstrong, Johnny McLellan and Al Buchanan rplied with tallies in the next four minutes.

Sherbrooke picked up their third goal when Jacques Profon-tain scored. Armstrong, Buchanan, Rocky Sullivan and veteran Bill Hollett sallied in the final tallies of the rout.

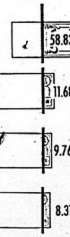
Plan your extra room by starting with Armstrong's Asphalt Tile

Armstrong's Asphalt Tile makes it easy to exchange drab and dusty basement space for a bright, clean, comfortable extra room.

Unlike most flooring materials, Armstrong's Asphalt Tile is not harmed by alkaline moisture that comes up through the concrete subfloor.



You can create your own floor design because Armstrong's Asphalt Tile comes in a wide choice of beautiful plain and marbleized colours and is laid one block at a time. It's durable and easy to keep clean.

Yet, with all these advantages, an Armstrong's Asphalt Tile floor costs surprisingly little. Ask your flooring contractor or dealer to show you Armstrong's tile colours and suggestions for floor designs. Or write for FREE eight-page folder illustrated in full colour.

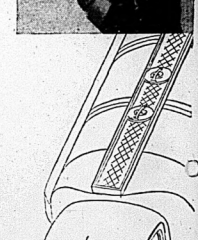
Where does the money go?

At times most of us have looked at purse, wallet or bankbook, and wondered: "Where does the money go?"

You may have wondered, too, where does our money go—the money we receive for gasoline, fuel oil, lubricants and other products we sell. Well, last year each dollar we received went this way:

CRUDE OIL and other raw materials took more than half of each dollar.



MANUFACTURING AND PACKAGING took more than 11 cents. Costly equipment and skilled workers were needed to make the 640 products we supplied for thousands of uses.

TRANSPORTATION took the next big bite of the dollar. Products moved over wide areas to serve every community in Canada. During 1949 we paid more than $34 millions for railway freight alone.

MARKETING was next. Marketing brought you the products you needed when and where you needed them . . . power, heat and lubricants for factory, home and farm. Marketing supplied your neighborhood dealer, that independent business-man, so that he could serve you conveniently and dependably.

TAXES to provincial and federal governments took 7.53 cents. And this did not include gasoline tax, which—depending on where you live—took from 21 to 33 cents out of every dollar you spent for standard grade gasoline.

PROFIT was 3.89 cents out of each sales dollar. Of this 2.25 cents went to shareholders as dividends. The rest—along with money we borrowed and obtained by sales of investments—was put back into the business to replace worn out equipment, to provide new equipment and make sure that we can continue to supply your needs in the future.

Bringing you oil is a big job . . . and a costly one

Williams and Dimaggio Start Earning Their Bulging Salaries As Season Opens on 8 Fronts

By JACK HAND

New York, April 18 (AP) — Ted ($125,000) Williams and Joe ($100,000) Dimaggio start earning those bulging salaries today as the major league baseball season opens on eight fronts.

Some 480 major leaguers will start earning their pay with the first pitch of baseball's jubilee year. An opening day turn-out of some 360,000 fans will help the bosses foot the bill.

With Dimaggio in the opening line-up for the sixth time in 12 active years (not counting three in the army) the world champion New York Yankees visit Forbes Park in Boston for the first of four games with the Red Sox. Most of the experts and oddmakers pick the Sox to win it all this time.

Brooklyn, favored to repeat in the National league, also opens on the road at Shibe Park in Philadelphia where the Phillies took them to extra innings last October before yielding the clincher.

One Night Opener

A night opener at St. Louis where the Cards take on Pittsburgh Pirates is something new, a trend of things to come when all major league weekday games will be played under the lights. Many more night games will follow—a total of 409 during the 24-week season.

Tops in interest on the opening program is the Yankee-Red Sox clash at Fenway where Boston wound up its home season last fall with 81 straight victories.

Manager Joe McCarthy had his southpaw ace, Mel Parnell (25-7) ready to get the Sox off on the right foot. The last two years Boston's hopes were dimmed by Eddy starts.

For the Yankees, Casey Stengel is pitching Allie Reynolds (17-6), sturdy righthanded hero of the world series. Casey says Tommy Henrich, sore knee and all, will start at first base.

Newhouser's Arm Bad

With Hal Newhouser's arm still acting up, Detroit manager Red Rolfe had to come up with a new opening day pitcher. It's Art Houtteman (18-10) or Freddie Hutchinson (15-7).

Bobby Feller is due to sit out the opener for a change, giving way to the Indians' Bob Lemon (22-10).

Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, starting their 50th year under the 87-year-old manager, have pitching miseries. Texas-born Dick Fowler and Joe Coleman have arm troubles so Mack opens at Washington with 23-year-old Carl Scheib (6-12). After President Harry Truman throws out the first ball at Griffith Stadium, Rae Scarborough (18-11) will take up the burden for Washington.

Ned Garver (12-17) goes for the Browns at St. Louis, Browns at Chicago against the White Sox for Bill Wright (15-13).

Big Don Newcombe (17-8) is the Dodger pitcher at Philadelphia.

Interest at Polo Grounds

There is great interest in the Polo Grounds meeting of Boston Braves and New York Giants.

Pitching rivals are Warren Spahn (21-14), Boston's talented southpaw against Larry Jansen (15-16) of the Giants.

Manager Eddie Dyer of St. Louis Cards follows the book in tossing a righthander — Gerry Staley (10-10)—against Pittsburgh's righthanded batting powerhouse, Ralph Kiner, 1949 wonder for the Pirates.

Johnny Schmitz (11-12) is the starter for Chicago Cubs at Cincinnati against Ken Raffensberger (18-17). The Reds make their debut under new manager Luke Sewell.

Brantford Nats Tie-up Series With Peterboro

Brantford, April 18 (CP) — Brantford Nats tied their Ontario Hockey Association Senior B finals at two-all by downing Peterborough Legion, 9-3 Monday night. The fifth game will be played here Wednesday.

The 2,200 fans were given a thrill as the telephone city crew got away to a flying start scoring four goals in the first period.

Peterborough was late in arriving due to bus trouble and had to change cars, as a result they did not get a workout of any length before the game. The score was 6-1 for Brantford at the end of the first period.

Peterborough looked better in the second period but Brantford took the lead there, scoring three goals to one. The Petes had it in the third period scoring a long goal and looked to be back in their former stride, but the lead was too much and Brantford with the Brantford goal was almost unbeatable.

Campbell, Watson and Holota each scored twice, Leconte, Jamieson and Hnatiuk had singles. Coombes, Rochetta and Greenlaw tallied for Peterborough.

Queen's Quits Intercollegiate Hockey League

Kingston, April 18 —(CP) Queen's University has withdrawn from the intercollegiate Senior Hockey League, it was announced Monday. The Athletic Board of Control decided at a meeting Saturday night to withdraw at least temporarily from the series.

"It is the hope of the Athletic Board of Control that in the not too distant future they will be able to again participate in Intercollegiate Union Senior series," a statement said.

The decision means that Queen's becomes the first of the original members of the league established in 1902-03 to toss in the sponge. The Gaels last won the championship in 1914 but previously had captured the title four times.

Since the end of the Second Great War, the Gaels' hockey fortunes have been on a low ebb and particularly so during the last two seasons. Fan support was negligible and it is understood the university lost a large sum.

Queen's reportedly sought a single schedule but was overruled by the other universities. During the last five seasons, Queen's won only five games and lost 47.

Dudley Waiting Protest Details From Two Clubs

Midland, April 18 — (CP) — George S. Dudley, secretary of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Monday night he is awaiting details of two protests arising from alleged use of ineligible players in Eastern Canada playoffs.

Thurso Lumber Kings, he said, have not yet replied to a protest lodged by Jean Fleming Rouge, eliminated by Thurso in the Intermediate A series, charging that right-winger Maurice Gougeon of Thurso was ineligible because he was not released by Pembroke Lumber Kings until after the Dec. 15 transfer date.

Dudley said he also is awaiting the formal protest of Montreal Canadiens about Guelph Biltmorey's use of Cliff Hicks, Jerry Theberge and Andy Bathgate in Memorial Cup competition. Canadiens claim the three are "illegal imports."

Canadiens now lead Guelph, two games to one, in a best-of-seven series, for the Eastern Canada Junior title.

At Guelph, Roy Mason, manager of the Biltmores, Monday night denied that three of his players are ineligible. Frank Dilio, registrar of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, had said earlier he would file a protest with Mr. Dudley that the three are illegal imports.

"Dilio is talking through his hat," Mason said. "It's funny we played two games in Montreal and there was no mention of a protest," he said.

The Guelph manager hinted that he has evidence that will prove one Montreal player, defenceman Kev Conway, is beyond the junior age limit. He said he will present his claim to W. A. Hewill, C.A.H. A. registrar-treasurer, in Toronto. The final session in Montreal tonight with the fifth game reverting to Montreal.

Pitcher, Fielder Sent to Toronto By Philadelphia

(By The Canadian Press)

Philadelphia Phillies announced Monday that they are sending Eddie Sanicki, highly-regarded young outfielder, to their Toronto farm in the International League on 24-hour recall.

Sanicki, who batted in 104 runs for Toronto last season, was given a chance of beating out Richie Ashburn for the Phils' centre-field job this season, but Ashburn in spring training showed the same sparkle that made him one of the league's top rookies in 1948.

Sanicki appeared briefly with the Phils at the end of the 1949 season and got three hits — all home runs.

The Phils announced also the option to Toronto of Bill Kozarek, young righthand pitcher from Philadelphia. Kozarek won 14 and lost 2 for Terre Haute in the Three-Eye League and had a 2-7 record with Utica in the Eastern League last season.

Montreal Canadiens have purchased Vernon Kaiser, 25-year-old left-winger, from Springfield Indians for cash and playing rights, Frank Selke, general manager of the National Hockey League club announced Monday.

Kaiser is the third player purchased by the Habitants in recent weeks in an effort to bring new and younger blood into their ranks.

A native of Preston, Kaiser played junior hockey in Port Colborne, turned pro with the now defunct Fort Worth, Texas, team of the U. S. H. L. in 1947-48 and graduated to Springfield the following year. A six-footer, he weighs 180 pounds.

Winnipeg Stellars Monday night at home took a stranglehold on the Canada Junior men's basketball final, edging Windsor A. K. O.'s 43-41 to take a two - game lead in their best-of-five series. Third game is today.

At Boston, bobbing and weaving Robert Villemain of France gained a split decision over Joe Rindone of Boston, in their bruising 10-round feature boxing bout Monday night at Boston Garden. The French middleweight led in all the rounds but referee Joe Zapustas credited each battler with 97 points while voting a draw. Villemain weighed 160 and Rindone 160½.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, April 18 — (AP) — If you think writing about sports is an easy racket, come with me guys who have to interview the Boston Marathon winners each April . . . In a four-year span they've encountered a French-Canadian (Gerard Cote), whose command of the English language is none too good; a Korean, a Greek and a Swede, who spoke no English at all . . . Only thing the hosts can last weekend proved about Derby prospects is that Hill Prince runs too fast to avoid a rear-end collision if another galloper stops in front of him . . . Maybe Eddie Arcaro thought he was doing some Sunday driving on Saturday.

A Mass Is As Good As a Mile

When the Reds and Braves played an exhibition in Bluefield, W. Va., the other day, Walker Cooper belted two home runs his first two times at bat . . . As Coop strolled to the "on deck" circle for his third licks, a kid in a box seat caught his eye and yelled: "Hit another homer, Cooper." . . . Walker looked around, grinned and replied: "Son, you want mass production."

Red Wings Heavy Favorites Over N.Y. Rangers

Detroit, April 18 — (AP) — Detroit Red Wings take another whack at New York Rangers tonight in the Stanley Cup championship series.

The National Hockey League champion Wings, enjoying a 2-1 edge, are strong favorites to make it three in a row and get a good grip on the prize mug.

A crowd of 13,000 to 14,000 at Olympia is expected. Despite the distractions of the new baseball season, the motor city is still hot over hockey.

A third in a row for Detroit would put New York in a desperate situation. All the remaining games of the best-of-seven series will be played here.

Several other factors add up in the Red Wings' favor.

Although still crippled from injuries, the Wings seem rested and confidence runs high. On the other hand the Rangers, beaten once on "home ice" at Toronto, admit concern.

Ranger coach Lynn Patrick must find a way to get the Rangers back on the beam after what he frankly admitted was a "bad night" in the 4-0 loss Saturday night.

Also, the Wings seem to have found New York goalie Chuck Rayner's number.

At the start of the series the dopesters said that Rayner's performance might swing the balance. But the Wings have beaten him nine times in the three games.

Meanwhile, Detroit's Harry Lumley has been a standout.

The Wings also have been getting a whale of a job from forward Jerry Couture, who has shaved his best stuff for the Ranger series.

Couture has scored four goals in Detroit's 10 playoff games. Three of these have been against New York. In the Wings' emergency role injuries Couture has played on nearly all of coach Ivan's attack-line combinations.

Learning Business Practice

IN Ontario the wheels of industry turn for the benefit of every single one of us. Our lathes, dynamos, drill presses, farm combines, tractors, business machines, etc. are producing goods and services which earn dollars. These dollars provide food, clothing, medical care and other necessities which contribute to our security and high standard of living. Every single one of us, therefore, has a very personal interest in the flow of a steady supply of trained workers to industrial plants. These workers will operate machines which are important to our way of life.

We should appreciate, then, the co-operative efforts of government, industry and labour in the field of employee training. In schools and in factories our workers, young and old, are given the opportunity to develop new and specific skills in every field of business and industrial activity. For instance, every effort on the part of office workers to become proficient in typing, filing, shorthand and secretarial work, will mean greater business efficiency—will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and work.

Our Way of Life Rewards Trained Hands

Ontario workers know they can earn more, have executive responsibility and enjoy a higher standard of living in direct ratio to the skills they acquire and the way they make use of them. That's always true in a free economy — that's why our competitive system will continue to make Canada great and a great place in which to live.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 18—(AP) — The movie business, which is eyeing television closely these days, is also eyeing the new medium's talent. Evidence of that is Charlton Heston, new film discovery imported from TV.

Heston landed an important role in "Dark City" on the strength of his video appearances. Producer Hal Wallis viewed him on a number of shows and signed the lad without a screen test. Naturally, Heston is hepped up about the television. Says he:

"It's a wonderful new field for kids who want to act but have found the stage and screen closed to them." He pointed out that actors working in the theatre, radio and movies cannot do TV regularly. "That leaves it to the kids who aren't working," said Heston, who was not long ago in that category.

Notes 'N' Stuff

Friends of Rita Hayworth report she no longer signs her letters "Rita". It's "Ms. A.K." now. That stands for "Marguerita Aly Khan," hey, real name.

Joan Crawford, one of the most famed of the Charleston dancers, says she won't join the revival of the craze. "I've done the Charleston," she says. "I'm looking for something new."

Eleanor Tennant, who coached many a tennis star to championship, will be technical advisor for Ida Lupino's "Loving Cup." The picture purports to take amateur tennis apart.

Odd Bits

Aircraft is helping Hollywood make pictures these days. Chase scenes through Los Angeles streets were filmed from a helicopter by the "prowl car" company. . .

And down at the desert, they needed photogenic clouds from Olympic scenes. So they sent up three sky-writing planes to sprinkle the clear skies with clouds.

READY FOR DELIVERY

Washington, April 18—(AP)—The United States is expected to reject firmly today Moscow's charge that an American plane flew into Russian - absorbed Latvia and fired on Soviet aircraft. The American account of the touchy mixup — plane incident was ready for delivery during the day to the Soviet foreign office. Prospects were it also would be made public in Washington.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You should come and watch some of the masters perform during a bridge week. What you would see is the game played at its finest and best. Such players seldom make much.

In the Rocky Mountain area you can kibitz such a meet in Denver each July. The northwest has one in February. At the 1949 inaugural, 2500 seats were occupied by players during the four days in Portland.

At such a match you might tune in on a deal like this:

NORTH
♠A Q 7 4
♥A K 10 3
♦9 6 2
♣Q 6

WEST
♠J 5 3
♥Q 8 5
♦K J 7 5 4
♣J 10 8

EAST
♦10 7 5 3
♣K 9 5 4 3 2

SOUTH
♠K 8 6 2
♥J 9 7 4 2
♦A Q
♣A 7

The usual customers find themselves in final heart contract that may produce only 11 tricks. Not that they will stop bidding at less than slam. Their bids will most likely go like this:

South	North
1 H	4 NT
3 S	6 H
6 D

Four no-trump is the signal for asking partner how many aces and kings he holds. Six diamonds is Horse Sense convention for showing two aces and one king. This information is valuable.

Dummy queen covers the west opening lead of club jack. East climbs on with the king and south ace wins. With a heart finesse the opponent trumps are pulled and three top spades are cashed.

South then leads his small club. If west covers with the ten he is endplayed. A diamond return makes it simple for the declarer. A club return is ruffed in dummy and south sluffs diamond queen.

In this kind of company west may not cover with the club ten. Instead he plays the eighteen and east overtakes with the nine to return a diamond. The contract is thus defeated one trick.

However a real master pair will not be in six hearts. They will be in six spades which nothing can defeat. Know why and how.

At Del Carlo's the Rodeo Cowboys, who appear at the Belleville Fair with "When Strangers Marry," with Dean Jagger, Academy Award winner and Kim Hunter, now showing at the Capitol Theatre today and Wednesday, on the same program, "Dillinger," starring Lawrence Tierney.

CONFESSES TO SLAYING

San Jose, Calif., April 18 (AP) — Sheriff Howard Hornbuckle said today art unemployed truck driver confessed that he bludgeoned flame-haired Helen May Piper to death and hurled her body down a bluff. Hornbuckle said Harry L. Wilden, 28, ex-convict friend of the thrice - married waitress, made this statement. Wilson beat the 27-year-old mother of three children with a hammer after an argument Thursday over use of his car. The two had been drinking.

AT THE McCARTHY — New music . . new magic . . new times of the world's greatest entertainer makes Columbia's "Jolson Sings Again," a Technicolor delight at the McCarthy Theatre starting Wednesday, with Larry Parks again playing the top role.

AT THE BELLE — William Powell and Betsy Drake (Mrs. Cary Grant) in a scene from "Dancing in the Dark," refreshing and delightful Technicolor musical romance, blending music and dancing, too. The Technicolor film also stars Mark Stevens as Betsy's beau and features Adolphe Menjou and Jean Hersholt.

'HEY, YOU' STILL THE CRY

Tokyo, April 18 (AP)— Democracy's inroads aren't universal. The Japan public opion research institute said today 28 per cent of Japanese husbands still yell "Oi," to summon their wives. "Oi," is the equivalent of "hey you."

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

Little Benny's Note Book

Went to the barber shop today to get my will on account of pop having told me about my hair so many times it might of been dangerous to wait to be reminded again, and both the barbers were busy and I sat down to wait next to some kid in a red sweater, thinking, Heck, this guy is ahead of me, now I'll have to wait still longer. Heck, his hair is so long it will probably take a hour to cut, I thawt.

And I said to him, Darn all this hair cutting bizzness. If hair was meant to be short, what's it grow long for? I said, and he said, he'd be sorry if kids didn't have to have their hair cut.

Gon on, do you mean you're actually glad to be sitting here wailing to have your hair cut? I said, and he said, Oh, I aint golad to be me but sitting here.

Then what are you doing here? I said, and he said, I'm waiting for my father, he's the barber near the door. So you can imagine what would happen to my family if the kids stopped having their hair cut, he said.

G, imagine having a father that all the other kids were trying to keep away from, I said. I would not want to be you, I said, and he said, Oh, I dont know, Did you notice how long my hair is? Well that's because I never have to worry about getting it cut, on account of my father's always too busy to cut it. I just let it go and let it go, and I still dont worry, because my father generally winds up by cutting it while I'm in bed asleep and that's the most painless way there is, he said.

Heck, darn it, some guys have all the luck., I said.

Which they have.

Spokane Flyers Edge Out Rovers In Final Game

Spokane, Wash., April 18 (AP) —Spokane's Flyers capped their terrific comeback drive Monday night by skating to a 5-3 victory over New York Rovers in the final game of their United States Senior Amateur Hockey semi-final playoff.

The victory gave the Spokane club the best-of-seven series four games to three. The Rovers led three games to one at rest time.

Monday night's triumph for Spokane was a case of experience over youth.

Spokane scored twice in the first period and three times in the second to put the Rovers in a deep hole.

But still the hard-fighting youngsters on the New York club refused to concede. They banged in two goals as the third period opened and kept the play in Spokane ice most of the period.

Odie Lawe, with an assist from Val Delory, poked in the first Rover goal with only 33 seconds gone. Stan McMillan pushed in the final goal for the visiting club at 3:19 after a double assist by Delory and Ray Hamilton.

The victory entitles Spokane to meet Chatham, Ont., Maroons who eliminated Toledo Buckeyes Monday night in the other semi-final, a best-of-three series.

Although dates for the finals of the U.S. senior championship are not definite, Chatham will be scheduled for at least four games in a best-of-seven series with Spokane.

By-Law Allowing Sunday Baseball Passed in Toronto

Toronto, April 18 (CP) — A by-law permitting Sunday baseball at Toronto's Maple Leaf Stadium was passed Monday by city council. The council turned down an amendment that would have required the stadium to charge half-price for admission on Sunday.

The Sunday Sports Act passed at the last session of the Ontario Legislature, allowed municipalities to decide by referendum vote whether they will allow sports to be played on Sunday. Each municipality may pass by a by-law setting out which sports may be played. Sports may be played Sunday only between the hours of 1.30 p.m. and 6.00 p.m.

The Toronto by-law so far allows only the playing of baseball in the stadium. Amendments may be introduced to permit other sports in other locations. The by-law specifies no hunting may be permitted after 5.50 p.m. The provincial act specifies that times set down will be standard or daylight time whichever happens to be in effect in the municipality.

The first scheduled Sunday baseball game is an International League game May 7 between Toronto Maple Leafs and Jersey City Little Giants.

Allan Cup Survivors

(By The Canadian Press)

Four teams are still in the running for the Allan Cup and the Canadian junior amateur hockey championship—two in the East and two in the West. The survivors:

East—

Toronto Marlboros, Sherbrooke Saints.

West—

Calgary Stampeders, Fort Frances Canadians.

Memorial Cup Survivors

(By The Canadian Press)

Four teams are still in the Memorial Cup race leading to the Canadian junior amateur hockey championship—two in the East and two in the West. The survivors:

East—

Guelph Biltmores, Montreal Canadiens.

West—

Port Arthur Bruins, Regina Pats.

Bruins Likely To Get Another Tongue-Lashing

Port Arthur, April 18 — (CP) —It looks like Leo Barbini's Bruins will get another tongue-lashing.

The Port Arthur junior hockey club left Monday night for Regina after absorbing a 6-0 drubbing at the hands of Regina's Pats in their best-of-seven series for the Western Canada Memorial Cup berth. Pats lead the series 2-1, and now have two and possibly three games coming up on home ice.

Games are set for Wednesday, Friday and, if necessary, Saturday.

The hustling charges of Leo (The Hat) Barbini dropped the first game to Regina, 8-5. After one of their colorful coach's famous tongue-lashings they took the next game 6-3.

His comment on Monday night's shutout was not immediately forthcoming.

There was no score until the 18-minute mark of the second period, when Paul Masnick broke loose to give Regina the lead. In the third period Eddie Litzenberger made it 2-0 and Doug Little and Lorne Davis also scored.

DIAMOND WATCH RETURNED

Toronto, April 18 (CP)— A seven-year-old girl, Sheila Waylen, found a diamond and platinum watch worth $1,000 in her school yard Monday and turned it over to her principal. The watch was later returned to its owner by police.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By ALBERT HUNTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, April 18 — (CP) — Harness racing has assumed a "real metropolitan tinge" as one of the bigtime sports in Quebec province.

Heralding the opening last Sunday of the Blue Bonnets, Montreal's well-known Richelieu Park, Elmer (Monsieur) Hendrickson in Quebec's following the pattern set elsewhere 'for harness racing which is undoubtedly on the up-grade all over the continent."

"Stables from Canada's west, from Ontario, New Brunswick, northern New York and New England emgage in duelling for the purses and give the whole picture a real metropolitan tinge."

The sport doesn't connote with the thoroughbred game for the amount of monies wagered, Elmer notes. "It is nothing there of a sport than a betting proposition, something more of local rivalries and sporting feuds with matched races, side bets and such."

"There are no form sheets, no touts, less tension, more of a genial sporting spirit — a sort of holiday atmosphere."

Night or Day

Night racing in Ontario was recently hailed by provincial mandate. And Ferguson wouldn't be surprised "if the promoters of thoroughbred racing in that province, fearing the inroads of harness folk, had something to do with that dictum."

"In more tolerant and broad-minded Quebec," the Montreal scribe boasts, "there is some night harness racing, at Richelieu principally. In other spots, it's a daylight sport, for weekends, and part of the accepting sport picture of a score of localities."

15 to 1

Harness racing tracks in Quebec outnumber thoroughbred courses by about 15 to 1, Elmer notes. There are only two tracks in the province devoted to thoroughbreds — Montreal's Blue Bonnets and Connaught Park aton which trotters and pacers do Hull — but probably 30 tracks their stuff.

Chatham Squad In U.S. Finals Against Spokane

Chatham, April 18 (CP)—Chatham Maroons edged Toledo Buckeyes 2-1 Monday night to advance into the finals of United States National Amateur Hockey final against Spokane, Wash. The contest was the second in the best-of-three series with Chatham winning the opener Sunday night in Toledo 5-4.

Some 3,200 fans saw the International hockey charges outplay the American squad for most of the game to advance against the winner of the New York Rovers Flyers series.

After jamming home two goals in the second period the Maroons could not add to their total but came back to hold off a desperate last-period Toledo rally. The Buckeyes managed to come through with their lone tally late in the third, spoiling Monty Reynolds' shutout.

After a scoreless opener, Niemi started the scoring with a blazing shot which trickled through goalie Ivan Wasylenko's legs after 17 minutes of the second period. Ed Dixon potted what proved to be the winning goal two minutes later.

The Body in the Ravine

By Lloyd Carr

He made up his mind suddenly. "I know where Bruce Thurman is," he said, "and he's in a bad way. Someone around here is responsible, I think, and I'm going to try to find out who it is. That's why I was asking all these questions about the Enright's and the Thurmins and Taylor and the crowd."

"You mean he was hurt in his car?" Diane said incredulously. "I didn't think you even knew about the car. You said you didn't."

"I didn't" Tim said. "I didn't know about the car, and Bruce wasn't hurt in it. That may be just a red herring—or it may be something important. I don't know. It's just one of a bunch of things that need explaining. Here's what I do know:

"Joe Gage is the boozehr at the Pine Cone, came over here to the lodge last night after Bruce stopped his car. And Bruce wasn't here. At least Joe didn't see Bruce's car in the shed—and that could mean he wasn't here, since they found the car wrecked on the short cut to see Grace Thurman and told her he didn't know where Bruce was, but that he was drunk and in an ugly mood. Grace told Joe that she'd rather see her son dead than going back to his drinking. Joe left after trying to console her and came up to the tavern. I know that Joe didn't know anything about Bruce's being—having been hurt. I'm certain Joe had not part in that."

"And you're certain that someone around here is guilty," Greg said. "Well, go ahead and ask some more questions. I'll tell you whatever I can."

Beginning where he had left off before Jean Smith came in and interrupted the question bee, Tim said: "Where does Mort Taylor fit into this picture? I know from something I overheard him saying to Grace Thurman that he has a financial interest in the lodge. I don't know how much of an interest, nor why he has it, or whether there are other circumstances affecting the matter."

"Well put," said Greg, "in proper legal form, most likely. But all I know about Mort Taylor won't take long to tell. He's a lawyer who's conscience has not always been his guide. He's made a lot of dough and a good part of it has been in shady dealings that might—if one cared to go to the trouble—be questioned. He's smart, there's no doubt about that. But at the same time he's inclined to be somewhat unscrupulous.

"There's a story which I have every reason to believe is true and which involves Mort Taylor to some extent. It's the story of a rather nasty deal that Emery Thurman and he, and I guess this guy Carson, tried to put over on old man Enright. It was a stock proposition and very involved, but the sum and substance of it was that they tried to wrest control of Consolidated Steel and Iron from Mr. Enright. Emery Thurman, as I already admitted didn't have any affection for John Enright. He accepted all the old boy's kindnesses and business tips—which were always given to Grace and through him got to Emery—but he resented those favors at the same time.

"Anyway, Emery and Mort Taylor, who was Emery's lawyer, figured out this system for knocking Enright out of control and grabbing the reins themselves. It was a matter involving all dirty tricks as going to some of the big stockholders who had all the confidence in the world in old man Enright and persuading them by posing as Enright's confidantes, that they should sell their stocks on a certain date, when the price would be high, and then buy them back a few days later when the price would be low.

"Well, that was at a time when stock manipulation on a big scale was fairly common and everyone knew that Enright himself couldn't afford to be guilty second advising stockholders in the company of which he was president to sell their stocks. Anyway, a lot of the big holders agreed, feeling that they were in on the ground floor of something great. They all knew that Enright and Thurman and Taylor were good friends and they trusted them.

"Then, just a day or so before the big coup was set to be pulled off, young Bruce Thurman went and got illed the beans to old man Enright. Enright got in touch with his pals who'd been about to be swindled out of control and the whole thing was a big fiasco."

Tim whistled meditatively. "Boy," he said, "there certainly ought to be plenty of motives underlying that story."

He puffed at his cigarette for a while, and Greg and Diane sat quietly by, waiting for the next question. Greg seemed to be expensive of what it would be, but he relaxed noticeably when Tim at last spoke.

"What about this Jake Carson? Tim said. "And Taylor; seem to be pretty thick."

"I'm not sure Tim," Greg replied, "but I have a hunch that Carson has a part interest in the lodge too. I think he and Mort Taylor are joint holders of the mortgage, but, as I say, I'm not sure."

"Do you know what Carson does for a living? What business he's in? He doesn't look like a lawyer to me, somehow. Then he added, "although I'd have a hard time saying what a lawyer does look like."

"Jake Carson isn't a lawyer," Greg said. "Years ago he was in the publicity game, had a few fairly good accounts. But then he suddenly kind of went off his nut, started doing a lot of drinking and when his publicity agency folded he was broke. Greg paused a moment, seeming to try to recall something. "I don't believe it was losing any of his accounts that busted him," he said. "Rather it seemed to be a matter of losing the accounts because he was busted."

"And you haven't any idea what caused him to bust up," Tim said thoughtfully. "Well, tell me this: Could there possibly have been any connection between Mort Taylor's fiasco on the stock deal and Carson's collapse?" He eyed his friend closely as he asked his question.

Greg hesitated for only an instant. Then "I'll bet there was a connection there, Tim," he said. "I never thought of it before, but if I'm not mistaken the two things happened at about the same time."

"Did Thurman and Taylor lose any money because their scheme flopped," Tim asked then.

Nova Scotia Faces First Deficit In Ten Years

Halifax, April 18. (CP)—After 10 years in the black, Nova Scotia faces an estimated deficit of $1,835,000 this year. It may have to impose new taxes to get even larger deficits.

The estimate was announced Monday night by Premier Angus L. Macdonald as he brought down his budget for the 12 months ending March 31, 1951.

He told the legislature that even bigger deficits can be expected if government costs continue to increase faster than revenues.

The Premier, who also holds the treasury portfolio, announced no new taxes. But he said the government had seriously considered starting a sales tax "and it may be that we will find it necessary at some future time to resort to this type of taxation."

He forecast revenues of $47,655,000 for the 18-month fiscal year. Estimated expenditures were $49,490,000.

During the previous fiscal year the 12 months ended Nov. 30, 1949—revenues were $35,404,000 and expenditures were $33,387,000, leaving a surplus of $112,855.

Estimates Larger

The estimates were larger partly because of the additional four months of the fiscal year, caused by a government decision to change dates of the fiscal year. The current fiscal year will run from Dec. 1, 1949, to March 31, 1951.

In his 30-minute budget speech, Mr. MacDonald also reported a net funded debt of $93,273,605—$144.61 per capita—an increase of some $16,415,000 in the last 10 years. He indicated the province can not go much farther in social services "no matter how great the appeal to our hearts and sympathies may be."

Public works and highways will take $12,856,000 of the budget with another $12,500,000 on public health and welfare and $10,766,000 on education.

Federal subsidies will account for $19,759,000 of the revenue, with $10,065,000 from liquor licences and profits of the Liquor Commission.

Live Seven Years In 'Nutshell' Without Speaking

West Bromwich, Staffordshire, England, April 18 (Reuters) — A married couple have lived here in "the Nutshell" for seven years without speaking to each other.

They are Mr. and Mrs. William Corbett, and the Nutshell is the name of their house here.

"When one goes into a room the other one comes out; but we don't seem to meet much, even on the stairs," Mrs. Corbett said. "At first I did the cooking and left the meals for my husband. Our only means of keeping in touch was notes passed by our 16-year-old son.

"Then even the notes ended, and my husband took his own recipe book and began to do his own cooking."

William Corbett appeared at a local court Monday accused of stealing some electrical fittings handed over to the police by his wife. During the hearing of the case, which was dismissed, he said he and his wife had not spoken for seven years.

Flying Saucers 'Size of House' Say Residents

Timmins, April 18 — (CP) — Newspaper telephones buzzed Monday night as residents reported the third "raid" of flying saucers on this northern Ontario community since April 1.

Described as "the size of a house" and flying at about 700 feet, four Timmins residents reported the phenomena within an hour after it was seen at 9 p.m.

One of the witnesses said that the "saucers" first appeared on the sky alone, then darted away to return with another similar object.

Both appeared as blobs of light against the clouds. The "raid" lasted about 15 minutes.

April 7 scores of Timmins residents reported seeing a "ball of flame" which they thought was a saucer. About a week before that, the city's waterworks saw what they said was a saucer flying in broad daylight north of the town.

ACQUITTED ON CHARGE

Maynardville, Tenn., April 18 — (AP) — Carl Graves, 33, who slew his brother Earl, 53, with a pistol in connection with a "family affair" and was jailed by brother Leslie, the dead man's son, was acquitted of a murder charge today. A jury took only four minutes to find him innocent.

Canadian Heads Aid to Backward Areas Project

Lake Success, N.Y., April 18 (CP)— A Canadian heads the United Nations' "test zone" project which may show the way for large scale technical aid to backward areas.

Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside, 51, Canada's Deputy Resources Minister, is presently in Costa Rica as agricultural and forest development, education, and labor legislation and social welfare services.

The project is part of the U.N.'s technical assistance program, expected to be expanded soon in connection with President Truman's "point four" program of aid to under-developed countries.

Keenleyside said in an interview that the Bolivian program may set a pattern for future projects under an expanded assistance program.

"For 1,000 years, the Bolivians say, they have been trying to make their country rich and haven't got very far," Keenleyside said. "Now they are calling in the U.N. to see what it can do."

The aid program is part of the U.N. effort to sweep away the basiccause s of war by raising of war by raising living standards around the world.

Keenleyside will have experts from United States, Europe and South America in his team. Mrs. P. R. Kidd of Ottawa will be his secretary.

REFUSES RECONCILIATION

Los Angeles, April 18 — (AP) — Mrs. George H. Stoll, 73, told wife of 63 years, has refused to become reconciled with her 54-year-old wealthy husband. Judge Elmer D. Doyle awarded her $1,300 monthly temporary alimony Monday after he failed to bring the couple into agreement.

CONSERVATIVES TOLD TO EXPAND THEIR ACTIVITIES

Ottawa, April 19 — (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, stating that about 1,000,000 Canadians reach voting age every five years, Tuesday night urged his supporters to stress expansion of youth activities within the party's organization.

He spoke at a dinner of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada which today ends a three-day annual meeting.

Mr. Drew said the meeting was mainly devoted to organization. Organization was not alone in the minds of the delegates, but it was basic to the whole activity of the party.

Nothing was more important than an expansion of the activities of the Young Progressive Conservatives. The fact that 200,000 Canadians reached voting age every year was something for party officials to think about.

At a business session Tuesday, George Nowlan of Wolfville, N.S., member of the Commons Appointments Committee, was elected president of the Y.P.C's and Miss Sybil Bennett of Georgetown, Ont., was elected president of the women's branch of the association.

Senator Davies Again Chairman

Toronto April 19 (CP)—George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail and the Telegram, Tuesday night was elected honorary chairman of the Canadian section, Empire Press Union, at the section's annual meeting.

Senator W. Rupert Davies, Kingston Whig-Standard, was re-elected chairman; Victor Sifton, Winnipeg Free Press, vice-chairman; and W. A. Craick, Industrial Canada, Toronto, honorary secretary-treasurer.

The executive committee as re-elected includes: H. T. Hunter, MacLean-Hunter Publishing Co., Toronto; F. I. Ker, Hamilton Spectator; Senator Jacob Nicol, Sherbrooke La Tribune; E. Roy Sayles, Renfrew Mercury; Roy H. Thomson, Thomson Publishing Co. The honorary auditor is T. F. Tremaine, Saint John Telegraph-Journal.

Representatives of the council of the Canadian Unions are: Senator Davies, Senator W. A. Buchanan, Lethbridge Herald; R. Burnett, Charlottetown Guardian, P. R. Curran, British United Press, Philip Dyson, Dow Jones & Co., Herve Major, Montreal La Presse, Gillis Purcell, Canadian Press and Mr. Sifton.

At conclusion of the annual meeting a meeting of the committee or arrangements for the seventh Imperial Press conference was held. Final arrangements were made for the conference and tour opening in Quebec August 5 and concluding in Toronto June 23.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, April 19 — (AP) — The Czechoslovak government today requested the American embassy to end immediately the activities of the United States Information Service in the country, the Prague radio said.

The broadcast said the request was made in a note handed to the U.S. embassy here by the Czech foreign ministry. The information service, operating offices in Prague and Bratislava, distributes a news bulletin of the U. S. State Department, operates libraries and circulates films and recordings.

A government court last week convicted two Czech employees of the U.S.I.S. on charges of spying and sentenced them to prison. During their trial Joseph C. Kolarek, embassy press attache in charge of the Information Service, was accused of using Czech Nationals as spies.

Ellis O. Briggs, U. S. ambassador to Prague, denied that Kolarek or Czech employees of the embassy had been spying.

The government note also requested that Kolarek leave Czechoslovakia within an "appropriate time."

The radio said the government requested the U.S. embassy to close the Prague and Bratislava offices by noon Saturday.

The note accused the U.S.I.S. of distributing slanderous news about Czechoslovakia and operating without official Czech government sanction.

US Marine Guard Slightly Hurt By Bomb Blast

Damascus, Syria April 19 (AP) —A bomb tossed into the American legation compound Tuesday night slightly injured a United States Marine guard and shattered glass windows and doors of the building.

The bombing apparently was the latest expression of growing anti-American and anti-British sentiment here as a result of tension between the Arab States and Israel.

No arrests were made immediately by police.

The bomb incident came a month after hand grenades were thrown at the British legation here and in Beyrouth, Lebanon.

Anti-American and anti-British feeling has risen recently because of the belief in some Arab quarters that the U.S. and Britain are favoring Israel over the Arabs.

MISSING TEEN-AGE GIRL LOCATED

Sudbury, April 19. (CP) —Two teen-age girls, missing for two days from their homes in Timmins, were located in Sudbury by city detectives late Tuesday. Police said the girls had been aimlessly about town and asked their names and where they came from.

The girls, one 14 years of age and the other 15, admitted they had left Timmons without their parents' consent and had hitchhiked to Sudbury. Timmins police were notified. They said a search for the girls had been under way. They were taken to the Sudbury District Children's Aid Society Shelter, where they will remain until someone takes them home.

Not Virus nor Germ but Weather Probable Cause of Common Cold

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

Boston, April 19 — (AP) —The common cold is probably caused by a virus as you have been told for many years, nor by germs of any sort.

Instead grandfather was right when he said it was caused by the weather.

This surprising view of colds was given to the American College of Physicians by Dr. William J. Kerr, of San Francisco, and of the University of California School of Medicine. The opinions he explained are backed by a lot of laboratory experiments.

He said he doesn't believe that colds are caused by any living organism, except that flu, grippe and some other diseases can damage the membranes and start a cold.

The usual causes, he said, are dusts, gases, emotions, and especially those changes in the nose that come with changes in weather.

After an even temperature all summer, he said, you get cold fall weather. Your nasal passages get over-excited. The same conditioning happened in early days of air-conditioning in buildings and train temperatures were kept down to 60 in summer.

All those changes damage the nasal passages. And that damage starts a cold. Germs multiply to make it worse. The cold lasts until the nasal damage is repaired.

Dr. Kerr said you don't have to believe a virus causes colds just because there are epidemics. The epidemic does not spread from person to person, he said, but is something that a lot of people have because they are all exposed at the same time to nose damage.

TWO ACCUSED OF HEADING HUGE COUNTERFEIT RING

$500,000 in Bogus Bills Passed in Year

Buffalo, N. Y., April 19 (AP)—Two men held here today were accused of heading a coast-to-coast counterfeiting ring that has passed more than $500,000 in bogus bills this year.

A. E. Whitaker, supervising Secret Service agent of the New York district, described Anthony Iosi, 36, and Salvatore Salli, 30, as "the leaders of this new counterfeit enterprise involving $10 and $20 bills." Both are Buffalo residents.
